THE LEADING LINE OF VELVETS AND TAPESTRIES

Spring Styles, 1898.

With pardonable pride we point to the high favor in which our goods are held by the Trade throughout the entire country, a position attained by strict adherence to the use of best materials, the employment of exclusive methods in weave and finish and by our universally acknowledged

Superiority of Designs and Colorings.

With the assurance of obtaining Velvets and Tapestries which are artistic and original in style and are always salable, every buyer should be interested in looking over our New Spring Line.

PARK CARPET MILLS.

Spring, 1898.

Our new lines of "PARK MILLS," "RAJAHS," and other grades are ready for inspection at our various salesrooms, and are now being shown on the road by our efficient corps of salesmen.

The "PARK MILLS" are too well known to require extended mention.

The "RAJAH" line of patterns just brought out by us show what this wonderful invention can do in the way of producing color effects.

No method ever before known was capable of producing such colorings—so novel and beautiful! Each pattern is a novelty in itself, and we ask the trade to be the judge when they see them. . . . . .

BIGELOW CARPET COMPANY.

AXMINSTER, WILTON AND BRUSSELS

CARPETS.

The Carpets made by this Company have received the highest award wherever exhibited, including Gold Medals at the Paris Exposition, 1878, and at the Centennial, 1876.

Their deserved reputation for excellence of fabric, richness and durability of color, novelty and beauty of design, has led to frequent infringements, and inferior goods have often been palmed off in their stead. For the protection of the public the Company has adopted as a trade mark the word "BIGELOW," which will be woven (at every repeat of the pattern) in white capitals into the back of the fabric. Customers will therefore have merely to examine the back of a carpet to be certain that they are getting the genuine Bigelow goods.

THESE GOODS CAN BE HAD FROM ALL FIRST-CLASS DEALERS.

UPHOLSTERY DEPARTMENT, PAGE 55.

☞ Our readers are urged to remember that we are always desirous to receive communications of interest to the carpet or upholstery trades, such as changes in firms or managers, the building or opening of new stores, improvements in old ones, the adding of new departments, improved methods of doing business, new inventions, suggestions as to the cutting, making and laying of carpets, the designing and fitting of draperies, or inquiries and dissertations relating to the technical or commercial details of the trades to which this periodical is devoted.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK.

THE year 1898 opens very encouragingly as regards the carpet trade and general business conditions. The tariff question, which a year ago was a most disturbing factor in all business, is now definitely settled, and we have in recent dispatches from Washington the positive assurance that no tariff tinkering of any kind is to be apprehended during the present session of Congress, a general understanding to this effect having been reached by the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee.

About this time last year business failures were a disagreeably prominent feature, and although the carpet trade was even then on a better basis than many others, it could not altogether escape some of the consequences of such financial stress. To-day the position of affairs is greatly improved. The record of failures in general business during the past six months shows a very material decrease, and while some financial disasters are always liable to occur in the month of January, the carpet trade generally is unquestionably in sound condition, and there is every indication that the spring business will fully equal the expectations of the most optimistic members of the trade.

Tapestries and Velvets are in excellent demand, and Ingrains are selling fairly well. Body Brussels and Wiltons are being ordered in the usual conservative manner. The business in Smyrna rugs and Art Squares has been especially good.

Linoleum and floor oil cloths are selling readily at present prices, as dealers now understand that a further advance in these goods is inevitable to meet the large increase in the cost of the materials used in their manufacture.

During the past fortnight the business in floor coverings has been hampered, as it is always, by the exigencies of Christmas trade and stock taking, but there seems to be no prospect of a change in this respect; on the contrary, the tendency to ignore carpets completely during the holiday season is increasing with every year.

Of the trade situation and the outlook altogether it may be said that it is certainly far more cheerful than it was a year ago to-day, when The Review took occasion, as it does now, to wish its readers a Happy New Year.

HAVE YOU SENT IN YOUR REMNANT LIST?

A fortnight ago we called the attention of the retail trade to the fact that our Remnant Supplement would be published on February 1, and that those who intended sending in lists of carpet remnants should do so without fail before January 10, in order to insure their publication. A great many dealers have already promptly responded to the notice, but there remain some who certainly desire a place in the Supplement who have not yet sent in their lists; and we are now obliged to request them to do so at once, as the Supplement positively cannot be kept open for them later than January 10. After that date it will be impossible for us to use lists.

Care should be taken in preparing the lists to write on only one side of the paper, and to begin with the higher grade of goods, with the borders coming after the same make of body. For the instruction and convenience of those desirous of sending in lists we print the following correct example:

OVER-PROPORTION IN BORDERS.

Springfield, Mass., December 21, 1897.

Editor Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Through the columns of your next issue would it be agreeable to give the modus operandi or the correct way of figuring the cost of a 5-8 border as, body 95 cents and border 7½ cents above proportion?

Steady Reader.

When borders first became part of a carpet, about twenty-five years ago, 4½ inch, 9 inch and 13½ inch were the only widths used, and at that time no extra charge was made by the manufacturers, for the reason that there was more money in it then than now for them. The designs were short, and in the flushes the worsted was dropped, and the buyer who received a middle strip had no selvage to sew on the carpet. Before attaching the border the edges had to be sewed down. This expense and trouble were on the dealer. The English manufacturers would hem the borders, if so requested, but they charged 2 cents a yard for doing so. Six strips of 4½, three strips of 9 inch and two of ⅜ inch made the three-quarter width, and kept the harness of the loom in working order. After a time the trade demanded a wider border, so a 2-4 border was made in a 3-4 loom by weaving a 9 inch strip with it; still without a selvage on the one side. The mills that then had yard wide looms were few, and those that had them made two strips to the piece.

Again, about ten years ago, the 2-4 border became unpopular on account of having only one selvage and the trouble it caused the retailer. Up to this time borders were sold in proportion, and the retailers so sold them with a few exceptions. With the introduction of the 5-8 border the cost of the design more than doubled, and the weavers demanded the same pay for weaving a 5-8 as was paid for weaving a 3-4. Many of our readers are probably unaware of the fact that owing to the constant changes or alteration in the patterns a loom or machinery cannot be run to its full capacity. This is an item of loss to the manufacturer. Again, the loom is without one-sixth of the material to steady that part that is without threads; the harness, gear, &c., are without work, and there is nothing to hold it down, so that when the loom is changed back it has to be put into the hands of a fixer to be tuned up and made perfect once more to weave 3-4 goods. So with the light increase of cost the dealer gets 22½ inches of border with selvage on both sides, whereas in the borders now out of date he paid for 2-4 goods and received 17½ inches; for a 3-8 he received 13 inches; for a 9 inch received only 8¼ inches, and so on. With the improvement in the designs, flushes have disappeared, and the makers cannot use the waste yarns to fill in.

According to Mr. James B. Thatcher, of the H. B. Claflin Company, than whom there is no more competent authority, and to whom we are indebted for many of the historical data above quoted, it is safe to say that 7½ cents over-proportion of Brussels borders does not leave the mill owner any margin of profit at all, as the production of any one particular coloring of a design is limited.

Now if "Steady Reader" wishes to figure on the price of the border let him take five-sixths of the price of the body and add the 7½ cents and it will give him the answer. We fail to see that the retailer has any cause to complain of the 7½ cents charged. If he is a carpet man he will get the same price for the border that he gets for the body, thus enhancing his profit.

In the example propounded by "Steady Reader" the 5-8 border will cost a little less than 87 cents, but the manufacturer will take the small fraction of a cent, and bill him the goods at 87 cents.

F. B. Bru Baker is back at his office in the Hartford Building, New York, after a six weeks' trip with Thos. Caves & Sons' Keystone Velvets. He covered the Western territory thoroughly, and introduced the highly desirable Keystone Velvets very successfully. He will be at the New York office from now on to receive visiting trade.

A valuable addition to the sources of credit information will be furnished by the Carpet and Upholstery Association, which will issue a reference book about February 1, containing the names and credit rating of dealers in carpets, upholsteries and all adjuncts throughout the United States. Special reports will also be furnished in connection with the reference book. Write for terms of subscription to the Carpet and Upholstery Association, 541 New York Life Building, New York.

Happy New Year!

Here's to the greater city; may it mean greater prosperity!

A sub station of the Brooklyn post office has been established in the store of Frederick Loeser & Co., in that city.

Mr. Berger has bought the business of Julius I. Israel. Mr. Israel succeeded the firm of Hyman Israel & Sons about six months ago.

W. D. Boutell, of Boutell Brothers, and F. A. Norway, buyer for Wm. Donaldson & Co., Minneapolis, will be in New York the latter part of the month.

There was a slight fire in the building at 55 to 63 West Fourteenth street, occupied by R. H. Macy & Co., on the morning of December 16, causing damage to the amount of $75.

The work on the new storehouse adjoining the mill of the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company has been delayed for about ten days, but notwithstanding the loss of time the company expects to have the building ready for occupancy on the contract date.

The E. S. Higgins Carpet Company's elegant quarters in the Hartford Building, Union square, West, corner of Seventeenth street, are receiving the finishing touches, and will be ready on January 15, on which date the company will remove from its historic location Nos. 84 and 86 White street.

No buyer should visit this market without seeing the three-shoot Keystone Velvets made by Thos. Caves & Sons, and shown by the agents, F. B. Bru Baker & Co., in the Hartford Building, Seventeenth street and Broadway. We hear the production spoken of in the highest terms by the best judges.

Wm. Romer, dealer in carpets and furniture at No. 2166 Third avenue, made an assignment on December 28 to John L. Dickinson, without preference. The business was started thirty years ago by Adam Romer, his father, who retired in March last, and gave the business to the son. Thomas W. McKnight, attorney, said that Romer could not compete with the department stores; that he had tried to sell his goods at the smallest possible profit above cost and make enough to live, but he could not even then meet the prices of the department stores. Romer's nominal assets are $2,443.50, and his liabilities, $2,240.

The Kensington Hotel, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., has been purchased by H. A. & W. F. Bangs, of the Sturtevant House, New York city. As there are 225 rooms, besides parlors and reception rooms, which are to be refurnished throughout, there will be an opening for the sale of a large quantity of carpets, draperies, furniture, &c.

The Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company has just been awarded the medal of superiority for its very elegant display in the American Institute Exposition, which closed at the Madison Square Garden on December 1. The company has been awarded the same high prize at every exposition that has been held by this association for the past fifteen years.

With the current date it is reported that the Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company, of Rochester, N. Y., and the Minneapolis (Minn.) Dry Goods Company will retire from the Syndicate Trading Company, and occupy offices at at 454 Broome street, Silk Exchange Building, corner of Broadway. At the same time Woodward & Lothrop, of Washington, D. C., and Wm. Donaldson & Co., of Minneapolis, Minn., become members of the Syndicate Trading Company.

Among the buyers in town during the past fortnight were W. H. Chenery, for B. H. Gladding & Co., Providence; J. S. McAnulty, of Williams & McAnulty, Scranton, Pa.; C. D. Stradley, of Stradley & Barr, Greenville, S. C.; Charles E. Osgood, of the C. E. Osgood Company, Boston; H. J. Sarles, of H. J. Sarles & Co., Liberty, N. Y.; E. Hecht and E. W. Warfield, of Hecht Brothers & Co., Baltimore; A. F. Lippincott, of Albert Graff & Co., Philadelphia; V. H. Baldwin, of Baldwin Brothers, Canton, Pa.; J. Stevens, of the Jackson Company, Rome, N. Y.; C. E. Bennett, of Bennett, Morgan & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.; F. F. Twitchell, of F. F. Twitchell & Co., St. Albans, Vt.; L. Trepanier, of the L. Trepanier Company, Des Moines, Ia.; F. J. Lerch, of the Lerch & Rice Company, Bethlehem, Pa.; Peter Murray, of Smith & Murray, Springfield, Mass.; H. S. Judkins, for the Joslin Dry Goods Company, Denver.

PHILADELPHIA

....It is rumored that Gimbel Brothers have offered John & James Dobson $200,000 for their Chestnut street store recently burned out.

....The report of Thomas W. Barlo, as auditor in the matter of the accounts of James Pollock, receiver, in Hall v. Robertson, was filed in court December 29.

....Thos. Develon's Sons have been experiencing a very satisfactory increase of orders during the past two weeks, showing that the long predicted boom is on the way.

....The failure of the Chestnut Street National Bank has caused a great sensation among business men in Philadelphia, as it is feared that several large retail establishments will be seriously affected by it.

....Thomas Caves & Sons are sold all the way up to the capacity of both of their mills and every loom is humming. Their new Velvet carpets are working their way into great popularity, and the demand for them is already pressing.

... F. J. Rayner is a new addition to the traveling forces of the Bromley Brothers Carpet Company, and is doing remarkably well in the territory formerly covered by Geo. Van Dyne. Mr. Rayner is a young man, and is on his first trip.

....Lyndall, Carrington & Co. are now carrying on the carpet and furniture business at 904 Callowhill street, the old stand of A. A. Witsil. Edward Lyndall and George W. Carrington, the principals in the new firm, are both old employees of Mr. Witsil.

...."Best quality only" has become a trade mark with the Globe Mills, Trenton avenue and Dauphin street. A glance at the spring output convinces one that the goods are not only best quality, but strictly high art in design and coloring. It is needless to say that the entire plant is in full operation.

....A well defined story has gained ground that J. & J. Dobson, in consequence of the destruction of their Chestnut street store, had determined to give up their retail business in Philadelphia. We are informed that the firm has not given the question any serious consideration, and up to date all such rumors are groundless.

....The salesmen recently connected with the retail department of John & James Dobson have been fortunate in obtaining positions without much loss of time. Geo. T. Unrich is with Ivins, Dietz & Magee; Wm. A. Gender, with Gimbel Brothers, and Thomas L. Milligan, G. Clarence Frantz and Alonzo Baker are with John Wanamaker.

....Strawbridge & Clothier will commence extensive alterations in their store shortly after January 1. Two properties will be added to the Market street front, and the style of architecture of the westerly end of the store will be completely changed so as to conform to that on the corner of Eighth street, thus making the Market street front one uniform building. The floors will also be made uniform in height. When completed, the front will be one of the most imposing in the city.

....Orlando Crease, of the late firm of McCallum, Crease & Sloan, reached his fifty-seventh birthday on December 21, 1897, in high health and abundant prosperity. That's what Mr. Crease said to me the other day, but as he had been in active business fifty years in 1887, I am inclined to think he was joking. Long may he live!

....One of the finest displays of all kinds of rugs, mats and animal skins I have ever seen is that made by John Wanamaker in his carpet department. It extends the entire width of the Market street end of the building, and down the stairs to the Thirteenth street entrance. The various hues of the sheep skins add much to the display.

....James Pollock & Son, manufacturers of Damask and Venetian stair carpets in all widths, double faced Brussels, together with extra Ingrain, hall and stair carpets, are having steady orders right along for all of their productions. The Ingrain stair carpets, with 4-4 bodies to match, are a prominent feature in the spring offerings, and are meeting with the approval of the trade.

....Mr. Bierck, of the Putnam Mills, Second and Huntingdon streets, has just made an extension to his showrooms. It will be handsomely carpeted and otherwise decorated. The new samples are out and on the road, and the product is "well sold ahead." Mr. Bierck has Art Squares on the brain just now, and they will be added to his list as soon as space to accommodate the big looms can be obtained.

....Weiland's carpet factory, at Kensington avenue and Nicetown lane, was entered by thieves on December 23, who carried away all the brass mountings and steam gauges belonging to the engine and boiler. They also took some brass and lead piping. Entrance was obtained by forcing open a rear window, and the thieves seem to have gone about the job in a systematic way. They used machinists' tools, and cut away such of the brass work as could not be easily removed any other way. The mill has been idle some time, and a few days ago Mrs. Weiland showed a man through the place, who agreed to rent it.

....It has been the custom for years past for the Manufacturers' Club, to start a subscription for the benefit of its employees at the approach of Christmas. This is peculiarly appropriate, as the rules of the club prohibit the giving of fees to servants. Mr. James Doak, Jr., chairman of the house committee, was prompt this year in reminding the members of the club of the opportunity to make glad the hearts of those with whom they come in daily contact, and the result was that fully $300 were divided among the employees of the club.

....The house committee of the Manufacturers' Club has issued the following card:

Manufacturers' Club,
1409 Walnut Street,
Philadelphia.

"Open House."

Guests Welcome. New Year's Day, 1898.

James Doak, Jr.
Chairman House Committee.

....Hirst & Roger are moving their goods rapidly, considering their looms are all in the new mill on Alleghany avenue, and their drums in the old plant. They will, however, have everything completed shortly. When the new looms are in position there will be sixty in all. Mr. Richard Hirst is on a tour through the West, with his trunks packed with samples of the spring offerings, and very satisfactory orders are being received from him.

....Among the novelties offered by the Bromley Brothers Carpet Company is a new weave which has come to be known as Pro-Brussels. It has struck a popular vein, and orders are coming from the men on the road quite freely. The company has also brought out an entirely new thing in Art Squares. They are made with handsome borders and solid centres in all the colors known to the trade. The centres are so completely "tied down" as to make them absolutely solid.

....It is now four years since David Jamieson's Sons succeeded to the business on Leib street, and during that time there has been a constant increase in the output of their looms. They manufacture all grades of Ingrain carpets, from the best Extra Super down to the lowest grade of cotton fabrics, and their designs and colorings can hardly be surpassed. Four to five travelers are active during the busy season in showing their productions through the Western country. They have now orders enough ahead to keep their looms busy for two months.

....That good goods will always bring their full value in the market is abundantly demonstrated in the fact that the entire product of Extra Ingrain carpets manufactured by McCallum & McCallum at their Glen Echo Mills, Wayne Junction, Pa., has been sold up to February 1, 1898, at the full standard price. In no instance was there the slightest variation. Everything is right in the Glen Echo Extra Supers, as well as in all their other productions. McCallum & McCallum report the heaviest wholesale business up to January 1, 1898, they have had for years.

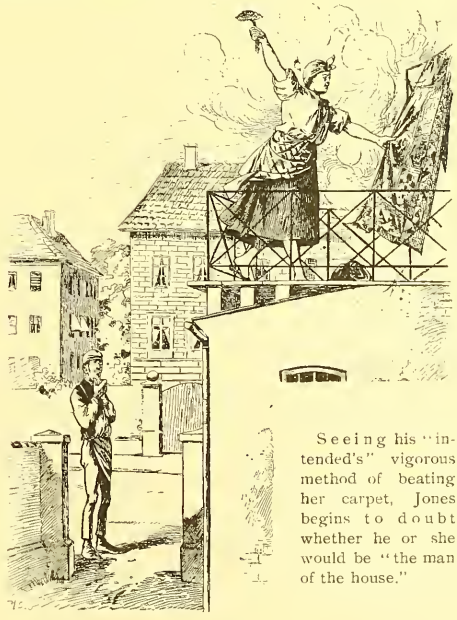
A boiler in one of the engine houses of the mills of S. Sanford & Sons, at Amsterdam, N. Y., exploded on the night of the 27th ult., and the damage done will amount to about $10,000.

Fire started in the Adams Paper Mills and the Central Carpet Lining Company's plant at Joliet, Ill., on December 27, and all the buildings and contents were consumed. Total loss, $20,000, with $2,750 insurance. The question who will get the insurance money will have to be decided by the courts as the property consumed was condemned by the sanitary district and later appealed.

THE LATE CHARLES M. PLUM.

In our last issue we sketched the life of the late Charles M. Plum, of San Francisco. Some additional details will be found in our regular San Francisco correspondence. The above engraving, which is said by friends to be a striking portrait, will doubtless be gladly received by our readers.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Henry Smail, of Darragh & Smail, has recovered from his severe illness, and is again at his office.



Seeing his "intended's" vigorous method of beating her carpet, Jones begins to doubt whether he or she would be "the man of the house."

S. SANFORD & SONS.

The superb lines of Tapestry and Velvet carpeting brought out for the spring season by S. Sanford & Sons have been promptly appreciated by the trade, as shown by the liberal orders already placed. The lines comprise all the various grades which have made the Messrs. Sanford so noted in the manufacture of Velvets and Tapestries, and each grade is replete with new, original and artistic designs and colorings, which are certain to be quick sellers. The trade will find the lines on view, as usual, at the New York office of the Messrs. Sanford, 29 Union square; at their Chicago office, 147 Fifth avenue; their Boston office, 523 Washington street, and at 318 Phelan Building, San Francisco.

The alterations and improvements in progress in the New York salesroom of the firm are almost completed, and will afford all the facilities which can be desired for the advantageous display of goods and the convenience and comfort of buyers.

THE NORRISTOWN CARPET MILLS CLOSED.

J. W. BARKER, THE OWNER, MISSING.

The Norristown (Pa) Carpet Mills were closed on the 16th ult. by the sheriff, on two judgments held by T. J. Keveney & Co., of New York, amounting to $4,494.19.

The closing of the mills was the result of the disappearance of the owner, James W. Barker, who left Norristown on the 8th ult., and is supposed to have gone to Chicago, although up to this time nothing has been heard of him. On the 8th ult. Mr. Barker obtained from Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, a check for $2,400 in payment for goods supplied by him to that firm. The check was cashed by Mr. Barker at the bank the same day, and he then returned to Norristown. His family noticed that he was speaking and acting rather strangely, but on being reminded that he had intended to make a business trip to Washington that evening, he made arrangements accordingly and left Norristown by the Pennsylvania Railroad. It has been since ascertained that instead of going to Washington he went to Chicago, and it is supposed that his trip there was influenced by a desire to secure a large contract for carpeting a Chicago hotel, negotiations to this end being then in progress.

Mr. Barker has been connected with the Norristown Carpet Mills for many years. Until about six months ago, when he became the owner of the mills, he had acted as superintendent of the manufacturing department. The interest of Harrison C. Townsend, the former proprietor of the mills, was sold to him about that time. Mr. Townsend had assigned, and his creditors had accepted a settlement of 25 cents on the dollar. Henry C. Townsend, his father and one of his largest creditors, facilitated the settlement by taking a mortgage for $14,000 on the mill, instead of cash. The mills were then transferred to Mr. Barker, who paid $31,000 in cash. Another mortgage for $14,000 was allowed to remain on the property, and the Montgomery Trust Company advanced $17,000 on an additional mortgage, which was guaranteed by several residents of Norristown. The mortgage held by Henry C. Townsend comes after the two just mentioned.

Mr. Barker has had but little experience in financial affairs, and it is thought that the business cares and complications of the last six months may have affected his mind to some extent. He was born in Kidderminster, England, but has lived in Norristown many years, and is well and favorably known there.

The following circular with portrait has been sent out by the Norristown chief of police to the police authorities throughout the country:

Mysteriously Missing.

James W. Barker left Norristown Wednesday, December 8, 1897, at 8 P. M., and bought a ticket at Broad street station, P. R. R., for Chicago, at 8:45, for train leaving at 8:50. He is forty-seven years old, 5 feet 9 inches high, hair light, forehead high, wears small light moustache, blue eyes, large eyeballs, right eyelid drooped more than left; had abscess scar on jawbone. Wore gold-rimmed spectacles, and carried a pair of eyeglasses to see at a distance. Sight was so poor that if he took spectacles off he had to feel for them. He had highly nervous temperament. Dress: Black serge suit, brown Fedora hat (Stetson make), underwear marked J. B., wore ruby scarf-pin with five petals. Had habit of taking hold of end of his moustache when in deep thought. He carried gold watch with monogram, gold chain and a locket containing hair and a boy's picture. Had quite a sum of money when last seen. Carried black, shiny leather handbag, fasteners broken and secured by two straps, containing black cheviot pants, blue coat and vest, steel Fedora hat, &c. He was well known in the carpet trade. He was probably demented, and inquiry at hospitals is requested.

Any information regarding him should be sent to his son,

Arthur H. Barker.

Or Wm. H. Rodenbaugh, Chief of Police, Norristown, Pa.

December 20, 1897. Kindly have notice in your local paper.

As we go to press a dispatch from Arthur Barker states that nothing has yet been heard of his father's whereabouts.

YARDUM BROTHERS & CO.

The offerings of Yardum Brothers & Co., the well-known importers of Oriental rugs and carpets, should strongly interest every handler of such goods. Among the special features of the stock they are now showing are a big assortment of Irans in large and small sizes, Persian hall rugs, Afghans, a choice lot of antique Shirvans, and a very extensive and desirable line of Bagdad portières. Yardum Brothers & Co. will remove on or about February 1 from their present quarters, 339 Broadway, New York, to more spacious premises at Nos. 594 and 596 Broadway and 124 to 130 Crosby street. Before removal they are offering many special bargains to the trade to reduce stock.

Goetter, Weil & Co., dry goods and carpet dealers, Montgomery, Ala., have made a general assignment. No statement is made as to assets and liabilities. From the best information obtainable the liabilities are about $250,000, and the assets, consisting of goods and accounts, probably will reach $300,000. Deputy Sheriff Whoriskey, of New York city, has received an attachment against Goetter, Weil & Co. for $1,823, in favor of Eugene Bernheimer, for merchandise.

FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL, MADISON SQUARE, NEW YORK, PURCHASED BY JOHN WANAMAKER FOR A DEPARTMENT STORE.

WANAMAKER AT THE FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL.

REPORTED PURCHASE OF THE BUILDING IN ORDER TO MAKE IT A GREAT DEPARTMENT STORE.

The Brooklyn Times of the 24th ult. announced that the Fifth Avenue Hotel, this city, had been purchased by John Wanamaker, who intended to rebuilt on the site a mammoth department store. The story as told by the Times is as follows:

"One of the biggest real estate purchases that New York city has known for a decade was consummated yesterday, and with the consummation was the inauguration of a project of the most thorough importance to the retail commercial world of the greater city.

"The transaction was no less than the purchase by John Wanamaker, the retail merchant prince, of Philadelphia, New York and Paris, of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-third street, from the executors of the Darling estate.

"The Fifth Avenue Hotel has for a score of years been the most noted hostelry in the United States, if not in the world, and among travelers its name has been a synonym for that of New York. Located at probably the busiest corner in the city, it is passed by hundreds of thousands of persons daily.

"It is Mr. Wanamaker's intention to change the building from a hotel to a mammoth dry goods establishment, conducted on the same lines as that in the old Stewart Building, at Broadway, Fourth avenue, Ninth and Tenth streets. The hotel is in the centre of the great shopping district of New York, and its location is, in fact, more prominent than that of any of the other big stores there. Mr. Wanamaker's lease of the old Stewart Building has still a year to run, and not until the expiration of that time will the hotel property be transformed to a retail dry goods store. Then Mr. Wanamaker, following the lead of other merchants, will move farther uptown. The property is peculiarly eligible from Brooklyn by means of the bridge and the elevated and cable roads from the lower section, and the Twenty-third street ferries and the surface cars which are being changed to underground trolleys from the Eastern District."

FRIES-BRESLIN COMPANY.

As manufacturers of Smyrna carpets, rugs and mats, the Fries-Breslin Company are exceptionally conspicuous, and their offerings for the spring trade are well calculated to maintain and enhance their high reputation. They show in carpet sizes three grades, the Empress being made in all sizes up to 12x18, and the Monarchs and Orientals in all sizes up to 9x12. Their lines are on view at their mills, Camden, N. J.; their New York salesroom in the Hartford Building, Broadway and Seventeenth street; their Chicago office, 186 Market street, where Evoy & Flanigan are their agents, and at the salesrooms of W. W. Corson & Co., their Boston agents, 564 Washington street.

Buyers are strongly advised to see the Fries-Breslin Company's new lines at once, for they will well repay inspection

Hadden & Co. send out as a New Year's greeting a calendar which takes the shape of a whisk broom with a holder made of China matting. It is unique as an advertisement, useful as an office appliance, and is already in great demand.

Ames.—Franklin Ames is still at the head of Marshall Field & Co.'s (Chicago) wholesale carpet department, and the son of Field's old partner—Leiter—is engaged in a big struggle to prevent the elevator men from unloading cotton chain wheat on him when his contracts call for extra super 1080-ends-and-13 pair-of-double-filling grain. Mr. Ames has had some fun with the carpet growers, but the carpet buyers out Kansas way will look very carefully at the kind of stuff that is delivered to them under futures calling for all wool Extra Supers.

Bailey.—The latest number of the Interstate—the Interstate Casualty Company's bright little monthly, of which President George E. Hamlin, the former carpet jobber, is editor—says: "M. J. Bailey, who for many years was a prominent figure in carpet trade circles, is now honoring the Interstate with his full time and talents, and as a result is piling up a big accident business."

Bogert.—"Charlie Bogert," said one of his competitors the other day, "is one of the most methodical men in the world. He opens his desk at the same minute every morning, and always gets by mail some orders for Hirst's rugs. He does the same thing every business day in the year. I wish I could get my customers to learn the same methodical habits."

Field.—J. E. Field, formerly of Field & McNaughton, of the Emporium, San Francisco, has connected himself with W. T. Smith & Son, San Francisco, and will cover the southern and middle territory in California, with probable headquarters in Los Angeles. Mr. Field has been long identified with the carpet and upholstery trade on the Pacific Coast, and is well known as a popular and courteous salesman. His acquisition to the force is highly appreciated by the firm, and will no doubt prove of mutual advantage.

Hamlin.—The Interstate, which is the organ of the casualty company bearing that name, and of which George E. Hamlin is president, comes to us this month with a gorgeous holly heading. To George, who was always the most popular man in the carpet business, and whose company is

> The sweet little cherub that sits up aloft
> To keep watch for the life of poor (carpet) Jack,
> (After Dibdin),

we extend the heartiest congratulations of this and all other seasons.

Hardy.—H. C. Hardy, who is now general manager of McClain, Simpson & Co.'s Eighth avenue stores, was for nine years with Hood, Bonbright & Co., Philadelphia, and came to his present place last October.

Hockridge.—William G. Hockridge, of Arnold, Constable & Co.'s rug and matting department, will return from China early in February.

Hogue.—P. M. Hogue, who has for nearly six years been with J. A. Roberts & Co., of Utica, N. Y., on January 3 assumes charge of the carpet department of Hugh Glenn & Co. in the same town, Judson.—The entire trade extends to Walter C. Judson, of T. B. Shoaff & Co., the compliments of the season. He has done some things in fabric, patterns and colors that will be remembered long after next spring's trade shall have ended.

Keeler.—P. J. Keeler, who is carrying the lines of J. & J. Dobson, John Dunlap & Son, James Dunlap Carpet Company, James Hall Carpet Company, Swire & Scott and Farr & Bailey, reports an excellent trade in the Far West and on the Pacific Slope. Mr. Keeler is a shining example of what industry, tact and grit may accomplish.

Law.—Walter W. Law returned last week from a rest-seeking trip to the South; and is once more at his desk studying the question of how many more looms he can sell the product of. If it will add anything to the past holiday pleasure of the wizard magician of the trade, the writer, who has all the figures before him, can assure Mr. Law that he to-day controls the product of more machines making floor coverings than any three other men who ever lived before him. This sounds like a Wagner overture, when we remember that in one year John Crossley and a few other manufacturers sold the United States over 3,000,000 square yards of carpets, but Uncle Sam, who doesn't pay the freight, generally knows what he is talking about.

Melrose.—It has already been recorded in these columns, and when you see it in The Review it is so, that the late Ned Thurston was one of the best story-tellers of the day; but the staff of Joseph Wild & Co. are not left without a raconteur of the first water. At a quiet little dinner the other night one of the brightest men in the trade suddenly gathered his Smyrna robes about him and said: "Jim, those three stories are the best I've heard in twenty years; they are all new and, confound you, you know how to tell them, and yet I believe that every one of them is a lie."

Parr.—Henry M. Parr, Room 148, 110 Worth street, has taken the line of the Art Square Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, for the metropolitan district, and in connection with same will run a full line of Extra Supers, Supers and half wool Unions.

Pearson.—Edward Pearson, of the firm of Pearson & Emmott, has returned to this city after a fortnight's trip, which included Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and other cities.

Scott.—George E. Scott, the New England traveler of Arnold, Constable & Co., has been sending in some very clever orders from the bean and codfish eaters.

Shoaff.—Thomas B. Shoaff, of T. B. Shoaff & Co., agents for John Bromley & Sons, the Roxbury Company and M. J. Whittall & Co., has been off for a holiday vacation. It is noticeable that when ever T. B. takes a holiday a number of additional looms start up in the various factories he represents.

Smith.—Walter M. Smith, of Smith, Hogg & Gardner, is back again from the South with fully restored health.

Thomas.—Edward G. Thomas, "to know whom," an old grizzled carpet man once said, "is a liberal education," left last week on his trip for Arnold, Constable & Co. He is a clever salesman, but it doesn't take much brains to sell some of the patterns Manager Daintrey has provided for the consideration of the spring buyers.

Zeimer.—A countryman once asked, after reading a New York paper, "Is there anybody in this city who sells furniture except Baumann?" Considering the fact that of the dozen Baumanns who do a carpet and furniture trade, at least eight are represented in the advertising columns of the papers every day, the query was not surprising. Last year I. Zeimer, the advertising agent of Baumann Brothers, expended $100,000 in advertising their four stores, and his allowance will be naturally increased in 1898.

JOHN CROSSLEY & SONS.

Mr. Henry Beuttell, American agent for John Crossley & Sons, of Halifax, England, has his new lines, as prepared especially for the American trade, now on view in the New York salesroom, 109 and 111 Worth street. The offerings comprise Wiltons, Brussels, Velvets, Tapestries, Wilton Daghestan rugs and a very attractive line of bordered seamless carpets in Wiltons, Brussels and Tapestry, in sizes from 6 feet 9 inches by 9 feet 9 inches to 12 by 15 feet.

Albert Graff & Co., Philadelphia, elsewhere make an attractive offer to close buyers of China and Japan mattings. The prices and terms, as will be seen by reference to the advertisement, are very favorable.

Their History and Manufacture.

Hand Made and Chenille Axminsters.

Old-style hand made Axminsters were first manufactured by Thomas Whitty, who established a factory for the purpose at Axminster, England, in 1755. When Mr. Whitty failed in business some years later the industry was transferred to Wilton, where a factory for the manufacture of the goods is still in operation.

In 1833 Mr. Templeton, a manufacturer of chenille shawls at Paisley, Scotland, conceived the idea that the process of making these shawls might be applied in the manufacture of Axminster carpets, and this was the origin of the Templeton Chenille Axminsters, which are now produced in the factory of Templeton & Co., Glasgow, Scotland. This firm are also extensive manufacturers of machine made Axminsters.

In the weaving of the old-fashioned hand made Axminsters the carpet is made in one piece on a loom which consists substantially of a large wooden roller or winch, about 2 feet 6 inches in diameter and some 20 feet long, pinned at the ends to two uprights. These uprights are joined together by a beam some 4 or 5 feet above the roller, and of course parallel to it. The long warp threads of the carpet are passed over this beam and separated from one another by little pins or studs in the beam. The strong linen threads comprising this warp are fixed to the roller at one end, the other end being also secured.

The girls who do the weaving sit beside one another on a long bench in front of the loom, each girl having a certain width of carpet to weave. She has first to fix the pile to the warp strands, and then to weave the strands into a solid backing.

Beside her, so that her left hand can reach them, hang a number of short lengths of wool of various colors. In front of her is pinned the colored paper pattern which she is to reproduce in the carpet. Guided by her pattern she takes the appropriate piece of wool, ties it tightly on to the warp strand, and then, with a pair of scissors, snips off the two ends of the knot within about an inch of the strand. In this way the two woolen tufts are left standing out from the warp, and by placing a succession of them side by side the thick pile of the carpet is gradually built up. When one row of tufts is completed, a shuttle carrying strong threads is passed once backward and once forward between the strands, thus interweaving warp and tufts. Then comes another row of tufts, and the passing of the shuttle as before, and so on until the carpet is finished. Each tuft of the pile goes through to the very back of the carpet, so that real Axminster cannot become threadbare until it is worn entirely through.

The process of manufacture is slow, and the thick heavy pile calls for a great amount of wool; consequently real Axminster carpets are extremely expensive. The demand for them, as with Aubusson and Savonnerie carpets, comes from quarters where more importance is attached to quality than to price—large and fashionable hotels, club houses, royal palaces, and houses of the rich. The floor coverings known as Berlin carpets are similar to Axminsters. They are made in Germany, and also at a factory in Morrisania, New York city.

In the machine made chenille Axminsters, the chenille is first woven so as to form a double fringe of colored yarn with a fine thread running along the centre to keep the thread lengths of wool taut. This fabric is then cut into strips, each of which is bound into a V-shape, so that the double fringe becomes a series of thick tufts of wool side by side and firmly held together by the binding thread. This chenille is then ready to serve as the weft of the carpet fabric, being laid across the warp threads and woven into place in the hand loom, which is used for all chenille Axminsters wider than 27 inches.

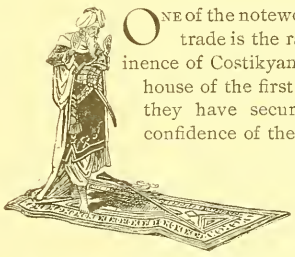
COSTIKYAN FRERES.



One of the noteworthy facts in our Oriental trade is the rapid advance into prominence of Costikyan Frères as an importing house of the first magnitude, and the hold they have secured upon the favor and confidence of the trade. The appreciable growth of their business through the past year, and the number of important transactions successfully handled at both ends of the line, are a sufficient proof of this.

To those initiated into the peculiar and curious mysteries of trade in the Orient it is no secret that success, and in fact progress in any measure in that direction, is impossible without a mastery of the unique native code of social and commercial ethics of Persia and Asia Minor, as well as a knowledge of values which is beyond the ken of ordinary mortals in our matter of fact West. It may be as difficult, on the other hand, for the ordinary merchant of the Orient to appreciate and to keep step with the strict business methods of Western commerce, and stand the pressure of forced marches that mark the boundaries of the seasons in our markets.

Those of our Oriental friends among us who have successfully combined both these essential requirements of their chosen vocation have the hearty good will and sincere regard of all who meet them in business relations.

In their special advertisement in this issue Messrs. Costikyan Frères announce that they begin the new year fully equipped with large lines of antique and modern Oriental rugs and carpets, a large portion of which were entered before the new tariff went into force.

BALTIMORE AND VICINITY.

Baltimore, December 28.

The famous clipper ship Standard is now at Amoy, China, loading for Lyon Brothers & Co., and will call at Hong Kong to complete her cargo of general merchandise. She is the tenth ship loaded by this firm since the fall of 1894, when they reopened direct trade between China and Japan and Baltimore, after it had lapsed nearly a half century. The Standard will be the first ship in the history of this port to enter from Amoy.

J. T. Orndorff's Sons, Westminster, Md., have enlarged and improved their carpet department.

J. Blair Hoge, successor to the late S. B. McKinstry, McKinstry, Md., has added carpeting to his line.

J. B. Hallman, carpet and furniture auctioneer, Roanoke, Va., died the 18th inst., aged sixty-three years.

The store of William J. Wantz, Highfield, Md., was destroyed by fire the 16th inst. Loss, $2,800; insured.

The store and stock of G. B. Timanns, Laurel, Md., were destroyed by fire the 25th inst. Loss, $15,000; insured for $10,000.

The store of J. H. Blackley, carpets, furniture, &c., Penola, Va., was destroyed by fire the 20th inst. Loss partly covered by insurance.

The store of William S. Ray, Peare, Md., was entered by burglars the 15th inst., and robbed of $400 in cash and about $275 worth of goods.

The holiday trade has been in every way satisfactory, and equal, both in the number of patrons and the amount of money spent, to the season last year.

Moses Hutzler, of A. Hutzler's Sons, dry goods and carpeting, Richmond, Va., was elected a director of the Union Bank, of Richmond, at a special meeting of the board of directors held recently.

The inmates of the Maryland Penitentiary presented Goldsborough S. Griffith, of the firm of G. S. Griffith & Co., and president of the Prisoner's Aid Society, with a handsome gold headed cane last week.

The commercial travelers of Baltimore held their second annual banquet at the Hotel Rennert the 27th inst. Toasts were responded to by Mayor Malster and others in public life, as well as by the salesmen.

George H. Clark died in Laurel, Md., the 10th ult. in the forty-second year of his age. For years he carried on business in Still Pond, Md., and afterward removed to Laurel, where he opened a large establishment. He leaves a widow and two children.

Robert Laupheimer, of Laupheimer Brothers, carpets and furniture, was presented by his employees with a diamond locket the 24th inst. The presentation speech was made by the manager, Harry L. McNulty. Mr. Laupheimer presented each employee with a purse of money.

Russell & Brothers have just completed a commodious store building in Reisterstown, Md. The structure is 70x24 feet, and is built of Parisian brick. The upper story is to be used as a public hall, and is large enough to seat 600 people. The new building will be used in connection with the present store of the firm.

James A. Fritter, senior member of the York (Pa.) Furniture and Carpet Company, died the 17th inst., in the forty-sixth year of his age. He was formerly engaged in the furniture manufacturing business in Baltimore on West Pratt street, and subsequently carried on the retail carpet and furniture trade on South Eutaw street. He was a native of Virginia and unmarried.

A number of leading merchants of Baltimore who are opposed to the trading stamp system have engaged an attorney for the purpose of preparing a bill to be submitted to the next Legislature making the giving of trading stamps illegal. It is said that there is dissatisfaction among many merchants with the system, some of those even who are using the stamps desiring to see a law passed making them illegal. Such a law is now in force in Pennsylvania, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

During the past few days a rumor has been current in Baltimore business and financial circles that John Wanamaker, the celebrated Philadelphia merchant, has been seriously considering the establishment of a large department store in Baltimore, conducted upon the same lines as his Philadelphia place, and that he had even been looking around this city for a suitable site for his new enterprise. Mr. Wanamaker, however, declares that he has never had the slightest idea of locating a part of his business in Baltimore.

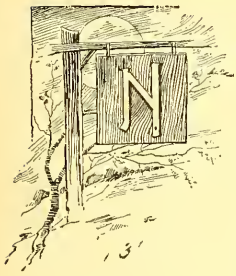
At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Credit Men's Association it was reported by the chairman of the committee of investigation that arrangements had been perfected for co-operating with the national association in the prosecution of fraudulent failures, and this work will be taken up in Baltimore as soon as the association is incorporated in January. A standard trade inquiry blank, recently adopted by the national association, was indorsed by the local association and 40,000 of them ordered.

New Buildings.—The members of the Moravian Presbyterian Church will erect a new edifice at the corner of Ashland avenue and Washington street, Baltimore. Col. W. J. Leonard, owner of the Washington Hotel, Princess Anne, Md., will make extensive repairs and additions to the building, which has been leased to R. M. Lowe, of Baltimore. Manager Kernan, of the Monumental Theatre, Baltimore, is remodeling the amphitheatre in the rear of the theatre building, on East Baltimore street, with a view of opening a theatre for the Russian and Polish residents. John T. Flood, proprietor of Flood's Park Theatre, Curtis Bay, Md., is building a new theatre in place of the old one destroyed by fire several months ago. A new court house, to cost from $12,000 to $20,000, will be erected in Indianola, Miss. R. L. E.

A new illustrated catalogue has been issued by the R. H. & B. C. Reeve Company, Camden, N. J. It contains lithographed illustrations in colors of thirty-six of their new patterns; also a price list and comprehensive telegraph code. Write for a copy.

An Arkansas editor, on reading that a young lady in New York kneads bread with her gloves on, indulged in the following soliloquy: "It is said that a New York girl kneads bread with her gloves on, but that is no news to us. We need bread with our boots on; we need bread with our pants on; and if those subscribers so much in arrears don't pay up pretty soon we will need bread without anything on."

ONE OF NEW YORK'S NEW YEAR'S GIFTS.



New York to-day receives an important accession to its manufacturing industries, and the only one of the kind it has, in the American Linoleum Manufacturing Company, of Linoleumville, Staten Island. Incidentally it may be mentioned that the directors, John Cartledge, J. A. Dean, Henry MacKay, John H. Berresford, and Charles F. Cartledge, with their hundreds of employees and their dependents, will also become citizens of the greater city.

The concern was started in 1872, and was the pioneer in the manufacture of linoleum in this country. In 1873 it was made a stock company, with the late Joseph Wild as president, Frederick Walton being superintendent. In 1874 David N. Melvin became general superintendent, which position he still holds. John B. Pearson is assistant superintendent.

From the beginning the business has steadily increased, until the plant has grown to the dimensions shown in our illustration, which is engraved from a recent photograph. It includes forty buildings, ranging in size from 40x60 to 30x420 feet, covering, with tracks, docks, &c., 250 acres of land, and possesses every modern machine and uses the best process known to the industry. It was the first in the country to make inlaid goods.

The company owns its docks on the Kill Von Kull, a steam railroad traverses the property, the B. & O. sends special lighters to the place and two lines of steamers touch the wharfs daily, so that the facilities for the reception of material and the shipment of the product are unexcelled. The trolley line from Port Richmond to St. George passes the works, rendering access easy.

The officers of the company are: President, John Cartledge; treasurer, Henry MacKay; secretary, Philip MacKay, and superintendent, David N. Melvin, and the selling agents are Jos. Wild & Co., 82 and 84 Worth street and 11 and 13 Thomas street, New York, with branch at 611 Washington street, Boston, Mass.

THE LAW OF DESIGN PATENTS.

The following letter from the eminent patent lawyer Walter K. Griffin will be of interest to our manufacturing readers:

Law Office of Walter K. Griffin,
No. 11 Pine street,
New York, December 21, 1897.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

I send with this a number of the Federal Reporter, in which at page 813, and more particularly upon pages 815 and 816, where I have marked the side with pencil, you will find a decision of some importance in regard to the Design Patent Law of February 4, 1897. As you are aware, this law imposes a fine of $250 upon certain infringement of designs, in addition to any profits which have been made by the sale of the infringing article. Until quite recently it was the common practice not only to sue the manufacturer of the infringing article, but also the retailers throughout the country who had bought the goods innocently. In the case which I send you, "Fuller v. Field," the defendant had purchased some rosettes, to be used for ornamenting ladies' dresses, from the widow of a man who had been his employee. Suit was brought, and the court, while giving the profits made by the innocent infringer, yet decided very strongly that the $250 fine was only to be imposed in case of deliberate infringement, and apparently very strongly suggests that this fine should only be imposed when the infringement was decidedly wilful. It struck me that the extract I have marked on page 815, with some explanatory notes, might prove interesting to your readers. Very truly yours, Walter K. Griffin.

The enclosure, which is an extract from the opinion of Jenkins, Circuit Judge, is as follows:

The master also allowed the sum of $250, the penalty stated in the act of February 4, 1887(24 Stat. 387). The court sustained the exception by the defendants to this finding of the master, and the correctness of that ruling is before us. The statute in question declares it to be unlawful for anyone, without the license of the owner, to apply a design secured by letters patent, or any colorable imitation of it, to any article of manufacture for the purpose of sale, or to sell or expose for sale any article of manufacture to which the design or colorable imitation of it shall, without the license of the owner, have been applied, knowing that the same has been so applied; and provides a penalty of $250 for so doing, and that such sum may be recovered by the owner of the letters patent to his own use, either by action at law or upon a bill in equity for an injunction to restrain such infringement. We concur with the court below that this penalty only attaches where the infringer knows that the article exposed for sale has upon it a design protected by letters patent. It was not the object of the statute to impose that penalty upon an innocent infringer. It is in the nature of a punishment for the wilful violation of another's protected right. So far as this record discloses, the infringement here was inadvertent, without knowledge of the complainant's right. It occurred through a laudable effort to aid a supposed deserving widow of a former employee, and the extent of the infringement was inconsiderable. We cannot, upon the language of this act, suppose that it was the intention of Congress to impose such a penalty for an inadvertent and ignorant invasion of another's right.

THE MANUFACTURERS' CONVENTION.

The third annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers will be held in this city on January 25, 26 and 27. The business sessions will be held in the Masonic Temple, at Sixth avenue and Twenty-third street, during the days of January 25, 26 and 27, and on the evening of January 26. Additional committee rooms for the accommodation of the various sections of the association have been secured at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, which is only a block east of the Masonic Temple.

The social headquarters will be at the Waldorf-Astoria, where on the night of Tuesday, January 25, a Bohemian smoker will be given, the details of which are now in the hands of a committee. The banquet of the association is expected to be the largest ever given in a hotel, and will also take place at the Waldorf-Astoria on the night of January 27.

Among members of the various convention committees are William F. Cochran, William Barbour, Stewart Hartshorn, Chas. H. Webb, H. C. Valentine, Benjamin Atha, Frank L. Babbott.

We have seen in several business houses a sign put up which reads: "We patronize newspapers only in advertising, and it will be useless to approach us with a programme, bulletin or any similar scheme."—Western Advertiser.

We have no particular objection to Uncle Sam going into the advertising business in his Bulletin of the Bureau of American Republics. We do, however, file a mild protest against the expenditure of a large amount of money in advertising Joseph P. Smith.

PACIFIC SLOPE SIFTINGS.

San Francisco, December 18.

The furniture and carpet business in this city is just about holding its own, which is to say that it is hardly as active as it should be almost on the eve of Christmas. The rush to the Klondike in the spring will undoubtedly act as a splendid tonic to trade in general, for the reason that San Francisco will without question be the headquarters for outfitting.

N. P. Cole, of the California Furniture Company, is suffering with an attack of rheumatism.

G. A. Avery, carpet and furniture dealer, of Nogales, Ariz., has sold out to J. L. Stambaugh.

The Copper City (Mon.) Commercial Company has added a furniture department to its establishmont.

H. C. Stock has entered into partnership with F. D. Robbins in the Ashland, Ore., Furniture, Fixture and Casket Company.

Moritz Walter, of the New York house of D. N. & E. Walter & Co., is paying San Francisco a visit accompanied by his daughter.

The Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar furniture department reports quite an active holiday trade. Mr. Berry says that business is looking up very well.

The Charles M. Plum & Co. Upholstery Company is working steadily on high-class work, and while no especially large orders have been received lately those on hand are sufficient to keep the factory busy.

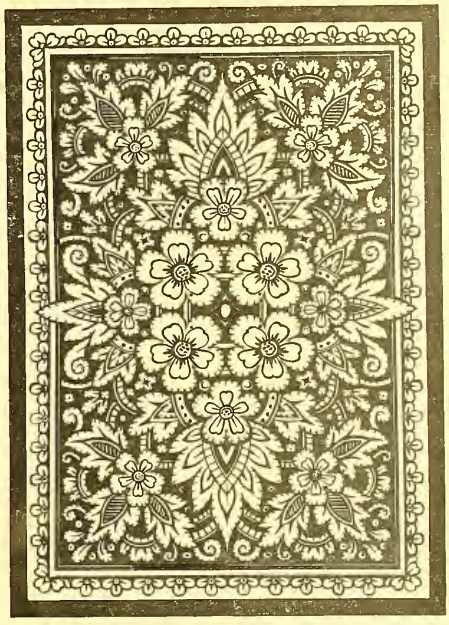
The health officer of Spokane, Wash., complains that the mattress factory on Vancouver Island is manufacturing mattresses of rags that have been neither disinfected nor cleaned. Some action will be taken in the matter.

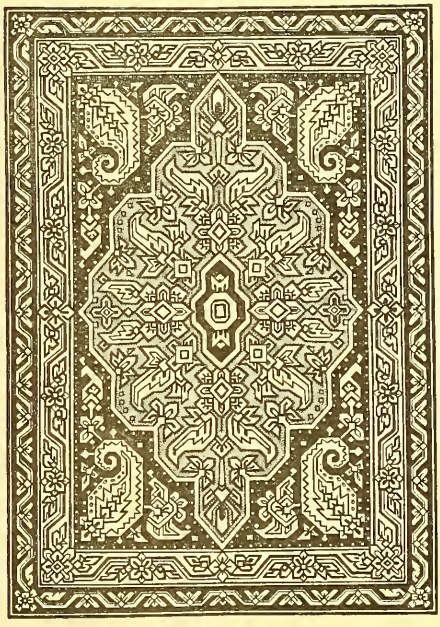
Albert Hoff, known to the trade as a wandering upholsterer, is charged at San Francisco with the murder of Mrs. Mary Clute. The case is now causing much excitement here, as the unfortunate woman was foully murdered on Wednesday of this week. Hoff was the last person seen to leave the house, and the police are confident that they have a strong chain of evidence against him. The motive so far is not known.

D. N. & E. Walter Company report business a little slack now, as a consequence of stock taking about town. S. J. Ackerman has just returned from an Eastern purchasing trip, while P. M. Kemp is East at the present in the interest of the upholstery department. F. W. Titus, Northern California traveler; E. P. Ackerman, Los Angeles, Cal., representative, and Harry Harris are all getting their samples ready to start on the road next week.

Charles M. Plum, senior member of the Charles M. Plum & Co. Upholstery Company, one of our most esteemed pioneers and citizens, died Tuesday morning last of pneumonia, after an illness of only five days. Had he survived until December 31 he would have attained the full time allotted to man—seventy years. The demise of Mr. Plum has caused universal sorrow not only among his many friends in the trade, but among merchants in general, as he was not only a substantial business man, but one possessed of a genial disposition. Mr. Plum has been identified with the Masons, Knights Templar, California Society of Pioneers and other orders. He was born in New York and came to California in 1849, but soon returned East, only to return to California in 1851, and established himself in the furniture business, after which he founded the firm bearing his name at the time of his death. The business will be conducted hereafter by his only son, Charles M. Plum, Jr., who has been closely associated with his father in the business for about thirteen years. This young man is fully adapted to the position, as not only his taste and ideas but his personality as well are very suggestive of his father. Golden Gate.

As regards the China matting market Deacon & Co., of Canton, say, under date of November 16, that it is believed that nearly all the American orders have been placed, and settlements may be put at 220,000 rolls; a fair quantity of cargo is going forward by sail and steam; prices are much firmer for low grades, and all Lintan and Tung Koong looms have enough work to keep them busy until the turn of the year; a small business in mats has been passing for London.





DESIGNS FOR RUGS,

BY R. T. LORD, OF THE JOURNAL OF FABRICS, BRADFORD, ENGLAND.

ADVERTISERS IN TRADE JOURNALS.

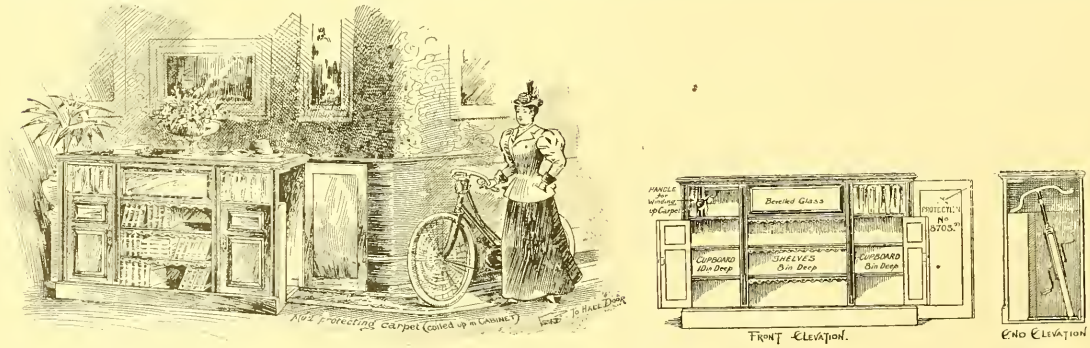
The trouble with a great many advertisers in trade journals is that they expect too much from that source. They expect the advertisement to do more work than their best travelers, whose expenses are as much in one month as the yearly cost of a page advertisement. Too often no attention is given to the advertisement except to change the wording once in six months. Imagine the big (?) orders salesmen would receive if they simply handed their card to a customer and said they would sit down and wait for an order. This is how an advertisement in a trade paper is treated. Why not change your advertisement occasionally? Speak to your customers through it the same as your traveler would talk to them, and you will soon discover that the trade paper is the only medium.

The publisher of the best journal in existence can only sell space and guarantee circulation among probable buyers. He cannot guarantee that the advertisement will pay. That rests with the advertiser. The space must be used to the best advantage, and last, but not least, do not give the travelers all the credit for the year's business. Another mistake advertisers make is that they look too much for cheap advertising. When you are sick, do you look around for the cheapest doctor? Or, if you want to engage a lawyer, do you look for the low priced and most obscure? Certainly not.

The value of advertising in any trade journal depends upon the quality and amount of its circulation. Of two papers, each having an equal circulation, which would do the advertiser the most good, the one which had a paid circulation among the class of merchants the advertiser hoped to sell, or the one which was largely circulated free "where the advertisers would see it," that is among the advertisers themselves? Certainly the one which reached the prospective customers of the advertiser. Therefore the value of any trade paper to any advertiser depends first and foremost on the extent of its circulation among the class of dealers the advertiser seeks to make or has made his customers. The question an advertiser should ask regarding any paper is, first, How many dealers whose trade I desire to gain or to retain does this paper reach? Secondly, Is it so conducted as to command their attention? Any honest publisher will afford him full information on these points.—Ex.

A BICYCLE CABINET.

So many carpet and furniture dealers now handle bicycles that they will feel interest in the simple and inexpensive piece of furniture shown herewith. It is the invention of an English manufacturer, and by far the best solution of the problem how to store a bicycle in the home that we have yet seen. Neither by its design nor proportions does the new bicycle cabinet reveal its primary object, but it is to all appearance an eminently useful dwarf bookcase, with shelves, cupboards and curtained recesses. By opening the side door, however—which can be placed at either end, as may be desired—it is seen that ample accommodation for a machine is provided, and more than that, a strip of carpet, 25 yards long and 12 inches wide, is so arranged that it may be pulled out to protect the the floor covering from mud or dust, and wound up again by means of a handle when it has served its purpose. The cabinet will contain a lady's or gentleman's bicycle, the inside width for the handle bars being 1 foot 8 inches, and the height 3 feet 6 inches, but any special size can be made to order.



AN ENGLISH INVENTION FOR HOUSING A BICYCLE.

The inlaid linoleum made by the American Linoleum Manufacturing Company is manufactured on American machinery, and under patents granted to David N. Melvin, the superintendent of the factory. In matching qualities it is as perfect as can be claimed for any flexible goods. The line of spring patterns shown by the agents, Joseph Wild & Co., is unusual in its range of designs and colors, and is larger than any yet produced by the concern.

The Roxbury Carpet Company, T. B. Shoaff & Co. sole selling agents, elsewhere print a list of spring patterns in work for the season of 1898. It is corrected up to date, and will be found valuable for reference by the customers of the "Old Reliable." The new patterns in Roxburys are of the most popular kind.

THE FLOOR OIL CLOTH INDUSTRY IN MAINE.

REMINISCENCES OF TWO NOTED MANUFACTURERS.

Some interesting facts relating to the early history of the great floor oil cloth manufacturing establishments of Alden Sampson & Sons and C. M. Bailey, Sons & Co. form the subject of an interesting article in a recent issue of the Boston Globe as follows:

Facing the east, on the west side of Lake Cobbosseecontee, in Kennebec County, is the quiet borough of East Winthrop, for more than half a century known wherever floor oil cloth was used as Baileyville. The place is beautiful in summer, and desirable as a resort for those in quest of a quiet retreat, for there is nothing more harsh than the low hum of the oil cloth factory machinery, and the occasional scream of a catbird, to disturb the nerves.

Were it not for the inventive brain of one of East Winthrop's early habitants the village would hardly be known across the lake, but early in the present century a member of the numerous family of Maine Baileys evolved a scheme to fill his purse faster than the slow process of nature was likely to do it in growing crops.

Floor oil cloths were not known in the long ago when Ezekiel Bailey pictured in his mind how they might be made, and it was in the little hamlet of East Winthrop that the conceit of their manufacture was hatched and executed. Ezekiel Bailey was in the days prior to the war of 1812 looked upon as a very likely boy. He was studious and industrious, and while other boys of the village were out in the white oak groves, setting box traps for gray squirrels and spearing pickerel by torchlight in the waters of Cobbosseecontee, Ezekiel was busy in his little workshop fashioning useful things to be used about the house.

Just how, and when, and where he was prompted to attempt the making of floor oil cloth nobody now living at East Winthrop seems to know. Records of such things were not considered of much account fifty years ago, and when Ezekiel Bailey made his first attempt as a "carpet" maker, the little grocery was vocal with much merriment. Many of the burghers thought he was "a-wastin' of his time." But they thought differently some years later, when great factories for the manufacture of floor oil cloth were erected in East Winthrop, Hallowell, New Jersey and other places.

And Ezekiel? He amassed a considerable fortune, and left the path of life much easier for his kin to pursue.

But his very first attempt was not at oil cloth making. Having met a peddler one day, he bought a table cover, made of a combination of burlap and paint. Such things were a luxury in the country at that time, and Ezekiel Bailey was shrewd enough to foresee a big demand for them if the cost could be moderated a bit. While thinking an idea came to him, and following the idea a small voice which whispered, "Make 'em yourself," he decided to try, and there is a legend to the effect that half the farmers of the village quit work to see the first table cover.

Procuring a square of burlap, or rather enough burlap from which to fashion a square of the desired size, Ezekie Bailey framed up the fabric as the good old grandmas used to hitch up quilts at a quilting bee, the only difference being that the burlap was framed, or drawn, or stretched over a table made of planed boards large enough for the full spread of the burlap. With paint and brush he began his work. The first coat was a filler, the next, a thicker one, gave body to the cloth, and when this was rubbed down to a smooth surface the last coat was prepared. This was of a different color, and was spread on thick. Then, with a straightedge, a piece of board with a true, thin edge, reaching across the whole surface of painted cloth, the finishing touches were put on. Commencing at one end of the fabric, the straightedge was moved back and forth, and straight along over the fresh paint once or twice, and the whole thing left to dry.

The first table covers were great curiosities, and the homes of the Baileys were visited by all the neighboring housewives, who were anxious to see "how they worked." Of course it was easy to keep them clean, and they saved the woodwork of the tables, which was recommendation enough. To see a cloth was to cover it, and it was not long before Ezekiel Bailey had a considerable business. Employing a boy to help him, he turned out table cloths as fast as his limited facilities would permit, and as he progressed new ideas for decorating took shape in his mind. In less than a year he had men out on the road selling them. It was while engaged in this work that he thought out the idea of floor oil cloth, tracing out the figures he wished to stamp on blocks of wood. The scheme was a success, and from that time Ezekiel Bailey's fortune was assured.

The turning out to perfection of floor oil cloth in those days was a task that would make a person in these piping times of labor saving machinery wish for something easier. All the smoothing or rubbing down was done by hand. Heavy, long bladed knives as big as the "Sword of Bunker Hill" were used to scrape down the rough body coats of paint, and a smooth surface, on which to stamp the geometrical figures in colors, was fetched after long and laborious polishing with heavy bricks of pumice stone.

Drummers employed by Mr. Bailey traveled to Massachusetts, to New York and away down into the South, and ere long the demand for oil cloth carpeting became so general that other factories were built up and made to clatter and clank with the new industry. There was living not far from East Winthrop at this time a shrewd, wide-awake Yankee farmer named Sampson, who had kept his weather eye peeled on the progress of Ezekiel Bailey, and when housewives everywhere began to yearn for the new carpeting, taking a neighbor in as a partner, Mr. Sampson built a factory, and in a very short time was in a position to be considered a formidable rival of Mr. Bailey.

Discerning good returns from a plant established close to a big centre of consumption, Mr. Bailey entered into a deal with New Jersey capitalists, and a big factory was set agoing in that State. A trusted employee of the Bailey concern in East Winthrop, Levi Richardson, who still lives and is the proprietor of a modest little store in East Winthrop, was sent to New Jersey to instruct the green hands there in the art of the manufacture. While thus engaged Mr.

Richardson's brain was busy with the problem of labor saving, and one day a phantom device for smoothing and rubbing down the first rough coats on the burlaps took form in his mind, and for some weeks he spent his spare time in experimenting. The result was the present patent used in most factories, whereby as much rubbing down can be done in one day as could have been accomplished in four by the old hand method.

The original factory erected by Ezekiel Bailey was long ago razed by fire. Another put up in the same place was also burned. The present factory, conducted by his successors, C. M. Bailey's Sons & Co., is well protected by devices for extinguishing fire, and it is kept busy all the year through. Charles M. Bailey, the son of Ezekiel Bailey, ranks among the most prominent and successful business men in Maine. The work done at East Winthrop now is all hand work, just the same as thirty or forty years ago, the makers still adhering to the belief that printing done by hand is much more durable than the machine made work.

The Sampson factory, which stood within three miles of the original Bailey factory, was also burned. This occurred many years ago, but the accident did not disquiet the original Sampson in the least. On the contrary, he jumped into the hustle and bustle of the business world on a much larger scale. He built factories in Hallowell, on the Kennebec, and in New York, and when his sons grew to manhood they merged into the business. The Hallowell factory owned by the Sampsons, who long since became citizens of New York, has been silent for several years.

AUCTION SALES OF WOOL RESUMED.

The Wool Exchange announces another auction sale of wool for Wednesday, January 5. This will differ from the sales held last fall in that it is now the intention of the officers of the Exchange to bring the exchange feature into more prominence. It has been the intention of those in charge to open the Exchange as such at the beginning of the year. There seems to be still considerable doubt among many members of the trade as to the practicability of selling wool in this country at auction, and many have thus far declined to join as trading members. Many of these, however, desire to see the Exchange a success, and express a willingness to join as soon as they are satisfied that it will be such.

It is the intention of the Exchange to hold auction sales regularly on the first Wednesday of every month, and possibly oftener. Only members and their clients will be permitted on the floor during the auctions. In addition, there will be opportunity for private trading on every week day.

CHICAGO

Chicago, December 24.

Manager Franklin Ames, of Marshall Field & Co.'s wholesale carpet department, says it may be a matter of some news to Eastern carpet men to learn that Chicago jobbers are now holding Moquettes at 65 cents. Mr. Ames thinks the price will not go lower, but will hold at that figure on all lines of goods. If Mr. Ames holds the price the other jobbers will doubtless do the same. Unfortunately some houses have become accustomed to selling goods without asking Franklin's advice.

Manager Weber, of Mandel Brothers' carpet and rug departments, has gone East.

William B. Redden, manager of Farwell's carpet department, is now in Canada, where he went to attend the funeral of his father.

Mr. Martin, carpet buyer for Daniels & Fisher, of Denver, was in the city this week. He bought several large bills of goods and then left for the East.

Many of the roadmen are in the city for the holidays. All of Marshall Field & Co.'s men are in except Mr. Tower, who travels on the Pacific Coast, and Mr. Shelley, who has the Northwestern territory.

The city of Chicago, in order to test the validity of the Anti-Department Store ordinance, passed by the Chicago City Council last spring, has instituted suits against "The Fair," Siegel, Cooper & Co., A. M. Rothschild & Co., and the Boston Store.

In the midst of a great crowd of holiday shoppers at A. M. Rothschild's department store to-day two men walked up to the savings bank department, in the middle aisle of the main floor, and set fire to a can of kerosene which they had placed in the telephone box. It burst into flames, which soon filled the rear part of the store with smoke. The immense crowd of shoppers became panic stricken and the danger of a stampede was imminent. The ceiling is lined with perforated pipes, by which a whole floor can be inundated with water at a moment's notice. Before this could be done, however, water was brought in buckets and the flames put out. After this it was found that a deliberate attempt to fire the place had been made, the idea probably being to rob the savings bank during the panic. R. H. H.

At Sioux Falls, S. Dak., on the 22d ult., Judge Smith, of the First Circuit Court, decided, in opposition to other courts of South Dakota, that the law passed by the last Legislature, known as the "Peddler's Law," is unconstitutional, because it is in conflict with the Interstate Commerce Law. A traveling salesman, employed by a Minneapolis house, was arrested for violating the law, and was convicted in a justice's court. A writ of habeas corpus was applied for, and Judge Smith ordered his release. This law was intended to compel traveling representatives of wholesale houses to pay a license fee.

Boston and the East.

Boston Budget.

Boston, December 24.

The employees in the carpet and upholstery departments at the store of Jordan, Marsh & Co., in common with all other salesmen and saleswomen belonging to this big dry goods establishment, are to receive a generous Christmas gift this year, the firm having agreed to present every clerk with 1 per cent. on the gross amount of his or her sales for the five days preceding Christmas, in addition, of course, to regular salaries. This plan is an attractive one, and in most cases will result in a good-sized Christmas plum, and at the same time excite in the employees a deeper interest in the business of the firm. The offer is regarded as a peculiarly generous scheme of co-operation, coming, as it does, in the week when the greatest opportunities of the year are offered to earn the bonus. It will doubtless be a Merry Christmas for both employer and employee.

J. R. Gilmore, of Lord & Taylor's, was among this week's visitors to the "Hub."

M. J. Whittall, the well-known Worcester carpet manufacturer, has been in Boston this week.

J. & A. Ehrlich, carpet and furniture dealers, 1289 Tremont street, have sold out to Frank Ferdinand.

The golf fever has invaded the ranks of the carpet men, and among the expert players is Mr. I. W. Chick, of the firm of John H. Pray, Sons & Co.

At W. W. Corson & Co's. they report business about the same as at this time last year—very slight improvement, if any; but they are looking for spring business to pick up.

I met D. A. Tarbell in a Boston carpet store yesterday, and he gave a good account of business on the road. Dave was caught in a big fire in Providence recently, and his samples were ruined by water. This caused him very little delay, however, as he had a new set on hand within two days.

George Nicol, who was formerly in charge of the print room at the Roxbury Carpet Company's factory, died in Plymouth, Mass., on the 11th inst., from heart disease, at the age of sixty-six years. He was born in Halifax, England, and came to this country forty years ago. For a long time Mr. Nicol had been wool buyer for the Franklin Woolen Company, of Franklin, N. H., now the Plymouth Woolen Company. He left a widow and four children.

R. H. White & Co. have secured the contract for recarpeting the steamer City of Worcester with Sanford Velvets. The design will be a Venetian scroll.

New England Notes.

W. L. Buckland is a new dealer in carpets and furniture at Manchester, Conn.

The Lowell Manufacturing Company has completed an extension to its building on Market street, Lowell.

Wilder & Co. has been organized in Augusta, Me., for the purpose of manufacturing and dealing in floor oil cloths and other carpets, with $75,000 capital stock. The officers are: President, Daniel D. Sewall, of Augusta; treasurer, Daniel D. Sewall, of Augusta. Wilder & Co.'s works are at Hallowell, Me.

Pickard & Walker succeed H. R. Crowell, dry goods and carpet dealer, East Northfield, Mass., and Clark & Eaton succeed Furber & Clark in the same line at Wolfboro, N. H.

Manager Morey, of the Atkinson House Furnishing Company, Bangor, Me., captured the contract to furnish the new hotel in Calais, of which Clarence L. Chapman, of Bangor, is about to become proprietor. The Atkinson Company's Bangor branch will furnish practically the entire house, at a cost of something like $6,000.

The size of the show window of Mullen & Dempsey's carpet and furniture store, Woonsocket, R. I., is no indication of the stock it contains. Counting from the basement up, there are six floors, and each floor is filled with an immense stock of everything in the line of housefurnishings. This annex of the old Main street Harris mill is turned to good account when it is used as the home of such progressive merchants as the above firm, composed of James Mullen and Daniel Dempsey. The basement is reserved entirely for crockery. The street floor is a salesroom containing an assortment of samples of about all the goods that are sold in the store. On the second floor are the carpet room and upholstery and pictures. The third floor is crowded with parlor and sitting room furniture, hall trees, &c. The fourth floor contains all the larger articles of furniture. The fifth floor is used as stock room and carpet sewing room and for storage. From the fourth floor a rear entrance opens on to Fountain street, which is used by the delivery wagons.

The Weeks Furniture Company, Woonsocket, R. I., is a vast establishment. It has outgrown its confines and now spreads out its branches like a growing oak. Besides the building at 48 North Main street, which was originally built to contain the entire business, there is a large store opposite in Gilbert's Building, that is used solely for the display and sale of wall paper; another store in Miller's Building, at 34 North Main street, where lounges and desks are stored; the vacant store in the Opera House Block, used as a storeroom, and three or four buildings in the rear of the main store, also used as storerooms. In the latter, also, is the stable of the concern, where nearly a score af horses and wagons, used in the delivery of the goods to Woonsocket and neighboring towns and villages, are housed. In the basement of the company's building is the stock of crockery, glassware and art goods. On the first floor the office is to the left and salesmen's desks just within the entrance. The upholstery department is on the right of the store. In the centre of the floor are placed a few rockers, tabourets and ladies' desks. In the rear are shown parlor and kitchen stoves and ranges. To the left rear is the extensive carpet department. On the second floor are chairs, tables, bookcases, desks, chamber furniture, pictures, &c. In the rear is a four story addition. On the second floor is dining room furniture, tables and chairs and sideboards. On the third and fourth floors are parlor tables and parlor suites.

Current Carpet Chat.

IRMINGHAM, Ala., can boast of very extensive houses in every branch of commerce, many of which control a patronage coming from all parts of the State. The carpet and furniture business is especially well represented, and among the most important of these is Zinszer's Furniture House, the proprietor of which is Mrs. Peter Zinszer. A. L. Miller is the manager, having been connected with the house for the past eleven years. He is ably assisted by Mrs Zinszer's son, Joseph Zinszer. The premises occupied consist of a three story building, 75x140 feet in area, at 2115, 2117 and 2119 Second avenue. A heavy stock is carried. One of the other leading business housss in Birmingham is that conducted by H. Herzfeld at 113 and 115 Nineteenth street. Mr. Herzfeld started business there seventeen years ago, and from the outset has been successful. The premises are spacious and are filled from top to bottom with all kinds of furniture; also mattings, oil cloths, shades, bedding, &c.

William Walton's Nephews succeed William Walton, deceased, Freeport, Ill.

T. Y. Abercrombie has opened a carpet and furniture store at Beaver Falls, Pa.

Haas & Reeves have embarked in the carpet and furniture business at Orwell, Ohio.

Dupuis Brothers, dry goods and carpet dealers, Montreal, have dissolved partnership.

Kepner Brothers, carpet and furniture dealers, Sabetha, Kan., are succeeded by J. B. Kepner.

The Goodlatte Oil Cloth Company is making extensive additions to its plant at Athenia, N. J.

Pfeuffer & Kerr, carpet and furniture dealers, Cotulla, Tex., are succeeded by Kerr & Henrichson.

B. Coffman, carpet and furniture dealer, Des Moines, Iowa, has closed out his stock and left town.

Reinhart's Sons succeed the late Mrs. E. Reinhart, carpet and furniture dealer, Hazelton, Pa.

The Pettibone-Peabody Company succeeds C. J. Pettibone & Co. in dry goods, carpets, &c., at Appleton, Wis.

Adam & Charles Snider, succeeded Philip Snider & Sons in the dry goods and carpet business at Marysville, Ohio.

The Harvey carpet mill, at Stroudsburg, Pa., is running nights to fill orders. Ten more looms are to be added to the plant.

Burton & Enslow, succeed C. A. Wooley, dry goods and carpet dealer, Girard, Ill., with a branch store at Sullivan, same State.

Mr. Goodrich has sold his interest in the firm of Goodrich & Wright Brothers, carpet and furniture dealers, Pomona, Cal., to Charles Rice.

John B. Schaefer and Charles H. Avery have been appointed receivers of the firm of John Schaefer's Sons, Buffalo, N. Y., application to the court for a dissolution of the firm having been made by Elizabeth Schaefer, widow of Joseph H. Schaefer, who died in May last.

J. L. Stambough, has bought out E. A. Avery, carpets, furniture and undertaking, at Nogales, Cal.

J. E. Perry, carpet and furniture dealer, Clear Lake, Ia., has sold a half interest in his business to John Collins.

The Palace Furniture and Carpet Company, St. Paul, Minn., is succeeded by the American House Furnishing Company.

The two well-known Troy (N. Y.,) dry good houses of G. V. S. Quackenbush & Co. and Loomis, Evans & Co. have consolidated.

Charles Wakefield has purchased Wm. Dransfield's carpet and furniture business at 3207 Monroe street, Auburndale, Toledo, Ohio.

The firm of Jones Brothers, carpet and furniture dealers, Chittenango, N. Y., has been dissolved, and E. G. Jones is now sole owner of the business.

J. D. Hughes and Leon Miller, will open a carpet store at Tenth avenue and Eleventh street, Altoona, Pa., under the firm name of Miller & Hughes.

Newman, Morgan & Co. succeed the Pike-Newman Dry Goods Company, Uniontown, Ky., the interest of George Pike having been bought by W. M. Morgan.

On December 16 fire started in one of the show windows in W. R. Gable & Co.'s department store at Altoona, Pa., and before it was extinguished did $1,500 damage.

Schmitt & Heinly's Golden Rule department store at Danville, Ill., was destroyed by fire on December 20. Loss, $75,000. The fire started in a show window.

Citizens of Bangor, Pa., have subscribed $6,000 toward the establishment of an oil cloth concern there. H. A. Porter, who is associated with George H. Harvey in the carpet mill at Stroudsburg, Pa., is identified with the enterprise.

Fire started on December 7 in Tuttle & Son's store at Stewartville, Minn., from a lamp explosion, and three buildings were burned. The losses are: Robbins Brothers' building, $3,000; insurance, $1,500. Tuttle & Son, on stock, $15,000; insurance. $3,000.

R. C. Reynolds, 255 and 257 River street, Troy, N. Y., has contracted for a building to be erected on the adjoining property, which will be an addition to his present store, and will be ready for occupancy April 15. It will be an iron structure of brown mottle brick and Indiana Bedford stone trimmings, with 100 feet front on River street. One of the two stories will be devoted to the carpet and upholstery department.

The carpet and furniture store of Newell, Richardson & Galbraith, at Jackson, Mich., was closed on December 20 by Sheriff Harrington on eleven executions, aggregating $1,952.25, issued out of Justice Palmer's court. The largest is for $300 and the smallest is $65, all the claims being for stock purchased. Mr. Newell said when seen regarding the closing: "The store has been closed on account of some unsecured creditors, who were anxious to know how much stock we have on hand. An inventory is being taken, and as soon as that is completed the store will be opened and business resumed." The firm last summer gave a number of chattel mortgages, but the holders of these are not pushing their claims.

Cleveland, Ohio, had an $800,000 fire on the evening of December 23. Among the losers is Louis S. Bing, carpet and furniture dealer, of 236 Seneca street, whose stock was damaged to the extent of $5,000.

The Seattle (Wash.) Charity Organization Society has temporarily established a rag carpet factory in that city, for the purpose of furnishing employment to women who are poor and out of work. The women receive 10 cents a pound fer sewing carpet rags, and the materials are furnished.

The citizens of Wind Gap, Pa., are putting forth great efforts to raise $7,000 for the purpose of securing the location of an oil cloth factory in that borough. They are to raise $6,500 by issuing stock to be secured by a mortgage on the plant, and $500 in cash toward moving the plant there. The industry will employ about fifty hands.

A. J. Wild, carpet and furniture dealer, McKeesport, Pa., is closing out his stock, and will quit business on April 1. Mr. Wild says he has to vacate the building he now occupies, and cannot find a suitable location in which to continue in business in McKeesport. He will therefore be without a building in which to conduct his business after that date.

Fire was discovered in the rear of Matthew Donovan's carpet and furniture store, 46 Market street, Paterson, N. J., on December 16. The fire originated in a pile of rubbish, and assumed the appearance of a big blaze before the chemical engine was called. A few minutes' hard work squelched the blaze. The damage to the stock and building amounted to $200, which was covered by insurance.

Jonas Long's Sons opened their new department store, in Scranton, Pa., last month. The store has a floor space of about 5 acres, and is supplied with all the improvement ususlly found in business buildings of the first class. The firm of Jonas Long's Sons, comprising six brothers, is composed as follows: Charles J., Bernard, Louis, Arthur, Edward and Harry. They are well known in the trade as proprietors of a large and prosperous store at Wilkesbarre, where they have done an extensive business for a number of years.

Santa Claus was burned up on December 9 during a disastrous fire in the large plate glass show windows of L. Kopido & Sons' stores, at 216, 218 and 220 Pacific avenue, Jersey City. The plate glass panes were shattered, and the stock in the windows was entirely consumed. Santa Claus, who stood near a dome of handkerchiefs, upon which were a number of dolls, went up in smoke, but another one was secured in time to fill the stockings of Jersey City boys and girls on Christmas Eve. The damage is estimated at $1,500; fully insured.

Emanuel M. Leon, proprietor of the Star Furniture House at Columbus, Ohio, has assigned to Daniel S. Ambach. The assignment was precipitated by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Bank, which took possession to secure a chattel mortgage for $2,891.84. The following chattel mortgages also were filed: Leopold Leon, $3,462.94; Morris Meyer, $2,200; Carrie L. Weill, $2,199; S. L. Hyneman, $937.51; D. C. Beggs & Co., $512.01; Press-Post Printing Company, $750.37; W. D. Brickells, $270, making $13,226.67 of secured claims. A recent disastrous fire and a poor paying instalment business caused the failure. The value of the stock on hand has been placed by appraisers at $11,600. Mr. Leon is the successor of Leon Brothers & Co. Up to 1896 the firm was located in the Buckeye Block on North High street, but last year the stock was removed to its present location. The building was entirely remodeled for the new firm, but a short time after they opened for business the place was visited by a fire, and a big loss was the result. Last spring Mr. Leon bought out the interest of his brother Leopold, and since then has been operating the store in his own name.

THE TORREY BILL AND ITS ADVOCATES.

The New York Credit Men's Association is strongly in favor of the passage of the Torrey bankruptcy bill, and is sending to business men throughout the country a circular as follows:

"We believe that if the Torrey bankruptcy bill, which has been pending for several years in Congress, ever becomes law, it will be because the sentiment of the business community in its favor is unmistakably made known to our representatives at Washington. We therefore ask you, whether you are or are not a member of our association, to write a letter to the Congressman of your district on your business letter head, urging him to do all in his power to forward and pass the bill. We should like to have the letter prepared beforehand and mailed on January 7, 1898, believing that the simultaneous expression of the needs of the merchants and manufacturers of the country will have a great effect.

"In order to make the appeal as potent as possible it would be very desirable if you could influence your customers by communicating with them, wherever situated, to mail a similar letter on the same day also to their respective representatives at Washington."

Lord & Taylor, in their cut order department, are now showing to the trade their spring lines of samples in Wiltons, Body Brussels and Velvets. Particular attention is called to the fact that they have added the Sanford Velvets in both qualities. The large business done by Lord & Taylor, and the excellent taste and judgment shown in selecting the stock, offer an opportunity for the retailer to make a selection of samples that will certainly assure success for that branch of their business. Full particulars may be obtained as to the cut order system by addressing the firm at Broadway and Twentieth street, New York.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The exports of carpets and rugs from the consular district of Bradford, England, during the month of November, 1897, amounted in value to £1,041, as against £798 during the same month of 1896.

During the eleven months ending November 30, 1897, the imports of carpets from England to the United States, as compiled by the British Board of Trade, were 247,600 yards, against 438,700 yards in 1896 and 593,600 in 1895.

Exports of carpets from Great Britain during the month of November, according to the British Board of Trade returns, amounted to 556,110 yards, valued at £55,922. For the eleven months ending November 30 the exports of carpets amounted to 6,663,700 yards, valued at £700,045.

The Worcester Cross Carpet Works at Kidderminster were offered for sale recently by auction at the Lion Hotel, Kidderminster. It was stated that the property was offered by instructions from the trustee for the debenture holders of the Worcester Cross Carpet Company. There was a bid of £1,000, and there being no further offers the property was withdrawn.

The carpet trade reporter of London Furniture and Decoration in the course of some recent comments on the English carpet trade says: "There is a decided impression in some towns that before many seasons are over the best class of furnishers and carpet buyers will return to the fashion of covering the entire apartment with carpet, in place of the now accommodating square. When I say that my informant is looked upon as one of the best judges in the trade, and buys for the best house in Bath, his opinion must be regarded as encouraging to those interested in the production of body goods. That a few extra bodies are selling and being inquired for this season I am pleased to report, yet manufacturers and others who deal in carpets find the squares going as well as ever. I believe some makers of Tapestry and Brussels Squares have all through the season been overdone with orders. On the other hand, those employed on unbordered lines have had to slow down, and in some cases the looms have run 'half time.' Woolen Squares are fairly in demand. A special line in Romans, embracing all the art shades, will no doubt be one of the pet lines of the season, now that these can be had at a reasonable price."

A NOTABLE ENGLISH CARPET.

The Kidderminster (England) Shuttle of the 11th ult. said: "To-day a large and handsome patent chenille seamless Axminster carpet is being shipped for Lima, South America. It has been manufactured at the Park Wharf Works of R. Smith & Sons, to the order of the Carpet Manufacturing Company, Kidderminster, of which the Messrs. Smith form a part. The carpet has been specially made for the Post Office of Lima, and it is evident that the South Americans have very luxurious tastes in demanding such a splendid product of the carpet loom for their postal buildings. The carpet measures 32 feet 6 inches by 23 feet 4 inches, and the pile is nearly one inch in thickness. It has been woven in one piece on a 26 foot hand loom, and has occupied four men several weeks to weave. It is of the finest quality, and the body of the carpet is plain pearl gray. The medallion is an exceedingly striking feature both in style and harmony of color. In the centre is a representation of the globe in rich tints, and through this passes a finely executed anchor, while enriching the whole are the words in bold character, 'Correo Telegrafo.' The carpet is made without a fixed border, but a handsome wide scroll border on écru ground, Louis XVI. design, has been made on a thin linen back, which will be placed on the top of the carpet on state occasions, but is not attached. The colors of the border are made to harmonize with the medallion."

A COMPARISON

BETWEEN "THE NEW CHEAP AXMINSTERS AND THE DEAR OLD BRUSSELS."

Of the making of carpets there is apparently no end. Each succeeding year brings its long list of new qualities with high sounding titles borrowed from the kings and princes of the earth; and the perplexed and hesitating purchaser knows not where he is. With the new woman has come the new Axminster, and both, we may take it, have come to stay. The old-fashioned girl, however, has still admirers, and that old favorite in carpets known as Brussels is not yet to be swept off the face of the earth. Indeed, of the two fabrics in question, the new Axminster is the more likely to be first swept off the face of the earth, for the reason that its handsome surface is composed of soft woollen yarns that readily fluff away; whereas the clean and wirey Brussels loop is formed of well twisted worsteds But we must be just, and point out that the older fabric also has its own peculiar weakness. The worsted loops, which are the special feature of Brussels, may accidentally be caught, and the yarn pulled up by some fiendish brush or innocent brute, and, hey presto! in ten minutes your promising and stylish carpet has gone wrong, and turned into tag-rag and bob-tail. In well-regulated households this need not happen, and as a matter of fact it seldom does; but it needs a salesman of much tact and experience to undertake the regulation of other people's households. Which carpet then, says the perplexed one, do you advise us to buy? We answer, buy them both. Buy the new Axminster, if you like a wealth of color and softness on your floors; buy the old Brussels for rooms where you hold that cleanliness must come before gorgeousness. Buy this handsome Axminster if you can afford to replace it in a few years; but buy the plainer, though still good looking Brusssls if you are compelled to count the cost; buy the best of its kind, and you may confidently rely upon its preserving its appearance longer, and achieving the more respectable old age.—An Old Hand, in Kidderminster Shuttle.

Reune Martin & Sons will soon issue a particularly handsome booklet, containing illustrations in colors of the patterns in the Hartford Carpet Company's new line of Saxony carpets. The illustrations are exact reproductions of the original patterns, and may be regarded as remarkably fine examples of the best effects yet attained in the new process of color photography. With the aid of one of these booklets a dealer will be enabled to take orders for this handsome line of Saxony carpets, without being obliged to carry the goods themselves in stock.

THE H. B. CLAFLIN COMPANY'S OFFERINGS.

Never before has the H. B. Claflin Company's carpet department offered so large and varied lines for the inspection of the trade as this spring. The mere enumeration would fill a page, but among the principal features of the stock may be mentioned the following:

The house have for years been sole agents for the production of Nye & Wait, including Gold Medal Extra Supers, Gold Medal C. C.'s, Auburn 12 pair Supers, Auburn C. C.'s and Fairmount Extra Supers and C. C.'s. They are also sole agents for John Boggs' 9 and 10 pair Cottons and quarter and half wool Unions.

Full lines of Agras, three ply Ingrains, halls and stairs; Venetians, hemp, cocoa and Napier mattings will always be found on the floor.

In 3-4 goods they are sole selling agents for the Firth goods in the well-known brands, Montana, High Rock and Storm King. They are selling agents for Stinson Brothers' Tapestries and Velvets, Rifton Velvets and Beattie's Velvets.

Lowell Brussels and Wiltons, Middlesex Axminsters and best Axminsters, Hartford Wiltons, Brussels and Axminsters have full representation in the stock.

In the rug department there are long lines of Orientals, Imperial Smyrnas, Highland Smyrnas, together with an endless variety of all grades pertaining to a complete rug stock.

The house has a very large quantity of Japan and China mattings, landed less duty. These goods are being disposed of at old prices. They handle Alden Sampson & Sons' oil cloths, and linoleums both of English make and the popular production of the American Linoleum Company.

In fact, there is in the department everything that goes to make up the stock of a carpet house, no matter how large or small may be the extent and character of the business.

What is said to be the most expensive carpet in the world is now on the shelves of the Gobelins factory. It is worth £10,000 and was made during the years 1869 and 1870, by order of Napoleon III., but was unfinished when the Franco-Prussian war broke out.—Ex.

The Meyer carpet thread has gained many new friends during the past year, and Mr. John C. Meyer expects to increase its use among the carpet trade more largely during 1898 than in any year since it was introduced. If you have not tried it send to John C. Meyer & Co., 87 Summer street, Boston, for samples and prices.

OBITUARY NOTES.

The mercantile agencies announce the demise of Asa K. Potter, of Potter & Co., Providence, R. I.; Samuel Cooper, of Cooper & Haines, Capon Bridge, W. Va.

Edward Bare, senior member and founder of the firm of Bare Brothers, San Francisco, Cal., died November 29, of pneumonia. Mr. Bare was born in Prussia in 1851. When fourteen years of age he came to the United States, and after remaining about three years in New York went to San Francisco and started in business there on his own account. In 1875 he was joined by his brother Solomon, and the firm style was changed to the present one of Bare Brothers.

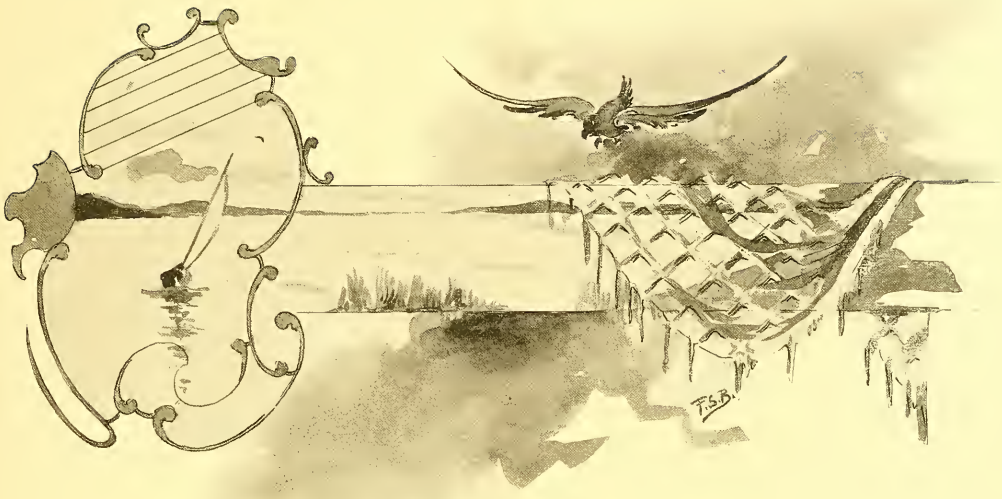
George J. Fritsch, aged thirty-eight years, president of the stove and carpet company, St. Louis, bearing his name, committed suicide. He was found hanging in the elevator shaft in his store at noon by the porter. The body was cut down, and an examination showed that the neck had been broken. Fritsch is said to have been intoxicated at the time of the act. He was one of the most prominent of South Broadway merchants. It is said that the suicide was prompted by financial difficulties.

McCLEARY, WALLIN & CROUSE.

W. & J. Sloane, as selling agents for McCleary, Wallin & Crouse, show that firm's extensive line of Smyrna rugs in three grades, viz., the Imperial, Mohawk and Amsterdam, comprising altogether 120 designs, which represent the finest effects possible in Smyrna manufacture. The three grades offered are designed to cover the demands of every class of trade. The Amsterdams are a strong line of popular patterns; the Mohawks represent high class standard styles, and the Imperials are a superior line of fine artistic effects, well calculated to satisfy the most exacting buyer.

Thomas J. Breslin, of the Fries-Breslin Company, has just returned from a specially successful Western trip, where he opened many new accounts for his company's very handsome line of rugs and carpets. He will be at the New York office of the company in the Hartford Building for some few weeks to come.

Shewan, Tomes & Co., in their circular dated Canton, November 25, say: "Several new orders have been received since our last advices, and the market is strong. No fresh settlements are reported, as only April-May delivery can be obtained, and dealers not wishing to run any risk are quoting high prices. An all round increase in prices is maintained and a further rise may be expected. Contracts remain at 220,000 rolls."



The total expenditures of the Merchants' Association of New York for advertising purposes between June 1 and November 1 was about $35,000, of which over $11,000 was expended for postage. The press, both daily and special, have stood by the association shoulder to shoulder. The energies of Mr. De Berard are now bent on an ambitious book which is to be given to the world in the spring. It is to be entitled "New York: Picturesque, Spectacular, Artistic." It is stated that this is not to be a guide book nor an advertising scheme—in fact, that no paid advertising is to be given place. Among its prominent features are to be profuse illustration and description. It is intended to publish a first edition of 150,000, and they are not to be sold, but given away as the association shall determine. The best artists and litterateurs are already engaged in the preparation of the volume.

J. C. Brown contributes to the cooking department of a Philadelphia paper two ways to use Brussels sprouts. If Mr. Brown has really found out a scheme whereby "Brussels sprouts" can be utilized in any good purpose he is certainly entitled to the lasting gratitude of every retail carpet man in the country. Brussels sprouts were always a great source of annoyance.

Some member of the firm of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. gets this first-class notice from the London Warehouseman and Draper of December 11:

Our American friends are frequently accused of going out of their way to disparage anything and everything of British origin. No doubt an air of superiority is affected by a certain class of Americans; but happily there are others who, as the result of frequent visits to this country, can appreciate things British, provided the quality is good. For instance, during the past week a letter was received from a member of the firm of Messrs. Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., wholesale dry goods warehousemen, of Chicago, expressing admiration of British beefsteak and kidney puddings, as served at a well-known hostelry in Fleet street, and asking as a favor that two such dishes may be forwarded by fast express, in order that he may give some of his Chicago colleagues a treat during the Christmas holiday.

As it is a Chicago River salmon to a native oyster that both the beefsteak and kidneys came from the Cook County stockyards, this indeed is carrying coals to Newcastle.

It may be well for our readers to bear in mind that some important amendments to the patent laws go into effect to-day. Among new provisions are the following:

1. A patent cannot be obtained for any invention which has been patented or described in any printed publication in this or any other country more than two years prior to the application.

2. No patent shall be refused, nor shall any patent be declared invalid by reason of its first having been patented in a foreign country, unless the said application was filed more than seven months prior to the appiication in this country.

3. The application must be completed and prepared for examination within one year after the filing of said application, or it shall be regarded as abandoned.

4. An interference will not be declared between an original application and a patent issued more than two years prior to the date of filing the said application.

Someone once remarked that the City Record was the dullest daily paper in New York, but he had to acknowledge that to a large number of people it was an absolute necessity. There are several publications in this city that are absolutely indispensable in their field, and the Remnant Supplement is one of them. "Since I lost my eyesight," wrote a subscriber of The Review years ago, "I wouldn't give a cent for The Review or any darned old paper; but my boys tell me they can't do business without the Remnant Supplement. So keep along sending it."

And just here let us remind our readers that the rapidity with which something like 400 columns of solid figures must be put in type compels us to print the list of remnants as they come to us, and the rule of first come first served is absolute. This year the New Haven Window Shade Company are first in the line. With their list they send this note:

We send you to-day, under separate cover, our list of remnants for publication in the next issue of the Remnant Supplement. We believe in being on time and having our list as near the "head of the line as possible," believing that in this case the old maxim of the early bird and the worm is reversed, i. e., the list nearest the front is scanned the most. We have found the remnant list a great help in disposing of our remnants.

When a carpet man goes into politics it does not take him long to get the hang of the business. Some months ago we announced the appointment of Silas C. Croft as Surveyor of the Port of New York. A few days later Private Secretary Joseph T. Kieley received a very polite note from Surveyor Croft informing him that his services would not be required any longer, and that his salary would be discontinued immediately.

"Great Scott!" exclaimed the private secretary, who is a very important man in Brooklyn politics. "They can't drop me this way. They must prefer charges. That's the Civil Service law," and he dashed into Surveyor Croft's office.

"Oh, you're not dropped," said Surveyor Croft. "Your place—that is, the position of private secretary—is abolished."

"Then I am abolished too, eh?" asked Mr. Kieley.

"Well, you see, if you were discharged it would be a violation of the Civil Service law, but there is nothing in the law which prevents the abolition of the office. Do you see the point?"

Mr. Kieley did see the point, and retired gracefully.

"When it comes to the question of the tariff," said an assistant appraiser to a Sun reporter, "it is very often a case 'of anything to do the Government.' Now, take the oil cloth business. A standard size for oil cloth before the passage of the McKinley bill was 12 feet in width. Section 337 of the Dingley bill fixes the duty for oil cloth 'under 12 feet in width' at 8 cents a yard and 15 per cent. ad valorem, and for oil cloth 12 feet and over in width at 20 cents a yard and 20 per cent. ad valorem. Well, the importation of oil cloth under the new bill has begun, and the first consignment is made up of oil cloth 11 feet 11½ inches in width. A half inch has simply been dropped from the standard. In 999 cases out of 1,000 oil cloth 11 feet 11½ inches wide is just as good as the oil cloth 12 feet wide. The Government of course is bound to lose a lot of revenue.

"There is absolutely no legal reason, however, why the manufacturers should not take half an inch off a standard width if they can save 12 cents on every yard and 5 per cent. on the value additional. It is possible that some of them may overreach themselves, for very often goods stretch after they are made, and the margin to 12 feet is so small that the slightest stretching would make the goods subject to the higher duty. All that we can do is to watch the goods that comes in and measure them carefully. Where we find they have stretched we will, of course, impose the higher duty.

"This case is not exactly the same as the carbon case, but it recalls that case. Section 98 of the tariff law puts a duty on 'carbons for electric lighting' of 90 cents a hundred. Before the passage of the Dingley law the standard length for carbons for electric lighting was 10 inches. The importers and the manufacturers of carbon saw the possibilities in the carbon schedule, and carbon grew instantly from 10 inches in length to 40 inches. It looked for a time as if the Government would have to take the loss; but Appraiser Wakeman decided that the growth of carbons was surely an evasion of the law, and that a carbon 40 inches long was impracticable for electric lighting; that the intention of the importer was to cut or break them up into four carbons, and so he assessed each 40 inch carbon as four carbons. The Treasury Department sustained the ruling. But with the oil cloth it is different. The law is distinct, and the manufacturers are entitled to every inch of benefit."

"Well, well, well," as the old judge says at the New York baseball grounds, "what a little world it is after all." If a man sneezes in South Africa a manufacturer takes out his handkerchief in the United States. Here is the Kidderminster Shuttle of December 18 saying:

Many manufacturers are just now being pressed with special orders for Christmas. Indeed, the trade is becoming more and more "special" in this respect. Only this week we heard the representative of a well-known local firm calling upon a large upholstering firm in the North for orders. The reply was both complimentary and disappointing. "No, sir; we will not give you a general order for goods to stock. The fact is your firm execute special orders so expeditiously and well that it is quite unnecessary for us to keep heavy stocks," and the traveler came away with an order for a couple of "specials." Manufacturers are therefore required to pay the penalty for their anxiety to meet the varied requirements of their customers.

It's the old story of two pieces of body and one of border.

"There is a heap of difference," said a commercial agency man to a contributor to a New York paper, "between the credit system now and the system of only a few years ago. When I started in business it was the fashion for the out of town merchant to come to the market to make his purchases. He visited the merchant he wanted to buy goods of, and whether he knew him or not, the merchant in five minutes had made up his mind whether he wanted to sell goods to him or not, and just the amount and just the length of credit he wanted to give. In very few cases was there any investigation of a man's record. The merchant simply sized his man up and then acted on his judgment. The system wasn't bad, either, for those days, for it was seldom that a merchant who had had experience in dealing with men made a mistake. You could tell then what a man was after a five minute talk.

"But to-day, good heavens! you talk to a man five minutes and you probably know less about him than you did before you saw him. I mean, of course, in the matter of business standing. The merchant who tried to do business on that plan to-day would be bankrupt in a month if he was worth millions to start with. The man who comes in looking for credit to-day gets just as good a reception as he did in the old days; but after he has given his order and goes away, his record is gone over with a fine tooth comb before he gets a cent's worth of credit. I don't know whether human nature has changed so that it is impossible to tell whether a man is honest now and will keep his word or not, but certain it is that you can't size a man up to-day by talking with him as you used to be able to size him up. More trouble is taken to-day to find out the trustworthiness of a man who wants $100 worth of credit than was taken twenty years ago to look up the trustworthiness of a man who wanted $20,000 worth of credit."

The story elsewhere printed as to the sale of the Fifth Avenue Hotel to Wanamaker may or may not be true. It is worth repeating all the same, on the ben trovato principle. If it isn't true it ought to be, and probably soon will be. For sooner or later the story of the St. Nicholas, the Metropolitan and other famous hostelries will be repeated. Twenty-third street hash will have to yield to Thirty-fourth street croquettes, and the Fifth Avenue Hotel will become the uptown Astor House. If John Wanamaker has not bought the place there are many other merchants in New York who have brains enough to see the advantages of the location, and the buildings which now cover the Metropolitan plant will be cowsheds alongside the great bazaar which will rise on the ruins of Mr. Platt's Sunday School House. Amos R. Eno, we believe, is the owner of the great property, and probably has a keen appreciation of its value. And yet it would not cost any responsible merchant a large outlay of capital to buy it, as every insurance or trust company in America would be glad to loan nearly its cost price with the certainty that it could never be reduced in value.

Of course it is not necessary to say that it would make the ideal retail store of the world.

W. & J. SLOANE.

W. & J. Sloane have every reason to be satisfied with the impression made in the trade by their offerings for the spring season. The new lines of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company are the strongest ever produced in these famous mills, as regards extent, variety and attractiveness. The lines include Savonneries, Axminsters, Gobelins, Moquettes, Velvets and Tapestries in an immense range of new and choice effects. Both light and dark colorings are well represented in the patterns, and the assortment of dark colorings is particularly notable. In Ingrains, the offerings include the full line of Masland & Sons, for whom W. & J. Sloane are sole selling agents. The assortment of patterns is exceptionally extensive in every grade of these noted goods, and the lines of Savon Art Carpets and Fernbrook Art Squares are particularly attractive.

In rugs W. & J. Sloane show a large line of Smith Axminsters, Imperials and Moquettes, and McCleary, Wallin & Crouse's line of Smyrnas, for which they are sole agents.

Their offerings in straw mattings include a great variety of grades and styles of their own importation. In linoleum they show the complete line of the Nairn Linoleum Company, for whom they are sole agents, and these offerings include also a large line of inlaid linoleum. In floor oil cloths they show, as selling agents for R. H. & B. C. Reeve, the complete lines of that firm's popular goods, and in cocoa mattings and mats they show an especially large assortment from their own factories, as they are extensive manufacturers of these goods.

HARTFORD CARPET COMPANY'S NEW SALESROOMS.

The New York salesrooms of the Hartford Carpet Company are now in the Hartford Building, Broadway and Seventeenth street, where handsome and spacious quarters have been secured, as announced in The Review of the 15th ult. In their new location, Reune Martin & Sons will have the best possible facilities for showing the Hartford lines, the salesrooms having a fine north light, and being otherwise perfectly adapted for the showing of goods.

The new lines of the Hartford Company well deserve a handsome setting, for they are the finest as well as the most extensive ever brought out by the company, every grade shown being replete with novel, original and artistic patterns, for the company, having good reason for expecting a great volume of orders for the spring trade, made special preparations accordingly, and the result is a most admirable range of designs and colorings in all the grades produced in its mills. No buyer should fail to call early at the new salesrooms of Reune Martin & Sons.

"Forbidden Fruit" is the text of W. T. Smith & Son's new advertisement in this issue, and the moral of the short address is of great interest to buyers. Don't fail to read it.

S. C. Wilber, selling representative for Darragh & Smail, the cocoa mat and matting manufacturers, will make his usual Western trip this month, starting out shortly.

J. M. Cooney, of The Review staff, who was confined to his house by an attack of typhoid fever for six weeks, has recovered, and will be among the trade as usual this month.

The advertiser who signs his name "Progressive" in our Special Notice column is one of the best equipped men in the carpet trade. Merchants in need of a head for a carpet department need seek no further.

Charles S. Holmes, of the firm of R. C. Haskell & Co., the old established oil cloth manufacturers, of Lansingburg, N. Y., was in town during the holiday week, and paid a pleasant call at The Review office, where he is always a welcome guest.

The fall, including the holiday, trade of Hunter & Whitcomb has surpassed that of all previous seasons. Their sales of Alex. Morton & Sons' Axminster whole carpets and rugs have been very large, and their orders for the year just beginning show an appreciation of the goods by the best buyers that must be gratifying both to the makers and the agents.

Invention.

No. 595,845. Carpet Stretcher and Tacker.—George W. Ansley, Medical Lake, and Charles C. May, Davenport, Wash. Filed June 5, 1897. Issued December 21, 1897.

Claim.—1. In combination with the stretcher recessed as at c on its upper face, the tacker having a spur at its lower end designed to engage with the shouldered end of the said recess, and the link B pivoted at one end to the tacker, its other end pivoted to the stretcher, substantially as shown and described.

2. In combination with the tacker channeled as described and containing the tack receiving receptacle and member D^2 for raising the tacks therefrom, the plate H, the tack feeding disk pivoted thereto, the strip G, the upturned ears g thereon, the hooked rod G' secured to said strip G, the driving rod E, the cross-pins N and F' carried by said rod, all adapted to be operated substantially as shown and described.

No. 596,431. Carpet Cleaner.—William M. Coonradt, Atlanta, Ga. Filed December 22, 1896. Issued December 28, 1897.

It only needs a glance at the advertisement of Arnold, Constable & Co.'s rug department, on page 2 of the cover, to convince an average dealer that a trip to New York will be time and money wasted without a visit to their carpet floor. Things that can bought there can be bought nowhere else, and the absence of competition gives a merchant a chance to make a profit which he would lose if every cheap Jack had in his window the same articles bearing a bargain counter ticket.

THE REEVE PATTERN BOOK.

The linoleum pattern book of the R. H. & B. C. Reeve Company is something every dealer ought to have on hand. It shows thirty-six handsome patterns of linoleum in the exact colors of the cloth, neatly bound and of convenient size. You can get one for the asking.

POPULAR WILTONS AND BRUSSELS.

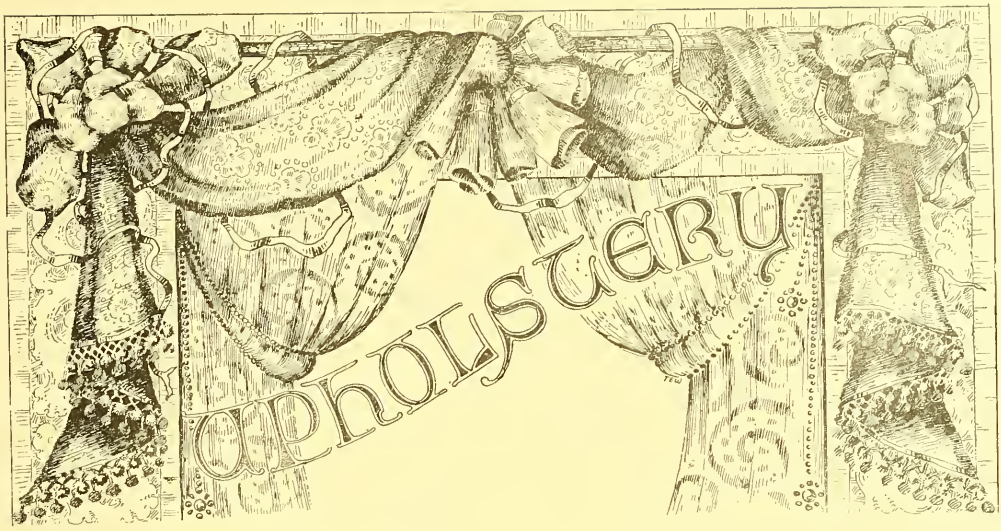
The excellent record made by the Worcester Carpet Company during the past year in the exceptionally steady running of their plant is a good indication of the selling qualities of their Wiltons and Brussels. In fact, the popularity of the Worcester goods has very largely increased during the past few years through the up-to-date methods of Wm. Jas. Hogg & Son and their agents, coupled with the especially attractive designs and colorings. The showing made in the spring styles is of a character to interest every buyer of Wiltons and Brussels, and with a freer distribution of money during 1898 we believe the public will consume more Wiltons and Brussels than heretofore, and we would advise every retailer to cultivate a trade in these fabrics. Visiting buyers can see this handsome line at the salesroom of T. J. Keveney & Co., 898 and 900 Broadway, New York.

"May I print a kiss on your cheek?" I asked.
She nodded her sweet permission.
So we went to press, and I rather guess
I printed a large edition.—Ex.

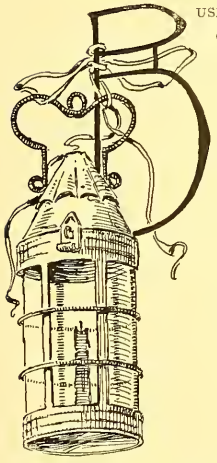
A new rug fastener has been invented and patented by J. L. Kingston, Boston, Mass., the patentee of the Kingston invisible rug fastener, which has been on the market for a few years past. We understand that a company has been formed to manufacture and distribute this new fastener, and the retail carpet trade will be actively canvassed to demonstrate the advisability of handling this very useful device.

The New York Credit Men's Association has sent to many of the business men of the city a circular letter asking them to lend their influence in getting Congress to pass the Torrey bankruptcy bill. The circular asks that those to whom it is addressed write to the Congressmen of their districts asking their aid. It is proposed that all of the letters be mailed on January 7, 1898, so that the simultaneous expression from the merchants and manufacturers of the city shall have a greater effect.

F. B. Bru Baker & Co., as sole selling agents for Thos. Caves & Sons' three-shoot Velvet carpets, have the complete line now on view at their New York salesroom, 706 Hartford Building, and it is one which should be seen by every buyer. The Messrs. Caves are experienced and successful manufacturers, and in this new line of Velvets they have shown their ability to meet completely every demand of the trade. Everyone who has seen the line speaks of it in the highest terms. Mr. Bru Baker is now making a Western trip and booking very satisfactory orders. Mr. Whittaker is receiving the trade at the New York salesroom.



In the Upholstery Market.



BUSINESS in the wholesale upholstery departments has been practically at a standstill during the fortnight, straggling orders for holiday specialties constituting the entire volume of the trade. No floor business has been done except such as was transacted with city and near-by dealers. The travelers are all on the road, but have not yet had an opportunity to give any indication of what the next season will bring forth.

So far as lace curtains are concerned it is safe to say that never before in the history of the trade have so many entirely new departures been made, and buyers will be surprised at some of the new effects. The effort to reproduce in lower grade goods the effect of the costlier article has probably this season reached its limit, and the imitations—it is hardly fair to call some of them imitations—of Renaissance are, leaving out the consideration of the difference between cotton and linen—something remarkable.

And yet, despite the evident efforts the foreign manufacturers have made, we cannot find either among the large importing houses or in the custom house figures any evidence that the incoming purchases have been up to the average of good years.

Judging from the samples it cannot be said that either the French, German or English manufacturers of heavy upholstery goods have at all kept pace with the French or Swiss makers of lace curtains. There are few novelties either in fabric or design that will arouse more than passing comment.

The holiday trade in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago has been very fair in spite of the senseless competition of some department stores.

Domestic makers of lace curtains are well employed. The leading manufacturers of high priced draperies are showing up very strongly against foreign competition, both in fabric, style and coloring.

THE following reappraisements of merchandise have been made by the United States General Appraiser:

16463..... } Flax lace curtains, from M. Dizian, Luxeuil les 4624..... } Baines. September 8, 1897. Rideaux Renaissance, 125x125, entered at 38.80 frs. per pair; and ditto, at 30 frs. per pair, with 10 per cent. commission added. Entered value sustained.

4082 OP..... } Cotton lace curtains, from Carl Ritter, Plauen, July
Philadelphia.. } 20, 1897. 54-inch, 3½-yard lace curtains, No. 2107, entered at 23 marks per pair. No advance. Same, No. 2105, entered at 28 marks per pair. No advance. 54-inch, 4-yard lace curtains, No. 2127, entered at 41 marks per pair. No advance. Similar goods similar prices. Add case and oil cloth.

16669..... .....Flax lace curtains, from M. E. de Puertas, Paris, October 14, 1897. No. 581, Renaissance curtains, 3.20 marks, entered at 21.50, advanced 28.50 frs. per pair. Discount, 5 per cent. Add making up boxes and cases.

DURING the last two weeks of the year the following buyers have been in the market: W. H. Chenery, for B. H. Gladding & Co., Providence; J. S. McAnulty, of Williams & McAnulty, Scranton, Pa.; E. A. Sadd, for the Denholm & McKay Company, Worcester, Mass.; J. P. Johnston, of Johnston & Shurts, New London, Conn; C. L. Kluckholm, for Gordon & Ferguson, St. Paul; D. C. Theall, for Houston & Henderson, Boston; C. E. Bennett, of Bennett, Morgan & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.; Alex.

Dick, of Fowler, Dick & Walker, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; P. T. Watt, of Watt & Shand, Lancaster, Pa.; F. F. Twitchell, of F. F. Twitchell & Co., St. Albans, Vt.; Ralph Sachs, for S. Kann, Sons & Co., Baltimore; H. B. Strong, of Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.; C. S. Sanborn, of Burrows & Sanborn, Lynn, Mass.; F. P. Holtzman, of H. Holtzman & Sons, Columbus, Ohio; C. H. Van Note, of C. H. Van Note & Co., Boston; F. J. Lerch, of the Lerch & Rice Company, Bethlehem, Pa.; Peter Murray, of Smith & Murray, Springfield, Mass.; F. E. Mack, for Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.; H. S. Judkins, for the Joslin Dry Goods Company, Denver.

American women, who have learned a great deal concerning interior arrangement and decoration within a few years, are much interested in the pictures of the various living rooms in Hawarden Castle recently published in a magazine article. A glimpse at the drawing room, whose carpet of immense figures even a photograph shows to disadvantage, the jars of calla lilies, and the tablespread, of gorgeous pattern, betray the fact that there is no artistic spirit of the times in the Gladstone household. When such undesirable and conflicting backgrounds as this table and floor covering are provided for what is really worth showing off the result is like a direct blow to the tasteful, as is also the intermingling of the unattractive in furniture and bric-à-brac with exquisite fine bits. No one was at all surprised when the average English peer showed no artistic taste in his home, but since decoration has everywhere received so much more consideration Gladstone's bedroom, with its clover leaf fringed-topped table and its fuzzy walls, is really becoming quite unusual among the refined and prosperous. The best upholsterers and cabinet makers are now such artists that even the most ignorant householder need not at least have a home that is artistically incorrect, if he will listen to advice.

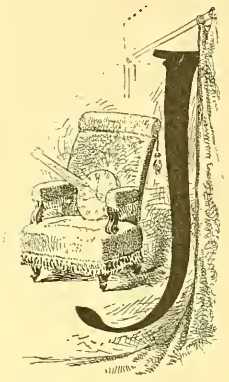
A woman living in Birmingham, England, recently wrote to the mayor of Owen Sound, Ontario, Canada, and addressed the envelope as follows: The Lord Mayor of Ontario, Owen Sound, Canada, U. S. A. Our esteemed contemporary, the Canadian Dry Goods Review, waxes highly indignant over the Englishwoman's mistake, and reads her a severe lecture regarding the astonishing ignorance she displayed in imagining that Ontario was in the United States. But on this side of the border the blunder seems both natural and trivial, to say nothing of the fact that the letter writer may have simply intended to anticipate the manifest destiny of the small fringe of population just north of the United States.

Mrs. Wallabout (sitting in her Brooklyn home, surrounded by rubber plants)—Did you ever know a wealthy Brooklyn manufacturer by the name of Demarest, Mortimer? He must have been a lovely character!

Mr. Wallabout (thoughtfully)—No; I can't say that I ever knew him, Sylvia.

Mrs. Wallabout (ecstatically)—Well, the paper says he has just made a trusted friend superintendant of his rubber plant at a large salary.—Ex.

OLD PHILADELPHIA HOUSE OUT OF BUSINESS.



John J. De Zouche, senior member of the John J. De Zouche Company, Limited, Philadelphia, has retired from business, thus dissolving the firm. For the past forty years the name of the retiring firm has always been identified with the housefurnishing and decorative business, and has been a familiar name to the Chestnut street trade. The original firm name was Kelty, Carrington & Co., and it first started at 723 Chestnut street, in 1858. The stock carried at that time comprised furniture and upholstery goods, draperies, &c. They remained in that locality until 1868, gradually increasing their trade, and going more and more into the higher grades of furniture, when they removed to the southeast corner of Thirteenth and Chestnut streets. At this location and in the year mentioned Mr. De Zouche bought out the old firm of Kelty, Carrington & Co., and continued the business under the new firm title of Carrington, De Zouche & Co. Subsequently that firm was dissolved by the death of Mr. Carrington, the firm then becoming John J De Zouche & Co. Some nine years ago Mr. De Zouche admitted into partnership with himself three of his salesmen, F. M. Campbell, George Walker and George Duncan, under the title of the John J. De Zouche Company, Limited, which now is dissolved by the retirement of the founder of the house.

The retiring firm, under all its various names and administrations, has always occupied a conspicuous position in the trade as connected with household furnishing and decorating, and the house may be considered as having been the home of art and elegance, more especially after its removal to 1517 Chestnut street.

Mr. De Zouche retires with a competency. He may be found hereafter at his office, 1606 Chestnut street.

Gimbel Brothers have bought the company's entire stock and will remove it to their store at Ninth and Market streets.

Happy New Year!

Ryan & McGahan have removed their lace curtain and portière salesrooms to 85 Leonard street.

The Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company, Rochester, N.Y., has opened a New York office at 454 Broadway.

Voss & Stern, dealers in laces, curtains, &c., have removed from 446 and 448 to 478 to 482 Broadway.

Titus Blatter & Co. will remove shortly to the new building on the corner of Broadway and Nineteenth street.

McGibbon & Co. are to remove to the new building just approaching completion at the corner of Broadway and Nineteenth street.

T. J. Sweeney, formerly with R. H. White & Co., Boston, to-day takes charge of the New York office of C. F. Hovey & Co., 34 Greene street.

Louis Stern, of Stern Brothers, Twenty-third street, West, has been chosen by the nominating committee of the Republican Club for second vice-president of that organization.

The partnership of Rieser & Co., the lace curtain manufacturers and importers, has been dissolved, Marcus Kohnar retiring from the firm. Henry J. Rieser will continue the business, removing to new quarters on February 1.

Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C., and Wm. Donaldson & Co., Minneapolis, who have for five years had a joint purchasing agency, have joined the Syndicate Trading Company, and after to-day will have their city offices at 2 Walker street, corner of West Broadway.

A deputy sheriff has taken charge of the stores of Adolph Neuhorn, dealer in picture frames, window shades, &c., at No. 666 Columbus avenue, and trunk and fancy goods at No. 763 Eighth avenue, on executions in favor of Jennie Neuhorn for $1,676, and Hannah Neuhorn for $786. He has been in business since 1876 at No. 763 Eighth avenue, and opened the Columbus avenue store last summer. He carried a stock of $5,000.

Jay H. Solomon retired yesterday from the firm of B. L. Solomon's Sons, and the business will be carried on by Sol. and Simeon Solomon under the old style. They will remove about January 15 to the new building on the corner of Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street.

F. M. Van Blaricom shows at his salesroom, 415 Broadway, a big assortment of new and desirable styles in ruffled curtains, tamboured muslins and Irish point novelties, tapestry curtains, piece goods, &c. Mr. Van Blaricom is in a position to interest every buyer of such goods.

The new styles being brought out by Pratt, Hurst & Co., Nottingham, are the result of the suggestions furnished by Mr. Robt. Martin, manager of the firm's American salesroom at 274 Church street. Mr. Martin spent November in Nottingham at the firm's factory, and the trade may expect to find some very handsome novelties in the lines now on display at the New York salesroom.

By an order of the Supreme Court on December 6 Wilber McBride was appointed referee in the matter of the final accounting of Emmet Edgerton, assignee of the estate of Hiram C. Kroh, trading as H. C. Kroh & Co. The referee notified all persons having claims against H. C. Kroh to present the same on or before January 6 at his office, No. 15 Wall street, when, at 11 A. M., the final hearing will be held.

Among the recent subscriptions to the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association were the following: Mrs. W. D. Sloane, $250; H. B. Claflin Company, $200; William Iselin & Co., $100; Clarence Whitman & Co., $100; Smith, Hogg & Gardner, $100; Barbour Brothers Company, $100; F. Vietor & Achelis, $100; Oelbermann, Dommerich & Co., $100; Passavant & Co., $100; Cheney Brothers, $100; C. A. Aufmordt & Co., $50; Creighton &

Burch, $50; Abegg & Rusch, $50; Fleitmann & Co., $50, and Wilmerding, Morris & Mitchell, $25.

Hunninghaus & Lindemann will remove this month from 510 Broadway to more spacious quarters in the building 79 Walker street, which is now being improved and refitted for them. They have leased the entire building with the exception of one floor, and in the new quarters will secure much better light and air, as well as more room than in their Broadway store. In this connection it may be mentioned that they will have two floors, each 35x100 feet, to rent. Until their removal they will continue to show at their Broadway headquarters their new lines of window shades and shade cloths, including Diamond opaques, hollands, window shade laces, &c.

Ryan & McGahan, agents for Hood, Morton & Co., Glasgow, and the Globe Tapestry Mills, have removed from 57 to 85 Leonard street. They have an entire, finely lighted loft at the latter address, with good elevator service, and in all respects have obtained a number of advantages in the move, one being that the new salesroom is only a few doors from Broadway. Mr. McGahan is out on a spring trip and obtaining his share of trade, as usual. Mr. Ryan keeps active in visiting the larger Eastern cities and giving time to the salesroom also.

In connection with all these stories of large improvements on the part of great retail merchants in New York, it should be remembered that James McCreery has for years owned all the property between his present location and Sixth aveuue. He bought long ago, if we are not mistaken, the old Booth Theatre from L. M. Bates. No matter what happens James McCreery can have a place which will be second to none in the world. Just here it may be well to recall the fact that in apparently reckless expense of space in the way of aisles, &c., no merchant in New York shows anything like the liberality of James McCreery.

Creighton & Burch, selling agents for the Scranton Lace Curtain Company, have on view at their store, 10 and 12 Thomas street, New York, the full line of the company's lace curtains and curtain nets, as prepared for the spring trade. All the curtains in the line from six points up are made with the overlock stitch, and the offerings include every grade from the cheapest to the finest. The line of nets has proved a great success, and the company's offerings altogether are the most important they have ever made, being twice as large as those of the previous season, while every pattern in the line is entirely new.

A. Naumann is succeeded by the A. Naumann-Pulfrich Company, which will conduct the business at 458 Broadway. Ernest Pulfrich, who joins Mr. Naumann, has been engaged in the silk and velvet importing business, and is widely and favorably known, while Mr. Naumann has no superior in knowledge of the lace curtain business and taste in the selection of goods. The new firm has ample capital, and starts under very favorable auspices.

The new Naumann–Pulfrich Company will carry a stock of every kind of lace curtain, from the low price machine made Nottingham or American to the finest hand made real laces. They will also have a strong line of bed sets, tidies, nets and yard goods of all kinds, and conduct a general lace curtain business on an extensive scale, with every resource for attracting trade and purchasing stock. John S. O'Connor, late with Emden, Gerstle & Co., will cover the Western territory; Mr. Naumann will visit some of the larger Eastern cities; J. R. Cook will attend to New York city trade, and Mr. Pulfrich will also call on some city houses. The new company is ready to meet buyers with the latest styles for spring.

LEADING LINE OF LACE CURTAINS, NETS AND YARD GOODS.

J. A. Brittain & Co. are displaying the largest and most novel line of lace curtains, nets and yard goods ever offered by them. The goods comprise the Nottingham and American products of T. I. Birkin & Co. and the Swiss productions of Sturzenegger & Tanner.

Brittain & Co. have been the American agents of Sturzenegger & Tanner for several years past.

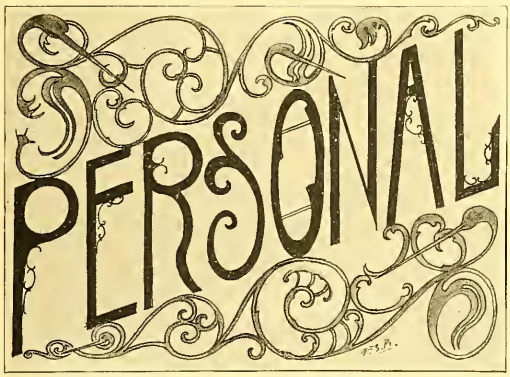
They assumed the agency of Birkin & Co.'s line a year ago, and the styles presented for the spring trade in the Birkin goods are the result of a direct knowledge of what the trade want, coupled with the highest skill in original designing. The novelties are just as numerons and striking in the nets and yard goods as in the whole curtains, and buyers so far have found it almost obligatory to order curtains, nets and yard goods without partiality, so strongly does the whole assortment appeal to a judicious taste. These especially handsome goods are on view at the salesroom, 438 Broadway, New York, and at the branch offices in Chicago and San Francisco, and the travelers are now on the road with the complete lines.

On December 17 fire started in the picker room of F. Burkhart & Co.'s hair and moss works, at Lano and Benedict streets, St. Louis, and the contents of the building were badly damaged. Insurance, $26,200.

H. H. Sturtevant & Co., Zanesville, Ohio, opened the holiday season on December 10 with a military band, two orchestras and a topical song. The latter, which was a duet, set forth the advantages of buying at Sturtevant & Co's.

The Mermod & Jaccard Building, at Locust street and Broadway, St. Louis, was gutted by fire on December 19. Among the tenants of the building were a number of agents for Eastern upholstery and carpet houses, among them Charles C. Perry & Co.

The exports of tapestry, damasks, &c., from the consular district of Bradford, England, for the month of November, amounted in value to £66. The exports of hair cloth during the same month were valued at £89, as against £2,174 during November, 1896.



Bailey.—George Bailey, the poet of the portiere and the persecutor of Downey, left last week on his trip for George E. Lackey, the agent of the Bromley Manufacturing Company. Both the man and the line are good.

Baldwin.—Richard Baldwin, of R. H. Wilson & Co., reached home on the day after Christmas from an extended business trip in Europe.

Barnes.—C. Hervey Barnes, the New York agent of Barnes & Beyer, will show the goods of the concern to the customers of the house in New York State and Pennsylvania during the coming season. Mr. Barnes has not been on the road for some time, but his old friends will doubtless extend him a hearty welcome.

Cook.—J. R. Cook, with A. Naumann, 458 Broadway, New York, will remain with the newly organized concern, the Naumann-Pulfrich Company. Mr. Cook will look after the city and nearby trade.

Dibble.—The changes in the selling force of Barnes & Beyer, by which W. J. Pingston will make the Western trip, while C. Hervey Barnes covers Mr. Pingston's old territory, have resulted in the addition to the staff of John W. Dibble, who will hereafter care for the floor and city trade of the firm. Mr. Dibble continues to handle the accounts he now has.

Fletcher.—Frank N. Fletcher, of W. H. Fletcher & Co., is due to-day on the steamer Paris from his European trip for his firm.

Fletcher.—E. B. Fletcher, of W. H. Fletcher & Co., is spending the winter on the tablelands of Tennessee, just over the mountains from Asheville, N. C.

Heiss.—In spite of snowslides, blizzards and all sorts of obstructions, the mails from the far West have kept Geo. E. Lackey informed that Harvey W. Heiss had not abandoned his ton of trunks to start for the Klondike.

Hitchcock.—The country seat of Welcome G. Hitchcock, of W. G. Hitchcock & Co., at Scarsdale, N. Y., was bought on December 14 by Trainor L. Parks. It includes 200 acres of fine land.

McGahan.—Geo. B. McGahan, of Ryan & McGahan, 85 Leonard street, New York, is sending in some very fine orders from the West. Mr. McGahan has representative lines and knows how to show them.

Meek.—W. R. Meek, who formerly represented the Domestic Tapestry Company in Chicago, and also Stern Brothers' wholesale upholstery department, is now with Lawson Brothers.

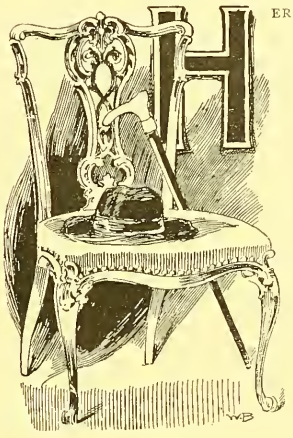
O'Connor.—John S. O'Connor, recently with Emden, Gerstlè & Co., will hereafter cover his old Western territory for the Naumann-Pulfrich Company.

Pingston.—W. J. Pingston started on New Year's Eve for Barnes & Beyer, over untried fields. When he comes back he will be looking for new worlds to conquer.

Raymond—Cartwright.—Frank Raymond, who has had charge of the white goods department, which formerly included the lace curtain stock, of the H. B. Claflin Company for fifteen years, is succeeded by George V. Cartwright, of Lazonby & Cartwright.

Stern.—While the Christmas shopping was at its height on the afternoon of December 18, the shutters of Stern Brothers' big stores on Twenty-third street were suddenly closed and all sales stopped. Customers crowded around the desks to inquire the cause, and were informed that Herbert, the eight year old son of Louis Stern, had died at 3 o'clock at the family apartments in the Savoy Hotel.

A BOSTON CHANGE.



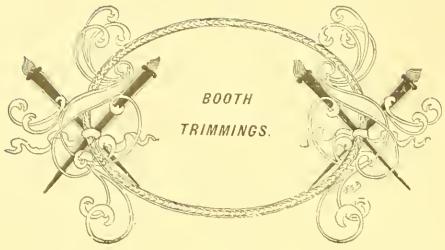
Hereafter Charles F. Bacon will have charge not only of the carpet and rug departments, but also of the upholstery and furniture departments in the dry goods establishment of R. H. White & Co. Mr. G. F. Carter, who has been in control of the upholstery department, retires. The position of buyer for the upholstery department will be assumed by Mr. C. J. Unmack, and he is said to be specially fitted for the place. Mr. Unmack came to this country from Australia, where his father was Postmaster-General and Commissioner of Railroads. He has been successively with the D. M. Read Company, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Liebmann Brothers and Frederick Loeser & Co., and for five years with Journeay & Burnham, of Brooklyn, as buyer of upholstery goods and fine draperies. The furniture buyer will be Mr. F. G. Toomey, heretofore with this firm, and advanced on merit.

Mr. Bacon says that the idea is to make these various departments a unit of interest, and better fitted to handle the firm's increasing high-class trade. The stocks in each line will be made to correspond, so that orders can be filled harmoniously. The success which has marked Mr. Bacon's management of the carpet and rug business is a guarantee that the change which enlarges his powers will work advantageously. He is a man of wide experience, and of quick and sound judgment.

According to the Frankfurter Zeitung, the exportation of Voightland laces and curtains to the United States will not be diminished by the Dingley tariff.

The firm of Emden, Gerstlè & Co. expired last night. It is reported that G. Emden will continue. Mr. Emden has a very favorable connections abroad, his father being a large manufacturer at St. Gall.

James T. Hall, president of the James T. Hall Company, 131 and 133 West Thirteenth street, New York, has disappeared, and no trace of his whereabouts have been discovered. His associates in business say that his accounts with the company are somewhat mixed, but that the concern will not be seriously crippled by any deficiency.



Manufacturers of coarse draperies have had a brisk run upon them for goods suitable for trimming department booths in bicycle repair and sales stores. The idea is shown in Figure 1. It has become quite the fashion for hardware, sewing machine, drug and other stores to put in a side line of bicycles, and instead of the ordinary rail arrangement for holding these wheels a booth is put up. This booth can be made attractive with the proper draping. The preference appears to be chiefly for curtains woven from coarse numbers of jute yarns. These yarns take a good color, and when woven into neat patterns make a curtain that is particularly useful for draping department booths. Being coarse and strong they are not easily torn by coming into contact with wheels. They can be washed when soiled.

As to the weaving, the styles should generally be neat. The majority of the business is done in dark colors, the lighter colors soiling too readily. The darkest shades of tan are very desirable, as are also very dark olives and very dark blue mixes. The exact number of ends in a warp in any of these goods depends of course upon the number of ends in a pattern and the number of patterns in a warp, and upon the number of ends in the warp will depend the size or number of reeds to use so as to get the required weight. But, as a rule, the goods may be woven closer than wool or part wool yarns, and if washed in a knocker mill the texture will close up enough to make a durable fabric. The drawing is of a home-made mill for this purpose. The knocker B is worked by cranks, with one-half and one-fourth sweep, working in the centre of arms up and down on a slide. The goods to be treated are placed at E. A countershaft with eccentrics, D, attached to it furnishes the power. Attached to the eccentrics are two straight arms, which are connected to the knocker as shown. The knocker is held up in the centre of the support C by a strong iron pin 2 inches in diameter: these supports are placed in the centre, on the sides of the mill, and are operated upon by being pushed up the incline each turn of the machine. They fall back of their own weight.

Fig. 3 shows some designs for this line of drapery. The colors include red, brown, medium blue, dark blue, black and plum. The weaves are chiefly twills and heavy diagonals. Black for checking in jute texture of this description can be obtained with 1 to 1½ per cent of color. The instructions for dyeing are as follows: Enter the jute direct in a boiling hot bath containing the dissolved color, and work well three-quarters of an hour, during which time the bath will steadily cool. The best results are obtained if the jute is dipped in boiling hot water before dyeing.

The dark green shade is dyed as follows for 100 pounds of yarn: Prepare a bath containing 10 per cent. Glauber's salt, 3 per cent. oil vitriol and 2 per cent. green. Cool bath to 160 degrees Fahr., enter yarn, give five or six turns, raise temperature and boil to shade, turning yarn meanwhile; wash and dry.

Tan brown prepare with 6 pounds chrome, 3 pounds red tartar. Finish with 200 pounds chip fustic, 40 pounds canwood, 14 pounds madder. Boil wool two hours, then sadden with 1¾ pounds bluestone, and boil one-half hour longer.

Design 1 is a common stripe effect, checked off with cross lines. No. 2 is a crossed alternate check, and 3 a double stripe with floated spots between the stripes. No. 4 is of the same character, while 5 is a plain pattern of the plaid order. Nos. 6, 7 and 8 are suggestions for designs specially arranged for this class of drapery.

In finishing, cold water agrees better with the colors then hot water, since it does not cause the colors to run so much. Working in hot liquors has a great effect in causing colors to run. A curd or tallow soap, not being readily soluble in cold water, needs to be used in hot liquors, and hot rinsing waters are required, and it will be found that hot rinsing water has a greater "bleeding" effect on the colors than hot soap liquors have and much more than cold rinsing waters. So on this account it will be found best to use an oil soap in the washing of the goods. Next follows drying, pressing and the goods are ready for the market.

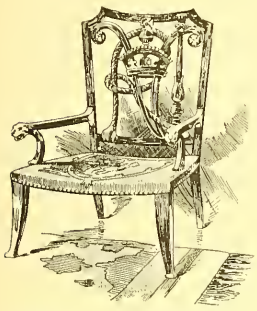
IN UPHOLSTERY CIRCLES.

Little bookstands or convenient tables for almost any use are to be had in the shops where enamel is sold which may be finished in almost any college color desired. One seen was in the double colors of Princeton, the orange and black, showing half for each side of the table. By its side stood one in Yale blue, and not far away was the Harvard crimson. The variety which these colors now come in make it possible to have them match almost any furnishing desired. Low 5 o'clock tea tables, with double leaves, are liked by college girls, finished in the color, not of their own alma mater, but of the especial college for the other sex which they elect to honor.

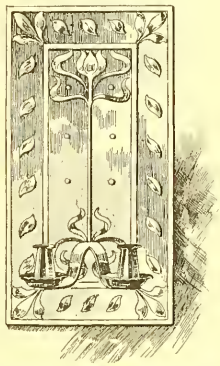


JUBILEE CHAIR EXHIBITED IN WOMEN'S SECTION, VICTORIAN ERA EXHIBITION, LONDON.

A pretty gift for an invalid, whose range of gifts is apt to grow very narrow in proportion to the length of her invalidism, is a foot cushion or pillow hassock. A square hair or closely stuffed feather cushion is lined on the under side with imitation leather. This is best for wearing purposes, and also because it slips easily along the floor. For the upper side one of the velour squares seen in every upholstery shop is admirable and durable, or, if greater showiness is desired, a piece of brocade is exceedingly elegant for the purpose. If the velour is used the cushion should be covered first with a soft China or India silk of some rich harmonizing color. This is put on to puff slightly at the sides, and over it is stretched, diamond shape, a square of velour or brocade velvet or what ever is desired. Heavy bullion cord in a trefoil pattern should finish the corners or colored tassels may be used.

The art silks for the various uses of fancy work, including scarf draperies and sofa cushions, are vying in beauty this season with costly hand work in the shape of elaborate embroideries. A sofa cushion made up of silk of a pale art green tint, powdered with brown thistles, was as exquisitely realistic as though they had been wrought in relief work. Some other patterns seen were one of apple green silk, covered with cherry blossoms, and a rich one of a café au lait ground, upon which were strewn in lavish profusion perky bunches of the stiff little spikes of wintergreen leaves, with the bright red beads of berries that betoken their ripening.

The way in which a cheerful effect was killed and a dull one produced, or vice versa, was noticed in the refurnishing of a clubroom recently. It had been done in red and white, and though the decorations were neither new nor specially artistic the colors were so good that the room had come to be known as the most attractive in the building—a large public one. Some so-called art decorators, however, got at it recently and hung the walls in a silk tapestry. Above the molding, which ended a little below the ceiling, was a good plain, creamy tint that melted into the top wall without any line of demarcation. Even this dome, however, could not save the room, and when the club, after having been banished from the apartments for one or two meetings, reassembled, the real distress of its members was positively amusing. Dull, common, absolutely without welcome or effect had the room become, and that particular club is contemplating the rash extravagance of a prompt redecoration at its own expense of a room that has just been subjected to a costly overhauling. Nothing is more risky than to choose hangings ignorantly. Cost and fashion have little to do with the real effect. It is the artistic idea that is needed, and this may be had in paper at 10 cents a roll as easily as in tapestry at $5.



SCONCE. REPOUSSE WORK ON COPPER. VICTORIAN ERA EXHIBITION.

The decoration of furniture and fancy articles of wood by the process of burning is getting to be one of the fine arts. It is astonishing to see what delicacy of shading may be accomplished by the process, and how accurately the fine detail in designs of all sizes is filled in. Some examples of this kind of work are on exhibition in the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art at Broad and Pine streets, Philadelphia, where the process is being taught to numerous scholars. The art of decorating wood by burning is known as "Pyrography," and the instrument used is prepared especially for this purpose, and is decidedly ingenious. The pencil—if it may be called such—is attached to a rubber bulb, which in turn is affixed to a small hose, suspended from the end of which is a smaller bulb containing naphtha. By pressure upon the larger bulb the naphtha is ignited, and the heat forced into the pencil, which is of metal. The heat is regulated by the same process as that which produces the igniting of the naphtha; the greater the pressure the darker the mark, or vice versa.

In the first conception of the art of pyrography the implement used was simply an iron rod sharp at the point, and heated by placing it in an ordinary coal fire. The shading was done as the "poker" cooled. The first productions were portraits of well-known public men, and were called "poker sketches." Ball Hughes, a popular sculptor residing in Boston many years ago, was one of the first to produce the "poker sketches," and some examples of his work are still on exhibition in that city, notably a striking portrait of John C. Fremont, then prominent as a candidate for the Presidency.

MORTUARY RECORD OF 1897.

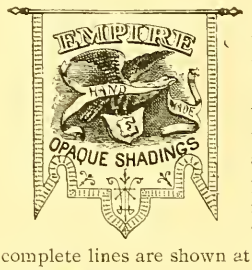
THE JAY C. WEMPLE COMPANY.

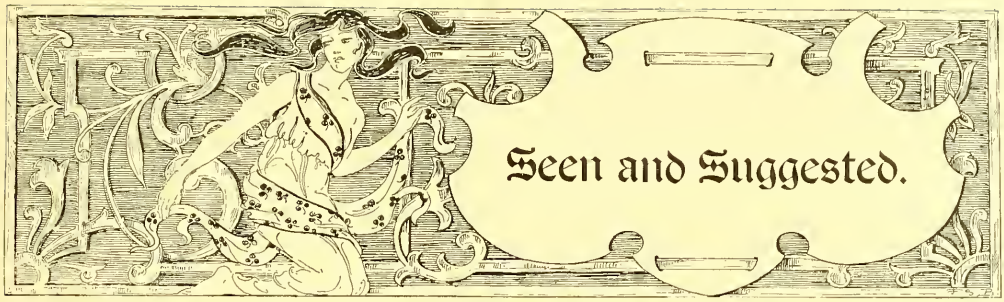
The famous Empire window shades and shade rollers, manufactured by the Jay C. Wemple Company are always an especially conspicuous feature in the offerings of every trade season, and there is every indication that the spring demand for these goods will exceed all the previous output of this manufacturer. The trade have learned that the Empire brands are always kept up to the standard under any condition of prices, and this feature of the company's policy is being more and more appreciated by the trade. The Jay C. Wemple Company's complete lines are shown at the headquarters, 537 and 539 Broadway, and at the Chicago salesroom, 255 and 257 Wabash avenue.



Fire broke out in the upholstery department of Graham & McIntosh's store at Portsmouth, N. H., on December 18, resulting in a loss of about $500 on stock.

The John Thompson Company, a Brooklyn, N. Y., corporation engaged in the manufacture of upholstered furniture, has begun proceedings in the Supreme Court for a voluntary dissolution on the ground that the stockholders think they can do business more economically as a partnership. The company is capitalized for $40,000. Its assets are $92,733.01, and its liabilities $30,658. The stock is held by Arthur Thompson, Arthur Appleton, Thomas Thompson, William and John Thompson.

The Golden Rule Dry Goods Store, Danville, Ill., owned by A. W. Heinley and Herman Schmidt, was destroyed by fire on December 21. The stock was valued at $80,000, none of which was saved. The building, valued at $15,000, was owned by John Gernand. The fire caught in a front window, which was heavily lined with cotton to represent a Christmas scene. The dry goods store occupied the three stories of the building. Every floor was thickly draped with lace curtains and other light goods, and three minutes after the fire started the whole store was ablaze. Several of the clerks in the upper stories jumped out of the windows. One of them, Miss Mary Reed, was overcome with fright and rushed into the flames, but was rescued. There was no insurance on the building. On the stock there was $28,000 insurance.



Over-curtains of heavy tapestry or damask are not now so much seen in the average home as used to be the case. Such heavy hangings are left for portières in doorways. In a paper read before the Household Economic Association recently the writer of it spoke of a visit to the home of a clubwoman. It was one of the houses in a block with windows only back and front. Heavy holland shades, inside blinds, sash curtains, a pair of dark green sunlight shades and, finally, lace curtains topped with heavy damask hangings fell over the windows of most of the rooms With gas and furnace heat it may be imagined that sunlight and fresh air were at a premium in that house. The hostess had three children, and as she did not like them to play in the streets they were usually, except for periodical little walks, kept in the house.

There is nothing to equal tapestry panels for the clothing of the naked walls of large buildings, and that they are by no means out of place, even in a church, may be judged by anyone who has had the opportunity of visiting Rheims Cathedral. The soft, mellow tints of the tapestry give a general sensation of warmth to the walls of the vast building that compares pleasantly with the chill that so often seizes the visitor from the outside world. The church of Rheims is so rich in these tapestry panels that many a one is rolled up and stored on a shelf in the crypt, possibly owing to want of space in which to display them. It is sad to see them there, a prey to moth and dust, and exhibiting jags and tatters at the edges, a temptation to every passing tourist who has a fancy for such souvenirs.

It is this tendency to attract the moths that has always proved a disadvantage to the use of tapestry in halls and corridors of large private houses, where the staff of servants is not so ample as to allow them to spend the time necessary in shaking and cleansing the hangings with the frequency they require. Many attempts have been made of late years to reintroduce painted tapestry, which, being executed upon a non-woolen background, is not liable in so great a degree to the attacks of insects.

A new use has been found for the camel's-hair shawls once so highly prized by ladies as a wearing apparel. An uptown retail house is now advertising these and India shawls as furniture coverings to be used in fitting up cozy corners and smoking dens after the style of Oriental smoking rooms. The once famous antique India and cashmere long shawls are seldom heard of now, these goods at one time being almost universally worn by ladies of fashion, but gradually they sank into disuse until they disappeared from the market entirely. One uptown house advertised recently a sale of India shawls at from $20 to $50 each that were at one time worth $200 and upward, and to-day there are jobbers who have carried these shawls from season to season that would be glad to dispose of them at a price that would show an even greater reduction on a parity with their cost than is shown in the foregoing sale. Should they meet with favor for drapery and upholstery purposes these jobbers would not be slow to take advantage of this, and no doubt there are many of these shawls that have been laid away carefully for years that would again make their appearances to fill a new line of usefulness.

Of the making of sofa cushions there is no cessation. Their construction, oddly enough, lends itself not only in cover, but also in contents, to sentiment, or, in happily rare instances, to sentimentality. The former is catered to by the girls who have cut their old love letters into filling for a pillow. This is quite possible, and a very good result, as far as comfort goes, is attained if the paper is snipped into bits no larger than a cent. The height of vulgar romance is surely reached in the case, imitated under similar circumstances, in a province of a Bavarian prince His regiment presented his first child with a crib cushion. This was stuffed with the mustaches of the troop, shaved as a votive offering to their chief.

WICKE
WIT

Nothing is prettier for the bedroom of the young daughter of the household than a pair of white rugs made from the spotless and fluffy fleece of the Iceland sheep. One is put down before the brass bedstead and the other stretches in front of the low, oval dressing table of white maple or satin wood, which is so particularly appropriate to this maiden room. A lovely fresco seen in such a room lately was the repetition all around the walls of Aurora's chariot rolling in on the pink morning's clouds, attended by the daughters of the dawn. Watteau hangings and a carpet strewn with wild roses were some of the fitments of the apartment.

FROM 57 TO 85.

Ryan & McGahan have removed from 57 to 85 Leonard street, New York (one door west of Broadway), where they occupy large and spacious quarters. The new salesrooms are well lighted, and most conveniently arranged with the modern equipment for displaying their lines with dispatch. They are sole agents for the Globe Tapestry Company of Philadelphia, and are showing a superb line of tapestry curtains, couch covers, table covers and piece goods—in numerous and attractive reversible effects—which will interest buyers of these goods. The new line of Nottingham curtains for '98 is full of novelties, which find ready appreciation by the trade. These goods are made by Hood, Morton & Co., of New Milns, Scotland, for whom Messrs. Ryan & McGahan are sole agents. Buyers should not fail to look over the curtain line before making their selections. See advertisement on page 86.

"Actions of the last age," said Sir John Denham, "are like almanacs of last year." In wishing our upholstery readers a prosperous and happy New Year we venture to remark that they will not be up to date in '98 if they rely upon last year's laurels.

Attention is invited to the Royal Art Lace Insertions and the fringes of the Columbia Shade Cloth Company. Some very attractive illustrations are shown in their advertisement in this issue. Their catalogue is interesting, and the price list more so.

The Perfect Curtain Roller and Novelty Company, recently incorporated with a capital stock of $100,000, will locate at Fairport, Ohio. It is stated that a new building will be erected at once, and equipped with new machinery at a cost of $25,000.

The new office of Geo. Brooks & Son in the Stephen Girard Building on Twelfth street, between Market and Chestnut, Philadelphia, is specially well adapted for showing their lines, and the location is a great improvement over the old quarters in the Bourse.

The Josephs & Frank Company, manufacturers of drapery fabrics, Philadelphia, dissolve on January 1. G. Josephs retains the plant at Second street and Columbia avenue. It is understood that L. W. Frank will associate himself with his brother Edgar, and start a new drapery and upholstery plant.

Neuburger, Heine & Co.'s lines for spring are along advance over anything they have yet offered the lace curtain trade. Everything that is new is not good, and everything that is good is not new, but Mr. Dolder's department contains all the new things that are good, and all the old things that are good enough to repeat.

W. H. Fletcher & Co. are showing some extensive novelties in lace curtains, and are justly proud of their spring lines. Among the new things are a Nottingham net foundation, with French borders and insertions, and chiffle and Renaissance embroidery. Another is a tamboured curtain on heavy net with corded work in relief. The Marquise curtain is a combination of Irish point and Brussels work in Dresden designs. An Arabian Brussels will also attract attention.

THE HENSEL SILK MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

The Hensel Silk Company's new lines of rope portières and upholstery trimmings are shown at the Philadelphia salesroom, 639, 641 and 643 North Broad street, at 76 Chauncy street, Boston; 147 Fifth avenue, Chicago; the Phelan Building, San Francisco, and at the New York office, 458 Broadway, where D. Robb Stirratt is in charge. The rope portières made by this company are finding a wide demand throughout the country, forming a most attractive, quick selling specialty for every upholstery department.

B. L. Solomon's Sons are in the field for the spring trade with lines of upholstery and curtain fabrics more extensive than ever before. Every grade shown is replete with new, original and artistic styles, and in our next issue we shall give further and very interesting details regarding some of the notable novelties and specialties which the Messrs. Solomon have ready for the inspection of buyers.

Daniel H. Sunderland has sued Charles T. Bagby, formerly of the firm of Bagby & Rivers, Baltimore, for an accounting. Sunderland says that from October 1, 1895, to September 30, 1896, he was employed by the firm as foreman at a fixed salary and a percentage of the profits. He says that during that time the firm made net profits of $20,000, yet he was not paid. The concern is now a corporation.

Rosenthal & Brownlie, 458 Broadway, New York, and 147 Fifth avenue, Chicago, are sole selling agents for the Saranac Mills tapestry curtains, table and couch covers, and furniture fabrics; Hyndman & Moore's novelty Derby curtains, chenille curtains and covers, and the Matred Mills Oriental curtains and fabrics, and are in a position to strongly interest buyers of such goods. Rosenthal & Brownlie are also sole Western selling agents for the Hensel Silk Manufacturing Company's upholstery and drapery trimmings, rope portières, &c.

The Moss Rose Manufacturing Company's new lines of tapestry curtains are the most extensive, as well as the most attractive they have ever shown, the assortment including both popular and high grade effects. In Bagdad portières the offerings include some very handsome embroidered effects, and a large number of other novelties and specialties in solid cornered brocades, appliqued border and corner effects, &c., will well repay inspection, as will also the company's new lines of table covers and piece goods.

Richardson & Perkins recently commenced the manufacture of lace curtains at 30 Kingston street, Boston. They produce ruffled and net curtains, and also hand made Renaissance, Cluny and Arabian curtains. H. Richardson was formerly of the firm of Richardson, Howe & Lovejoy, of Boston, and F. A. Perkins has been resident New England representative of W. H. Fletcher & Co. for the past five years. Mr. Richardson will attend to the office affairs and Mr. Perkins will look after the manufacturing and selling department.

THE GOBELINS TAPESTRY FACTORY.

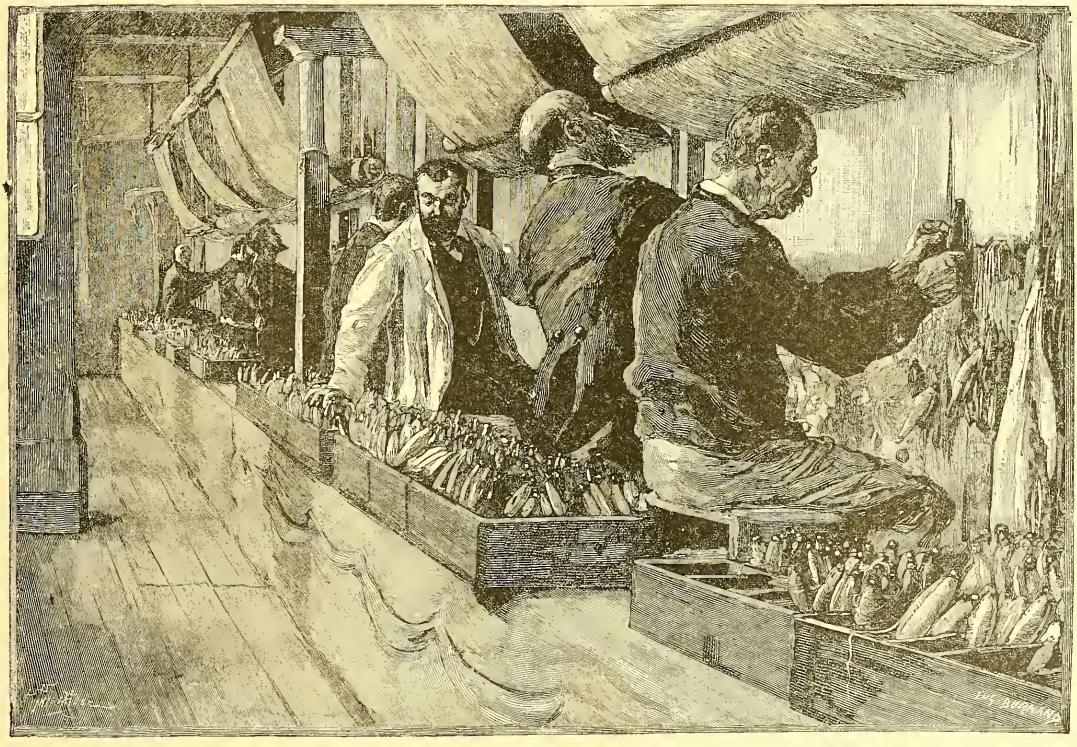
The director of the Gobelins tapestry factory, who is, of course, appointed by the French Government, is a great believer in the importance of environment. Accordingly, in order to encourage his work-people, he has lined the great rooms where stand the looms with exquisite specimens of both old and new tapestry, including the famous "Venus at the Forge of Vulcan" a loom picture which is even more beautiful than the original painting by Boucher.

There is quite as much art as craft about tapestry weaving, and each member of the Gobelins staff is apprenticed for two years, but is not considered a really first-rate weaver till many more years have gone by. In old days the best workers were always given the pleasantest sort of work to do; that is to say, to them fell the lot of copying the faces and the figures of the original design. All the accessories—ornaments, draperies, trees and landscapes—were left to inferior hands. Now, however, every weaver is obliged to know something of drawing.

There is an excellent art school attached to the factory, and each apprentice is compelled to pass a very strict examination before he is allowed to undertake any of the finer portions of the work. In the school the pupils study from antiques and from life models. A specialty is also made of flower painting. More than one Gobelins weaver has attained fame as an artist, and many of them turn out good paintings in their leisure hours.

Even after five or six years spent at the Gobelins the young weavers receive only £50 a year, £120 being given to those who are what is called artist weavers, and £160 to £220 to the foremen weavers.

Owing to the fact that the weaver has to deal with a dry material which does not admit of glaze or of any of the resources of the art from which he is in most cases copying, he cannot, like the painter, judge of the general effect, nor modify his work according to the requirements of that effect. In old days every color used in tapestry had its own signification: white embodied purity; red, charity; green, contemplation; black, mortification of the flesh, and purple, tribulation.



WEAVERS AT WORK IN THE GOBELINS' TAPESTRY FACTORY AT PARIS.

The dyeing department owes much to the famous centenarian savant, Chevreul; he made many valuable experiments in coloring Seven enormous boilers contain, when necessary, the dyeing liquids, for often as many as thirty different tones of the same color are used on one piece of work.

Of course the whole object of a tapestry dye is permanence, for should one tint fade or alter in the slightest degree, the whole scheme of coloring is thrown out. Curiously enough, red, yellow and indigo form the basis of nearly every color employed in tapestry; but the indigo blue is not wholly satisfactory, and any chemist who could invent a lasting and perfect blue dye, applicable to wools and to silks, would make an enormous fortune and render a great service to art.

Women are only employed in one portion of the Gobelins—namely, in those workrooms devoted to the final finishing off of the new, and to the mending of ancient tapestries. This work is called "rentraiture," and is not the least important branch, for not only does the Gobelins undertake the restoration of the hangings in the state palaces, but also of those sent in by religious houses, who naturally have a very great quantity of fine old work, and by connoisseurs, who dispatch their woven treasures from every part of the world.

It may be of interest to some of our readers to add a few words on the preservation of rare and valuable specimens. Occasionally exquisite pieces of tapestry can be picked up not only on the Continent, but also in Great Britain, for in the pre-Reformation days many churches contained marvelous tapestry hangings presented by the lord of the manor after a tour in the Low Countries.

Unfortunately, an immense number of these priceless pieces were destroyed in the last century, being considered shabby and worthless by our too utilitarian forefathers. Not long ago a very lovely piece of thirteenth century tapestry was discovered in a Breton cottage fulfilling the useful purpose of quilt to a sick cow!

It is a mistake ever to send woven pictures to be renovated or cleaned, unless, indeed, the owner can afford to send them to the Gobelins, for not only will the old coloring be entirely altered by the application of modern acids, but the treasure trove runs a great risk of being either lost or exchanged for one of considerably less value. Above all, and old piece of tapestry should never be rebacked, for this will destroy whatever monetary value it may possess.

Early in the century a mania arose among European collectors for having paintings recanvased, and thus greatly decreased the pecuniary value of many fine works.

The best way to mount a piece of tapestry is to stretch it—not too tightly—on a piece of well seasoned wood. It is a pity to hang these woven pictures where the sun shines directly upon the tapestry. When the woven picture is small enough the simplest and far the most advantageous fashion of showing it off is to treat it as a painting, and to place it in a plain oak frame and under glass.

I once saw a dining room paneled with loom pictures mounted in this manner, and the effect was unique and beautiful, and well repaid the trouble taken by their owner, a noted French dilettante and connoisseur.

F. M. Campbell and Geo. Walker, late of the John J. De Zouche Company, have formed a copartnership under the title of F. M. Campbell & Co., and have secured the store No. 1602 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. They will open on January 10 as the successors of the John J. De Zouche Company, and will carry a stock identical with that of the old firm.

THE CHAUNCEY TAPESTRY COMPANY.

The spring line of the Chauncey Tapestry Company is the best the mill has ever turned out. The range of designs is large, and there are many new ideas in pattern and shading which will undoubtedly be popular with the trade.

E. C. Hartshorn, manufacturer of upholstered furniture, Denver, Col., is succeeded by Hartshorn & Co.

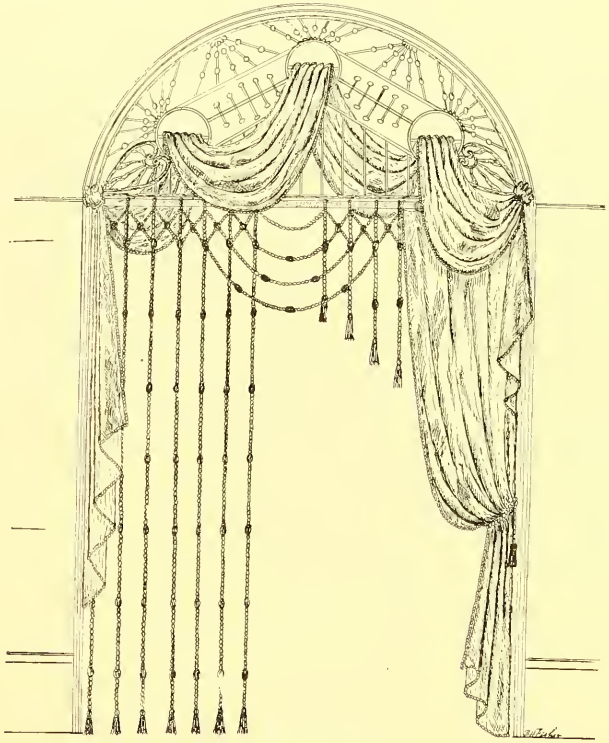
The insurance adjusters have agreed upon the damage sustained by Sharpless Brothers to the stock in their store, at Eighth and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, by the recent fire, and have fixed the amount at $139,000. The companies, however, will pay but $110,000, as the firm was not insured to 80 per cent. of the value of their stock as required by the co-insurance clause in the respective policies.

Ferguson Brothers are in the field this spring with a line of novelties which will meet with the hearty approbation of those members of the trade who know a good thing when they see it, and they are not few either in number or in purchasing ability. In every article in their catalogue they show some new shape, color or process of manufacture. The samples are now ready and some of them will be surprises.

The new lines of chenille curtains, table covers, tapestry curtains and covers brought out for the spring trade by Hoyle, Harrison & Kaye are now on view at their mills, Lehigh avenue and Third street, Philadelphia, and at the salesrooms of their selling agents, C. B. Young & Co., Hartford Building, Broadway and Seventeeth street, New York. The lines comprise an especially large assortment of new, original, artistic styles, and the goods are, as usual, of the best quality, weave and finish.

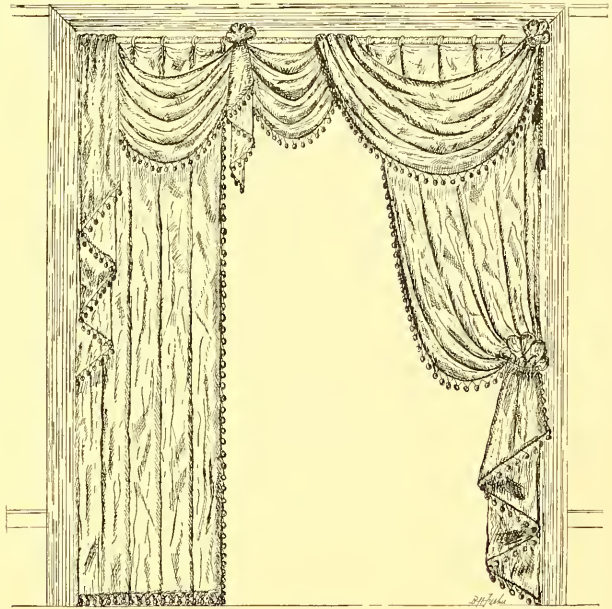
Duncan & Crossley are a new firm in the household and interior decorative business, and will open on January 1 at 1632 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, with a fine stock of goods in their line. Mr. Duncan was for twenty-two years with the John J. De Zouche Company, the latter part of the time one of the company. Mr. Crossley was for fourteen years with the Chapman Decorative Company. It is their purpose to conduct a "popular shop," and they will make it so by good work at moderate prices.

A peculiar fabric which is suitable for many upholstery purposes is being made in Brussels. It is flexible, transparent and impervious to water, can be washed off with cold water, like a glass pane, by means of a sponge, and is mainly to be used for portières, window shades, umbrellas, &c. The patented process for the production of this tissue consists in filling the meshes of a wide meshed fabric, such as muslin, with chrome gelatine, or with a similar material, and then rendering the chrome gelatine insoluble by exposure to light. The fabric is then coated on both sides with boiled linseed oil or fat varnish; the treatment with chrome gelatine and linseed oil is repeated several times, and the fabric is ornamented by printing.



ARCHED DOOR DRAPERY.

Edge of drapery material is trimmed with a decorative cord similar to that in a rope portière.



A DRAPED OPENING.

DRAWN FOR THE CARPET AND UPHOLSTERY TRADE REVIEW BY B. H. FISHER,

WITH W. H. McKNIGHT, SONS & CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

AN IMPORTANT REMOVAL.

The Henry Reubel Company will remove on February 1 to the premises Nos. 268 and 270 Canal street, New York, formerly occupied by J. W. Dimick. They have taken the first floor and basement of this building, with a floor size of 50x100 each. The premises have all the modern store equipments of steam heat, elevator, electric light, &c. The new store also has ample window space and light from two sides.

The rapid progress of The Henry Reubel Company has been somewhat remarkable, although not unexpected, by reason of the high business qualifications of its management. Some four years ago this concern occupied the premises at 223 Canal street. After about one year they moved to 269 Canal street, where they are now located, doubling their floor space. The removal on February 1 to the new quarters will again give them just double the room that they have in the present store. The company reports that the travelers will all be out by January 1, and that business has been excellent with them, and that they anticipate a prosperous trade for the spring.

The Boston salesroom has been removed to larger and more commodious quarters in the Jefferson Building 564 Washington street, room 94. The Boston management is continued in the hands of Mr. C. W. Ellis, who has been most successful in handling the Eastern trade, and that of his assistant, Mr. A. L. Llewellyn. See the company's page announcement in this issue.

QUEER NAMES FOR COLORS.

"One of the perplexities of business life arises," says the London Warehouseman and Draper, "out of the difficulty of giving descriptive names to shades of color. To speak of light blue and dark blue, orange, yellow and purple, light or dark red, crimson, and so on, is easy enough, but the terms are altogether inadequate for the purpose; they include ranges of tint which are many degrees short of matching. Hence come the fancy names which are supposed to suggest something more definite—such as 'Crushed Strawberry,' 'Eau de Nil,' 'Beurre,' 'Heliotrope,' and a long list which will occur at once to every draper or milliner. The best of them, however, do but little credit to human ingenuity, and we are afraid a suitable nomenclature of colors will always remain a desideratum. The resources of language do not appear equal to the demand made upon them in this respect. An American lady who has been writing upon 'taste' believes, however, that some improvement may be effected. Some of the terms employed she considers to be objectionable; not because they do not serve the purpose, but because they are inelegant, in illustration of which she tells a little story, as follows: 'A clever modiste, who created elegant combinations of dress for dames of the highest degree, once refused persistently to give any details to a woman journalist who thought her own descriptive powers second to none. When pressed by a third person for the reason, the artist in dress said she did not like to have her lovely colorings compared to raw eatables. "Why," she said, "should a ribbon be described as 'salmon pink' when 'pale coral' conveyed a better idea? or why should cream color take the place of ivory white?"' It is certain, she adds, 'that more elegant similitudes can be found among flowers and birds and precious stones than in the butcher's and fishmonger's vocabulary.' There is something very humorous about this story. We should not have suspected the existence of a 'modiste' so sensitive as to object to an appreciative notice of one of her successful costumes because there was a chance that the reporter would speak of 'salmon color' instead of 'pale coral,' or of 'cream white' in preference to 'ivory white.' It is worth remarking, too, that salmon color is not the same as pale coral, and that while the one would convey a definite idea to most people, the other would not."

AMATEUR UPHOLSTERER MAKES A UNIQUE SEAT.

"The patient husband," says the New York Sun, "waited until his wife had told him all about it, and then sat down and wrote these impressions:

"A most delightful, unique and inexpensive divan can be readily made by following the directions and pattern given in almost any household magazine. First, get your pattern, and then ask your grocer to hand over an empty barrel. For this there should be no charge; but that depends somewhat upon your financial standing with him. Next engage a carpenter who never had a rational idea and desires to make a few dollars. He is to saw and otherwise maltreat that barrel in just the manner shown by the nice dotted lines on your pattern. It is immaterial what his thoughts are upon the subject.

"When the barrel corresponds in shape with the pattern the next thing is to hide it from the cruel gaze of the world until it is decorated. Now buy 25 cents worth of excelsior, to be used as a filling. Every chair that pretends to be comfortable must have some sort of filling or it is a barefaced swindle. Now tuck your excelsior in anywhere between the covering and the barrel, or what is left of it. Never mind about placing it in smoothly; it will always be lumpy anyway, no matter how you fix it. Besides, you need never sit on it yourself. It is considered good form in the very best circles to resign the seat of honor to your guests, no matter who they are. For the covering obtain a few yards of cretonne at 15 cents a yard and some neat binding stuff to match.

"Now is the time to jam the excelsior in wherever it will go, and tack your binding neatly all round with any tacks you may have in the house. Do not buy the tacks. Some people err just at this juncture. If you purpose to buy everything, you might as well drop the whole thing where it is, because you are losing sight of the fact that the object is to keep down the cost as much as possible. Every economical household has a fine collection of pointless and otherwise crippled tacks. They will be found in an old half-cracked saucer carefully laid away on a top shelf somewhere, and they will do every bit as well as new ones. Should you be fastidious, however, and wish to lend some tone or character to your handiwork, you may indulge in the extravagance of a few cents' worth of brass headed tacks; but I again warn you about increasing the expense, and that you cannot then carry out your original intention of driving the tacks home with a flat iron.

"An ordinary tack will stand any abuse, but the brass resents any unnecessary aggressiveness. In order to allow a brass headed tack to retain its pristine beauty and decorative effect it must be driven with a hammer only and some judgment. Cynics may observe that this means a man, but that is silly divergence from the present subject and leads to trouble. As we said, if you attempt to force it in with a flatiron you can only hit the head once in a while, and the rest of the hour will be spent in making entirely unnecessary dents in the head. These really serve no good purpose, but merely give the head somewhat of an irregular repoussé effect, which, while very desirable on a brass coal hod, does not appeal to our artistic eye when executed on such a limited area.

"When all through you will have a nice, cozy and inexpensive seat that has well repaid you and the carpenter. Bearing in mind that the barrel was given you, the beautiful divan will have cost you only a mere trifle more than you could buy a comfortable one for; but you must not forget that you had the pleasure of making it all yourself, and nothing will remain of that well spent day but pleasant reminiscences as soon as your new thumb-nail grows. When showing the seat to admiring friends please remember that details are boring and forget the carpenter."

THE ORINOKA MILLS.

The Orinoka Mills, Philadelphia, of which Jay H. Solomon, the retiring partner of B. L. Solomon's Sons, is sole proprietor, will remove about January 15 to the new building on the corner of Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street, New York. An office has also been opened at the factory in Philadelphia, where the full lines will be shown. The new fabrics and designs are very original and effective, a successful effort having been made to get out of the beaten track.

A feature of the spring offering will be a large assortment of moderately priced, double face fabrics. Cotton tapestries, wool tapestries and silk damasks and satin faces, together with piece goods of cotton stripes, with tinsel, are shown in a notable profusion of styles.

Edgar Seemiller has opened an upholstery establishment at Airy and DeKalb streets, Norristown, Pa.

In Philadelphia the air is full of rumors, among them a strong report that Sharpless Brothers have purchased the property now occupied by the Chicago Merchandise Company, on Market street. The wholesale department of Sharpless Brothers is situated between Gimbel Brothers and the Chicago Merchandise Company. Another rumor has it that John Wanamaker has purchased the properties on Market street now occupied by Joel J. Bailey & Co. and Lippincott & Co., the publishers. Bailey & Co. adjoin the easterly end of the Lit Brothers' establishment.

ROOMS IN A LONDON HOUSE.

The drawing room shown in the cut presented herewith is the most striking feature in a London house, notable as an example of the use throughout of fabrics and patterns designed chiefly by William Morris.

The walls of the drawing room are covered with a gold laquered paper, rich in various colors, that at first sight suggests Japan, but proves to be a design of chrysanthemum (by Morris) embossed in silver, overlaid with washes of brilliant transparent lacquer. The cornice is also lacquered, and the ceiling painted with gold and silver upon an ivory ground. The chief colors in the hangings are green and blue, mixed to yield a delightfully soft "bloom," which is echoed in the fabric clothing the walls of the second drawing room opening out of the first. The mantelpiece in the first room was especially designed by Mr. Walter Crane to display some of Mr. Ionides' unique collection of Tanagra statuettes.

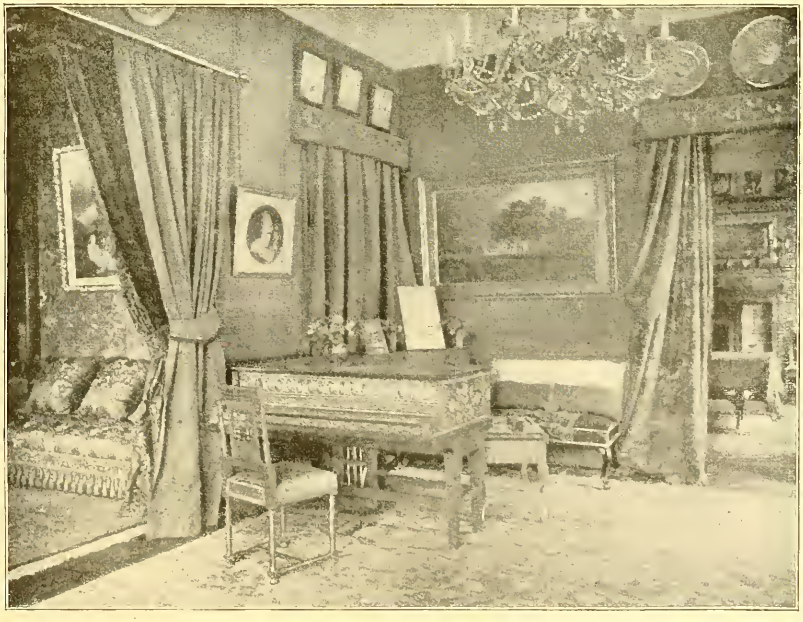
To see how well the terra cottas of Tanagra "go" with the Gothic and Oriental details of Morris is to realize once again that nearly all noble things can be trusted to exist happily in each other's society. For here Japanese metal work, Chinese blue and white, historic majolica, and these little figures in their delicate colors set in a quasi-Greek overmantel, make no discord, but come together far more happily than do the average objects in a room kept rigidly to the work of a fixed period. The carpets by Morris reveal the features which he made his own—robust, generous curves blossoming into flower-like patterns, and with a sense of space unlike the "tight" effect of most modern carpets. In the second room a portière of old embroidery over the dining room door is a superb piece of color that harmonizes strangely well with the modern work around it.

In this room stands a grand piano (which will be remembered by many visitors to the Arts and Crafts) with a case of wood stained green, and almost covered with elaborate detail in gold and silver gesso.

From the inner drawing room the dining room is entered, and here we have a very notable instance of a very elaborately decorated apartment, that at first sight does not reveal itself as materially unlike any similar room in a well appointed modern house. Yet the walls, the ceiling, the doors, sideboard, in fact the whole room (except the high dado of Spanish leather and the marble mantelpiece with its Persian tiles), has been lacquered upon silver. Although pitched in the highest key (next to stained glass) which craft allows, metal of all shades, from crimson to pale green and silver, has been so deftly softened by transparent lacquers that the result is the reverse of gaudy and as harmonious as a fine piece of ancient metal with the patina of age upon it.

The designs of the surface decoration are all by Mr. Walter Crane, who was assisted in the modeling of some of the subjects by the late Osmond Weekes. In the large panels of the frieze the subjects are taken from Æsop's Fables. The motive of the ornament elsewhere is the vine.

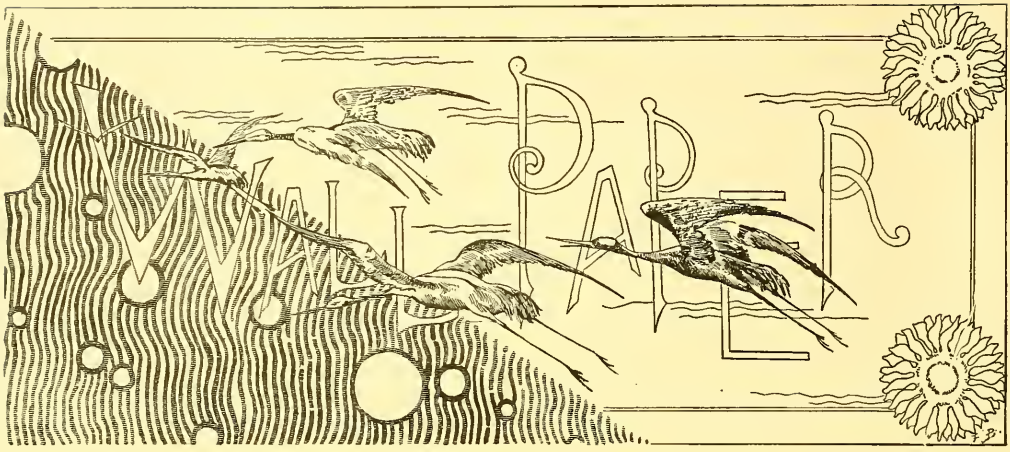
The billiard room is lined with Japanese paintings on silk and Japanese color prints under glass, framed in polished wood; in the ceiling panels of Japanese lacquer (mostly red) are used in like fashion. The overmantel is a happy example of a quasi-Japanese treatment, which has in late years suffered by travesties, so that its original charm no longer impresses one.



DRAWING ROOM IN A LONDON HOUSE.

The contract for constructing the velvet factory at Mystic, Conn., was signed last month, and the work begun at once. The contract price for the building is $21,850. Robert B. Hirsch, of New York, represents the Rosse Brothers, of Germany, who are to remove their velve plant to Mystic.

In the matter of the application for a voluntary dissolution of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Furniture Manufacturing Company, it was ordered by the Supreme Court, on October 7, that all persons interested shall at 3 o'clock P. M. on January 25, 1898, before Frank E. Wade, who was appointed referee, show cause why the corporation should not be dissolved. The referee's office is 517 Mooney-Brisban Building, Buffalo.



WALL PAPER NOTES.

..G. W. Roberts & Co., Washington, Pa., are going out of business.

..E. R. Carpenter succeeds Carpenter & Baker, Auburn, N. Y.

..Dunn & Mantie are a new firm at 253 Main streets Hartford, Conn.

..Gordon & Franz, Duluth, Minn., have dissolved partnership. J. Fred Gordon continues the business.

Daniel F. Billmyer, window shades and paper hangings, has removed to No. 814 Madison avenue, Baltimore.

..The Delaware Wall Paper Mills Company, which is to manufacture wall paper at Newark, Del., has obtained a charter.

..Simeon Walton has begun the erection of a store on Pine street, South Portland, Me., for his wall paper business.

..Edward Albertson, of Delavan, Ill., has purchased S. M. Douley's stock of furniture and removed his wall paper and paint stock into the Douley store.

..Thomas J. Myers, jobber of wall papers, 1206 Market street, Philadelphia, removes to-day, January 1, to 1217 Market street, where he has leased three floors.

..The corporation of Barnard, Walker & Co., wall paper, books and musical instrument dealers, Dubuque, Ia., has given several chattel mortgages, in all amounting to $19,000, mostly for the benefit of home creditors. Outside creditors named are the Emerson Piano Company, $2,000; National Wall Paper Company, $1,000; Crauss & Beach, $490; Lyon & Potter, $3,000. The preferred creditors are all Dubuquers. The assets will not exceed $20,000.

..James S. Warren, one of the leading wall paper manufacturers of this country, died at his home in New York on Christmas morning. He had been in poor health for the last two years, and about a month ago he began to sink rapidly. Mr. Warren was born in Verona, Oneida County, N. Y., sixty-seven years ago, and came to New York at at early age. He had been engaged in the manufacture of wall paper for about thirty years. His place of business was at No. 129 East Forty-second street. Mr. Warren was a member of the Union League and Century clubs. For some time he was president of the Wall Paper Manufacturers' Association. He leaves one daughter and a brother and a sister. His nephew, William Barbour, is the president of the Barbour Brothers Flax Spinning Company, of Paterson, N. J.

..Henry L. Dauernheim, proprietor of a wall paper store at No. 3118 Easton avenue, St. Louis, made an assignment on December 20 for the benefit of his creditors. Joseph F. Shenk is assignee. The statement filed by Mr. Dauernheim related that he had been unjustly attached by a party claiming to be a creditor, and that he determined upon this measure in order that all his creditors might be equally protected. The total value of the assets is estimated at $2,200.

..John Braidwood, aged seventy-four, a well-known citizen of New Brunswick, N. J., died there on December 12, after a brief illness. Mr. Braidwood was connected with the block cutting department of the wall paper factory of Janeway & Co., of New Brunswick, and was known in the wall paper business throughout the Eastern States because of his long connection with that line of business. When the factory was absorbed by the wall paper trust he started an independent factory for block cutting.

..It has long been recognized that arsenical wall paper, do serious mischief, but the work of recent investigators, as published in the Journal of the Society of Arts, seems to have cleared up the mystery which has surrounded the matter. Certain molds have a remarkable property of decomposing arsenical compounds with the evolution of volatile products containing arsenic, and the highly poisonous character of volatile arsenical compounds coming into the system by way of the respiratory organs is well known. Arsenic acid, even in small quantities, is a highly antiseptic substance, and poisonous to molds, so the throwing off of the arsenic in the volatile form may be the effort of nature to cast out the poison. The arsenical copper green and other coloring matters containing arsenic are still used, and, paradoxical as it may appear, it is by no means improbable that the most dangerous wall papers are those containing a mere trace of arsenic, as when the quantity is large the molds cannot exist. Dyed and printed fabrics now very frequently contain traces of arsenic, which are quite dangerous.

..On December 16 the wall paper and paint store of M. C. Smith, at Jeannette, Pa., was discovered to be on fire. It is suspected that the store had been burglarized and then set on fire by the thieves, as some of the firemen claim that the spigots of turpentine and varnish barrels were found open, with the inflammable contents running over the floor. The flames failed to reach a row of barrels containing oil and benzine. The theory of burglary and incendiarism is strengthened by the fact that a small sum of money left in the till had been stolen. The loss is estimated at $2,500. Mr. Smith's stock is worth about $8,000, and he carried $7,500 insurance.

THE AMERICAN PEGAMOID COMPANY.

The American Pegamoid Company has been incorporated at Trenton, N. J., with a paid in capital stock of $100,000, and an authorized capital stock of $5,000,000. The company will deal in paper, paper materials and paper substitutes, raw substances, pulps, preparations and mixtures, and all articles to be made from paper and paper substitutes; also to manufacture wall paper, &c. The incorporators are John R. Bartlett, Conrad N. Jordan, John T. Collins, John J. McCook, Gilbert I. Herbert, John A. McCall, Joseph J. Byers, Thomas A. McIntyre, all of New York; Edward H. Haskell, Newton, Mass.; Peter T. Austin, Brooklyn; Arthur W. Pope, Albert A. Pope, of Boston, and Edward F. C. Young, of Jersey City.

J. T. Brady, who for sixteen years has been upholsterer for C. K. Lambson, Huntington, Mass., has embarked in business for himself at 146 Elm street.

The cut herewith represents another of the new styles of sash and vestibule extension rods made by the Sash Curtain Rod and Novelty Company, of Providence, R. I.

The company's offerings comprise ten styles, and the goods are always quick sellers. Write for samples and prices.

The spirit of progress that has placed the Philadelphia Tapestry Mills among the foremost commercial enterprises of its kind in this country is manifest in the equipment of the new, additional plant. Facilities never before known will be found in the establishment. The fabrics made by this concern have not only maintained the high standard already established, but a reputation far reaching in its influence. Months have been devoted to getting out new and fashionable effects, many of them unlike anything ever before made. The result of these labors is now submitted to the trade.

breath. A^A shows the screen separate, A^B the screen folded. The screen D is made in one with the pillow or bolster E^B. B shows the partition in the form of a curtain.

The firm of Coventry & Evans, Utica, N. Y., has been compelled, owing to the demands of business, to materially increase the size of its establishment. It now occupies Nos. 119, 121 and 123 Genesee street, extending back to Root street, and has 27,000 feet of floor space. This room is none too great, however, to advantageously display the large and magnificent line of furniture and upholstery goods which the firm has constantly on hand.

OBITUARY NOTES.

Clarence L. Frey, a salesman with P. Wiest & Son, dry goods and upholstery, York, Pa., died the 16th inst. in the twenty-fourth year of his age. A widow survives him.

Robert Simpson, of Robert Simpson & Co., Limited, of Toronto, died of heart failure in that city on December 14. He was sixty-three years old, a native of Scotland, and one of the leading merchants of Canada.

Alexander T. Johnson, a well-known business man of Baltimore before the war, and son of the late Edward Johnson, who was mayor of Baltimore from 1808 to 1816, died the 10th ult. of general debility at the Aged Men's Home. He was born in Baltimore in 1825. He became a clerk in the wholesale cabinet hardware and upholstery goods store of Duer, Norris & Co. Afterward he was taken into the firm and remained a member until its dissolution in 1862. A widow and daughter survive him.

Henry Owhene has opened an upholstery and mattress shop at Seventh and Buntin streets, Vincennes, Ind.

Dunn & Mantie have opened an upholstery and wall paper establishment at 253 Maine street, Hartford, Conn.

The upholstery trade should give particular attention to the advertisement of the Rome Universal curtain pole in this number. It is the latest thing in a curtain pole, and its advantages can be readily seen on inspection.

The American Pin Company manufacture a large line of extension rods for sash curtains and also for full size lace curtains. They are headquarters on these goods regarding price and style, and all buyers should send for quotations and samples to 441 Broadway, New York.

To the Window Shade Trade—

Greeting:

AT the close of another year we feel it incumbent upon us to again extend to members of the window shade trade, in whatever capacity, our sincere thanks for the continued consideration which our goods have received at their hands, and the courteous treatment generally afforded our representatives.

For the coming twelve months we have in preparation more improvements and practical ideas concerning the manufacture of shade rollers and accessories, of which the trade will learn in due time, and which we believe will be decidedly interesting to them.

Regarding our goods, the quality of them can never be assailed. We originally produced them with the best materials obtainable, and the standard has never been lowered. A marked increase in the total amount of sales during 1897 indicates the handlers' and consumers' knowledge that Hartshorn Shade Rollers are the only rollers made which insure reliable work.

Our product includes all kinds of shade rollers, both of wood and tin, and many devices which have materially helped the shade maker in his work, such as the Hartshorn Shade Clasp, the Hartshorn Pin Ends, the Hartshorn Bottom Roller Clip and our new Catch Pulley. All of these and all of our rollers are fully described in our illustrated catalogue, which will be sent free upon application.

We consider that the Improved Hartshorn Wood Roller

is the most ingenious, complete and satisfactory wood shade roller made to-day.

We also consider that the

Hartshorn New Groove Tin Roller is the only practicable metal barrel roller ever produced, upon which shades can be easily and correctly mounted.

A JUDICIOUS INVESTMENT.

The Best Economy in your Carpet Room

can only be secured by using the most perfect appliances, of the simplest design and the best construction.

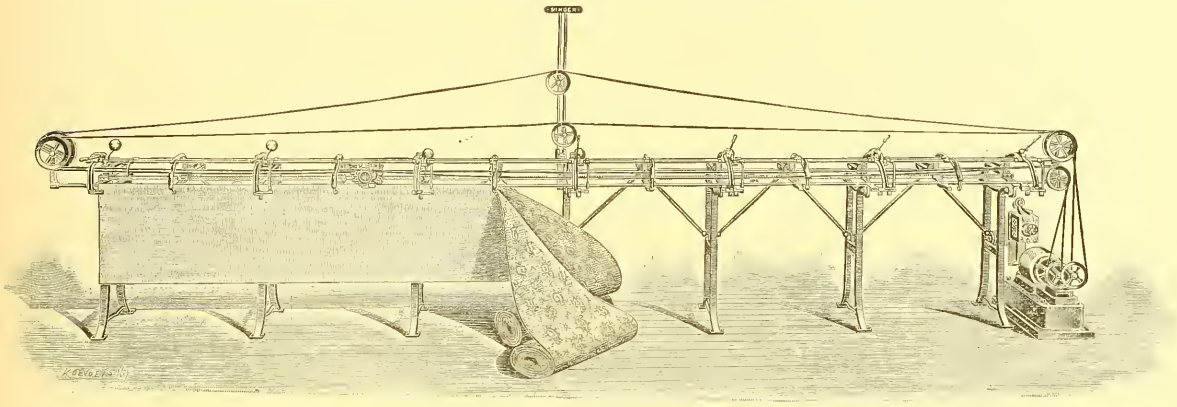
Experience Has Proven the Fact that the SINGER AUTOMATIC POWER CARPET SEWER will save its cost in one year to any carpet dealer having enough business to require a hand machine. THE SINGER AUTOMATIC is now in use by dealers who saved its cost during the first six months of its operation.

A TRIUMPH OF MECHANICAL EFFICIENCY, SURPASSING ALL OTHER DEVICES FOR ITS PURPOSE.



Truly automatic, requires less labor and sews 40 per cent. more carpet than any other machine on the market.
Requires least floor space, and uses any form of power.
Makes perfect stitch and seam, sewing any kind of carpet.

Automatic Matching and Clamping Device.

This device is absolutely unique, and secures perfect stretching and matching, without necessity for expert labor. It is simpler, swifter and in every way more effective than any other way of handling a carpet. The sewing machine works automatically on its track, following the operator from section to section as fast as each is matched and clamped, the action of the clamping levers automatically governing the movement of the sewing machine, thus saving a great deal of time. . . . . .

This is not a Hand Machine Crudely Adapted to Power Operation.

Our Hand Machine is well known, and is still on the market, fully guaranteed to be the best and most practical in use.

The Carpet and Upholstery Association.

541 New York Life Building, 346 Broadway, NEW YORK.

The Carpet and Upholstery Association has been organized to supply special reports relating to the financial responsibility and credit standing of Dealers in Carpets, Rugs, Oil Cloth, Linoleums, Mattings or Floor Coverings of any description; Curtains, Upholstery Goods, Window Shades, Upholstery Hardware, Decorative and Furniture Specialties and kindred productions

The system of a special reporting agency of this character has been successfully conducted in other leading branches of trade for many years, and this Association is the first and only credit agency devoted exclusively to the Carpet and Upholstery Trades.

The Association will issue a Reference Book containing the names of dealers in the goods mentioned throughout the United States, together with credit ratings. This Reference Book will be published twice a year and will be fully revised up to date of issue.

The Special Reports will be the result of thorough and extended investigation in the buying markets, as well as at the resident points of dealers, and will contain information of inestimable value to all manufacturers and wholesalers.

The Association is now prepared to receive subscriptions and to furnish special reports. It will deliver the first Reference Book of the Association Reports at the earliest possible date, probably by February 1, 1898.

Terms of Subscription will be furnished on application.

COLLECTION DEPARTMENT.

The Association has a thoroughly organized Collection Department in the hands of experienced men. We shall endeavor to make this one of the most acceptable features of the Association. Our facilities for making collections throughout the United States and Canada are perfected, and any accounts for collection or other legal matters submitted to us will be handled in a manner thoroughly satisfactory to our clients. We have correspondents in every community of any size in the United States and Canada, and guarantee that the services of our corresponding attorneys shall be in all respects satisfactory.

FACTS ABOUT

THE NEW

Keystone 3-Shoot Velvets.

• • • •

OUR INVITATION. Carpet merchants are invited to call at either our Philadelphia or New York office and prove to their satisfaction that we are offering the best Velvet Carpeting produced in this country,

LABOR AND MATERIAL. We have employed experts only. We are using the best materials that can be bought, principally worsted wool, spun in the fleece, producing a long lasting, hard wearing fabric.

SMALL ORDERS PREFERRED. We want small sample orders, feeling sure we will retain the business of firms who try our goods.

ONE STORE ONLY. We shall confine our goods to one first-class house in each town. The advantages of this policy are apparent to every live merchant.

PRICE. We offer Keystone High-pile 3-shoot Velvets at the price of ordinary 2-shoot goods.

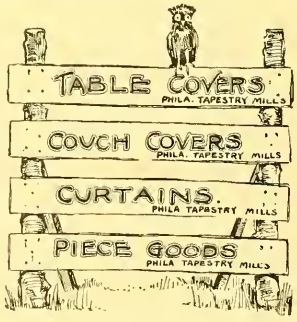
"The Sign of the Four"

A BOOK BY A. CONAN DOYLE)



The sign of the four! It's right in front of you. See it?

Both have an immense circulation—of a different character of course.

We recommend the upholstery trade to read our "Sign of the Four." Ours is not fiction—it's a fact.

Undeniably a well-known trade fact that the fabrics we produce are incomparable where honest, unapproachable values and exclusive ideas are taken into consideration.

The combined output of our mills (the original plant and the one which we have recently built in addition to it) are taxed to the fullest extent to keep up with the steady stream of orders flowing our way.

We haven't time to boast! Our attention is given to other things, productive of more substantial results.

That's what we are in business for—that's why we are constantly able to give to the trade the newest and most desirable creations in upholstery fabrics. Goods that make business for everybody who handles them. If we make them—they are right! If you want the best—come to us.

MODERN UPHOLSTERIES.

It is evident that buyers are becoming more convinced every season that it does not pay to purchase foreign made Upholstery and Drapery Fabrics when they can buy American made goods of equal quality and superior styles at considerably less money. That our productions for the will substantiate the correctness of this assertion we leave to the judgment of the Trade and invite the most careful comparison between them and imported fabrics.

CHICAGO SALESROOM: 704 Champlain Building.

One eminent and popular house that has tried all makes announces them to be

"The Best Window Hollands Made."

Another equally large Importer of great experience states:

"The goods have always been and are now fast colors."

Another firm in the very front rank of the business describes them as

"Unequalled in quality, unshrinkable and of finest dyes."

While another firm of Importers, probably one of the largest shade goods houses in the world, characterizes them in these terms.

"JOHN KING & SON'S Famous Scotch Hollands."

JOHN KING & SON'S

ESTABLISHED IN THE YEAR 1775

Celebrated

Scotch Window

HOLLANDS

ILLUSTRATING the high consideration these popular goods hold in the estimation of the most experienced importers of shade goods in the country, the attention of the trade is invited to the above opinions, published in the columns of this and other journals, over the signatures of the respective firms.

Enterprising but unscrupulous parties unable to reach the exalted standard of these celebrated goods, pay them the flattery of imitating the wrappings. It is the Goods, not the wrappings, the trade is after. See that Bands, Tickets and Tabs of every piece are marked

"JOHN KING & SON."

Wholesaled from every Shade Goods Importer and Leading Carpet and Upholstery Importer in the Country.

The Last Process

in making Rubber Matting is to bake or cure it. Unless this is thoroughly done the goods are inferior. You know what happens to undercured hams—undercured rubber also spoils. It doesn't putrify, but stiffens. It's the elasticity in the rubber that makes it wear, and the stiffer it gets the shorter its life. Undercured matting has a sticky feeling, with little rebound—you can cut into it easily with your thumb nail. Double Diamond and Spider Treads are thoroughly cured, tough and elastic. Their quality is uniformly good; they are great wearers, and please the most exacting customer. Carried 36 inches wide by 3/32, 1/8, 3/16 and 1/4 inches thick; 41 inches wide by 3/16 and 1/4 inches thick. Cut to size free of cost. Better have our samples and prices before you.

Don't encourage the production of spurious floor coverings to the prejudice of your own and your customer's interests, but buy a standard fabric from some well-known manufacturer of established reputation.

Don't deceive yourselves by taking the stand you will buy carpets at lower prices later on. You won't. Why? Because the changed conditions are fixed, and the result of your deliberate judgment at the polls.

Don't be discouraged because the mercantile and industrial interests are slow in adjusting themselves to the new order of things and that the promised prosperity may not have reached you.— It is here.

PARK CARPET MILLS.

Spring, 1898.

Our new lines of "PARK MILLS," "RAJAHS," and other grades are ready for inspection at our various salesrooms, and are now being shown on the road by our efficient corps of salesmen.

The "PARK MILLS" are too well known to require extended mention.

The "RAJAH" line of patterns just brought out by us show what this wonderful invention can do in the way of producing color effects.

No method ever before known was capable of producing such colorings—so novel and beautiful! Each pattern is a novelty in itself, and we ask the trade to be the judge when they see them. . . . . .

BIGELOW CARPET COMPANY.

AXMINSTER, WILTON AND BRUSSELS

CARPETS.

The Carpets made by this Company have received the highest award wherever exhibited, including Gold Medals at the Paris Exposition, 1878, and at the Centennial, 1876.

Their deserved reputation for excellence of fabric, richness and durability of color, novelty and beauty of design, has led to frequent infringements, and inferior goods have often been palmed off in their stead. For the protection of the public the Company has adopted as a trade mark the word "BIGELOW," which will be woven (at every repeat of the pattern) in white capitals into the back of the fabric. Customers will therefore have merely to examine the back of a carpet to be certain that they are getting the genuine Bigelow goods.

THESE GOODS CAN BE HAD FROM ALL FIRST-CLASS DEALERS.

UPHOLSTERY DEPARTMENT, PAGE 51.

☞Our readers are urged to remember that we are always desirous to receive communications of interest to the carpet or upholstery trades, such as changes in firms or managers, the building or opening of new stores, improvements in old ones, the adding of new departments, improved methods of doing business, new inventions, suggestions as to the cutting, making and laying of carpets, the designing and fitting of draperies, or inquiries and dissertations relating to the technical or commercial details of the trades to which this periodical is devoted.

TRADE AND PRICES.

THE advances in Tapestries, Velvets and Moquettes, announced last October by three leading manufacturing concerns as to take place to-day, January 15, are now in effect, as stated in detail elsewhere in this issue. The manufacturers' promises to the trade as regards these changes have been fulfilled, and the fact can hardly fail to have a beneficial effect on the market. Advances by two other Velvet manufacturing companies are also noted in the same connection.

The travelers who delayed their road trips until the end of the year have done a much better business than most of those who started out earlier, and many of these early birds will be obliged to make another trip, and so double expenses. The poor policy shown in sending travelers out so early on the road has often been dwelt upon by us, and in our issue of January 1, 1897, we sounded a warning note on this point, which might well have been remembered.

Wholesale trade has been quite active during the past fortnight, especially in the West, and travelers in other sections of the country also report, as a rule, a cheerful feeling among retailers, and a good demand for floor coverings, excepting among those dealers who bought largely last fall in anticipation of the advances in prices, which have since been made.

Retail dealers expect the spring trade to open somewhat earlier than usual, if the weather is not unfavorable. We have predicted that the spring business would be very large, and perhaps phenomenal in volume, and we see no reason to change this opinion at present.

THE REVIEW AND ITS SUPPLEMENT.

IN this issue will be found a number of letters from carpet dealers in various parts of the country, expressing their appreciation of the value of THE REVIEW and the Remnant Supplement. These testimonials comprise but a small portion of the dealers whose lists are printed in each annual issue of the Remnant Supplement, but it would require too much space to print all the letters, and they would also prove rather monotonous being all to the same effect so far as the merits of The Review and its supplement are concerned.

But it is certainly proper for us to call the attention of the wholesale trade to these letters, for they prove beyond question the wide circulation and influence of The Review in the trade, and consequently its great value as an advertising medium for manufacturers or jobbers.

It should be remembered also that every dealer must have the Remnant Supplement, and that it can be obtained only by subscribing for The Review. It necessarily follows that advertisements placed in its columns are certain to reach the entire trade of the country.

ADVANCES IN TAPS., VELVETS AND MOQUETTES.

We present herewith the price lists of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, S Sanford & Sons and the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company, which go into effect to-day, the 15th inst., as announced by these manufacturers in our issue of November 1. The advances shown include Velvets, Tapestries and Moquettes. Tapestries are advanced 2½ cents a yard, with the exception of the ten wire goods, which have not been changed in price. High grade Velvets have been advanced 5 cents, and lower grades 1½ to 2½ cents a yard. The changes can be best understood by looking over the full lists, which are as follows:

S. Sanford & Sons.

Wilton Velvets	$1.17½	Extra Tapestry Brussels	$ .62½
Velvets	.80	"Comet" Tapestry Brussels	.57½
Double Extra Tapestry Brussels	.67½	Red Star Tapestry Brussels	.52½

Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company.

Savonneries	$1.25	Moquette Mats	$ .87½
Smith Axminster	.97½	" E's	1.95
Saxony Axminster	.87½	" J's	3.15
Moquettes	.90	Extra Tapestry	.70
Wilton Velvet	1.20	Best Tapestry	.67½
Extra Velvet	1.15	B Palisade Tapestry	.62½
Velvet	.81½	F " "	.57½

E. S. Higgins Carpet Company.

Extra Quality (Three Shoot high pile) Wilton Velvets	$1.07½	Three Star tapestry	$0.52½
"Sultan" (high pile) Velvets	.80	Imperial (high class) Three Ply	.75
Wilton Back Ten Wire Tapestry	.65	Extra Heavy "14 pair Extra Supers (1088 ends)	.55
Double Star Tapestry	.60	Standard Extra Super	.50
		C. C. " "	.40

The J. W. Dimick Company have announced an advance of 1½ cents a yard on their Velvets, to take effect January 15, and to apply to all unfilled orders then on their books.

Robert Beattie & Sons have made an advance of 5 cents a yard on their Velvets, which takes effect January 15.

Marcus Brothers, the well-known manufacturers of stair pads, linings, &c., have as a souvenir of the new season a handsome thermometer, which will be a useful as well as ornamental fixture in any office. It has a yellow back, with black bevelled edge, and will be sent on request.

A STATE BANKRUPTCY BILL.

The new bankruptcy bill introduced at Albany recently by State Senator Nussbaum seems to be approved, generally speaking, by a large number of business men in this city. James G. Cannon, president of the Fourth National Bank, and also president of the National Association of Credit Men, says that the bill will make an excellent measure with some changes of comparatively minor importance. Mr. Cannon will invite the State association to take the matter up, and it is expected that the legislative committee of that organization will at an early date appoint a special committee to suggest such amendments to the bill as they may deem desirable.

The leading features of Senator Nussbaum's bill are: First, a provision for the appointment of a court officer to be called a messenger, who shall take charge of the estate of the insolvent pending further orders of the court; second, the selection of an assignee by the creditors themselves, a majority of the indebtedness to elect; third, the doing away with preferences In a general way the bill is modeled after the Massachusetts law, which has been widely commended in financial circles.

BUSINESS FAILURES IN 1897.

Among the more notable features of Bradstreets' report of business failures in 1897 are the following:

First, a heavy decrease, alike in number and in liabilities, of those individuals, firms or corporations succumbing to the pressure of unfavorable circumstances. This may be regarded as indicating a return of prosperous conditions in general business. In the next place must be mentioned a drop in the percentage of assets to liabilities shown as compared not only with last year, but with 1895, and with 1893 of panic memory, indicating a return to more or less normal conditions. Finally, there is to be noticed a reduction in the percentage of what might be termed the commercial death rate as compared with every year since and including 1893.

The total number of failures of firms, individuals and corporations, including banks, reported for the year just closed was 13,099, a falling off of more than 2,000 failures and of 13.3 per cent., compared with 1896, a decrease of 15 per cent. from the panic year 1893, and a decrease of 2 3 per cent., even, from 1891, a year of large and prosperous business, but, nevertheless, of numerous business embarrassments. Compared with the year 1895, a disappointing one in many respects in business lines, there was an increase shown of only about half of 1 per cent. Compared with 1894, a year of stagnation, the increase was less than 3 per cent., and compared with 1892, a year of great business prosperity, there was an increase of 27 per cent.

The Fries-Breslin Company have found it necessary to secure additional factory facilities outside of their plant pending the erection of another building. They have rented a large building on Second street, Camden, to which they have removed all their hand looms, and have put in new power looms in the space vacated by the hand looms. The company's entire facilities are fully occupied on spring orders.

R. & T. Gardiner have opened in the carpet jobbing and retail business at 260 Canal street. R. Gardiner was for several years with the New York and Amsterdam Carpet Company.

Leopold Adler, of Savannah, Ga.; Dreyfus & Co., New Orleans, and L. Hammel & Co., Mobile, Ala., have removed their local offices from 45 Lispenard street to 377 Broadway, Room 807.

Some extra handsome effects in their Flemish Tapestries are shown at the New York office of John Gay's Sons in the Hartford Building. These are the latest weave in high-class 4-4 carpets.

P. J. Donovan, 874 Broadway, agent for the Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Company, reports a satisfactory spring trade so far with prospects of good orders to come from both local and visiting trade.

The visiting trade will find the complete lines of Thomas Develon's Sons' Ingrains on show in the Hartford Building. Frank Dougherty is on hand daily to display the samples, and W. L. Lundy can also be found there.

More than 1,300,000 pounds of wool were sold at the auction sale at the Wool Exchange January 5. Prices were about the same as those current at private sales. There was a good attendance, the buyers present coming from all parts of the country.

Sperry & Beale, matting importers and stair pad manufacturers, will remove from 81 White street to 39 Union square on February 1. In connection with the Union Carpet Lining Company they will occupy the first loft in this building, which immediately adjoins the now well-known Hartford Building, and will have excellent light and modern accommodations for displaying their samples. All goods will hereafter be shipped from their factory in Brooklyn and from the warehouse.

The New York and Amsterdam Carpet Company have recently placed in their workroom a double electric Taft sewing machine of latest improved make. The company now have a much larger workroom than formerly, obtained through the space added to their establishment on January 1, and can turn out cut carpets with the greatest promptness. W. F. Carroll, head of the New York and Amsterdam Company, has leased the entire building at 264 and 266 Canal street, with an extension through to Walker street. The premises are being improved throughout with new elevator, electric lights, new offices, &c.

The firm of F. B. Bru Baker & Co., 41 Union square, was dissolved January 4 by the retirement of James H. Whittaker. Mr. Bru Baker will continue the business as selling agent for Thos. Caves & Sons, Philadelphia, and Koch & Te Kock, Oelsnitz, Germany.

One of the features of the new trading floor of the Wool Exchange will be a collection of standard types of wool in glass jars, which will be displayed in appropriate cases. This collection has been made with great care, and represents the combined knowledge of many of the best wool authorities and experts in the country.

Arnold, Constable & Co. have every reason to be satisfied with the business of their wholesale carpet department. The firm's travelers have booked a big amount of orders on the road, and the line of private patterns prepared by Mr. Daintrey for the spring trade has found quick appreciation among all dealers who have any demand for choice original designs and colorings.

William T. Buckley retired from the firm of Dunham, Buckley & Co., December 31 last, the remaining partners continuing the business under the firm title of James H. Dunham & Co. The firm is now composed as follows: James H. Dunham, Charles H. Webb, William E. Webb and William A. Little. Mr. Buckley's sudden death, a few days after his retirement from the firm, is referred to elsewhere.

Joseph Feiner, dealer in furniture and carpets at 111 Avenue A, has given a bill of sale to a Mr. Polacek. The Crocker Chair Company has taken legal proceedings to collect a claim of $339. Mr. Feiner had been in business six years. The sheriff has received another attachment against Feiner for $1,158 in favor of George Heyman, and a writ of replevin for $363 in favor of the H. B. Claflin Company.

The Merchants' Association held its first annual meeting at the Broadway Central Hotel January 4. President William F. King was in the chair, and opened the session with an address on the work of the association. The following directors were elected: William F. King, John Claflin and William E. Tefft, to serve for three years;

John C. Juhring, Charles H. Webb and Corcellus H. Hackett, to serve for two years; Charles T. Root, Meyer Jonasson, and James H. Breslin, to serve for one year.

A banquet was given by the buyers of the Siegel-Cooper Company, December 30, at Fleuret's, Fifth avenue, in honor of two of their number, I. Levy and Mark Elkins, who have embarked in business for themselves. After coffee had been served Mr. Johnson presented to Mr. Levy a magnificent solid silver loving cup. Mr. Levy expressed his gratitude to his fellow workers who had so handsomely remembered him. Mr. Sinks then presented to Mr. Elkins an equally beautiful solid gold match box. Mr. Elkins accepted the gift in a graceful little speech.

The family of Martin O'Connor, carpet and furniture dealer at 185 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, reported his disappearance to the police on the 2d inst. He left his home at 8 o'clock on the morning of December 31. He intended then to go direct to his store. He carried with him $2,500. He did not go to the store, and he has not been seen since, so far as his family can learn. They say he is abstemious, and that he never has been in the habit of remaining away from home over night. O'Connor is sixty-two years old and well to do. He is described as being a stout man with gray hair and side whiskers. He wore dark clothes and boots.

When Bertha Kabatchinck got a separation from Jacob Kabatchinck in November, 1895, she was allowed $20 a week alimony. The amount was subsequently reduced to $10, and the defendant was ordered to pay $500 back alimony. On the 10th inst. he was before Justice Maddox, in Brooklyn, on a motion to punish him for contempt for having disobeyed the order. Kabatchinck once had a large carpet and furniture business at Division street and the Bowery, but now, his counsel said, he has nothing and is $12,000 in debt. His lawyer also said the plaintiff has a furniture business of her own and possesses real estate. Justice Maddox reserved his decision.

The managers of the Wool Exchange announce that in the future they will conduct an open public wool market. This was the original intention of the founders of the Exchange. This system, they state, is most in harmony with the purposes of the Exchange and with the spirit of the times. The "open market" system, it is claimed, is demanded and indorsed by all connected with the wool trade. In the future the market will be open to dealers and manufacturers alike. The next regular sale will be held February 2, commencing at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Entries have already been received and wools will be on display, commencing Monday, January 10, at the Wool Exchange. There will be no change in clause No. 9 of the terms of sale at future auctions.

....Gimbel Brothers intend to enlarge their carpet department, especially that part of it occupied by Oriental rugs.

....G. B. Treloar, manager of Sanford & Son's New York office, has been spending a few days in Philadelphia during the past fortnight.

....Harry Titus, of Titus Brothers, of Eleventh and Market streets, has just returned from a sojourn of a few weeks in Charleston, S. C.

....January clearing sales have been in order among the larger carpet stores during the past two weeks, and good quantities of goods have been moved

....McCallum & McCallum have introduced the new prisms light into the westerly window of their store for the benefit of the numerous clerks in their counting room.

....Henry Holmes, of the carpet manufacturing firm of Henry Holmes & Sons, Trenton avenue and Auburn street, is about starting for California, where he will spend a few weeks for the improvement of his health.

....Thomas Dalby and S. S. Fulmer, composing the firm of Dalby & Fulmer, carpet and furniture dealers, 2141 and 2143 North Sixth street, have dissolved partnership. The business is continued by Dalby & Son, with Mr. Fulmer as manager.

....W. T. Smith & Son have recently added six new Crompton Art Square looms, one 4 yards and five 3 yards in width. Thomas L. Leedom & Co., Bristol, Pa., have recently added six new Crompton Art Square looms, 3 and 4 yards in width.

....The firm of Fritz, La Rue & Sinn, importers of Oriental rugs and carpets, is dissolved, by the withdrawal of Howard Sinn. The business will be continued by Chas. H. Fritz and Wm M. La Rue, under the firm name of Fritz & La Rue.

....The Art Square Manufacturing Company at Second street and Columbia avenue is busily engaged in setting up several new wide looms. When the new machines are in place the firm will have seventeen of the wide looms in operation all the time.

....Charles E. Coloney, of J. & J. Dobson's, A. L. Kennedy, John Dunlap, Jr., Julius B. Price, Jr., and William H. Smith are the incorporators of the Kennedy Manufacturing Company, which has been organized to manufacture yarns and the product of yarn. The capital stock is $10,000.

....Charles R Thompson, the retiring manager of the carpet department of Gimbel Brothers, was agreeably surprised December 19 at his home in Norwood, Pa., by about thirty of the boys in the department, who went out for a jolly good time. After presenting Mr. Thompson with a handsome umbrella the party sat down to a fine supper, and were entertained with several speeches by the visitors. Carl R. Thompson succeeds his father as manager, and F. W. Childs is assistant.

....J. T. MacElroy, representative of McCallum & McCallum, on the road, reports trade as exceedingly good in Western Pennsylvania, as shown by the numerous orders that have recently been received from that locality.

....A brilliant wedding took place at St. Stephen's Church, this city, on the 12th inst. Miss Louise Fotteral, of Philadelphia, was married to Mr. Thomas L. Neilson. There was a very large attendance, and among the guests was Mr. W. W. Law, of W. & J. Sloane, New York.

....Robt. M. Neall, Philadelphia agent for the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company, whose office is at 604 Bourse, has just returned from a very successful trip through Pennsylvania. The spring line of the E. S. Higgins Company is exceptionally fine in all the grades of goods it produces.

....MacElroy & Scholes, manufacturers of Extra Super C. C., Union and Pro-Brussels carpets, are doing very well with their spring lines, which are on view at their mills, 1817 to 1821 East York street. The lines have found a good demand in the trade of the season, and the sales of their popular specialty, the Pro-Brussels carpets, have been especially large.

....John Watts' Sons, manufacturers of Ingrain carpets, Hancock street above Lehigh avenue, find that their new lines of C. C. Extra Supers, Half Wool Unions, Quarter Wool Unions, and Cottons were well received by the trade in the present season. Dealers who are looking for popular, quick selling goods at low prices, are advised to write to the Messrs. Watts.

....An item appeared in one of the Philadelphia papers stating that John & James Dobson had ordered plans to be drawn for a new building, five stories in height, to be erected on the old site where the recent fire took place. Inquiries at the proper place for information elicit the fact that, although it is true that a new building is to be erected, the size, proportions and style of architecture have not yet been decided upon, and will not be for some weeks to come. In the meantime the Messrs Dobson will continue to occupy the basement, first and second floors of the new building, at Ninth and Market streets, owned by Mr. John Dobson. The first floor is utilized for the private offices of the firm and Manager Charles E. Coloney, while the regular counting room is located at the Market street end of the second story. Carpets are being received from the mills, and the store is rapidly assuming a business-like aspect.

....Mr. Harrison, of the James Hall Carpet Company, and son-in-law of Mr. James Hall, is now giving his entire time to the business of the company, having withdrawn from the iron trade with which he was formerly connected.

....The new mill of Hirst & Roger, manufacturers of Tapestries and Velvets, will be occupied by them January 18. The factory is situated at Allegheny and Kensington avenues. The firm's new lines of Velvets and Tapestries have been very cordially received by the trade, and are indeed well calculated to maintain the excellent reputation of Hirst & Roger's goods for quality of fabric and patterns.

....Hand—Judge.—John Firmin Hand, Jr., and Miss Mary Jane Judge, daughter of Robert Judge, were married at the residence of the bride's father, 1721 North Front street, on the evening of the 4th inst. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. D Smith, rector of the Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church. The bride was given away by her father, and her sister, Miss Annie Judge, was flower girl. A wedding supper and reception followed. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Judge, Jr., Misses Maggie and Eleanor Judge, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cramp, Mr. and Misses James Given, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Judge, Mr. and Mrs. David McCreight, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheckline, Miss Amelia Irvine, Mr. and Mrs Joseph Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. John Hand. A sad finale to this announcement is the death of Robert Judge, chronicled elsewhere.

NORRIS—DOBSON.

Miss Sarah Dobson, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dobson, Falls of Schuylkill, Philadelphia, was married on December 30 to Mr. Richard Norris. The ceremony took place at the Falls of Schuylkill Presbyterian Church and was performed by Rev. Dr. Sherman H. Doyle, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Joseph Beggs. The church was crowded with the friends and relatives of the bride and groom, and presented a brilliant appearance. The reception at Bella Vista, the residence of the bride's parents, situated on the heights overlooking the Schuylkill Valley, was largely attended. The mansion was profusely adorned with flowers, palms and various plants. At the conclusion of the reception the bride and groom left for a wedding tour.

Among the guests were the following persons more or less connected with the carpet trade:

Hon. Robert Adams, Mr. Geo. W. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Clothier, Sheriff and Mrs. Alex. Crow, Jr., Charles E. Coloney, Mr. and Mrs John Dobson, Mr. William Dobson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dolan, Mr. and Mrs. De Turcke, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dornan, Mr. James H. Gay, Mr. and Mrs. William Ivins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Jeffries, Mr. and Mrs Theodore Justice, Mr. and Mrs. William Justice, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Justice, Mr. and Mrs. William McCallum, Mrs. John F. Orne, Hon. William Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Seville Schofield, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dobson Schofield, Mr. and Mrs. Seville Schofield, Jr., Mr. and Mrs Justus Strawbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Search, Mr. Theodore Search, Hon. and Mrs. John Wanamaker.

Joseph Wild & Co. have advanced the prices of their sheep skin mats. The new price list will be found on page 72.

PENNSYLVANIA'S CONVICT LABOR LAW.

The Muehlbronner Convict Labor Law, passed at the last session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, went into effect a few days ago, and now the use of machinery in the manufacture of goods has ceased in all the penal institutions of that State. The Muehlbronner law provides that only 45 per cent. of the convicts in a prison shall be employed in the manufacture of goods, and that no power, except hand or foot power, shall be used in the workshops, except in the making of goods used in the prison.

The importance of the law to the carpet trade lies in the fact that but 20 per cent of the convicts are now allowed to manufacture cocoa mats and mattings. As is well known in the trade, the Western Penitentiary at Pittsburg has been for some years an important factor in this industry.

CARPET AND WOOL IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

Imports of woolen carpeting for the eleven months ending November 30, 1897, amounted to 417,553 square yards, valued at $908,468. Imports of carpet wool in the same time were 94,895,358 pounds, valued at $9,886,584. The imports of carpeting for the corresponding period in 1896 were 462,300 square yards, valued at $702,817, and the imports of carpet wool were 62,680,160 pounds, valued at $5,987,780.

The exports of American carpeting during the eleven months ending November, 1897, amounted to 253,763 yards, valued at $200,307. For the same period of 1896 the exports were 271,307 yards, valued at $195,264.

FINE CUT CARPETS.

The cut order department of Lord & Taylor has become a very important source of supply for a great many leading retail houses throughout the country. The advantages enjoyed by this house in purchasing goods at the very lowest prices and in carrying a large stock enable them to attract the trade in values and prompt shipments. It is a rare case indeed when an order is not shipped on the day it is received. The department is being devoted to fine carpets particularly, the line for spring consisting of Victoria Wiltons, Whittall Wiltons, Hartford and Worcester Wiltons and Washington Wiltons; Victoria Brussels, Whittall and Worcester Brussels, Sanford Wilton Velvet and Sanford Velvets. The quality of these makes is unquestioned, and Lord & Taylor show them in many private patterns, as well as in a general line. For satisfactory service in obtaining fine cut carpets we can assuredly recommend the trade to this concern.

The January number of The Pilot, a bright and handsome monthly paper published by the Old Dominion Steamship Company, is issued, and business men will find in it a great deal of interesting reading matter and useful information. They are advised to note especially the details given concerning the short sea trips and winter excursions provided by the company's steamships. Write to W. L. Guillauden, vice-president of the company, Pier 26 North River, New York, for a copy of The Pilot.

PACIFIC SLOPE NOTES.

San Francisco, January 6.

The retail trade is very quiet, which is always the case just after the holidays. Buyers are now leaving for the East, and in a couple of months new stock will be coming into town. The dealers are hopeful of a better trade this year, and if California has good crops there is no doubt that all lines will be much improved.

H. C. Keedy has opened a furniture store at Davenport, Wash.

Harvey Heiss, of New York, was in town during the holidays, and enjoyed a good trade.

Mr. Groom has taken the late Frank Lane's place on the Coast for H. L. Judd & Co., and is doing a fine business.

Charles E. Fredericks, of Joseph Fredericks & Co., left last week for the Grand Rapids factories and New York.

W. A. Ristenpart will leave for the East to-night on a purchasing trip in the interest of the furniture department of W. & J. Sloane & Co.

James Field, formerly of Field & McNaughton, proprietors of the upholstery department in the Emporium, is now traveling on this Coast for W. T. Smith & Son.

The will of the late Chas. M. Plum has been filed for probate. The estate is estimated to be worth over $75,000, and $50,000 of that amount is left in specific legacies to near relatives.

Since N. L. Walden has returned from the East he has been pushing his elegant line of Sanford & Sons' goods, and meeting with his usual success. He has just returned from a Coast trip.

William Mackay, agent for Arnold, Constable & Co., has enjoyed a big trade in Bigelow Axminster and Lowell Brussels carpets. He has been fortunate in securing also the agency of Dornan Brothers recently.

After the closing of the books for 1897 in the carpet department of the Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar, of which W. F. Cordes, of the carpet and furniture department, is sole owner, a gain of 50 per cent. during the past six months was shown.

W. G. Barr, president of China Hall, Stockton, Cal., will open a carpet store at No. 230 Sutter street, this city.

Barker Brothers, the carpet and furniture dealers, of Los Angeles, Cal., will soon move into a five story building almost opposite to the large establishment of Niles Pease. Barker Brothers' new store will take rank with the fine furniture stores in the State.

The planing mill and furniture factory of S. S. Whitney at San Bernardino, Cal., was destroyed by fire caused by an overturned glue lamp. The loss is about $15,000, with an insurance of about $8,000. This factory fire came very near causing the destruction of the entire business section of the city. As it was, $75,000 damage was sustained by surrounding property. Mr. Whitney has been in Los Angeles, Cal., recently, looking for a site on which to rebuild his establishment in that city.

Golden Gate.

The Rotary carpet cleaning machine, manufactured by F. H. Good, 942 and 944 North Ninth street, Philadelphia enables carpet and upholstery goods dealers to add a most profitable branch to their business at little cost. Write to Mr. Good for price lists and further details. He can interest you.

The number of persons employed in factories and workshops in the United Kingdom in 1895 is given at 4,102,485. Textile factory hands number 1,975,751. In the textile industry females outnumber the male employees, the proportion being 61.7 per cent. In "non-textile" factories males greatly preponderate, though the proportion of females advanced from 15.5 in 1890 to 17 9 per cent. in 1895.—Ex.

ATTRACTING CUSTOMERS.

AN ENGLISH FIRM'S NEW AND PECULIAR SCHEME.

As an advertisement of their business the firm of Peter & Evans, proprietors of a large department store at Brixton, England, are now requiring their saleswomen to dress so as to represent characters in various theatrical productions, such as "Trilby," "The Geisha," "The Shop Girl," &c. The salesmen are all dressed in the uniform of the Cape Mounted Riflemen. We have not learned whether the idea has proved remunerative or not to the originators, and as saleswomen are not employed in the carpet business in this country, our retail dealers would therefore be unable to present what is doubtless the most attractive part of the English firm's scheme. But among our salesmen there is certainly material for a varied and interesting display, as, for instance, in the matter of national costumes. The numerous representatives of the MacGregors, MacDonalds and other Scottish clans in the trade would make a most imposing appearance in kilts, &c., until mosquitoes are in season, and although some legs might take on a bluish tint on particularly cold days, that is a detail easily provided for by those who remember and act upon the historic remark of the Governor of North Carolina to the Governor of South Carolina. The dress of the Irish lad, as shown in the Irish plays of the day, would form a handsome and appropriate costume for many of the most brilliant lights in the trade. Where something still more imposing is desired the royal robes of Erin's ancient kings might be in many cases fitly donned. Spain is but sparsely represented among carpet men, but the dress of the toreador, as in "Carmen," would be quite effective for any swarthy member of the trade. The character of Don Juan, in Mozart's opera, calls for another attractive costume, but the austere morals of our salesmen would probably prompt them to frown upon this suggestion. Germany could be strongly and finely represented, the handsome garb of the Tyrol being one especially effective and appropriate for a number of melodious warblers and yodelers in the carpet fraternity. France, Italy, Turkey, Greece and Armenia could all be represented in the trade, and the general effect would certainly equal in splendor the finest wax figure show ever given by Artemus Ward.

The wholesale trade could make a still more attractive display on account of the greater number of the fair sex employed in it as stenographers, bookkeepers, &c. The feminine characters in such plays as "The Girl from Paris," "French Maid," "Circus Girl" or "As You Like It" afford ample opportunities for the display of perfectly lovely costumes and—&c.

It is indeed possible that the Merchants' Association, if its attention is called to it, may take some action in this matter in connection with its other schemes for bringing buyers to New York.

C C Perry has withdrawn as the St. Louis representative of the Lamond & Robertson Company.

THE ANTI-SCALPING BILL.

William F. King, president of the Merchants' Association, accompanied by William R. Corwine, of its press department, and by James B. Dill, counsel, went recently to Washington. Mr. King appeared before the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce, before which the bill known as the Anti-Scalping bill is pending, and gave his views on the subject.

The Merchants' Association is opposed to the theory and practice of scalping. The board of directors of the Merchants' Association passed a resolution a short time ago favoring the passage of the bill and instructed their officers and counsel to do all in their power to aid the bill in its course through Congress.

Copies of this resolution were sent to all non-resident members of the Merchants' Association—some 27,000 in number—to each member of both houses of Congress, to every railway president, vice-president, general freight and general passenger agent in the country, and further publicity was given to the resolution through the press. The men who are now at the head of the Merchants' Association were active last spring in aiding the passage of the Anti-Scalping Bill in the Legislature of this State, and in securing the signature of the Governor to the bill.

AT WILD'S.

There are several lines at Joseph Wild & Co.'s which wise buyers will find it profitable to inspect. In the all wool Astoria Art carpets the line contains a large number of new designs in all sizes and a wide variety of shadings.

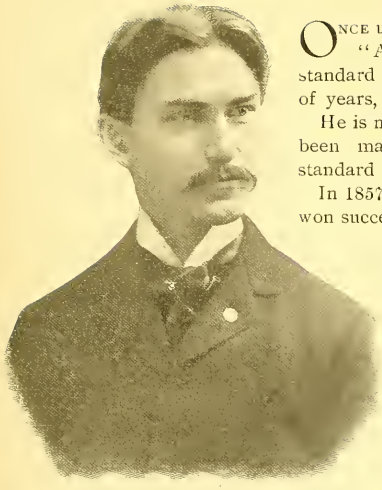
In Smyrna rugs and carpets in three grades all regular sizes are shown as well as hall runners in any lengths.

The American Linoleum Company, for which Joseph Wild & Co. are sole agents, are making five grades—A, B, C, D and E, and have numerous attractive designs in each weight, with new color effects in all.

McCALLUM & McCALLUM.

The entire output of McCallum & McCallum's Glen Echo Mills is sold up to the full capacity of their looms for months to come, and it may be said that their Wiltons and Brussels are more popular than ever with the trade. Quiet beauty without gorgeousness are the leading features of the new designs and colors. Handsome scrolls upon various grounds are conspicuous among them, shades of green being prominent. Their offerings in Indian designs and colors are decidedly unique and rich. There is no doubt that the Glen Echo Wiltons and Brussels will hold their own against any similar productions at home or abroad. Only the best materials are allowed to go into them. The Glen Echo Extra Ingrains have been so long and so favorably known to the trade that it is needless for us to add one word of praise or try to increase their popularity; but we will say that the "Arras Tapestries" stand well to the front among the new weaves of Philadelphia and elsewhere. The way in which the "Brussels effects" are brought out in this new fabric is something wonderful. The demand continues excellent for the Byzantine rugs and carpets.

HENRY HOLMES AND HIS BOYS.



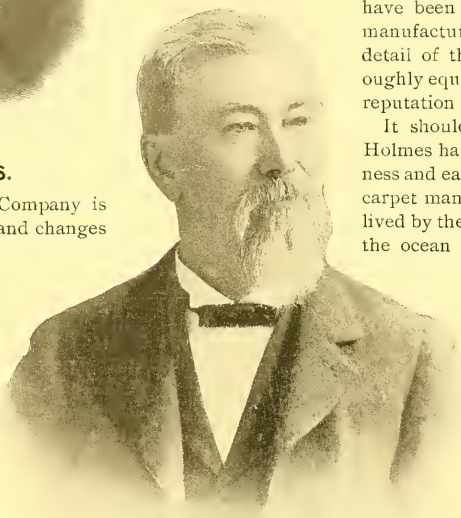
ARTHUR C. HOLMES

Once upon a time a wise old French philosopher formulated the following proposition: "A woman is as old as she looks, a man is as old as he feels" Judged by this standard Henry Holmes is only a boy, and yet the record shows that he is—not in point of years, but in continuous service—the oldest carpet manufacturer in Philadelphia.

He is now entering on the forty-first year of his business career—a career that has been marked by progress, independence and an adherence to the most absolute standard of integrity, both as a man, a maker and a master.

In 1857 he started his small shop on Hope street, near Jefferson, and later, with well won success behind him, moved to Hancock street. About fifteen years ago he set up the Sherman Mills at Trenton avenue and Auburn street, where on January 1 he took into partnership his two sons, Arthur C. and Harry Russell Holmes, and the Sherman Mills will hereafter be operated under the style of Henry Holmes & Sons.

The fruit never falls far from the stem, and the father is a sufficient guarantee for the sons. Both of the young men have been trained in the best commercial and manufacturing methods, have learned every detail of the Ingrain production and are thoroughly equipped for the work of keeping up the reputation of the concern.



HENRY HOLMES.

It should be remembered that while Henry Holmes has been steadily building up his business and earning a competency—no Philadelphia carpet manufacturer ever made a profit—he has lived by the way. Several times he has crossed the ocean and revisited the scenes of his boyhood. So far as we know he never broke a promise, if we except the time when he crossed Joshua Gregg on the Atlantic, and even then he wanted the captain to stop the ship in mid-Atlantic and transfer him so that he could keep his engagement in Paris. He has made many friends, and if he has any enemies they listen to earless audiences. Mr.

HARRY RUSSELL HOLMES.

EXTENSIVE REPAIRS.

The Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company is making extensive repairs and changes in its factory at Grand Rapids, Mich. The managers are putting in a new engine with a capacity of 320 horse power and one new boiler. Their old engine was of only 150 horse power. They retain in use two of the old boilers, which are of modern design, and the third one is of like capacity and design. They are putting in an entirely new foundation for the boilers and engine, having torn out all the old foundation and begun the new on the bed rock. They have also put in a new system of shafting and belting throughout the factory. The new belting to be used will be of cable or rope.

Advices from Shewan, Tomes & Co., of Canton, as regards the China matting market, say under date of December 4 that several new orders have been received since their last advices, and the market is strong. No fresh settlements are reported, as only April-May delivery can be obtained, and dealers not wishing to run any risk are quoting high prices. An all round increase in prices is maintained and a further rise may be expected. Contracts remain at 220,000 rolls.

The Newfield Smyrna Rug Company, manufacturers of Smyrna and Soudan rugs and carpets, Newfield, N. J., show a fine line of these goods for the spring trade in all sizes, from single door mats to 9x12 carpets. J. G. Burrows & Co., who are sole agents for the goods, have the complete line on view at their New York salesroom, 343 Broadway, and it deserves the prompt attention of buyers.

Holmes is once more going to take a needed vacation and will visit the new empire which, since he began his business life, has grown up on the shores of the Pacific.

He can safely take a well earned rest, for he leaves his business in competent hands.

ENGLISH NOTES.

The Kidderminster Shuttle of the 25th ult. says: "This has been a busy week, completing special Christmas orders. The quantity of goods dispatched from the carpet mills has been very considerable. Now there will be a lull. The Christmas holidays will extend from Friday evening till Wednesday morning, and in some cases machinery will not be re-started till the following morning. Wool continues to harden in value, and spinners are obliged to refuse some of the offers made, insisting upon 1-8, and in some instances 1-4, more than offered."

The directors of John Crossley & Sons, Limited, Halifax, have decided to recommend that after providing for payment of the dividend on the preference shares at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, there be paid a dividend of 4s. 6d. per share on the ordinary shares, which, with the dividend of 2s. 6d. per share paid on them in August last, is equal to 7 per cent. for the year ended December 11, 1897. The profits, including £924 16s. 6d. brought forward from last year, amount to £67,822 8s. 10d., to which it is proposed to add from reserve fund No 2 £4,000, making a total of £71,822 8s. 10d. The above dividends requiring the sum of £71,278 4s., a balance of £544 4s. 10d. will be carried forward to next year.

The British Carpet Trade.

In its annual review of the carpet trade of 1897 the Shuttle, of Kidderminster, England, says:

Taking a general review of the textile industries for 1897, it must be admitted that the year as a whole cannot be classed as a good one. The output has been below the average, and many concerns during the last few months have either been on short time or a considerable portion of their machinery has been standing. This means a heavy loss in any trade where expensive machinery is used, or the so-called dead charges are high. In some branches there was a feverish rush early in the year to get goods into the United States in anticipation of the Dingley tariff law. This had the effect of clearing out many English warehouses, but now very little trade in manufactured goods is being done with the States; nor can much be expected under present circumstances. The regular markets also seem to have fallen off of late in their demand for goods. It is hard to fix upon the exact cause. No doubt the disastrous industrial struggle which still continues has exercised some influence. Then, during the year people have spent large sums in connection with the Diamond Jubilee celebrations, and left less for the support of textile trades. The terrible famine and plague in India, the unsettled condition of affairs in South Africa, and the almost universal trade depression in the countries around us have exercised depressing influences. Without being over sanguine, however, there are distinct indications of improvement with the new year. The progress may be slow, but the movements of the last few weeks, as we have several times pointed out, have to a large extent restored confidence, and if we could see a settlement of the labor question business would be quickened. Prices in all classes of goods are low. This should stimulate consumption, and, with freedom from international complications, we can confidently look to 1898 to prove commercially a better and brighter year than the one which closes to-day.

The trade in Wiltons and Brussels has been fairly well maintained. Each year more clearly demonstrates the fact that the carpet trade is a seasonable one, and both manufacturers and weavers should now recognize this tendency. While it must be admitted that there are fewer looms in work at the close than at the beginning of the year, owing to the unfortunate closing of one or two local firms and the reduction in number by some of the larger firms, the volume of trade done has been considerable. Over-production, with the inevitable cutting in prices, has to a large extent disappeared. The trade has on the whole been healthy in tone, with prices well maintained and in some qualities even increased. The competition from outside quarters has been less felt than in some previous years, if we except the European markets. In these countries, particularly Spain, native manufacturers have met local needs, and in a few instances the over-supply has found its way into our markets. No doubt more was expected from the jubilee year than has been realized, but the outlook for the immediate future is regarded on all hands as distinctly promising. The new season has opened late, and orders usually placed in October and November have in some cases been deferred till January. While the engineers' strike has not directly affected our local trade, it has indirectly checked the home demand for carpets, and the effects will probably be more keenly felt in the spring. The markets are steady, and both at home and in Australia, Canada and South Africa the prospects are bright and encouraging. There is no doubt of a strong growing preference in the colonies for English made carpets.

Trade in the various kinds of Axminsters has been decidedly good throughout the year. The volume of business done has exceeded that of last year, even if it has not reached the total of 1895. The orders booked by the travelers who have recently returned home have been more varied and larger in the aggregate than for years past, and everyone looks forward with confidence and hopefulness to the future. There has been in various ways a considerable increase in machinery, and we hear of other firms who propose at an early date to erect a plant for the production of Axminster carpet. In one respect this is to be regretted, because it means a diminution of male and an increase of female labor in our midst.

THE TAFT CARPET SEWING MACHINE.

The carpet sewing machine, invented and manufactured by J. C. Taft, 40 Friendship street, Providence, R. I., is constantly growing in popularity among the trade. It can be operated by hand, electric or steam power. It sews every way, and sews everthing the correct way. The sewing is done with the elastic stitch only. It sews Ingrains over and over, giving a perfect imitation of hand work, but stronger and more even. It sews Wiltons, Brussels and Tapestries with a straight stitch, and sews Japanese matting and fibre carpets, over-cast to lay flat. For further details concerning the special features of this machine, write to Mr. Taft, whose advertisement is on page 96 of this issue.

CROMPTON & KNOWLES LOOMS.

The Ingrain, Art Square and upholstery looms, made at the Crompton & Knowles loom works, Worcester, Mass., represent perfection in mechanical skill and ingenuity in this department of machine making. The Art Square looms are made in all widths, and the upholstery looms are adapted for furniture coverings, curtains, draperies, portières, &c. Write to the works for further particulars.

The Employees' Mutual Aid Association of the Fries-Breslin Company, Camden, N. J., will give their third annual ball at Turn Hall, Pine street, above Fifth, on February 18.

THE HIGGINS COMPANY'S NEW SALESROOMS.

The removal of the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company's selling headquarters in this city from the old stand in White street to the new and handsome salesrooms at 41 Union square, corner of Seventeenth street, is announced in its advertisement on the colored sheet opposite page 8 of this issue, and will be regarded as another illustration of the progressive spirit which the company is showing under its present energetic and able management.

The building at 84 White street was first occupied for the sale of the Higgins carpets in 1868, and until the present date has served as the centre for their sale and shipment. Hereafter the goods will be shipped direct from the factory, and the spacious premises at 41 Union square west will be used as salesrooms and offices.

The old store in White street was opened by the firm of E. S. Higgins & Co., composed of Elias S. and Nathaniel Higgins. The foundation of the business was laid January 1, 1837, when Elias S. Higgins, in partnership with his brother Alvin, opened a retail carpet store on Pearl street, near Madison street. Three years later they opened a small Ingrain factory, and from this small mill was developed the immense manufacturing business now controlled by the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company, in which Eugene Higgins, son of Elias S. Higgins, is president, and R. P. Perkins (whose portrait appears on this page) is vice-president and acting head of the company. Mr. Perkins is young, energetic and exceptionally qualified for his position, being a first-class business man, an expert on wools and equally well versed in carpet manufacture. He has in George S. Squire, an especially efficient assistant in all the technical details of the trade.

In its new and spacious salesrooms the company will have greatly increased facilities for the effective display of goods, the premises having a fine north light, and being admirably adapted in all other respects for the showing of samples to advantage. The main salesroom is 30x175 feet and the wing in the rear is 22x92 feet. The wing will be used for showing Ingrains, and the Tapestries and Velvets will be displayed on the main floor. A large reception room, with tables, chairs, &c., is provided for the convenience of the firm's customers.

The trade are advised to see the new salesrooms and the goods (which are now on view) as soon as possible.

R. P. PERKINS.

NEW LINOLEUM PLANT.

The Trenton Oil Cloth Company, Trenton, N. J., who have heretofore manufactured table and enameled oil cloth, will shortly add the manufacture of linoleum to their business. They have erected six new substantial buildings for that purpose, which they expect to occupy about March 1. Of the buildings three are four stories high, one being 130x50, while two more are respectively 80x64 and 65x65. They have two small structures, one to be used as a printing shop and another for mixing. The new plant will have no connection with the oil cloth works of the Trenton Company in its manufacturing conveniences, and will operate entirely with its own engines and boiler. New and latest improved machinery will be put in, and it is said the machinery will contain ideas not in use in this country heretofore. The company does not contemplate the manufacture of floor oil cloths at the present time, but will turn out a line of solid and inlaid linoleums as soon as the machinery is in operation.

The product of the new company will be sold directly from the mills, the sale and manufacturing of the same being directed personally by E. D. Cook, who holds the office of general manager and treasurer, the president being his brother, G. R. Cook, who is well known from his financial connection with the Empire Rubber Works.

The new departure of the company is another sign of the increasing popularity of linoleum as a floor covering.

She—I detest a man who is always talking shop. He—And I dislike a woman who always talks shopping.—Ex.

There was only one exhibit made by wholesale carpet dealers at the Grand Rapids Furniture Exposition. George C. Cullmer, of Tefft, Weller & Co.'s traveling force, was the solitary representative of the wholesale trade, but it is believed that a number of carpet manufacturers will show samples there next July.

A daily paper tells the following story about one of the latest "wonderful inventions": "Millard F. Field, of Newport, Me., has invented a machine for drawing in warps for looms, and has sold a third interest in his patent to B. P. Cheney, of Boston, Mass., for $100,000. It gauges its work automatically, and it draws in 2,000 ends properly in seven minutes, something that would require the most expert workman about three hours to perform."

Obituary.

David O. Swire.

David O. Swire, the widely known and popular head of the carpet manufacturing firm of Swire & Scott, Philadelphia, was instantly killed by being run over at a railroad crossing in the northern part of that city on the 6th inst. Mr. Swire had been spending the day at his mill, as usual, and was walking through York street on his way to his home, 2141 North Thirteenth street, when he reached the fatal crossing.

Mr. Swire was born in Pennsylvania fifty-one years ago. He went into business for himself in 1883 after spending a number of years as salesman for Thos. L. Leedom & Co. The new firm was first Shaw, Swire & Scott, and Mr. Scott had also been with Leedom & Co. for a long period as mill superintendent. Shaw, Swire & Scott quickly made a reputation as producers of Ingrains and specialists in Ingrain Art Squares. Mr. Swire was even more successful as a salesman for his own firm's goods than for others. He had never fully given up his road trips, although during the past few years he had done but little traveling. He had excellent business ability, and was a skilled judge of salable patterns.

David Swire was one of the group of successful carpet travelers who controlled the road trade and held the good will of the buyers in the late seventies and early eighties, and was one of the few whose success was uninterrupted, and who became the head of a prosperous business. Mr. Shaw retired from the firm in 1889, and its name was changed to Swire & Scott. Mr. Shaw died in 1892.

The funeral services of Mr. Swire were held at his late residence on the 10th inst., and were very largely attended. Among those present were many from the numerous benevolent societies of which he was a member. The carpet trade was represented by Messrs. Geo. D. Bromley, John Hamilton, Geo. Fry, William Henderson, William Scott, Geo. D. Irwin, Robert Carson, John W. Martin, Thomas Develon, Lewis Herring, Joseph W. Adams and many others.

The services were conducted by Rev. Chas. A. Morgan, former pastor of the Spring Garden Baptist Church, with which the decedent had been connected. The burial, which was private, was at Westminster Cemetery. A delegation from the Masonic Lodge of which Mr. Swire was a member was present at the church, and performed the funeral service of the order at the burial. The decedent leaves a widow, and one brother survives him.

Robert B. Judge.

Robert B. Judge, only surviving member of the Ingrain carpet manufacturing firm of William Judge & Brothers, Philadelphia, died suddenly of apoplexy on the 8th inst. at his home in that city.

Mr. Judge had been in feeble health for a year past, but had somewhat improved during the last few weeks, and was in particularly good spirits when he visited the mill at an early hour on the morning of his death. While at the mill he became weak and returned to his residence, about a square away, where he was met by Dr. Robert B. Judge, a nephew, who saw that the illness would result fatally and notified the family. He soon became unconscious and passed away at about 9 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Judge was one of the best known and most respected citizens of the old Kensington district, and held high positions in various organizations. He was prominent in the Masonic order, was for years vestryman at Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, Marlborough street, above Girard avenue. He was also a member of the Manufacturers' Club and other associations.

He was born in Ireland, fifty-eight years ago, and came to this country when he was sixteen years of age. He engaged with his elder brothers in the carpet manufacturing business, and at the age of twenty-one was admitted into the firm. The plant was enlarged from time to time until 1881, when the present large building was erected to accommodate the increasing trade.

The funeral services were held at his late home on the 11th inst. and were very largely attended. They were conducted by Rev. L. D. Smith, Rector of Emanuel P. E. Church. The remains were interred in Central Laurel Hill Cemetery. Delegates from the Shekinah, No. 246, F. D. A. M. and Harmony Lodge, No. 20, A. P. A., and the numerous operatives of the mill were present at the funeral, as were also the survivors of the old Volunteer Taylor Hose Company, of which Mr. Judge was a member.

Among the carpet manufacturers and those more or less connected with their industry who were present were: Messrs. Robert Dornan, T. Benton Dornan, Geo. D. Bromley, Wm. D. Huston, John Boyd, Geo. S. Campbell, Joseph W. Adams, John F. Lodge, James Whitaker, A. Flanigan, Geo. S. Jenks, John Hamilton, David Jackson, Isaac Wilde, Joseph Hoffman, Thomas Taylor, James Galbraith, Thomas Develon, Robert Develon, F. McGee, Geo. D. Irwin, Edwd. C. Read, Thomas Boggs, Robert Carson, William Scott, William Jamison, Isaac Lockhart, George Carveany, and Andrew Cochran.

Mr. Judge leaves six children, among whom are William

B. and Robert Judge, Jr., who are associated in the management of the mill. A sister also survives him.

Frank H. Randall.

Frank H. Randall, vice-president of the R. H. & B. C. Reeve Company and superintendent of its linoleum and floor oil cloth works at Camden, N. J., died in that city on the 4th inst.

He was born in Vermont in 1857 and went to Camden in early boyhood, when his father, the late Levi B. Randall, was engaged as foreman for the oil cloth works operated by Messrs. R. H. & B. C. Reeve. At the age of about fifteen or sixteen years Mr. Randall entered the employ of the Messrs. Reeve to learn block cutting and rose from that work to become foreman of the hand printing department of their oil cloth factory, his father being at that time foreman of the entire works. Upon the resignation of his father in 1890, he was made foreman of the oil cloth works, and this place he retained until Messrs. R. H. Reeve and B. C. Reeve retired in 1892. The business was continued from May 2, 1892, still under the old name, although conducted by Mr. A. H. Reeve only, at which time Mr. F. H. Randall was made superintendent of the works. This position he retained, being especially active in substituting power printing for the old methods of printing by hand, and when the firm of R. H. & B. C. Reeve was merged into a stock company on January 4, 1897, he was elected superintendent of the works and vice-president of the company.

He was identified with various Masonic orders in Camden. He became ill in November last and since that time had been able to give but little attention to business.

Judson H. Black.

Judson H. Black, for many years a leading member of the carpet trade of Detroit, died at his home in that city, December 26, of apoplexy.

Mr. Black was born in Canada about sixty years ago. His parents were Scotch people in poor circumstances. In fact, until twelve years of age he never had a pair of shoes nor a suit of "store" clothes. His earliest employment was as a clerk in a store, his stipend being $100 a year. When seventeen years of age he and his employer went into business together, but the venture was disastrous, and young Black then came to the United States.

After a short stay in New York city he went South, and when nineteen years old had become a traveling salesman and buyer for a large sugar house, and had paid all the debts incurred by his failure in Canada. Then the war broke out, and he joined the Confederate Army as chief of staff to General Forrest.

In 1865 Mr. Black went to Buffalo, N Y., and engaged in the carpet business. Five years later he was employed by Freedman Brothers, of Detroit, where he remained three years, after which he started in the business as a member of the firm of Barclay & Black. Later the firm style was changed to J. H. Black & Co. When W. H. Fletcher & Co. started in business in New York city, Mr. Black bought the first lot of goods sold by the new firm, having come from Detroit to do so, and to show his friendly feeling for the head of the house, the late W. H. Fletcher.

Four years ago Black & Co. became financially embarrassed, and gave up business. Mr. Black went to Canada, and joined his brother, who had a stock farm there, but afterward entered the carpet trade again as agent at Toronto for several American manufacturers. The enterprise was not very successful, and about a year and a half ago Mr. Black returned to Detroit, where he engaged in the grocery business, and continued in it until his death.

He was a widower, and leaves no children. He was a member of the Detroit Commandery, Knights Templar and an Elk.

William T. Buckley.

William T. Buckley, formerly of the firm of Dunham, Buckley & Co., dry goods and carpet jobbers, New York, shot and killed himself in a boathouse near his country home at Far Rockaway, L. I., on the 6th inst. His family say that the wound was inflicted accidentally while he was shooting seagulls, but his recent retirement from the firm with which he had been connected for twenty-three years has given many the impression that he committed suicide.

Mr. Buckley was fifty years old. He was a son of the late Thomas T. Buckley, who was a member of the old firm of Buckley, Welling & Co. After leaving college, William Buckley entered the store of Buckley, Welling & Co., and remained with them until 1875, when he became a member of the firm of Dunham, Buckley & Co., who are successors of the old and noted house of Phelps, Chittenden & Bliss, which was established in 1840. In 1854 Mr. Chittenden retired and the firm style was changed to Phelps, Bliss & Co. In 1861 Mr. Phelps withdrew, and James H. Dunham was admitted as a partner, the firm name being changed to George Bliss & Co. In 1861 the name became Eldridge, Dunham & Co., Mr. Bliss retiring then, and when Mr. Buckley entered the firm its style was changed to Dunham, Buckley & Co., this name being retained until December 31, 1897, when the firm was reorganized without Mr. Buckley, under the present name of James H. Dunham & Co.

Mr. Buckley's city home was at 3 West Sixteenth street. He was a member of the Union League Club, the Century, the Players', the Merchants', the Down Town Association, the South Side Sportsmen's, the Rockaway Hunt, the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, and the Dunlap Society. He leaves a widow and one son, who is a student at Princeton University.

Henry S. Flint.

Dr. Henry Sanborn Flint, who died at the residence of his son in Bristol, R. I., December 12, was born in 1821 in North Reading, Mass. His father, Henry Flint, moved to Peacham, Vt., when Henry was about twelve years of age. When he reached the age of eighteen he shipped on a whaler for three years from Salem, Mass. Upon his return from that voyage he enlisted in the navy for three years. Upon the expiration of his term of service he went to work in a machine shop in East Boston. In 1849, when gold was discovered in California, he sailed around Cape Horn to the new Eldorado, and engaged in mining. He next ran a sloop from San Francisco to Sacramento before there were any steamers on the coast. He remained in California two years. He then returned to Peacham, Vt, and bought a farm. At the end of two years he moved to Northfield, Vt. He worked as an engineer on the Vermont Central until he went to Providence, R. I., about 1862. Here he engaged in the carpet and furniture business on the site now occupied by the Narragansett Hotel, the firm name being Flint & Brown. In 1865 the firm became Flint & Co., and in 1892 the Flint Company was incorporated, and Henry S. Flint was chosen president. The title of doctor was assumed at the time the firm manufactured Quaker Bitters from about 1880 to 1885, in order to protect the trade mark. In the latter year this business was disposed of. Dr. Flint had four sons. One, Harvey J. Flint, has died. The others are George H. Flint, of Providence; Alonzo E. Flint, of Pawtucket, and Albert H. Flint, of Bristol, at whose home the subject of this sketch died.

A. Pearson.

Alexander Pearson, for twenty-five years engaged in the carpet and furniture business on Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, died suddenly on January 12 in the sixty-fifth year of his age. The funeral services are to be held to-day at his late residence on Seventh street. He married a daughter of the late John F. Mason and sister of Isaac Mason, of the Brooklyn Furniture Company, and leaves a large family of sons and daughters. His sons have been connected with him in business for some years past. Mr. Pearson was a veteran member of Stella Lodge, F. and A. M.

Mamie J., oldest daughter of Jas. J. A. Callahan, manager of the carpet department of the Brooklyn Furniture Company, died on Christmas eve in her eighteenth year. She was graduated from the grammar school in June, 1897, and was at the time of her death a pupil in the girls' high school. She was of a pleasant and happy disposition, a more than ordinarily bright scholar, and ambitious to succeed in her studies.

THE MARCUS STAIR PADS AND LININGS.

The offerings of M. H. Marcus & Brother, manufacturers of carpet linings, stair pads, comfortables, &c., have found a large demand in the trade of the season, and the firm have every reason to be satisfied with the business done to date They have just opened an office at 611 Washington street, Boston, which is in charge of their New England agent, John Monroe. The trade of the Eastern States will find this office a very convenient centre for replenishing their stock of Marcus & Brothers' popular specialties. The firm's complete line is shown, as usual, at their New York headquarters, 115 Worth street. See their advertisement on page 20 of this issue.

NEW ORIENTAL RUG HOUSE.

A. & M. Karaghensian, who have conducted a general importing and exporting business at 71 Wall street, are about to expand their Oriental rug business. They will remove to new quarters at 365 and 367 Broadway before February 1, and state that invoices of $80,000 to $100,000 worth of rugs are now on the way, and will be shown at the new salesroom.

Vartan Jinishian, well known to the trade through his connection with other rug importers, is to manage the rug department, and will return from the Oriental markets within a week, and will shortly have the new goods in shape for the inspection of buyers.

F. B. Bru Baker continues alone as selling agent for Thos. Caves & Sons' Keystone Velvets. James H. Whittaker retired from the firm of F. B. Bru Baker & Co. on the 4th inst. Mr. Bru Baker is now at his office in the Hartford Building, New York, attending to visiting buyers, and will call upon the New England trade very shortly. The Caves Velvets are winning favor through their superior quality at the price and perfect matching. A visit to the market is not complete without inspecting this line.

THE REMNANT SUPPLEMENT.

Our annual Remnant Supplement will be published February 15 next, and is certain to find a cordial welcome in the trade. Some years ago carpet dealers had more ways of disposing of remnants than is the case at present. As one of our correspondents remarks, manufacturers of carpet bags and carriages once consumed a considerable quantity, for which they have now no use. With more vigilance than ever before necessary to find a market for the odds and ends of their stocks, it is natural that the carpet dealers should appreciate the help which the Supplement gives them in this respect, and ample proof to this effect is shown in the letters we receive at this period of the year from dealers throughout the entire country. Among a large number of these which have recently come to us were the following:

Philadelphia, January 2, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Inclosed please find my list of remnants for 1898. I also wish to thank you for the good the previous lists have done for me, in accommodating others and myself as well. I think if all carpet stores would send in their lists it would be the greatest help that a dealer could get, during the busy season especially.

Frank K. Thomas.

Utica, N. Y., January 4, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholseery Trade Review:

We send you by to-day's mail our remnant list for publication in the Supplement. We find the Remnant Supplement of great help in getting rid of remnants, and also in filling up, and it's worth more than the price of The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review.

J. B. Wells, Son & Co.

Utica, N. Y., December 27, 1897.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

We herewith send you our list of remnants for 1898. The Remnant Supplement is a great help to us in procuring and disposing of short lengths, and we appreciate it greatly. Robert Fraser.

Auburn, N. Y., January 5, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

The inclosed list of remnants of our stock of 3-4 goods we send with the thought that through your generosity and kindness in publishing lists of remnants, the whole retail carpet business is greatly benefited. H. R. Wait.

Scranton, Pa., January 5, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Inclosed please find check for The Review. We cannot do business without The Review, and find the Remnant List of the greatest value. We send under separate cover our remnant list. Please insert. C. N. Kerr.

Jackson, Mich., December 21, 1897.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Inclosed find list of remnants of carpets which we wish you to place in your Remnant Supplement. We find it very useful to us in the business, and a great saving in time and expense in ordinary carpets. L. H. Field.

Springfield, Mass., January 2, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Appended we hand you list of remnants, assuring you of the great value of your Supplement not only in closing out small lots, but being able to find just the small piece of carpet that often saves the sale. Remaining with respect and many thanks for your many favors,

E. A. Hale.

Waterbury, Conn., January 7, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

In accordance with our usual custom for several years, we herein beg to submit our list of carpet remnants for publication in the Remnant Supplement. We find that the benefits derived from the Supplement increase every season, and consider it an important adjunct to your valuable trade paper, The Review. In fact, would not care to be without either. Wishing you success in your endeavors to benefit the trade so liberally,

The L. F. Haase Company.

Utica, N. Y., January 7, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

We are sending you to-day, under separate cover, our remnant list for the next issue of The Review.

We trust that we are in time, for we would not like to be without the Supplement. John A. Roberts & Co.

Richmond, Va., January 6, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Inclosed please find our remnant list. We hope same will be in time, as your Supplement has become such a friend at our elbow as to be almost indispensable. The Cohen Company.

Newburgh, N. Y., January 7, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Inclosed please find my list of remnants for insertion in your Remnant list. I can only confirm from experience what I have heretofore said, that of all "modern improvements" it is by no means the least.

In the older days of the trade we had certain outlets for our remnants which are closed to us now, viz., the carpet bag, and carriage makers. Old Uncle Seth C. Thompson would come twice a year and clean out every remnant, even thousands of yards. Now the carpet bag is a curiosity and redolent of the "hayseed," and carriages have specially made carpets to be up to date. Geo. B. Adams.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Inclosed please find our annual remnant list, which we take pleasure in sending, as we think it a benefit to us.

B. H. Gladding & Co.

Banta.—Wesley Banta, of the firm of Van Gaasbeek & Arkell, is abroad on one of his long trips, during which he will spend a few months at the carpet and rug factories of S. J. Tellery & Co. in India. His firm are sole American agents for the rugs and carpets made by this India house.

Bird.—M. J. Bird, Oriental rug buyer for John Wanamaker's establishments, was in New York on the 11th inst. looking over the lines of a prominent Oriental house, and with whom he closed a large contract. Mr. Bird has the well deserved reputation of being one of the most skillful buyers in the market.

Breslin.—Thomas J. Breslin, of the Fries-Breslin Company, with headquarters at the Hartford Building, New York, has done a very large trade in their Smyrnas. Mr. Breslin's genial manner, coupled with the rare qualities of a good salesman, have made him irresistible with the trade.

Carroll.—J. M. Carroll, of the Fries-Breslin Company, paid a welcome visit to the company's New York office on the 6th inst. When not otherwise engaged, Mr. Carroll is planning new additions to the plant or leasing outside quarters for this rapidly growing concern.

Cartledge.—John Cartledge, of Joseph Wild & Co., sailed from Europe on Wednesday, the 12th inst. He will make only a brief visit at home, and will return to join his family on the Continent.

Halliday—Charlton.—A. L. Halliday, the designer, and his associate, A. R. Charlton, have recently returned from a ten days' trip to Savannah, Jacksonville and St. Augustine.

Kerr.—S. G. Kerr, the well-known carpet dealer, of Scranton, Pa., is confined to his house by serious illness.

Keveney.—T. J. Keveney, of T. J. Keveney & Co., while returning from a recent trip to the West met with an unpleasant accident. He was passing from one car to another on a train, when a sudden lurch threw him against the side of the car and the result was a broken collar bone. With characteristic pluck and energy he would not allow the injury to keep him from business more than a day or two, and he is now attending to his affairs as usual.

King.—A. H. King, formerly of Hardenbergh & King, Brooklyn, was seen the other day by a Review reporter studying the Alaska outfit in the window of the Northern Pacific Railroad. He expects to start for the Klondike in the spring, but whether to dig or start a carpet business he was undetermined. He will make a first-class argonaut of '98.

McNaughton.—George B. McNaughton, one of the oldest carpet cutters in New York city and Brooklyn, and for some time past with Abraham & Straus, has been seriously ill for six weeks with typhoid-malaria. He is out again, and is speedily picking up flesh and strength.

McNeir.—George McNeir, of W. & J. Sloane, returned on the 13th inst. from a trip to Chicago.

Murphy.—P. J. Murphy, of P. J. Murphy & Co., the Camden, N. J., floor oil cloth manufacturers, was in New York last week securing additional supplies of burlap, which indicates good spring orders.

Percival.—C. Percival, representing the Oriental firm of George P. & J. Baker, London, England, will sail homeward on the 15th after a very successful trip to the larger cities of the States.

Phillips.—E. D. Phillips, formerly with Newcomb, Endicott & Co., of Detroit, is now with H. G. Nergararian & Brother, who for ten years past have been prominent leaders in Oriental goods in that town. They are now adding a large stock of domestic rugs, &c.

Ray.—F. A. Ray, manager of the carpet department of Wm. M. Whitney & Co., Albany, N. Y., dropped in at The Review office the other day. He thinks things at the Capital are all right, whatever may be the state of affairs at the capitol.

Sabin—Whitney.—Miss Mabel Whitney, daughter of William M. Whitney, of Albany, N. Y., was married, December 29, to Charles Hamilton Sabin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Battershall, assisted by Rt. Rev. W. C. Doane, at St. Peter's Church, Albany.

Sloane.—W. D. Sloane, of W. & J. Sloane, has been elected a trustee and vice-president of the Fifth Avenue Transportation Company.

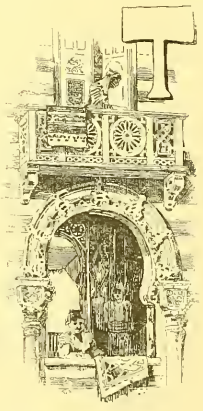
Swayne.—Geo. B. Swayne, of W. & J. Sloane's straw matting department, has reached Japan on his trip to that country and China.

Zinn.—We are informed that J. Phil Zinn, who has had charge of the carpet department at Muir & Scott's, Williamsport, Pa., has resigned to accept a similar position with the Bush & Bull Company, of the same city.

THE REEVE COMPANY'S LINOLEUM.

The R. H. & B. C. Reeve Company are sending to the trade a new linoleum pattern book, which shows thirty-six patterns of linoleum in the exact colors of the cloth. The book is neatly bound, and is something which every dealer ought to have on hand. A copy can be obtained by addressing the company at Camden, N. J., or at their New York office, 801 Hartford Building, 41 Union square, where Mr. Rudolph Sherer is in charge. The company's line of linoleum for the spring trade is replete with novel, original and handsome designs and colorings, which must be seen to be appreciated.

YARDUM BROTHERS.



The Oriental rug and importing firm of Yardum Brothers will remove to their new salesrooms, 594 and 596 Broadway and 124 to 130 Crosby street, this city, February 1. The new quarters are three times as large as those now occupied by them, being 86 feet wide and 200 feet deep, with entrances on both Broadway and Crosby street. Yardum Brothers intend to carry a larger stock of rugs and carpets than ever before, and will also show a very extensive assortment of Japanese art goods. They intend to engage also, in the near future, in the importation of Chinese and Japanese matting, and will conduct this department of their business on a very extensive scale. In their new, elegant and spacious quarters Yardum Brothers will be enabled to display the choice and exceptionally extensive line of rugs and carpets carried by them to far better advantage than ever before. See their new advertisement on page 10 of this issue.

William L Whipple, the Providence, R. I., carpet and furniture dealer, has been elected a director of the Atlantic National Bank, of that city.

SHEET FLOOR OIL CLOTHS.

THEIR MANUFACTURE AND USE IN THE UNITED STATES.

In the manufacture of wide sheet goods the floor oil cloth makers of this country long ago attained a very high standard as regards weight, appearance and durability. So well made were these goods that forty or fifty years ago it was a common practice to reprint them after the figures had been partially worn off. A mechanic in Salem, Mass., did so much of this work for thrifty New England housewives that he found it worth while to utilize an old church as a workshop.

The first manufacturer of the wide sheets in this country was a Mr. Perkins, who opened a factory at Roxbury, Mass., in 1840. Other manufacturers soon entered the field, and important changes were made in the process of manufacture, one being the substitution of the kiln for the old open air process of hardening. The Perkins goods were a reproduction of Hare's English sheets, which at that time were in great demand in this country. They were very heavy, and had a coarse, ribbed surface. A veteran Boston dealer, speaking recently about the sheet goods of his early days in the trade, said that their handling entailed a vast amount of hard work. They were bought in New York and shipped to Boston on the decks of sailing vessels, as the railroads had then no facilities for handling such unwieldy freight. The vessels would ship seas in rough weather, and consequently the sheets, although inclosed in boxes, would frequently come to hand wet from end to end with salt water. Then came night work for all hands in the store, the entire sheet being unrolled, the wet paper removed, both sides wiped dry, and dry papers substituted for the wet ones. On a sheet 24 feet wide and 90 feet long this kind of work was no child's play.

Among the manufacturers who were prominent in the manufacture of sheet goods were Albro & Hoyt, W. M. Brasher & Co., Harvey Brothers, D. Powers & Sons, Theo. Pomeroy, W. H. Townsend, R. C. Haskell & Co., Alden Sampson & Sons, and Thos. Potter, Sons & Co.

R. C. Haskell & Co., of Lansingburgh, N. Y., were especially successful in this branch of the floor oil cloth trade, and are now the only manufacturers of the wider sheet goods in the United States. Their business was established by the late Robert C. Haskell, a man of liberal education and versatile talent, who resigned a position as professor of mathematics at Cohn College, to engage in the manufacture of oil cloths as a partner in the firm of J. E. Whipple & Co., Lansingburgh. Mr. Whipple died in 1866, and Mr. Haskell continued the business at first on his own account, and later in partnership with Mr. Charles S. Holmes. On the death of Mr. Haskell, in May last, Mr. Holmes became the sole proprietor of the business, but he had been practically the head of the house for some years previous on account of the bad health of Mr. Haskell.

The goods manufactured by R. C. Haskell & Co. are sheets 9, 12, 15 and 18 feet wide, and in quality of fabric and patterns they are undoubtedly superior to any others now or ever manufactured. They are in large demand, and are likely to become even more in request, for the call for a floor covering made in one piece without seam is steadily increasing, and the goods of Haskell & Co. in 12, 15 and 18 feet widths meet this demand perfectly, and are in durability and appearance equal to the best linoleum.

JAMES W. BARKER FOUND.

As announced by the Philadelphia Press of the 8th inst., James W. Barker, of the Norristown (Pa.) Carpet Mills, who disappeared about four weeks ago, has been found. The Press said that his son, Arthur Barker, received on the 7th inst. a letter written by a friend of the elder Barker, in which the writer states that Mr. Barker is alive and well. The letter states that when Mr. Barker left home his mind was unbalanced, and when his recovery so far progressed that he was able to comprehend what was transpiring, he found himself several hundred miles from Norristown. The letter seemed to indicate that the writer had received word directly from Mr. Barker or had seen him in person. It was also stated that Mr. Barker is very solicitous for fear that his departure might be attributed to improper motives. The letter was postmarked East Hampton. Arthur Barker in a letter to The Review, dated the 13th inst., says that he has telegraphed for explicit directions of his father's present whereabouts.

The writer of the letter is Samuel Brown, of East Hampton, Mass., a former resident of Germantown. According to the letter, Mr. Barker since his disappearance has assured Mr. Brown that he will pay all creditors dollar for dollar.

The writer refuses to make known at present Mr. Barker's residence, but assures the family that it is remote from East Hampton. It is supposed by other persons here that the remote place Mr. Brown refers to is Montreal, Canada, in which city, it is said, Mr. Barker is being treated in a hospital.

The bondholders will probably sell or lease the mill. Two offers have already been made for it.

The most useful and attractive memorandum book and case issued by any firm in the carpet trade for the year 1898 is that sent out by Costikyan Frères, the Oriental rug importers of 139 Broadway, New York. The case is of leather, and contains a booklet of time tables of railroads running out of New York, and other generally valuable information. It is an excellent illustration of the enterprising methods of this concern.

The cut order business in Whittall Wiltons, which has been carried on for the past few years by Boyd Brothers & Co., of Philadelphia, is now being done directly by M. J. Whittall from his mill in Worcester, Mass. The samples of these cut Wiltons are being sold to the trade by T. B. Shoaff & Co., sole agents for Mr. Whittall, and the latter firm's representatives have successfully placed the lines for the spring season. Boyd Brothers & Co. have retired altogether from the carpet business.

BOSTON BUDGET.

Boston, January 10.

The pleasant face of C. H. Rankin now welcomes customers at W. H. Chipman & Co.'s store. Mr. Rankin has been out of business for a couple of years, having retired from the firm of Bailey & Rankin on account of poor health. Having regained some of his old-time vigor, he is again in the trade.

Hugh Keveney was a recent visitor to the "Hub."

T. B. Shoaff, of New York, made a social visit to Boston the past week.

Mr. Matlock, from the Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Company, is here with a line of Bundhar Wilton rugs.

In my rounds this morning I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Fries, of the Fries-Breslin Company.

Paul Huebner, the head of the carpet department of W. & J. Sloane, has been in the city for a few days.

Augustus Ridgeway, a carpet salesman in Boston for many years, has gone to Europe as traveling companion of Dr. Bowen.

Among trade solicitors here the past week was a representative of the New York and Amsterdam Carpet Company, of New York.

It is reported that Eldridge & Peabody are to succeed Wm. G. Harris & Co. in the carpet and furniture business at 116 Tremont street.

The Hodges Fiber Carpet Company, of 50 Essex street, is showing some handsome new patterns in carpets and rugs of fibre manufacture.

C. C. Bailey & Co., who keep close up to the times, if not a little ahead, in both jobbing and retail departments, are looking for a good spring trade.

William C. Langley, Jr., has purchased the interest of the late William G. Harris in the Bay State Carpet and Furniture Company, 66 Hanover street.

R. H. White & Co. have bought the rug stock of George N. Seaman & Co., the Hamilton place importers, who have dropped this line in their business.

Frothingham, Heffernan & Co. say business opens well with the new year. They have made some changes in their store to give them a better window display.

R. H. White & Co. have secured the lease of buildings on Norfolk place, which will permit the extension of their structure so that it will occupy a whole block on Washington street.

A good story is told at the expense of a carpet salesman who was born in the Green Mountain State, and recently made a visit to his native town, which has taken new life, among other improvements being the putting in of concrete walks in some places. The salesman in dilating recently on these changes to a friend declared that the whole open space in front of the post office had been "consecrated!"

Mr. Solis, of the wool stock department of the Union Carpet Lining Company, is for the present the best tempered man in Boston. Mr. Damon, treasurer, had successful New England grouse shooting in December, but has given up his contemplated Southern trip. Mr. J. G. Witham will make his usual trips on linings and comfortables. Mr. F. E Hubbard will be the Western manager for 1898 with his headquarters at 124 Market street, Chicago, Ill., and Mr. Miner Smith will look after the New England trade.

The Union Carpet Lining Company move their New York office to 39 Union square, February 1, where they will show their linings and comfortables. They have leased with Sperry & Beale the first loft in the Jacot Building. Mr. Beale will look after the New York trade as usual for the Union Carpet Lining Company, assisted by Mr. J. R. Wilmer. Contracts have been made this week at their mill for a new storehouse 200 feet long by 100 feet wide.

CHICAGO

Chicago, January 8.

Morton M. Curry withdrew December 31 from the firm of O. W. Richardson & Co. His place has been taken by Luther S. Tiffany, and the style of the firm remains the same. The other members of the firm are Orlo W. Richardson and Edwin C. Richardson.

W. K. Smith, who represents Dornan Brothers in the West and Northwest, has established himself in larger quarters in the Lees Building.

The carpet and furniture stock of the Martin Ruettner Furniture Company, at 248 West Madison street, was damaged to the extent of $2,000 by fire on December 29.

F. L. Hardcastle, of W. & J. Sloane's Chicago office, reports a good business. He says buyers showed eagerness to get Moquettes, and that his orders in this line were larger than ever before.

The roadmen are returning from the field, and their reports seem to be satisfactory. With few exceptions it is said that the dealers bought liberally in spite of the advance. James A. Flanigan, of Evoy & Flanigan, says their business is very satisfactory.

J. F. Norman, of the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company, says his business exceeded his expectations, and he looks for a still better fall season. M. E. McHale, of Higgins' Chicago office, was in the city yesterday, but will leave again soon for a short trip before closing his season.

A. L. Carpenter, who travels in Michigan and Indiana for J. & J. Dobson, has closed his office on the fourth floor of the Champlain Building. He is still on the road, and where his future headquarters will be is unknown here. It is rumored that hereafter he will travel from New York.

Wabash avenue carpet and furniture houses are to have a new competitor March 1. The old Eden Musee Building, opposite the Wellington Hotel, near the corner of Jackson street, is now being remodeled for the new firm, the Hartman Furniture and Carpet Company. M. L. Hartman, now manager of Moore Brothers Furniture Company, at 289 West Madison street, will manage the new house. The building will be four stories high. The new store will be the second of the downtown time payment carpet and furniture houses.

Notes from the Northwest.

The Jorgensen-Blesch Company, Green Bay, Wis., dealers in carpets and dry goods, are now occupying their recently enlarged building. A story has been added to the old two story structure. Increased space will now be given to carpets.

The Wyman-Rand Company, of Keokuk, Ia., January 1, opened a cut order department, and sent two men through Iowa., Illinois and Missouri. The travelers are M. Jewett and O. J. Devaney.

The Meiss-Barr Dry Goods Company succeeds the Addel & Brown Company at Danville, Ill. A full line of carpets is kept in stock.

Frank Boody has become a partner in the Hamilton Furniture Company, of Lafayette, Ind. He will keep the firm's large line of carpetings in shape to please all buyers. Mr. Boody was formerly with W. V. Stoy, of the same place. R. H. H.

BALTIMORE BRIEFS.

C. Millhiser, of the Millhiser Company, Richmond, Va., spent several days in Philadelphia and New York last week.

Baltimore, January 10.

The Kelly Furniture, Carpet and Hardware Company, Dallas, Tex., has been incorporated by Wm. Kelly, F. B. Ingram and A. Kelly. The capital stock is $10,000.

The steamer Emma Giles, of the Tolchester Beach Company, will be remodeled and refurnished.

Joseph Sandman, general merchandise and carpeting, St. Denis, Md., is one of the newly elected members of the Maryland Legislature.

The carpet and furniture store of Frank Eirich, No. 1631 Light street, was damaged by fire the 31st ult. Loss covered by insurance.

Irwin Froehlich, son of G. Froehlich, proprietor of the double department stores Nos. 207 to 211 North Eutaw street, has been admitted into the firm.

The store of Alfred B. Turpin, dry goods, carpeting, &c., Kingston, Md., was totally wrecked by fire the 7th inst. Loss several thousand dollars; covered by insurance.

A fire in North Wilkesboro, N. C., the 4th inst., destroyed the stores of A. M. McGee and Stafford Brothers, carpet dealers, furniture, &c. Loss, $14,000; insurance, $6,300.

Col. J. Thompson Frieze, of Havre de Grace, Md., died of heart disease the 2d inst. in the seventy-third year of his age. He was a member of the old firm of A. & G. T. Lyon & Co., general merchandise and carpeting, but retired from business a few years ago.

The store of John Whitely, general merchandise and carpeting, Parmele, N. C., was burned the 4th inst. The body of Mr. Whitely was found in the ruins. It is thought that he was murdered by thieves, who set the building on fire to cover up evidence.

Sixty merchants of York, Pa., engaged in the dry goods, carpet, upholstery and other branches, held a meeting the 7th inst. for the purpose of effecting an organization for their mutual protection. Upon motion the chairman appointed a committee of five to draft a constitution and by-laws.

Isadore I. Wolf, one of the firm of Bernheimer Brothers, dry goods, carpets, upholstery, &c., and M. Kuselle, one of the managers, tendered a reception to the employees the 6th inst. at Lafayette Hall. An elaborate supper was served, and the evening was spent in merrymaking, recitations and other diversions.

Frederick C. Koehler, the carpet, upholstery and furniture dealer, was presented with a pair of fancy driving blankets by his employees on New Year's Eve.

New Buildings.—The congregation of West Liberty (Md.) Methodist Episcopal Church will erect a new edifice. Mount Chatern Hotel, on the Cheat River, near Morgantown, W. Va., has been purchased by A. M. Voight, of Pittsburg, Pa., who will remodel it and erect additional buildings. A large addition is being built to the lecture room of the Second Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Va., which will be fitted up with carpeting and furniture. Stuart Lodge of Odd Fellows, Manchester, Va., are to have a new hall. The owners of the Olympic Hotel, New Orleans, La., will erect a new hotel building, 70x160 feet in size, 40 feet in height, and constructed of brick and iron; address James J. Corcoran, manager, No. 3047 Royal street, New Orleans. The Commercial Hotel Company, New Orleans, La., has been incorporated to conduct a hotel; the capital stock is $10,000; Angelo Steele is the secretary-treasurer. The Union Congregational Society, Jacksonville, Fla., will erect a new church building; address A. J. Wakefield. A new Protestant Episcopal Church will be built at Colonial Beach, Va. It is stated that a costly hotel will be built in Washington, D. C.; Eugene M. Early, of New York, and E. K. Sonborn, of Chamberlin's, Washington, are interested. The Presbyterians will build a new church in Jacksonville, Fla.; address J. C. McLawrin, secretary. R. L. E.

SAMUEL HECHT, JR., & SONS.

The offerings of Samuel Hecht, Jr., & Sons for the spring season embrace an exceptionally extensive assortment of carpets, straw mattings, floor oil cloths, linoleum, &c. The Messrs. Hecht & Co. are extensive and direct importers of Chinese and Japanese mattings and have become very prominent in this line of trade. Their samples for the season of 1898 are now ready for inspection at their store, 310 West Lexington street, Baltimore. Their offerings of carpets, floor oil cloths and linoleum comprise judicious selections from all the leading manufacturers of these goods, and the lines are well calculated to meet the demands of every class of trade.

A PORTRAIT RUG.

Hanging on the wall of the Fries-Breslin Company's salesroom in New York is a unique banner which at once attracts the visitor. It is composed of an Oriental rug having in the centre a finely painted portrait of a Moor, executed on canvas and neatly fastened to the rug.

Mr. T. J. Breslin found the banner on sale at the store of L. S. Ayres & Co., Indianapolis, and, recognizing its artistic merit, at once purchased it. The portrait was painted by Miss Akers, daughter of E. T. Akers, manager of the firm's rug department, and is evidence of high artistic skill.

AN UNDESIRABLE AMENDMENT.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN THE STATE LAW RELATING TO THE INSTALMENT PLAN.

EFFORTS of G. C. Speranza and Ernest Crosby to make an important change in the laws of this State relating to purchases on the instalment plan have called forth a strong protest in the form of a letter to the New York Sun. We give some extracts from the letter, as follows:

Under the laws of this State a person having possession of the property of another, whether under a lease or under the instalment plan system, or on deposit, who disposes of that property and converts the proceeds to his own uses, is guilty of conversion, and a judgment taken in civil action against him, if unpaid, is a judgment not only against the property of the delinquent, but against the delinquent as well, and, if unsatisfied, he may be committed to the county jail, which is Ludlow Street Jail, for non-payment. In other words, a purchaser of property "on the instalment plan" must, as his contract provides, pay for the articles which he acquires, or, failing to pay for them or unwilling to do so, must return them.

Now, in many cases (and these are the cases to which Mr. Speranza and Mr. Crosby are giving their attention) the purchaser neither completes his payments nor returns the articles. Whether from need, carelessness, misfortune, dishonesty or resentment, he sells the article which he has not yet purchased, applies the proceeds to his own uses, and leaves the seller without any redress, except such as the law gives him, to take a judgment for the sum owed against the purchaser. The suit for recovery of judgment is brought in the ordinary way, and if, of course, the instalment plan purchaser has any defense to it, that defense is heard. If, as is usually the case he has no defense, judgment is entered against him, and he mus either pay the amount due or be subjected to imprisonment. The ground taken by Mr. Speranza and Mr. Crosby is that the system is odious and reprehensible, and they propose to ameliorate its rigors by the enactment of a statute "allowing imprisonment for debt only in amounts exceeding $25."

The absurdity of this proposition, it seems to me, must suggest itself to everybody except a "social reformer." The improvident or dishonest purchaser of goods on the instalment plan who "sells" property which is not his, either in law or in fact, would not be slow to avail himself of his exemption. If he bought, for instance, furniture or dry goods to the value of $50 he would make his instalment payments until the debt was within $25. Then he would be at liberty to repudiate it, and there would be no method known to law whereby it could be collected. This would put an end, not to the business of sales on the instalment plan, for they would go on practically as before, but to sales to those to whom at present the instalment plan of purchase is most beneficial, and, moreover, there would be started a decided innovation in law and ethics. The man who converted to his own uses property to the value of more than $25 could be imprisoned for such action, but the man who converted to his own uses property of less value than $25 would go, as it were, scot free. This would clearly be, in such cases, a premium upon fraud; but I am very far from alleging or suggesting that those who advocate this change desire to establish such exemption. The trouble with them is that they do not understand the workings of the system, which, in good faith but in ignorance, they desire to "reform."

I am very well aware that there are evils connected with the instalment plan system as there are with most other systems of human origin. It costs a dealer more to sell on the instalment plan than it does for cash. He is compelled to pay agents and collectors, to run a considerable risk of losses, to turn his invested capital slowly, to have extra accounting and bookkeeping expenses, and to suffer from the wear and tear of the goods dealt in. Necessarily, these additional expenses fall collectively on the purchaser, who must pay more for goods bought on the instalment plan than he would for the same goods if bought for what is called "spot cash." But offsetting these disadvantages are many advantages under the instalment plan system. It has proved, in practical operation, of great benefit to young householders and to many working for small wages. It has been applied with success in many of the large stores, particularly in the sale of furniture. It has been a potent agent of popularity in the introduction, so general in this country, of sewing machines and pianos; and in the city of New York, which, because of its peculiar geographical formation is now and is likely always to be to a great extent a city of tenement houses and small apartments, it has flourished greatly.

The intentions of Mr. Speranza and Mr. Crosby are excellent, no doubt, but what they don't know about the sales of goods on the instalment plan would, I think, fill Prospect Park or Gowanus Bay.

PLANET MILLS' HEMP CARPETS AND MATTINGS.

T. J. Keveney & Co., agents for the Planet Mills' hemp carpets and Napier mattings, have the complete lines on view in their salesrooms. The offerings embrace a large range of bright and handsome patterns in hemp goods, and the Napier mattings are shown in several grades and in two-four, three-four, four-four, five-four and six-four widths. The Planet Mills manufacture hemps and Napiers on an especially extensive scale, and the goods have an enviable reputation in the market.

F. G. Rogers has bought the entire balance of the stock of Samuel White which was on hand at the time of the assignment, and special prices are quoted on these goods. He has many other bargains. Call at his salesroom, 1015 Filbert street, Philadelphia.

The business of the New York Belting and Packing Company has been purchased by a syndicate. It is said that the price paid was $675,000, and that the syndicate includes August Belmont & Co., S. P. Colt & Co., Chas. R. Flint and other capitalists. Mr. Flint is the head of the rubber combination.

The William Johnson Estate was sold out by auction on January 11 Mr. Johnson was a yarn manufacturer, whose mill was on Allegheny avenue, Philadelphia. Some of the machinery that was formerly used by his son, J. Wesley Johnson, was sold, including five Crompton power looms. One was sold to Lawrence Collins, three to McDowell Brothers and one to Martin Denney & Gaw.

SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT OF CLAFLIN COMPANY.

The H. B. Claflin Company's report for the six months ending December 31, 1897, has been issued, and shows a material increase in their profits as compared with the corresponding period of 1896. The report is as follows:

To the Stockholders:

During July intense dullness prevailed, but early in August trade became remarkably active, and until the outbreak of yellow fever in the South our business was thoroughly satisfactory. Thereafter quarantine regulations and the fall of cotton goods to lower prices than ever before recorded greatly reduced our profits.

The following figures, taken from the treasurer's report, show the financial condition of the corporation on December 31, 1897, and the proposed distribution of profits, with comparisons added for the corresponding half years of 1896 and 1895:

We anticipate a very large spring trade with fair results. By order of the board of directors, John Claflin, President.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the B. R. Claflin Company, held January 11 at the office of the company, in Elizabeth, N. J., John Claflin, Edward E. Eames, Horace J. Fairchild, Dexter N. Force, George E. Armstrong and John C. Eames were elected directors for the ensuing year. At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John Claflin; vice-president, Edward E. Eames; second vice-president, Horace J. Fairchild; treasurer, Dexter N. Force; secretary, George E. Armstrong. Charles W. Gould was elected counsel for the corporation.

THOMAS POTTER, SONS & CO.

The new lines of Thomas Potter, Sons & Co.'s linoleum and floor oil cloth should be of special interest to the trade. The line of inlaid linoleum deserves particular attention. These goods are made by a new process, with improved machinery, insuring handsome finish, perfect joinings and accurate matching. Write for samples, which will be sent promptly on application.

JOHN H. PRAY, SONS & CO.

The lines of private patterns shown by John H. Pray, Sons & Co. for the spring trade form an admirable assortment of choice original designs and colorings, well calculated to suit the most fastidious critic. The firm's usual standard lines of carpeting are especially extensive and attractive, and the prices quoted should interest close buyers. See the Messrs. Pray & Co.'s advertisement on page 74 of this issue.

FRITZ & LA RUE.

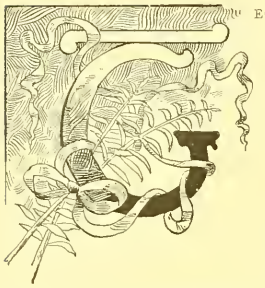
The firm of Fritz, La Rue & Sinn, the Philadelphia matting and Oriental rug importers, was succeeded on January 1 by Fritz & La Rue, Howard Sinn, of the old firm, retiring. Chas. B. Fritz and Walter M. La Rue compose the new firm of Friiz & La Rue, and will continue the business under the same active and enterprising methods as heretofore.

R. McCoy, of the J. W. Dimick Company's selling force has recovered from the illness which obliged him to postpone his trip, and is now on the road.

L. W. Petersen & Son's stock of carpets and wall papers, Davenport, Ia., valued at $7,500, was totally destroyed by fire on the 10th inst Insurance, $2,500.

Albert Ammerman, secretary and general manager of the Cowperthwait Company, Brooklyn, is lying at his home in that city dangerously ill with typhoid-pneumonia.

The Carpet Sweeper.



GEORGE E. BRETT, dealer in dry goods, carpets, &c., Mankato, Minn.. has made a voluntary assignment. His liabilities are about $200,000. The assignment was brought about by depreciated values of Duluth lands. He and the late John A. Willard were heavily interested in the Western Land and Loan Company and the Highlands Improvement Company, and were also partial owners of the Chamber of Commerce Building. One of the claimants in the latter enterprise is the National Bank of La Crosse, which recently brought suit to recover $2,600 from Mr. Brett.

Blanding & Smith, Detroit City, Minn., have dissolved partnership.

The D. W. Fitton Dry Goods Company succeeds D. W. Fitton & Co., Hamilton, Ohio.

Martin & Allen, dry goods and carpet dealers, La Porte, Ind., are succeeded by George W. Allen.

Rucker Brothers, San José, Cal., carpet and furniture dealers, are advertising to close out their business.

W. C. Porter & Son, carpet and furniture dealers, Keithsburg, Ill., are succeeded by George F. Porter.

The Bigelow Carpet Company are preparing to erect a three story storage warehouse on their property in Clinton, Mass.

Hoos & Schulz, carpet and furniture dealers, Jersey City, N. J., are succeeded by the Hudson County Furniture Company.

A. C. Sanford, dry goods and carpet dealer, Palmyra, N. Y., recently sustained a loss by fire of $5,000 to his stock. Insurance, $1,500.

The firm of Lasalle & Koch, Toledo, Ohio, has been incorporated. The official title of the concern now is Lasalle & Koch Company.

Nergararian Brothers, dealers in Oriental rugs, &c., Detroit, Mich., will remove February 1 to new quarters at 237 to 241 Woodward avenue, that city.

J. M. High & Co.'s store at Atlanta, Ga., was closed on January 4 and 5, and the time spent in taking stock. When it reopened on the 6th J. M. High was the sole owner of the business. the junior partners, F. W. Holt and John E. McClelland having retired, the latter to study law. Mr. High is in vigorous health, and it is understood will take personal charge of the business and push it.

Plenty of Room for Carpets.—T. S. Martin & Co., Sioux City, Ia., have a very extensive carpet and drapery department in their new store. It occupies a floor space of 50x150 feet, and the stock carried amounts to about $35,000. The business of the department is increasing steadily under the able management of F. L. Clark.

Removed to New Quarters.—Allen, Stephenson & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Knoxville, Tenn., opened their new and spacious store in the Briscoe Building, in that city, recently. The building is five stories high, including the basement, and is 150 deep by 50 feet wide. It is equipped with electric lights, elevators and all other modern improvements. The carpet and drapery department occupies the second floor. The first, third and fourth floors are devoted to the firm's extensive stock of furniture, &c. Allen, Stephenson & Co. have been twenty-three years in business in one place, and rank among the most successful dealers in Knoxville.

Celebrated Their Silver Anniversary.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Sanger Brothers, Dallas, Tex., was recently celebrated. The firm started their business in a little frame building, one story, 50x80 feet. To-day they occupy buildings with four frontages of 200, 135, 50 and 100 feet. The larger portion of these buildings is five stories high. There are fifty-five complete retail departments. The store has hydraulic elevators and electric light, including 1,500 incandescent and seven arc lights. The firm have also an important branch at Waco. Isaac Sanger came to New York first in 1851, and after being employed in New York went to Texas in 1858. He started a store at McKinney, but afterward moved to Weatherford, leaving the McKinney store in charge of Lehman Sanger. At the close of the war Lehman was joined by his brothers Isaac and Philip. The Dallas store was started in 1872, and is now in charge of Alex. Sanger, Lehman and Samuel Sanger conducting the Waco house. Isaac Sanger has lived in New York many years, acting as buyer for his firm.

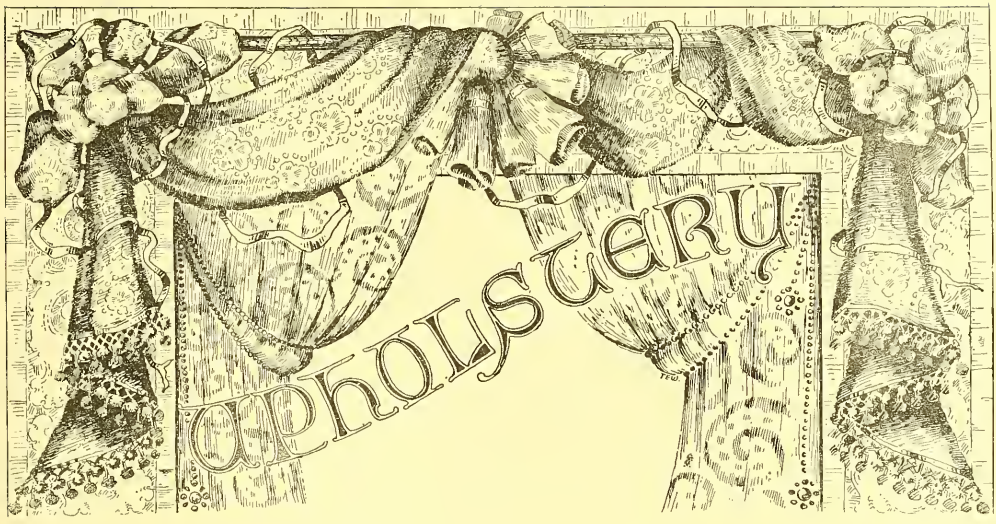
Consolidation in Troy.—The firm of G. V. S. Quackenbush & Co., of Troy, N. Y., has been reorganized and incorporated. The capital stock is $125,000, and the directors are Edwin Quackenbush Lasell, William W. Loomis and Charles A. Evans, all of Troy. Messrs. Loomis and Evans are members of the firm of Loomis, Evans & Co. In reference to the reorganization the firm has issued the following :

Announcement.

The firm of G. V. S. Quackenbush & Co. was dissolved by the death of Samuel H. Lasell, November 12, 1897. As surviving partner, Wm. H. Sherman will close up its affairs, collecting its assets and paying at maturity its obligations not assumed and paid by its successor.

The business will be continued by a corporation of the same name, composed of Messrs. Edwin Quackenbush Lasell, William W. Loomis and Charles A. Evans, consolidating the interests of G. V. S. Quackenbush & Co. and Loomis, Evans & Co. Mr. Lasell is a grandson of Mr. G. V. S. Quackenbush and a son of Mr. Samuel H. Lasell, and has been long associated with the late firm, while Messrs. Loomis and Evans are men of large experience and marked capacity in the trade. The corporation will commence business on or about January 10, 1898, and will assume all unexecuted orders and contracts of the late firm. Its aim will be to perpetuate the Quackenbush business by lhe application of the most approved modern methods.

THE people of the Mississippi Valley are endeavoring to get the Government to take charge of the levee system and Mississippi River improvement. J. Farnbacher & Son, Baton Rouge, La., are taking an active part in this movement, and are asking Eastern business men to stir up their representatives at Washington on the subject.



The Fortnight.

THERE can no longer be a shadow of doubt that business in draperies, both light and heavy, and in furniture coverings of all grades, has developed with the new year a strength and vigor to which it has long been a stranger. Our readers will bear witness that we have not indulged in any rose-colored views as to the trade revival of which the daily papers have told us so much, but we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that more shuttles are clicking than ever before, and that the goods now reeling off from many long-idle looms are being taken up at prices which, if not satisfactory—the millennium of the manufacturer is yet in the distant future—are at least such that capital stands ready on every hand to accept them as giving a fair return for its use. Travelers on the road are sending in very good orders, and our news columns bear evidence that buyers are coming to the market earlier and in larger numbers than heretofore. They are confirming the orders placed at home, and in many cases are adding to the purchases made before their stock taking was completed.

THUS far the increased activity has been mainly shown in the great grain-growing States of the West, and retail business is exceptionally good in towns which are the centres of farming districts. But high prices for Western grain mean equally good returns for the smaller but more easily distributed products of the Eastern farm, and in time the effects will be felt in the business of this section.

THE demand for drapery trimmings is as sure and safe a barometer of the upholstery trade as is the request for carpet linings in the allied branch of business. It is a recognized fact that when linings are in demand carpets are being cut up. The sale of upholstery trimmings during the past few weeks has been many times larger than for any corresponding season since 1892. This fact is taken by careful observers to indicate an early and enlarged trade in the heavier and more expensive drapery fabrics, and the situation is the more remarkable in that as a rule, dealings in this class of goods have always been heavier in the fall than in the spring.

AS to the domestic makers of lace curtains, they have the market almost absolutely in their own hands. Every machine in the United States is running up to its full capacity, but—and mark this—not one, so far as we know, is running overtime. It is not long since we recorded the reorganization of the company operating one of the best equipped mills in the country, and we are glad to know that the production is entering into consumption without friction. A month ago we announced the fact that one of the wealthiest and most conservative concerns in the country had invested a large amount of capital in the manufacture of bobbinets, and elsewhere some details are given as to the new factory of the Patchogue Manufacturing Company, for which machinery is now coming over sufficient to double the production. Moreover, there are nowhere any signs of overproduction. With cotton selling at avowedly less than its growing cost, a surplus of manufactured goods should not be a disturbing element in strong hands.

AND just here we may, for the sake of contrast, be pardoned for indulging in a little ancient history—ancient history in this country being anything that dates back more than one administration. There are several men who will read these lines who can easily recall the night when the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, now largely promoted, said to the assembled chenille manufacturers: "Gentlemen, this is your last chance; come to some agreement as to what rate will be satisfactory." The wild-eyed enthusiast waved the American flag and put the peg in the top notch. It was not according to Hoyle, but the more conservative men made only feeble protests, and the McKinley rate on chenilles went into tariff history. At that time we were steadily driving the Germans out of the market. Our machinery was, as has been the case whenever in a half century we have been forced to invent tools to meet the capacity of our more intelligent and higher priced labor, already better than that of our competitors, our production, loom for loom, was 30 per cent more than theirs, while our wages were not more than 20 per cent. higher, and our patterns were in every way better suited to this market Given three years of this, a man who should import a lot of German table covers would have been relegated to Bloomingdale. But the bill passed, and within three months every man who had money enough to buy lumber with which to build a loom was turning out curtains, covers, portières, slumber robes and heaven knows what else. That bill was entitled "An act to reduce revenue," &c. And the chenille manufacturer who will look over his ledger and see what he was easily getting for goods ten years ago, and the price he is fighting for now, will confess that the title was no misnomer.

And here comes the contrast. Later on, after two administrations had waxed and waned, some of the same gentlemen went up to the seat of customs to share in framing a bill "to increase revenue, &c." They were eight years older as men count time, but they were ages older in experience. The wild-eyed enthusiast, born in England, once more waved the American flag and demanded from 75 to 100 per cent. ad valorem on Nottingham curtains. When the chairman of the committee asked, "What will you?" they answered, "The present duty of 50 per cent. is enough for protection. Make that the minimum and give us a point duty, so that every yard of goods that is imported shall come in at its actual value." Possibly there are undervalued goods rushing through in bond to "ports of entry" on some far off Western creek, but the attentive reader of these columns finds very few reappraisements made by the lynx eyed gentlemen who hold a reading glass over the samples that come to the Washington street appraiser's office in this city. And in this fact may be found the solution of the problem of how it is possible that, with a steadily increasing yardage, there is no overproduction of American lace curtains.

In the pages devoted to the carpet department in this issue will be found a sketch of the business career of Judson H. Black, of Detroit, who died on December 26. The announcement will be read with regret by every man who has been actively engaged in the upholstery business during the last twenty years. Although Mr. Black was a large dealer in draperies he never made the slightest pretense to a knowledge of any fabric connected with the upholstery department. He knew carpets, and knew them well. It is doubtful if he could tell a linen Renaissance from a six point Nottingham, and probably thought spachtel work was the product of a Jacquard loom. But he bought his goods as the American furniture manufacturer says he makes his, "on honor," and during many years of successful business life he was never, with one exception, deceived by the men in whom he trusted.

That transaction was long ago forgiven and forgotten. One day he found that he had been deceived. He made a vigorous kick, demanded a reduction in price and a dating, discounted the bill, and then charging up 10 per cent. to profit and loss put the goods in his window and advertised them in the papers as a job lot at the net cost, with all deductions made. When the offending salesman next visited Detroit the air in the dry goods houses of the town was colder than any Peary ever experienced on the 70th parallel.

Black's life was replete with adventure. He had little schooling and walked barefooted two miles each way daily to get that little. His father was a poor Scotch Baptist minister and a cousin of William Black, the famous novelist. He worked first for George McDonald at $80 a year, and while a mere boy went to Memphis, where he was when the civil war broke out. He became chief of staff to General Forrest, "the wizard of the saddle," whose raids along the border carried terror to the hearts of the farmers, whose horses were driven off to mount the cavalry of the Confederates and whose cattle went to feed their army. Black was one time in the saddle for twenty consecutive days, pursuing or pursued. The people of Memphis presented him with a valuable horse and trappings. After three years of service he resigned and went to Buffalo, where he was arrested by the Union authorities, but slipped them and went to Canada. When amnesty was declared he returned to Buffalo, and was with Hamlin & Mendsen, among his fellow salesmen being Dickson Bean, afterward wholesale carpet manager for Field, Leiter & Co.; Wm. Olding Newman, later with J. & J. Dobson, and D. E. Morgan, now of D. E. Morgan, Son & Allen. After a short service in Chicago he went with James Nall, of Detroit, then with Friedman Brothers, and finally embarked in business for himself.

On one occasion a gentleman now at the head of the lace curtain commission business, but then salesman for a house dealing in Swiss goods, thought he would "have a try" at Black, and solicited an order. "Now, George," was the reply, "come up to the Russell and I'll blow you. You know I buy all my goods of your grade from Fletcher. Whenever you have anything of a different kind I'll be glad to do something for you." It was a fact that Walter Longmire used to drive up with W. H. Fletcher's samples, and was uniformly met with the remark, "Well, Cupid, you had better look through the stock and see what I want." An hour later Mr. Longmire would say, "I guess about a thousand." "All right, send 'em along."

To Jack Hargraves, then representing McClain & Simpson, and on the road, like most carpet travelers, a month too early, he said: "I can't buy any goods just now. We haven't taken stock, and I actually don't know what I need." Seeing the disappointed look on Hargraves' face, he added: "Give me your order book, I don't want to have you skunked," and wrote, "Fifty pieces of Extra Super, to be selected when I come East next month."

A lace importer said recently that the high cost of bobbinets had retarded the progress of Plauen manufacturers, who confine their output chiefly to embroidered goods, and buyers are turning their attention to the Calais and Nottingham markets. American buyers were fortunate enough during their recent visit to the foreign markets to secure their supplies for the new season prior to the advance in the price of nets, which has affected all grades of laces. This assures a stability to the market that will reflect in the demand as the season advances.

From Nottingham comes the statement that the extensive exportation of lace machinery which has been going on for some years past, and, above all, the development of the embroidered lace industry in Saxony and Switzerland, have rendered foreign competition very formidable.

After eight years of effort the big manufacturers of steel rod wire and nails have pooled their issues and the combination was launched on January 1 with $60,000,000 of capital. The corporation tax was $87,000, the largest ever paid by any concern to the State of Illinois. The headquarters of the combination will be at Chicago. Gerritt H. Ten Broek, of St. Louis, who is one of the counsel, said:

"We have not tried, nor shall we try, to force any factory to join the combination.

"We offer them their price, and give them the option of taking cash or stock in the new company for their individual interests. If they do not wish to accept either proposition they can stay out without fear of our attempting to force them to join us.

"Our whole project is based upon the economic idea that a factory can supply its proper territory cheaper, and, consequently at better profit, that it can a distant territory. The only effect on the market that I can see will be a possible slight lowering of prices, because of this economy, and also a steadiness of prices for the future."

During the past two weeks the following buyers have been in the market: H. B. Grosshardt, for Smith, Murray & Co., Bridgeport, Conn.; C. S. Sanborn, of Burrows & Sanborn, Lynn, Mass.; F. E. Bacon, of F. E. Bacon & Co., Rome, N. Y.; N. E. Chamberlain, Burlington, Vt.; J. Cleland, of Cleland, Simpson & Taylor, Scranton, Pa.; T. Elder, of Elder & Johnston, Dayton, Ohio; A. THE A. NAUMANN-PULFRICH COMPANY.

The complete spring line of the A. Naumann-Pulfrich Company is now on view at the salesroom, 458 Broadway, corner of Grand street, and Mr. Naumann and Mr. Pulfrich are both on hand daily to meet the visiting trade. The old friends and customers of A. Naumann will be glad to learn that he is prepared to show them a complete range of lace curtains and tidies in all grades, from the cheapest up to the very finest goods, and his concern is carrying stock in New York of all samples shown, thus insuring prompt deliveries. Mr. Naumann spent last week in Boston and secured his usual good share of orders. He invites calls from all visiting buyers, assuring them that such visits will prove advantageous.

The Atkin Furniture Company, of Knoxville, Tenn., supplied the window shades for the Federal Building in that city. Dark brown Scotch hollands were hung at all the windows.

A NEW ENGLISH FITMENT.

A FIRST EMPIRE ROOM.

Almost unique and beautiful room has just been completed in the house of Edward D. Lewis, the marine painter, 30 South Twentieth street, Philadelphia. The building in which the room is situated was constructed as an annex to the main structure. It is 46 x 30 feet and 20 feet in height. The architect has reproduced the style of building popular in the Napoleonic era, not only in the external appearance, but in the architectural adornments of the interior. The placing of the Corinthian columns, the medallions, the fireplace projection, the door elaborations are strictly after the order of the First Empire.

All of the color decorations are from the brush of Mr. Lewis himself. The ceiling is flat, the main color being turquoise blue, surrounded with a border in gray tint on which a few pale pink flowers are introduced. A chandelier of ormolu work, which depends from the centre, is a copy of one found in an old palace in Florence and dating back to 1750. The floor is of mahogany, cut into strips and laid in what is technically termed "staggered" rows. The entrance from the main building into the room is by two doors that were formerly windows, looking upon the fine yard of the dwelling upon which the new structure stands. From these entrances a fine view is had of the broad fireplace, on each side of which are candelabra formed of life-sized figures plated with gold. These were once the property of Cardinal Fesch, uncle of Napoleon. Directly opposite the two entrances, and upon either side of the fireplace, are two broad windows with spandrels above them, filled in with narrow panes of glass, ornamented with frost-like tracery. Fluted pilasters hung with crimson tapestry break the monotony of bare walls. The two entrances project into the room. On both sides of each are Corinthian columns, between which hang canary colored silk curtains.

The centre of one of the end walls is covered by a most wonderful piece of work in silk tapestry, known as "The Judgment Day." It was made in the sixteenth century and is very elaborate in detail, innumerable figures being introduced. Many smaller tapestries adorn the room in various positions. Some of them are genuine examples of the Napoleonic decorations.

The general tone of the room is gold, although in a subdued form, and beautifully relieved by the rich colors in the draperies. The room is intended for assembly and dancing.

ENGLISH TEA CLOTHS.

Among the many pretty etceteras of English fashions of the day may be ranked the tea cloths for afternoon gatherings. At some teas the small tables set out about the rooms have white muslin cloths with deep lace flouncing, and at others delicate colored and flowered muslin is used, with a frill of chiffon matching in tone, lightly caught up with a stitch here and there. Fine linen with an insertion and edging of pillow lace, or a design embroidered in white thread; Swiss muslin, with colored ribbon run in and out of insertion, crossing and running round the cloth, with clustered loops at each corner, are popular, and so are others with a pattern in drawn thread all over them, or a scattered design of single violets, worked in washing thread or silk, with a group in each corner, the stalks being gold colored and without leaves. The ordinary white tea cloths are often ornamented in this way, and have a fall of coarse thread lace sewn on. As wedding presents, tea cloths of white satinet embroidered in gold or of delicate colors, worked in shaded silks, are given; and there is also a Cretan silk muslin interspersed with tinsel threads, which is greatly used for table cloths and slips. The daintiest little teapot holders are to be seen made of wadded satin, brocade, or in the material of the cloth. They are circular, about 5 inches in diameter, edged with a cord and a concealed wire, so that they fold over and resemble in shape the division of an orange. Some of them are of soft silk, "smocked" in color. A silver or old china bowl of roses or some other flowers, or a quaint basket filled with moss and ferns, is to be seen on many prettily arranged tea tables, for, now that five o'clock tea is such an institution considerable thought is bestowed on it to render it attractive and, if possible, original.

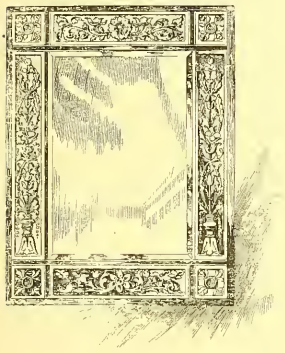
NEW UPHOLSTERY GOODS MILL.

Laurence W. Frank, whose retirement from the Josephs & Frank Company is noted elsewhere in this issue, is preparing to enter the trade again as the head of the Laurence W. Frank Company. A new mill is building for the company at 139 and 141 Oxford street, Philadelphia, and it will be equipped with the newest and best machinery for the manufacture of medium and high-class silk, wool and cotton drapery stuffs, furniture coverings, curtains and table covers. Owing to delay in completing the plant, the company will not be in the market this spring, but when they enter it they are certain to be a highly important factor in the trade.

Dealers in carpets, curtains and furniture should send to Charles F. Pease for his new book of bindings and other specialties.

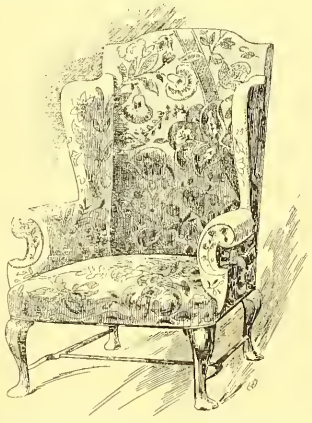
SEEN AND SUGGESTED.

A NOVELTY in sofa cushions for the present season is intended for a young woman's gift. It is a collection of college flags embroidered around a circle, their slender poles pointing to its centre. Each flag is done in the color of the college it represents, the whole set on a background of cream white canvas cloth. This material also backs the pillow, and a variegated heavy silk twisted cord finishes the edge. Another pillow, for a smoker, has his paraphernalia of pipes, pouch and a bunch of Havanas realistically embroidered in gold and brown on a plain background.



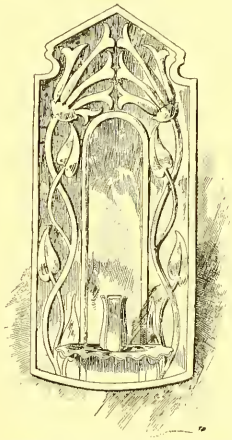
MIRROR FRAME, COPPER REPOUSSE AND OAK, VICTORIAN ERA EXHIBITION.

THE fashion to have bathrooms done in spotless white is one that is certainly exceedingly fit. In some of the new luxurious homes of the suburbs these rooms are finished with porcelain tiled floors and wainscotings of pure, creamy white, and the mirrors are framed in white enameled woods. There are lambs' wool rugs of the most spotless fleece, Swiss draperies at the windows, and even the little wall cabinet for necessary toilet articles is finished in polished white enamel. With the marble and porcelain of the plumbling fitments the effect is almost dazzling in its whiteness.



GRANDFATHER'S CHAIR EMBROIDERED WITH CREWEL WORK, VICTORIAN ERA EXHIBITION.

SIDEBOARDS and side tables are now covered with linen or silk cloths, heavily embroidered, and small squares, ovals, or rounds, embroidered also, are placed under the decanters, &c. Some very elaborate sideboard sets are made of écru silk, embroidered with flowers and bordered with silver, but these are not very practical, as they cannot be washed. More useful ones are of granite linen or damask, embroidered with linen or wash silk and trimmed with heavy guipure or cut work.



COPPER SCONCE, VICTORIAN ERA EXHIBITION.

THE bamboo, associated in housekeepers' minds with curtains and furniture, has, it seems, edible qualities on its native heath. When very young the stalks are succulent and tender and not unlike asparagus. It is cooked and eaten with a sauce like that vegetable.

CUSHIONS, or rather couch pillows, of painted bolting cloth, are seen in great variety this season, and they are usually of a most elaborate character, the bolting cloth being placed over satin and the pillow being trimmed with frills, folds and puffings, to say nothing of lace and embroidery. Such cushions are, of course, utterly useless, as they are too delicate to be handled, much less leaned upon, but they are expensive and dainty, and catch the eye of the lavish purchaser. Cushions covered with Bagdad stripes or other substantial Oriental fabrics, not too light in color, are also greatly liked, and are much more practical, as they can be put to real service.

CARPET ITEMS.

The Bromley Brothers Carpet Company have all their men on the road and their looms all running.

James & George D. Bromley report they have most of their looms running on an increasing demand. The high grade goods manufactured by this firm are appreciated by all judges of quality in carpet.

Lord & Taylor are having specially good success in their cut order department with Sanford Velvets. Manager Gilmore states that the firm have very largely increased their business on Velvets since they decided that the Sanford goods would be the only make of Velvets they would handle in this department.

The Goshen Sweeper Company, Grand Rapids, Mich., has been reorganized. The business will be carried on by a new company, with a capital stock of $25,000. The stockholders are C. C. Comstock, John Mowat and E. H. Foot. Mr. Comstock is president; Mr. Mowat is vice-president, and H. J. Bennett is treasurer.

The M. A. Furbush & Son Machine Company, 224 Market street, Philadelphia, in their new advertisement on page 99 of this issue, call attention to the Smyrna rug looms manufactured by them. These looms are built in several sizes, and are used by all the large manufacturers of Smyrna rugs. Write for a catalogue and prices.

E. T. Mason & Co., importers of Japanese rugs, straw matting, portières, screens, &c., 28 and 30 Greene street, New York, are in a position to interest strongly every dealer in such goods. Their stock of Japanese rugs is especially large and attractive. Particular attention is called to their new line of Hundo jute rugs, which are made in all sizes and in a great variety of handsome patterns.

The Lamond & Robertson Company, manufacturers of Smyrna rugs, hemp carpets, Napier matting, Crescent and Dundee rugs, &c., Paterson, N. J., opened the spring season with the most extensive and attractive lines of these goods ever shown by them, and their business to this date has been very satisfactory. The lines are shown in New York by Walter Scott, 108 and 110 Worth street; at Chicago, by Carl Bremer, 221 Fifth avenue; at Boston, by A. N. Flinn, 564 Washington street, and at Cincinnati, by J. M. Allen, Palace Hotel Building.

AFFAIRS OF THE AMERICAN SHADE COMPANY.

The American Shade Company, St. Louis, is financially embarrassed. It is said that the plant has been taken possession of by the mother of W. H. Mare, Jr., and that the Columbia Shade Cloth Company has secured the factory, with the machinery contained in it, but has not yet decided whether it will operate it or not. The company was organized last March, W. H. Mare, Sr., and his son having secured the controlling interest. W. W. Carpenter, the founder of the business, disposed of his interest in it to the Messrs. Mare, but remained with the company as superintendent of its factory.

THE ROME UNIVERSAL CURTAIN POLE.

The Rome Brass and Copper Company state that the "Rome Universal Curtain Pole" is a seller. This company employ about 1,000 hands, and when they say a thing sells it must be so, for they are in a position to judge as to what the word "seller" means. Two little tracks upon the pole, formed from the metal which covers the wood, is the device that does the trick. Lubricate these tracks with a little oil, rubbed on with the finger, and the results you get with any ordinary, common ring will satisfy you that the "Rome Universal Pole" is all that this company claim for it.

See the manufacturers' advertisement on page 91 of this issue.

HARTSHORN SHADE ROLLERS.

The Stewart Hartshorn Company's new advertisement on page 71 of this issue is of special interest to every dealer. In every part of the world where a window shade is hung the Hartshorn roller is sure to be found. Its sterling merits have made it an indispensable part of the stock of every dealer in window shades, and the demand for it is so great as to keep the company's immense factories constantly running.

ROSENTHAL & BROWNLIE.

The spring ling of tapestry curtains shown by Rosenthal & Brownlie this season is one of the most complete in novelties in the market. Visiting buyers have placed very good orders and complimented the firm on the good taste shown in getting up the line.

H. Goldthorp is making a trip in the Middle States for the firm. E. T. Lamburton, who covers Boston and the New England States, is sending in flattering orders. R. S. Brownlie, of the house, is back in Chicago after a successful trip in the West, and H. Gardner is up State and will make Toronto before returning to New York.

THE MANUFACTURERS' CONVENTION.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY WILL BE A GUEST AT THE BANQUET.

It is definitely settled that President McKinley will attend the banquet of the National Association of Manufacturers, to be given at the Waldorf-Astoria, January 27, as announced in our issue of the 1st inst. A committee, consisting of Warner Miller, Charles A. Moore, Charles A. Schieren, William Brookfield, Benjamin Atha, Henry B. Haigh and Charles E. Locke, by appointment called at the White House last month, when the President listened to the request of the committee, and, after asking many questions regarding the work and national character of the association, said that he would endeavor to attend and speak on the occasion.

The President subsequently assured the committee that he not only felt it to be a duty, but that it would be a great pleasure to him to meet manufacturers representing all lines of industry and from all sections of the Union at their annual convention.

It is understood that Joseph H. Choate and Senator Frye will also speak.

PERSONAL

Arbuckle.—John C. Arbuckle, New York representative of Stewart, Moir & Muir, sails for home the last week in January. He will probably hereafter visit this country twice a year in the interests of the house.

Angier—Hotchkin.—Miss M. J. Hotchkin, of Waterville, N. Y., was married at Benton Harbor, Mich., on the 5th inst. to G. E. Angier, of the John Kroder & Henry Reubel Company, New York. The event is noticed by the Daily Palladium, of Benton Harbor, as follows: "Mr. G. E. Angier, of New York city, and Miss M. J. Hotchkin, of Waterville, N. Y., were married by Rev. James Hamilton at the Hotel Whitcomb to-day. The ceremony was performed at the hotel on account of Mrs. R. H. Hotchkin's illness, instead of at the residence of Mr. J. C. Hotchkin, the bride's brother, on Lincoln avenue. It was a very quiet affair, only relatives of the bride being present. At 11 o'clock a sumptuous breakfast was served in the ordinary of the hotel. The room was very prettily decorated in pink and white roses and smilax. The bride wore a brown broadcloth suit trimmed in gold. The party left on the noon train for parts unknown. The groom's nephews wished their "Uncle Everett" all kinds of success and happiness, and the rice that was wasted was evidence of their sincerity."

Bratton.—D. H. Bratton, New York representative of the Moss Rose Manufacturing Company, started out on his Western trip on the 11th inst. Mr. Bratton carries a line that will command large orders.

Brittain.—John A. Brittain, of J. A. Brittain & Co., was displaying samples to the Boston trade last week.

Burbridge.—Charles T. Burbridge, who is once more in his old shape after his serious operation at the Post-Graduate Hospital, is now with H. O. Perrin & Co., and will represent their drapery trimming department on the road.

Fletcher.—Frank N. Fletcher, of W. H. Fletcher & Co., returned on New Year's Day from his European trip, bringing back fourteen extra pounds of Fletcher. The custom house inspector, who knew him well, mechanically chalked his trunks, but looked after him as he went down the pier as though he had lingering doubts as to whether or not he had a $250 renaissance curtain wrapped around him.

Frank.—Jo Frank has resigned his position as vice-president of the Chauncey Tapestry Company, to take effect to-day, January 15.

Hall.—Harry B. Hall, now with the Chauncey Tapestry Company, goes to the New York office of the Moss Rose Manufacturing Company on the 17th inst.

Henson.—J. W. Henson, of Henson & Small, agents for the Patchogue mill, sailed for Europe on the Teutonic on the 12th inst. Old traveler as he is, he went to the dock with a foreboding of an uncomfortable trip—a foreboding which was shared by everyone who had seen any of the Atlantic liners which had reached this port in the past few days.

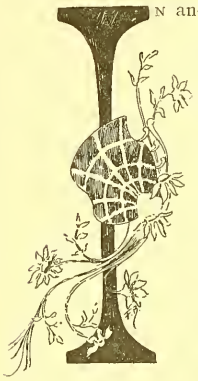
Kitz.—A. Kitz, manager of the New York business of Bossut Père & Fils, will return from Europe next week.

Rice.—Henry W. Rice was sworn in as a school commissioner by Mayor Strong, of New York, on December 30. Mr. Rice, who is conspicuous in social life and philanthropic work in this city, is the head of the firm of Rice, Stix & Co., St. Louis, and its resident representative in New York.

Ryan.—Edward Ryan, of Ryan & McGahan, 84 Leonard street, New York, was confined to his home with a sprained ankle for a few days, but is again hustling after trade, although with a perceptible limp.

Sharp.—Robert G. Sharp, for many years at the head of the upholstery department of E. S. Jaffray & Co., and one of the best known men in the trade, will be found after to-day on the floor of W. H. Fletcher & Co. He will be a valuable acquisition to the staff of the house.

WINDOW SHADE TRADE CONDITIONS.



In another column we report the financial difficulties of a St. Louis shade manufacturing concern. Within the past six months Chicago's pioneer shade factory failed, and the close of the past year witnessed the retirement from business of the oldest shade manufacturing firm in Philadelphia. Each of these occurrences was due to the lack of profit in the manufacturing business. Orders could be obtained, but there was nothing left for the maker after filling them except, in most cases, a loss. The financially weak concerns were obliged to succumb, and the strong Philadelphia firm preferred to pay up and go out of business rather than lose money.

There are still left a few manufacturing concerns which may be depended upon to safeguard their affairs, so that no one will suffer loss on their account; that is, they will not accept orders at losing prices, or if they do they are abundantly able to stand the brunt. The first method is the best. It is against the fundamental rule of business success to sell regular goods at a loss or without some profit. Let the other fellow do it. You may then have an opportunity to buy his goods still cheaper at a sheriff's sale. It is certainly in order for shade manufacturers to advance prices, either individually or collectively.

MATTERS AT THE HUB.

George J. Carter, late manager of the upholstery department at R. H. White & Co.'s, Boston, has been engaged by Emery, Bird & Thayer, of Kansas City, Mo., and will have charge of their carpet, upholstery and furniture departments.

J. B. Fisher, the Boston representative of the Hensel Silk Manufacturing Company and the Saranac Silk Mills, says all indications point to a good spring trade. The large houses have mostly taken large stocks in his lines, and the jobbers are now sending in orders at a good rate.

Among the upholstery men in the Jefferson Building on Washington street, Boston, none is more popular than the genial W. M. Boutwell, who represents Barnes & Beyer, the Matred Mills, W. & J. Robinson, &c. He has his hands full of business, and disposes of a vast amount of tapestry curtains, chenilles and various upholstery fabrics.

ST. LOUIS SIFTINGS.

St. Louis, January 10.

Kroeger & Linde have secured the contract for furnishing carpets to the magnificent, new St. Francis Xavier Church, corner Grand avenue and Lindell Boulevard.

S. M. Kennard, of the J. Kennard & Sons Carpet Company, has been appointed by Mayor Ziegenhein as one of the delegates who will represent St. Louis at the fifth annual meeting of the South and West Commercial Congress, which meets at Tampa, Fla., February 8. After the body adjourns Mr. Kennard will probably take in the Eastern markets.

T. J. Keveney & Co have just filed a suit here against Louis Sicher, the former carpet dealer, for $1,629.27 on a merchandise account.

R. M. Scruggs, of the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Dry Goods Company, has been elected as one of the directors of the St. Louis Exposition Association.

The mother of Theodore H. Conrades, vice-president and general manager of the Conrades Chair Manufacturing Company, died December 15, at the age of sixty-three years.

Charles A. Stix, of Stix, Baer & Fuller, proprietors of the Grand Leader, was serenaded at his home, on New Year's Eve, by the employees of the firm. The serenaders were invited inside and a "feast of reason and a flow of soul" followed.

On the 5th inst. one of the water tanks connected with the automatic sprinklers in the store of the J. Kennard & Sons Carpet Company burst, and a large quantity of goods was injured before the flow could be checked. The loss amounted to several thousand dollars.

Thomas K. Stanley, the upholstery buyer for B. Nugent & Brother, was pleasantly surprised on Christmas Eve, when the employees of his department presented him with a life-size crayon portrait of himself. Mr. King made the presentation on behalf of his associates and Mr. Stanley responded in a happy vein.

The total destruction by fire, on December 19, of the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Company's building, corner Broadway and Locust street, caused considerable loss and inconvenience to Charles C. Perry, the carpet and drapery agent, whose office was located on the third floor of that structure. His entire lines of samples and office furniture were completely consumed. B. W. B.

OSWEGO SHADE CLOTH COMPANY.

The Chouaguen opaque shade cloth, manufactured exclusively by the Oswego Shade Cloth Company, Oswego, N. Y., is of the highest quality in fabric, color and finish. The company guarantee it, and the dealers can therefore guarantee it to their customers. It is made in all colors, and in 38, 40, 42, 45 and 48 inch widths The 48 inch goods are made also in duplex colors. Chouaguens are wholesaled by all jobbers of window shades and upholstery goods, and are supplied in the piece or in mounted shades. See the company's advertisement on page 81, this issue.

MONUMENTAL CITY MEMS.

Baltimore, January 10.

George Hollander, of Charles Hollander & Sons, upholstery and furniture, was married the 5th inst. to Miss Olive Virginia Rose. A dinner followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hollander left for an extended trip South.

A. E. Hannesberger, Staunton, Va., with the new year has resumed operations at his furniture factory with a full force of hands.

William P. Lapsley, of the wholesale window shade firm of F. H. Lapsley & Brother, visited New York on business last week.

A. W. Ganse, upholstery and furniture, has gone to Tennessee, where he will look for a suitable location for his line of business.

The firm of J. M. High & Co., dry goods and upholstery, Atlanta, Ga., has dissolved. F. W. Holt, who has been with the firm for the past twelve years, will go with the dry goods and upholstery house of M. Rich & Brothers, as general manager, and John E. McClelland will enter upon the practice of law. J. M. High will now be in complete charge of the business. R. L. E.

EMDEN & WORMSER.

On page 80 of this issue the new firm of Emden & Wormser, successors to Emden, Gerstlè & Co., announce to the trade that they have marked down their old stock, and are offering special bargains in lace curtains and curtain materials. The firm are receiving weekly shipments of all the attractive novelties and specialties in lace curtains and curtain materials. Call at their salesrooms, 451 and 453 Broadway, New York, and see the goods. The visit will well repay every buyer.

M. E. Wormser, of the firm, will continue to travel over his old territory in New York State and Pennsylvania. B. Friedenberg will look after his Southern trade, as before, and is now on a Western trip, and Wm. Glavin remains on his favorite New England ground. Edward Fry will sell more goods in 1898 among the Greater New York trade, and Mr. De Witt will be found in the house as during many years past.

FERGUSON BROTHERS.

The spring lines of Ferguson Brothers, manufacturers of novelties and specialties in furniture, suitable for upholstery and housefurnishing departments, are now ready for inspection. They comprise a large number of novelties which are certain to be very popular, and the new ideas introduced add to the useful as well as the decorative features of the goods. The line will undoubtedly find quick appreciation in the trade, and buyers are advised to see it as soon as possible. It is shown at the salesrooms of the firm, 494 Broadway, New York, and by their traveling men on the road. See the new advertisement of the Messrs. Ferguson on page 90 of this issue.

Thomas B. Jones, who was at one time Eastern representative of Mills & Gibb, and later with W. H. Fletcher & Co., and with E. W. Knapp, New York agent for the Lehigh Manufacturing Company, died on January 13.

J. S. Lesser & Co. will remove February 1 to 473 Broadway.

W. B. Wilson and W. A. Gillespie were admitted to an interest in the firm of P. K. Wilson & Son, 473 and 475 Broadway, this city, January 1.

F. A. Foster & Co., commission merchants for the sale of printed cotton draperies and other dry goods, have removed from Leonard street to 66 and 68 Worth street.

S. G. Hodgman, formerly with Rosenthal & Brownlie, and W. C. Cavender, formerly with B. L. Solomon's Sons, of this city, are now members of the selling force of Strawbridge & Clothier.

The A. Naumann-Pulfrich Company, 458 Broadway, has been incorporated under the laws of this State. The directors are Reinhard Siedenburg, Arthur Naumann and Ernst Pulfrich, all of this city.

The style of the firm of A. S. Rosenthal & Co., importers of Oriental and European silks, 45 Greene street, and 42 and 44 Wooster street, has been changed to A. S. Rosenthal & Fried. The firm is composed as before of A. S. Rosenthal and Samson Fried.

Felix J. McCosker, 486 Broadway, is sole agent in this country for the corded and Florentine window shadings manufactured by William O'Hanlon & Co. These goods meet fully the demand for artistic, high class shades, and deserve the prompt attention of any buyer who has not yet handled them. Mr. McCosker will furnish samples and prices on application.

The firm of Emden, Gerstlè & Co., lace curtain manufacturers and importers, dissolved on December 31, as heretofore announced, and was succeeded by the new firm of Emden & Wormser, composed of G. Emden, senior partner of the former firm, and Max E. Wormser, who has been a leading traveler with the house for several years. The new firm will continue at the old quarters, 451 and 453 Broadway.

On the 2d inst. fire destroyed the five story building at 355 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, owned and occupied by the John Thompson Company, manufacturer of upholstered furniture, &c. The loss on building and contents amounts to $50,000. Only last month the company began proceedings in the Supreme Court for a voluntary dissolution on the ground that the stockholders think they can do business more economically as a partnership.

Hunninghaus & Lindemann will remove January 24 to their new store at 79 Walker street, this city, where they will have quarters much superior in light, space and other respects to those now occupied by them. The new store has an electric elevator, steam heat and all the other modern improvements usual in business buildings of the first class. The firm's lines of window shades and shade cloths, hollands, shade laces, &c., will be shown to excellent advantage in their new and handsomely fitted up quarters.

Deputy Sheriff Whoriskey has received an attachment against Max or Marks Sternglanz, dealer in pictures, novelties, curtains, &c., at 295 and 369 Grand street, for $650 in favor of Drescher & Schlesinger, and two writs of replevin in favor of James B. Ryer & Co., for $422, and the Henry Reubel Company for $148. When the sheriff went to make a levy the property was claimed by Adolph Gluck under a bill of sale. Mr. Sternglanz has been in the picture business since 1889. He was also a manufacturer of suspenders at 65 Walker street for over twenty years, but that place has been closed for several days. He formerly claimed a capital of $15,000.

W. D. Hibberd, for the past year with the Closter Shading Company, and prior to that with H. C. Kroh & Co., and other window shade houses, has formed a connection with T. M. James, the window shade manufacturer and Scotch holland importer, of 177 Canal street. Mr. Hibberd will travel with the attractive lines of Mr. James, and will cover the New England and New York State trade particularly. The business of T. M. James will be considerably expanded by practically covering the entire country with lines of samples, the lines being carried by travelers in connection with other goods. J. T. Davies, for many years with Dunham, Buckley & Co., is now with Mr. James, and will attend to this distribution of goods through the travelers. Besides wholesaling mounted window shades of all kinds, T. M. James is also a large importer of Scotch hollands, and carries a full stock of all colors and widths.

RIESER & CO.'S NEW SALESROOM.

Rieser & Co., the lace curtain manufacturers and importers, will remove before February 1 from 482 Broadway across the street to 473 Broadway, where they will occupy a loft 30x200 feet, which forms a lace curtain salesroom even better than the one they have heretofore occupied, as it will have an abundance of north light and plenty of pole room. The firm membership will continue as heretofore, and consists of Henry J. Rieser and Marcus Kohner, the latter having decided to remain in the business after a previous decision to retire. The firm will continue business with the same assorted character of stock as usual, carrying everything in lace curtains, from the cheap machine made goods up to the fine real laces, and will also make a leading feature of ruffled muslin and net curtains of their own manufacture.

The selling force will consist of P. McLaren, who will travel through the West; W. R. Blair, who will cover Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and the South; Max Rosenbaum, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois; and M. J. Timoney, New York city, New England and New York State.

THE JOHN KRODER & HENRY REUBEL COMPANY.

The business interests of John Kroder, Incorporated, and the Henry Reubel Company have been consolidated under the corporate name of the John Kroder & Henry Reubel Company, and the main offices and salesrooms of the company will be removed on or before February 1 to the large building Nos. 268 and 270 Canal street, four doors east of Broadway.

The combined facilities of the company's extensive factories, together with the economy in cost of production which will naturally result from the consolidation of the two concerns, will enable the new corporation to interest the trade more strongly and meet its demands most thoroughly and satisfactorily. It will manufacture, as heretofore, but on a more extensive scale than ever before, full lines of brass and wood curtain poles and trimmings, upholstery hardware and brass goods, carpet hardware, &c. C. W. Ellis, who represents the company at Boston, has also found it necessary to remove to larger quarters on account of the increasing business, and is now showing the lines in Room 94 Jefferson Building, 564 Washington street, Boston.

See the company's new advertisement on page 93 of this issue.

JOHN KING & SON'S HOLLANDS.

Felix J. McCosker, 486 Broadway, New York, is sole selling agent in the United States for the celebrated Scotch window hollands, manufactured by John King & Son. The high quality of these goods is too well known in the entire trade to make it necessary to lay any stress upon this point now. They are sold by every shade goods importer and leading importer of carpeting or upholstery goods in the United States. Note the advertisement of the Messrs. King on page 84 of this issue.

WALL PAPER NOTES.

..E. J. Tippett, dealer in furniture, wall paper, &c., Point Pleasant, W. Va., is succeeded by J. B. Tippett.

..A. H. Morton, buyer of wall papers, &c., for A. M. Rothschild & Co., Chicago, was in the New York market this week.

..The employees in the wall paper establishment of Edward Love, of Plainfield, N. J., were presented with turkeys for their Christmas by their employer, and on the afternoon before Christmas the force enjoyed a sumptuous lunch at Mr. Love's expense.

..Jordan, Marsh & Co., of Boston, have opened a wall paper department in their big dry goods store. It is located on the upper floor, adjoining the carpet and rug department, and will be in charge of H. B. Jones, who has had a long experience in the business. The firm recently bought the stock of the old wall paper house of J. F. Bumstead & Co., who retired from trade the first of the year.

MORE THAN STRAIGHT.

Owner—Say, what are you doing? That paper is not plumb.

Paper-hanger—Plumb! Why, my dear man, 'at paper's more'n plumb!

FRANCE GETS A JUDGMENT.

On the 3d inst. Judge Grosscup, in the Federal Court, at Chicago, ordered a judgment entered in favor of the French Republic and the French exhibitors who lost property by the fire in the Manufacturers Building, January 8, 1894, at the World's Fair.

The court two months ago held that the Columbian Exposition Company, the local corporation conducting the fair, was liable for the damage. The judge withheld the entry of judgment until the amount of insurance paid the individual exhibitors could be ascertained, stating that when this was known a judgment for the balance would be directed. The judgment is for $57,760, the full amount claimed.

The loss to the French Republic consisted of some fine Beauvais and Gobelin tapestries and two magnificent Sèvres vases, made for ornaments at the entrance to the Chamber of Deputies. The French Republic claimed $50,000 on its direct loss, and $10,000 more by reason of delay and extra expenses attending the fire. Half a dozen exhibitors from France had a combined loss of $15,000.

The Jo Frank Tapestry Company, of Philadelphia, is one of the concerns which the new year has brought forth. Men who for years have known Mr. Frank as one of the ablest salesmen of middle weight drapery goods in this country, will be pleased to learn that he will once more visit them with fabrics of his own production. They will also be pleased to learn that he will again be associated with Geo. W. Fulton, who was formerly the manufacturing partner in the firm of Geo. W. Fulton & Co. The firm will have its offices and salesrooms at 345 and 347 Broadway on the same loft with W. H. Fletcher & Co.

AFFAIRS OF W. G. HITCHCOCK & CO.

PLAN TO UTILIZE THE REAL ESTATE HOLDINGS OF THE HEAD OF THE FIRM.

A plan for the reorganization of the affairs of W. G. Hitchcock & Co., importers of dress and upholstery goods, at Nos. 553 and 555 Broome street, who failed for more than $1,000,000 October 22 last, has been submitted to the creditors by the counsel for the assignee, by which it is provided the liabilities will be met in full. The plan is to go into effect, if accepted, January 15, 1898.

The liabilities of the firm are placed at possibly $1,500,000. The assets, under a forced sale, according to William Nelson Cromwell, assignee's counsel, could not net to the creditors more than 35 per cent.

Mr. Cromwell's plan is to capitalize and develop the large real estate holdings of Mr. Hitchcock in Westchester County.

Mr. Hitchcock, about six years ago, began to invest largely in farm lands between Scarsdale and White Plains, on the New York and Harlem Railroad, and within forty-two minutes of the Grand Central Station. At the time of his failure Mr. Hitchcock was probably the largest property owner in Westchester County, holding more than 1,400 connected acres, subject only to a relatively small mortgage lien. It had involved a cash outlay of $500,000 and a tying up of capital which, Mr. Cromwell says, was a contributing cause of the failure.

A realization of the full value of this investment, according to Mr. Cromwell, will bring about a large cash contribution, an adjustment of all claims, the release of the assignors and a speedy dividend to creditors.

The accomplishment of this plan, its promoter says, has been made possible by the attitude of Mrs. Hitchcock, who will come to its aid with payments, conveyances and concessions involving more than $500,000.

By the consummation of this plan, it is anticipated, the creditors will realize upon their claims 36 per cent. in cash, 14 per cent. in 4 per cent. notes of the John Ruszits Fur Company, and 50 per cent. in 5 per cent. general mortgage bonds of the Greater New York Land and Development Company, as the land company will be called. Mr. Cromwell is made reorganization trustee.

ORINOKA BUILDING FOR THE ORINOKA MILLS AND B. L. SOLOMON'S SONS.

The Orinoka Mills and the firm of B. L. Solomon's Sons will remove their salesrooms from 29 Union square to Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street prior to February 1. We present herewith an illustration of the handsome building which will doubtless be the home of these concerns for a great many years to come, as the Messrs. Solomon have heretofore made but few changes in location during the long business career of their firm.

The firm of B. L. Solomon's Sons, which consists of Sol. & Sim. Solomon and Alexander Martin, the latter having been admitted to an interest January 1, will occupy the first two lofts with their extensive and attractive stock of imported upholstery fabrics.

The Orinoka Mills will utilize the third loft with an exclusive display of the upholstery, drapery and hanging products of the Orinoka Mills, of Philadelphia, the selling being under the direct charge of Jay H. Solomon and Thos. F. Gurry.

Both concerns will have well lighted and spacious quarters, unsurpassed for all modern conveniences, and the trade will find it a pleasure as well as profitable to visit the new Orinoka Building, the title which has been given to the structure.

NEW QUARTERS OF THE ORINOKA MILLS AND B. L. SOLOMON'S SONS.

The Dingley tariff is likely to diminish very greatly importations of German stuffs for covering furniture, table covers, and the better class of plushes.

For the spring of 1898 the Philadelphia Tapestry Mills are now showing their great line of fabrics, consisting of table covers, curtains, piece goods and couch covers. Their line has been prepared with great care, and covers an immense range. The goods are well made up and popular in price, and the variety is so large that every demand is met.

The Minneapolis Dry Goods Company, of Rochester, N. Y., has been incorporated under New York State laws with a capital stock of $200,000. The directors are: C. F. and J. R. Gordon, of the Minneapolis (Minn.) Dry Goods Company; Rufus A. Sibley and Alex. M. Lindsay, of the Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company, Rochester; Thomas S. Johnson, Andrew J. Townsor and Thomas B. Ryder, also of Rochester.

A BOUDOIR BEDROOM.

New developments in domestic arrangements have certainly set in with the rage for flats, and the need for a simple ménage in view of the growing independence of the daughters of the house. The changes which present-day ideas impose upon daily life demand a corresponding change in the order and arrangement of our furniture and rooms, that these may serve the new purposes required of them. A useful transformation may be adopted in bedrooms so as to increase their value in return for the space they occupy in the house. A room which by day is a pretty sitting room and by night a sleeping apartment, with equal comforts to the ordinary bedroom, would be a welcome addition to the oft-times overtaxed resources of the home. The equipment of the boudoir bedroom necessitates an entire remodelling of the furniture used, and the most important pieces, which need to be carefully planned in order to carry out their double uses, are the washstand, the bed and the wardrobe; these are represented in the accompanying cut, and they could be produced in an expensive and ornate style with carved enrichments or fashioned in plain wood, stained, and with more severe outlines. The principle and the mechanism should be the same in either treatment, and the taste and purse of the purchaser alone can be the determining factor. The bed is designed on the plan of a settle seat, with a spring and hair mattress, and dainty silk curtains aound the back and sides. When the bed is made in the morning it is completely covered with a brocade bedspread, edged with a deep frill, and the square pillows are placed in brocade cases and rested against the back of the seat, thus converting the erstwhile bed into a most luxurious couch. The washstand, when closed, has the appearance of a cabinet, but its doors conceal a mirror, towel rail, and all the adjuncts of the toilet, which are ranged on convenient shelves so as to be immediately accessible if required. The wardrobe is ornamental, and when the matutinal tidying has taken place every part of the room is easily robbed of suggestive reminiscences of its former use, and there is absolutely no need for any bedroom to proclaim its existence as such; and the hitherto stereotyped, useless, and unlovely bedroom may be converted into a study, boudoir, or music room, in which friends can be received in pleasant chat, or into a reposeful sitting room, where, "far from the madding crowd," mind and body can be refreshed in quiet hours of rest and peace. The cost of furnishing in the way suggested would not be greater than that usually incurred, and certainly the change would bring with it a great accession of comfort to those who appreciate appropriate surroundings, but whose house room is limited.

DRAPING MANTELS, COUCHES, ETC.

The custom of draping mantels, couches, arbors, bookcases, &c., has gotten to be so universal that manufacturers now produce draping material for this special purpose. The difference in the fabric used for mantel draping and for window work is that the former calls for brighter colors, and more prominent designs and lighter texture. Although a cloth calculated for mantel decoration can be made to serve for a small window (see Fig. 4), regulation drapery is not always applicable to couches, bookcases, &c. In the manufacture of the cloth for this special line, combination yarns are used largely in forming the patterns. The process of making these yarns is here described. In Figure 1 is a sectional drawing of a device for straining dissolved waste silk preparation for coating combination yarns; the main reservoir is marked A, the wire gauze plate C, the screw mechanism D, and the receptacle for receiving the strained stock B. The softened mass of silk waste is forced through the wire gauze by means of the screw. This strained solution is then applied to the yarns and dried by passing over steam cylinders as shown in Fig. 2, in which A is the yarn ready to enter the mixture in the tank B, after which it is drawn over the hot cylinders and wound up again at C. Doubling is done by passing the yarns through a pair of rollers, D, Fig. 3, while the surfaces are made sticky or adhesive by a glutinous deposit from the retort F, and which is fed through pipes to the brushes E, and the latter distributes the solution on the surfaces of the yarns. This silken solution is produced almost entirely from waste silk and is therefore not costly. The silk plated yarns are colored to correspond with the design wanted, the goods woven and finished, and opportunity is given for the arrangement of window shelf and couch trimmings illustrated in the diagram.

APPARATUS FOR PREPARING COMBINATION YARNS.

In Fig. 4 is a window drapery in which the ground work of the goods is in pale yellow green, dyed as follows: For 100 pounds of yarn, prepare a dye bath with 3 pounds indigo extract, 7 ounces naphthol yellow, 4 pounds oil of vitriol and 10 pounds of Glaubers salt. Enter yarn at 140° Fahr., and bring to a boiling point while turning to shade. In Fig. 5 is a suggestion for the trimming of a bookcase or desk with the same kind of goods, except that in model shown, the ground of the cloth is darker. The pattern work also differs, but the same kind of combination or silken plated yarns are used. These are woven in very neat effects such as step patterns, bird's eyes and plain twills, and in grays, blue grays, blues and light drabs, with snuff browns and dark Oxford. The browns are dyed as follows: For 100 pounds of yarn, prepare the dye bath with 10 pounds common salt, 1 pound chrysomine, 3 pounds benzo brown, 1 pound diamine black. Enter goods at the boil and work for one hour; lift, wash and dry. In Fig. 6 is shown a plan of couch draping. The ground in the fabric is white, and in this pattern some of the figures are in boucle effect. There is occasion for good judgment in the selection of the stock to make these boucle patterns. It requires wool specially adapted for that purpose, with a good long staple and a percentage of finer quality intermixed to produce the desired effect, as yarn from this stock can very seldom be drawn down into the finer numbers, and where these fine numbers are required, different stock should be used —stock that is free from burrs, specks, &c. In Fig. 7 is an effect for a mantel. The base yarns in the texture are cotton and wool mixed and dyed olive as follows: Boil in a bath of 10 ounces alum and 3 ounces sulphuric acid for one hour, then lift and add 13 ounces picric acid, 12 ounces indigo extract; re-enter for 30 minutes; lift, add 2 pounds orchil, again re-enter and dye to shade; lift, rinse well and dry. The figure work on the design is in combination yarns.

RUFFLED AND FLOUNCED CURTAINS.

Cohen Brothers & Co. are showing for this season over 500 styles of flounced, ruffled, fluted and gathered novelty curtains made of bobbinets, point d'esprit and fancy nets, fish nets and muslins, with insertions and edging to match. The demand has increased so much that they have started a factory at 308 East Fourth street, and employ twenty-eight operators, which will enable them to fill all orders at very short notice. Their Nottingham house keeps them well supplied with all the latest novelties for the manufacture of these new curtains. The Messrs. Cohen & Co. say: "The popular price of the curtains has created a great demand for them in all the fashionable cities of the world, as nothing has ever been shown to equal them in style, elegance and durability for the same price. This fact makes them very desirable in every curtain department."

Buyers who are looking for money makers should see the line, which is on view at Cohen Brothers & Co.'s store, 424 and 426 Broadway, New York. See their new advertisement on page 79 of this issue.

CHARLES W. BRENEMAN & CO.

In the manufacture of shade cloths and window shades, Charles W. Breneman & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, have been especially successful, and to Western dealers particularly, they offer some important advantages, as, for instance, economy in time and also in freight charges. They have special facilities for large and economical production of goods, and are able to meet quickly and satisfactorily the demands of every class of trade. See their advertisement on page 85 of this issue.

The tornado which struck Fort Smith, Ark., on the night of January 11 wrecked The Racket Store.

J. B. Ryer, Son & Co. have bought another factory at Paterson, N. J., and now have two in that city. The one just purchased will also be utilized for the manufacture of upholstery goods, drapery fabrics, &c.

The Easton Button Manufacturing Company has been organized to manufacture upholstery buttons at Easton, Pa. The goods are made by a device patented by C. W. Garis, who with J. H. Wilking has formed the company.

Hunter & Whitcomb have had excellent success on their novelties in upholstery fabrics for spring. Mr. Hunter and Mr. Whitcomb have been on the road with the lines, and are now ready to meet the visiting buyers at the salesroom, 874 Broadway, New York.

There's one thing a buyer may be positively assured of when placing an order with the Jay C. Wemple Company. He'll get the goods and get them promptly, and at the price agreed upon. Whether there is storm or sunshine in the shade trade, this house is on a rock which has not been shaken in its half century of existence. By and by, when shade prices get back to a proper level, remember that the Jay C. Wemple Company served you faithfully and efficiently at low values without flinching.

The Patchogue Manufacturing Company are putting up a new mill building, which will be 75x200 feet on the ground and two stories in height. It is of brick, fireproof, and is intended for the new machinery, most of which is now on its way to this country, and which will double the present capacity of the company. A track is to be laid to connect the shipping rooms of the works with the main line of the Long Island Railroad. When completed and the new looms installed the Patchogue will be the second largest mill in the United States.

THE JOSEPHS & WERTHEIMER COMPANY.

The partnership of Gustavus Josephs and Laurence W. Frank, under the name of Florence Mills, Josephs & Frank Company, was dissolved December 28, 1897. The affairs of the old firm will be settled by Mr. Josephs, who has formed a partnership with Louis Wertheimer, under the firm style of Florence Mills, Josephs & Wertheimer Company. The new firm will continue the manufacture of curtains, upholstery goods, &c., at the Florence Mills, 1738 North Second street, Philadelphia.

The Denholm & McKay Company, Worcester, Mass., is enlarging its furniture department, which has recently been placed in charge of Phineas Wardell, who comes from Lawrence, Wilde & Co., Boston.

Schroth & Potter, manufacturers of window shades and shade trimmings, Columbus, Ohio, have removed to their new and spacious building at 305 and 307 North Front street, that city, where they have one of the best plants in the country. They say that trade is very active, and that they have nothing to complain of except the low prices quoted. D. G. Duffy, formerly with the American Shade Cloth Company, has been added to their force of salesmen, and will represent them in Texas and Arkansas.

Facts About Hartshorn Shade Rollers.

The product of our factories includes Shade Rollers of every description, made of wood and tin, suitable for all classes of work, and many famous Hartshorn accessories.

The cost of these Rollers is slightly higher than any others on the market.

The quality of these Rollers is so high as to be far beyond the reach of real competition.

The reputation of these Rollers is of such strength as to insure success to any merchant in the window shade line who sells them exclusively.

The demand for them is universal, and so heavy as to keep our great factories running constantly.

These are some of the reasons that our Rollers are found to-day in whatever part of the world a window shade is hung.

A JUDICIOUS INVESTMENT.

The Best Economy in your Carpet Room

can only be secured by using the most perfect appliances, of the simplest design and the best construction.

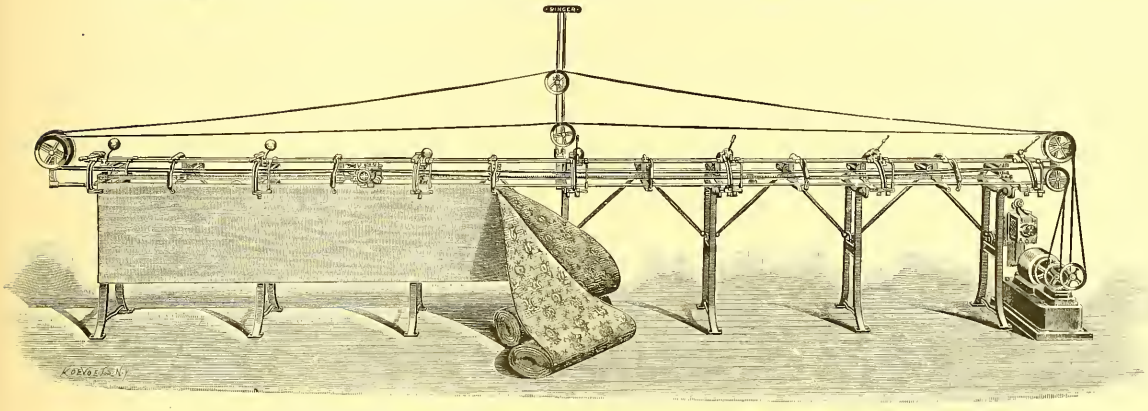
Experience Has Proven the Fact that the SINGER AUTOMATIC POWER CARPET SEWER will save its cost in one year to any carpet dealer having enough business to require a hand machine. THE SINGER AUTOMATIC is now in use by dealers who saved its cost during the first six months of its operation.

A TRIUMPH OF MECHANICAL EFFICIENCY, SURPASSING ALL OTHER DEVICES FOR ITS PURPOSE.



Truly automatic, requires less labor and sews 40 per cent. more carpet than any other machine on the market.
Requires least floor space, and uses any form of power.
Makes perfect stitch and seam, sewing any kind of carpet.

Automatic Matching and Clamping Device.

This device is absolutely unique, and secures perfect stretching and matching, without necessity for expert labor. It is simpler, swifter and in every way more effective than any other way of handling a carpet. The sewing machine works automatically on its track, following the operator from section to section as fast as each is matched and clamped, the action of the clamping levers automatically governing the movement of the sewing machine, thus saving a great deal of time. . . . . .

This is not a Hand Machine Crudely Adapted to Power Operation.

Our Hand Machine is well known, and is still on the market, fully guaranteed to be the best and most practical in use.

We offer to the Trade our usual standard lines of Carpetings for the Spring of '98.

As we were large purchasers of merchandise before the recent sharp advances, we are in position to quote, in all cases, the lowest market price, and in some cases offer inducements that mills and commission houses will not meet.

Our private patterns, especially in Wiltons and Brussels, are not surpassed either in variety of design or novelty in coloring.

If we, with our private patterns and colorings, have been able to secure some of the largest contracts given in this country, would it not PAY YOU to have our patterns represented in your stock.

☞ CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

The Carpet and Upholstery Association.

541 New York Life Building, 346 Broadway, NEW YORK.

The Carpet and Upholstery Association has been organized to supply special reports relating to the financial responsibility and credit standing of Dealers in Carpets, Rugs, Oil Cloth, Linoleums, Mattings or Floor Coverings of any description; Curtains, Upholstery Goods, Window Shades, Upholstery Hardware, Decorative and Furniture Specialties and kindred productions.

The system of a special reporting agency of this character has been successfully conducted in other leading branches of trade for many years, and this Association is the first and only credit agency devoted exclusively to the Carpet and Upholstery Trades.

The Association will issue a Reference Book containing the names of dealers in the goods mentioned throughout the United States, together with credit ratings. This Reference Book will be published twice a year and will be fully revised up to date of issue.

The Special Reports will be the result of thorough and extended investigation in the buying markets, as well as at the resident points of dealers, and will contain information of inestimable value to all manufacturers and wholesalers.

The Association is now prepared to receive subscriptions and to furnish special reports. The first Reference Book of the Association Reports will be ready for delivery at an early date.

Terms of Subscription will be furnished on application.

COLLECTION DEPARTMENT.

The Association has a thoroughly organized Collection Department in the hands of experienced men. We shall endeavor to make this one of the most acceptable features of the Association. Our facilities for making collections throughout the United States and Canada are perfected, and any accounts for collection or other legal matters submitted to us will be handled in a manner thoroughly satisfactory to our clients. We have correspondents in every community of any size in the United States and Canada, and guarantee that the services of our corresponding attorneys shall be in all respects satisfactory.

FACTS ABOUT

THE NEW

Keystone 3-Shoot Velvets.

• • • •

OUR INVITATION. Carpet merchants are invited to call at either our Philadelphia or New York office and prove to their satisfaction that we are offering the best Velvet Carpeting produced in this country,

LABOR AND MATERIAL. We have employed experts only. We are using the best materials that can be bought, principally worsted wool, spun in the fleece, producing a long lasting, hard wearing fabric.

SMALL ORDERS PREFERRED. We want small sample orders, feeling sure we will retain the business of firms who try our goods.

ONE STORE ONLY. We shall confine our goods to one first-class house in each town. The advantages of this policy are apparent to every live merchant.

PRICE. We offer Keystone High-pile 3-shoot Velvets at the price of ordinary 2-shoot goods.

PHILADELPHIA TAPESTRY MILLS,

Cambria and Ormes Streets.

PHILADELPHIA, January 15, 1898.

To Buyers of Upholstery Fabrics:

There is a peculiar tone, a strong individuality in our products that proclaim them as better than the ordinary kind. New ideas that have been acquired by our designers have resulted in the making of fabrics of that distinctively smart tone that is only found in the best. Ally this to the prices we put on same, and you have the ideal trade makers.

In our lines for the spring of 1898 you will find that same careful attention to detail and to style that has made our goods famous. Goods like these add to the individuality of a department and make modern trade-getting easy.

There is a reasonable certainty of buyers being able to obtain from our large and choice collection of Upholstery Fabrics anything and everything that may be required in an Upholstery department.

MODERN UPHOLSTERIES.

It is evident that buyers are becoming more convinced every season that it does not pay to purchase foreign made Upholstery and Drapery Fabrics when they can buy American made goods of equal quality and superior styles at considerably less money. That our productions for the will substantiate the correctness of this assertion we leave to the judgment of the Trade and invite the most careful comparison between them and imported fabrics.

NEW YORK SALESROOM: 115 Worth Street.

CHICAGO SALESROOM: 704 Champlain Building.

One eminent and popular house that has tried all makes announces them to be

"The Best Window Hollands Made."

Another equally large Importer of great experience states:

"The goods have always been and are now fast colors."

Another firm in the very front rank of the business describes them as

"Unequalled in quality, unshrinkable and of finest dyes."

While another firm of Importers, probably one of the largest shade goods houses in the world, characterizes them in these terms:

"JOHN KING & SON'S Famous Scotch Hollands."

JOHN KING & SON'S

ESTABLISHED IN THE YEAR 1775

Celebrated

Scotch Window HOLLANDS

ILLUSTRATING the high consideration these popular goods hold in the estimation of the most experienced importers of shade goods in the country, the attention of the trade is invited to the above opinions, published in the columns of this and other journals, over the signatures of the respective firms.

Enterprising but unscrupulous parties unable to reach the exalted standard of these celebrated goods, pay them the flattery of imitating the wrappings. It is the Goods, not the wrappings, the trade is after. See that Bands, Tickets and Tabs of every piece are marked

"JOHN KING & SON."

Wholesaled from every Shade Goods Importer and Leading Carpet and Upholstery Importer in the Country.

ANNOUNCEMENT : :

To The Trade:

We take pleasure in announcing the consolidation of the business interests of John Kroder, Incorporated, of 47 Crosby Street, New York, and The Henry Reubel Co., of 269 Canal Street, New York, under the corporate name of The John Kroder & Henry Reubel Co.

We also announce the Removal of our Main Offices and Salesrooms, on or before February 1st, to

268 and 270 CANAL STREET,

4 Doors East of Broadway.

The combined facilities of our extensive factory plants in New York City, together with the economy in cost of production which will naturally result from the union of our resources, will place us in the best possible position to serve the interests of our friends and patrons, which it will be our aim and pleasure to do at all times.

We take this opportunity to extend our thanks to our many friends for their patronage in the past, and to solicit a continuance of the same under our new relations.

Faithfully yours,

JOHN KRODER, Incorporated.

The Last Process

in making Rubber Matting is to bake or cure it. Unless this is thoroughly done the goods are inferior. You know what happens to undercured hams—undercured rubber also spoils. It doesn't putrify, but stiffens. It's the elasticity in the rubber that makes it wear, and the stiffer it gets the shorter its life. Undercured matting has a sticky feeling, with little rebound—you can cut into it easily with your thumb nail. Double Diamond and Spider Treads are thoroughly cured, tough and elastic. Their quality is uniformly good; they are great wearers, and please the most exacting customer. Carried 36 inches wide by 3/32, 1/8, 3/16 and 1/4 inches thick; 41 inches wide by 3/16 and 1/4 inches thick. Cut to size free of cost. Better have our samples and prices before you.

Yardum Bros. & Co.

TO THEIR NEW AND ATTRACTIVE QUARTERS,

594=596 Broadway, New York.

124 TO 130 CROSBY STREET.

As heretofore our aim and purpose will be to introduce and offer to the trade the best and most suitable productions of the following countries:

TURKEY, PERSIA, JAPAN, CHINA.

Oriental Rug Department. Our stock of Oriental Rugs and Carpets of all kinds surpasses all our previous importations. Our new buildings, with their effective skylights and other equipments, give the buyer of rugs special advantages necessary for the inspection and selection of such goods. Our present stock will be found clean, perfect and easy selling.

Japanese Art Goods Department. Our competent buyers in Japan and China are daily collecting and shipping us new novelties from their respective localities, supplying us with the latest designs and colorings in the market. In this one of our new departments we are endeavoring to use the same careful judgment in management that has given us the standing and success, and made us an important factor in the Oriental Rug Line.

Damascus Art Ware Department. This is the latest addition to our already well-known business. Having our own shops in Damascus and elsewhere for the manufacture of these goods, we are able to supply the trade with the choicest articles at lower prices than any other house in this line. These articles consist of Damascus draperies, curtains, carved and inlaid furniture, chairs, screens, brass lamps, jardinières, vases, old arms and armor, embroideries, scarfs, sofa cushions, &c. The manager of this department, Mr Antoine Dommar, a native of the city of Damascus, is well known by many European and American wholesale and retail houses who have had direct business relations with him. Write us for photographs of the articles.

BIGELOW CARPET COMPANY.

AXMINSTER, WILTON AND BRUSSELS

CARPETS.

The Carpets made by this Company have received the highest award wherever exhibited, including Gold Medals at the Paris Exposition, 1878, and at the Centennial, 1876.

Their deserved reputation for excellence of fabric, richness and durability of color, novelty and beauty of design, has led to frequent infringements, and inferior goods have often been palmed off in their stead. For the protection of the public the Company has adopted as a trade mark the word "BIGELOW," which will be woven (at every repeat of the pattern) in white capitals into the back of the fabric. Customers will therefore have merely to examine the back of a carpet to be certain that they are getting the genuine Bigelow goods.

THESE GOODS CAN BE HAD FROM ALL FIRST-CLASS DEALERS.

UPHOLSTERY DEPARTMENT, PAGE 53.

☞ Our readers are urged to remember that we are always desirous to receive communications of interest to the carpet or upholstery trades, such as changes in firms or managers, the building or opening of new stores, improvements in old ones, the adding of new departments, improved methods of doing business, new inventions, suggestions as to the cutting, making and laying of carpets, the designing and fitting of draperies, or inquiries and dissertations relating to the technical or commercial details of the trades to which this periodical is devoted.

THE TRADE SITUATION.

THE mills are running fairly well on orders and the demand for goods is especially large in the West and Southwest. In New England trade is not particularly active, and in Massachusetts the strike of cotton mill operatives and general depression in the cotton industry are exercising a somewhat discouraging effect upon all branches of business. But whatever may be the result of the strike, the general revival of business in other parts of the country is certain to reach New England also. The fact that this revival is now in progress is shown by many unmistakable signs of the times, one of them being the practically unanimous statements to this effect by members of the National Association of Manufacturers during their recent convention in this city. As all dealers in floor coverings are aware, an improvement in general business invariably has a stimulating effect upon the demand for their goods.

Prices continue to show an advancing tendency. A conference of leading manufacturers of Ingrains was held at Philadelphia recently to consider the question of a further advance in prices, and although no decisive action was taken, there is no doubt that it will not be much longer delayed.

The stocks bought by jobbers at the sales last November are being distributed rapidly, and the jobbers will therefore soon be obliged to advance prices in proportion to the increased cost of manufacturing the goods.

THE CHINA MATTING MARKET.

ARNHOLD, KARBERG & Co., in their circular dated Hong Kong and Canton, December 15, refer to the China matting market as follows:

A considerable advance in prices for most qualities has lately taken place, which is mainly due to the large demand that is expected from the United States. Offers for shipments during next October and Novemberare scarcely obtainable and prices asked by the Chinese are even higher than those quoted above. Of Cochin China matting no offers are obtainable, as manufacturers are still uncertain about the duty that will probably be imposed in Cochin China on matting from the beginning of next year.

Shewan, Tomes & Co., in their circular dated Canton, December 14, say:

Several new orders have been received since our last advices and the market is strong. No fresh settlements are reparted, as only April-May delivery can be obtained, and dealers not wishing to run any risk are quoting high prices. An all round increase in prices is maintained and a further rise may be expected. Contracts remain at 220,000 rolls.

CRIPPLING THE POSTAL SERVICE.

The announcement that the Post Office Department intended to discharge a large number of the letter carriers of this city on account of a deficiency in the appropriation for the postal service has naturally aroused great indignation. Two large meetings of citizens have been held recently to protest against the crippling of the mail service which would necessarily follow such a reduction of the working force. This proposed interference with our postal service is particularly outrageous in view of the vast commercial importance of our city and the immense amount of money it contributes to the revenues of the Post Office Department.

The responsibility for this piece of cheese-paring economy lies of course with Congress, which, while refusing to make the appropriations necessary for the postal service, insists upon wasting many millions of dollars in the transportation at second-class rates of a great amount of mail matter which is not rightly entitled to this privilege. A bill to remedy this evil was introduced at the last session of Congress, but was opposed by a number of cross-roads representatives, who succeeded in sidetracking it for that session. It will be brought up again, and if passed—which seems probable now—the Government will then have a revenue sufficient to meet all the legitimate demands of a proper postal service.

Exports of carpeting and kindred goods from the port of New York during the past four weeks were as follows: Carpeting—Glasgow, 210 bs, $12,143; Liverpool, 96 bs., $2,346; London, 32 bs, $1,642; Genoa, 19 bs., $559. Carpet Sweepers—Southampton, 160 cs., $2,800; Hamburg, 33 cs., $279; Rotterdam, 6 cs., $100; Antwerp, 2 cs., $19; Hull, 1 cs., $12.

James L. Kingston, who invented about seven years ago the "Kingston Invisible Rug Fastener," has recently brought out an important improvement on his original device which makes it absolutely perfect for its purpose. It is called the "Kingston Self-Adjusting Fastener" and is sold by the Kingston Rug Fastener Company, 564 Washington street, Boston. Write to them for further particulars.

John Early, the well-known Eighth avenue carpet dealer, elsewhere offers his business for sale. It is a good opportunity for some man who wishes to take a well established and steadily successful plant. John Early started it about thirty years ago. That was two years after he came to this country. He was, as he says, a greenhorn, and had only $100 capital. But he was one of those far-downers who have contributed so much to the success not only of the carpet but of all other branches of business in this country. John says that when he retires he is going across the water to take a rest with "the boys."

APPRAISERS' DECISION REVERSED.

In the case of W. & J. Sloane against the United States, which was tried in the United States Circuit Court last December, the merchandise in question consisted of "wool Dutch carpet" classified as "worsted chain Venetian carpeting," at 12 cents per square yard and 30 per cent. ad valorem, under paragraph 374 of the tariff act of March 3, 1883. The importers protested, claiming the merchandise to be dutiable at 40 per cent. ad valorem as carpets or carpeting of wool under paragraph 378 of said act.

On the trial of this case it was shown that the article in suit was composed entirely of wool threads and contained no worsted whatever, but was a so-called "durrie," being a wool carpet with plain filling, and that it was in no sense "worsted chain Venetian carpeting." A verdict was rendered in favor of the importers, and the Treasury Department has recently directed the appraisers to accept this decision.

Elsewhere A. A. Vantine & Co. make a new offer of consignments of rugs for forty days, thus enabling dealers to make a display of stock ranging from $500 to $2,000 without the investment of any capital. The details will be read with interest.

Samuel Hecht, Jr., & Sons' samples of straw matting of their own importation for the season of 1898 are now on view at the firm's warehouse, 310 West Lexington street, Baltimore, where they show also an extensive line of carpets, floor oil cloths, linoleum, &c., well calculated to interest every class of trade.

At the general salesrooms of the R. H. & B. C. Reeve Company, Hartford Building, 41 Union square, New York, Rudolph Scherer has on view the complete line of the company's spring line of linoleums in five grades and in 4-4, 5-4, 6-4, 8-4 and 10-4 widths. The goods are shown in an admirable assortment of new, original and artistic patterns certain to please the most exacting critics in designs and colorings. The line is shown also by A. E. Hand, 602 Bourse, Philadelphia; Geo. Wehn & Son, 713 Penn avenue, Pittsburg; Evoy & Flanigan, 186 Market street, Chicago, and H. D. Thomas & Co., 916 Market street, San Francisco.

Edward White, Plainfield, N. J., now has a New York office at 52 Franklin street.

D. Powers & Sons have removed their New York office to the Graham Building, 127 Duane street.

The New York office and salesrooms of the J. W. Dimick Company have been moved from the fifth floor to the sixth floor of the Constable Building, Fifth avenue and Eighteenth street, Rooms 603 and 604.

The Brooklyn Furniture Company has issued the following circular:

In all correspondence kindly write our name in full, Brooklyn Furniture Company, as our mail is very often confused with other firms, causing delay and confusion.

At a meeting of the corporation of W. & J. Sloane on the 26th ult., all the officers of the company were re-elected as follows: President, John Sloane; vice-president, W. W. Law; treasurer, Henry T. Sloane; secretary, George McNeir. William Sloane (son of John Sloane) was added to the board of directors.

Richard P. Messiter, president of the New York Credit Men's Association, has addressed a circular letter to all banks, corporations and other business houses in this city, inviting all those not already members of the association to become so, to the end that the work of the association may be more thoroughly extended and made more complete and consequently of greater benefit to the whole commercial community.

Yardum Brothers have removed to the handsome new building 594 and 596 Broadway, where they have one of the most beautiful salesrooms of the kind in the world. The Damascus art ware department is the latest addition to the business, and will include Damascus draperies, curtains, carved and inlaid furniture, embroideries, scarfs, cushions, &c. It will be under the management of Antoine Dommar, a native of Damascus, and well known to many American buyers. Photograph of articles in the stock will be sent on application.

The offices, salesrooms and lofts for rental in the Hartford Building, Broadway and Seventeenth street, are especially suitable for carpet and upholstery goods, manufacturers and jobbers, a fact which has been promptly recognized, for a large number of leading concerns in these trades can now be found in this building. Any firm that is looking for new quarters is advised to note the special advantages of the Hartford Building in its 175 feet of north light, passenger and freight elevators, and other up-to-date features. See the advertisement on page 24 of this issue.

The New York Carpet Lining Company report a fair business in volume, and are making some new grades of lining which are proving very satisfactory to the trade. Write them for samples and prices to 308 East Ninety-fifth street, or see samples with P. J. Donovan, 874 Broadway.

E. S. Higgins Carpet Company is sending to the trade a vest-pocket memorandum book, which contains also the very valuable table prepared some years ago by George S. Squire in order to show at a glance the number of yards of 3-4 carpeting necessary to cover rooms of various sizes, ranging from 9x9 to 21x21 feet.

The Aldine Club and the Uptown Association are to be consolidated. The Aldine Club is composed principally of publishers and authors, and in the other club the mercantile element is predominant. John Sloane, of W. & J. Sloane, is president of the Uptown Association, and Isaac Stern, of Stern Brothers, is its vice-president.

Among the buyers in town during the past two weeks were: F. A. Goebel, Marietta, Ohio; Frank A. Ray, for Wm. M. Whitney & Co., Albany, N. Y.; R. S. Birrell, for the Doggett Dry Goods Company, Kansas City; J. L. Bonnell, for the Denholm & McKay Company, Worcester, Mass.; J. W. Penney, for Hunter, Glenn & Hunter, Detroit, Mich.; A. Harris, of A. PENNSYLVANIA'S CONVICT LABOR LAW.

ITS EFFECT ON THE MANUFACTURE OF MATS AND MATTING.

Warden Wright, of the Western Penitentiary, Allegheny, Pa., is said to be in doubt as to the exact construction to be placed on a certain clause of the new law regulating the convict labor of Pennsylvania. The clause reads as follows:

No warden, superintendent or other officer of any State prison, penitentiary or State reformatory having control of the inmates of said institutions shall employ more than 5 per cent. of the whole number of inmates of the respective institutions in the manufacture of brooms and brushes and hollowware, or 10 per cent. in the manufacture of any other kind of articles that are manufactured elsewhere in the State, except mats and matting, in the manufacture of which 20 per cent. of the inmates may be employed.

Warden Wright says that this may mean that he can place 20 per cent. of the convicts at work on mats and another 20 per cent. on matting, but that he will be obliged to get legal advice on the subject before acting.

The average number of convicts in the Western Penitentiary is 1,600, and we are informed that hitherto not more than 200 or 300 of them have been employed in the manufacture of both mats and matting.

WILLIAMSPORT

Williamsport, Pa., January 25.

L. L. Stearns & Sons, the pioneers of the carpet and dry goods trades of Williamsport, gave a banquet to their employees at the house of the head of the firm in this city, on the night of the 19th inst. That nothing was left undone for the comfort and entertainment of the guests goes without saying, as Mr. L. L. Stearns has the reputation of never doing anything by halves. The spacious mansion of Mr. Stearns was prettily decorated with flowers and palms, the guests were warmly welcomed by Mrs. L. L. Stearns and her daughters, and everyone who was present will always look back to the occasion with pleasure.

Chambers & Megahan are busy trying to get the old rink in shape, so as to be ready to make a strong bid for a slice of the business.

L. L. Stearns & Sons are getting in shape for business, as they are making expensive and extensive improvements in their carpet rooms After it is finished it will be one of the finest carpet showrooms to be found in the State.

Business in this little bustling city in the carpet line is improving. The Bush & Bull Company show some handsome goods and are making a strong bid for the trade; but they will have to "hustle," as the competition has a tendency to be "hot" the coming season.

The West End Carpet and Furniture Company are hustling, and now that the "boss has come back from his hunting trip" it is more than likely that there will be hot times in their store, as I understand that they are showing an all wool Extra Super C. C., 1088 ends, made from the wool of an Angora goat. R. M. E.

MASLAND & SONS' NEW TAPESTRY PLANT.

C. H. Masland & Sons are making rapid preparations for the manufacturing of a superior grade of Tapestry carpets. They intend to put on the market something entirely new in designs and colorings, while the quality is to be fully up to the highest standard. Forty looms will soon be in position and the goods ready for next season's sales. In the meantime their looms are all active in producing their various grades of Ingrains and Art Squares. Whatever else may stop, the big square looms are always running in full force.

A slight fire occurred last week, in the linoleum department of the R. H. & B. C. Reeve Company's factory at Camden, N. J. The damage done was slight and the works are in full operation as usual.

Among the thirty gentlemen who are to give a banquet to Governor Griggs, of New Jersey, to celebrate his appointment as Attorney-General in President McKinley's Cabinet, is Col. Henry A. Potter, of Thomas Potter, Sons & Co. Mr. Potter is a member of the Governor's staff.

....C. McKelvey, of W. & J. Sloane, visited the trade in Philadelphia a few days ago.

....John Wanamaker is enlarging his space for showing samples of the higher grades of carpets.

....The death of Wm. B. Kendall has made a profound impression upon the carpet trade in Philadelphia.

....L. C. Beggs, of the D. C. Beggs Company, Columbus, Ohio, has been spending a few days with the trade in Philadelphia.

....Henry Rath, Jr., reports a larger trade during the two weeks just past than in any corresponding period since the season opened.

....Thos. Develon's Sons are running their plant to its full capacity in filling orders, which have come in rapidly during the past few weeks.

....John N. Hinman gave an interesting exhibition of finger billiards and fancy shots in the billiard room of the Manufacturers' Club on the night of the 18th ult.

....William Scott, of the late firm of Swire & Scott, has been spending a few days at Atlantic City seeking relief from the shock he experienced in the sudden death of his partner.

....Robert Develon, of Thomas Develon's Sons, has had a severe hemorrhage, which prostrated him for ten days or so, but he is now convalescent, and may be seen at his office in the Victoria Mills daily.

....The third annual ball of the Employees' Mutual Aid Association, composed of employees of the Fries-Breslin Company, will take place at Turner Hall, Camden, N. J., on the evening of February 18 next.

....Judge Brothers are running a large portion of their looms in filling orders that have accumulated during the past few days. They will continue to run under the old firm title until a new organization has been effected.

....Samuel White, as manager, is running the mill at the corner of Columbia avenue and Front street to its full capacity on his India (jute) Smyrna rugs and carpets. This fabric has received an impetus since the Dingley tariff law went into effect.

....William Henderson, Jr., has just returned from a very encouraging trip through the West. His firm has just placed upon the market a very striking line of Pro-Brussels for the spring. The patterns are largely of the scroll order, and will be sure to meet the approbation of all lovers of art, both in designing and shading.

....The Penn Furniture Company, which emigrated from Baltimore to Philadelphia a year or two ago and located at 726 Arch street, has outgrown its present quarters, and secured larger and better facilities at 1023 Market street. The store has been changed to a considerable extent to accommodate it to the extensive trade of the company. It carries large stocks of carpets and furniture.

....Keefer & Coon have all their productions sold up and a prospect for a good season ahead. Their special weaves are still holding their original high position on an increasing demand.

....Schofield, Mason & Co., makers of Brussels and an Wilton carpets, have all their looms active, and there is increasing demand for all their productions. Their spring offerings are of a very high order of merit.

....Dornan Brothers have nearly all the looms in their big Monitor Mills in full operation and on full time. They are looking for a revival of business later on, and expect the present season to close with a grand rush.

....George Kelly, carpet and furniture dealer, 624 and 626 Market street, has purchased the building occupied by and also the stock of Mrs. Sarah Klein at the southwest corner of Front and Norris streets, and will continue the business as a branch of his Market street establishment.

....The firm of William Judge & Brothers was dissolved on the 8th ult. by the death of Robert B Judge. All debts owing to the firm are to be received and all demands on it paid by Wm. B. Judge, executor of Robt. B. Judge, and James Judge, Robt. B Judge and Agnew MacBride, trustees of the estate of James Judge, deceased.

....Henry Holmes & Sons, of the Sherman Carpet Mills, are having an extraordinary demand for their goods, and every loom is in active operation endeavoring to fill it, especially the broad looms. James Howard Holmes, youngest son of the senior partner, has just been placed at the head of the dyeing department, and is succeeding admirably in his new position.

....John Dunlap & Sons, Eleventh and Cambria streets, are meeting with an encouraging demand for their various grades of Ingrains, and have all their looms running. One of the peculiar features in their trade is the fact that, notwithstanding the numerous special weaves existing and in operation, they have thirty looms employed in weaving Three Ply carpets.

....The late D. O. Swire willed his estate, with the exception of a small legacy to his unmarried sister, to his wife without reserve. Mr. Swire left three sisters and one brother, John P. Swire, who is with Thos. L. Leedom & Co. The firm of Swire & Scott will be continued without interruption under the direction of Mr. Scott, the widow of Mr. Swire leaving her interest intact.

....The Bromley Brothers Carpet Company struck a vein when they added Pro-Brussels to their output. Orders have been coming in with such rapidity as to make it imperative that more looms be added to the original ones in order to supply the demand. There is also an increased demand for Art Squares and the larger sizes of Smyrna rugs. Meanwhile the old reliable Ingrain fabric is holding its own against all comers.

In the carpet department of Arnold, Constable & Co. business has been very good and the demand for the firm's exclusive patterns and high grade goods generally has been especially large.

Avery.—Gilman W. Avery, president of the Comstock-Avery Furniture Company, Peoria, Ill., tells this story of his start in life: "I went to work at $10 a month stripping cards in a cotton factory, leaving home to do it; then I entered a chair factory at a slight advance, and finally went to Missouri to teach school, and came home with $500 in gold belted around my waist—far richer than I have ever felt since, I assure you."

Babbott.—Frank L. Babbott, of the Chelsea Jute Mills, has been re-elected a director of the Long Island Loan and Trust Company, and has also been appointed on the temporary committee on organization of the Brooklyn League, a new association of citizens of Brooklyn, organized for the purpose of promoting the welfare of that borough of New York city.

Bonner—Farrington.—Walter Bonner, New York city representative of Joseph Wild & Co., was married at Montclair, N. J., January 22 to Miss May Louise Farrington. The young couple went to Florida on their bridal tour. Mr. Bonner is building a house at Montclair, which will be completed in April. A large number of his Brooklyn friends were present at the marriage ceremony, some seventy-five going over on a special train.

Cartledge.—John Cartledge, of Joseph Wild & Co., returned to New York on the 19th ult. He will remain but a short time, and then rejoin his family, who are traveling in Europe. His trip has evidently agreed with him, as he never looked fitter in his life.

Dilg.—George Dilg, who has been for a number of years with S. H. Millikin, Hamilton, Ohio, has engaged with the D. W. Fitton Dry Goods Company as manager of the carpet and wall paper department.

Foster—O'Boyle.—A. Z. Foster, carpet and furniture dealer, Terre Haute, Ind., and Miss Fannie O'Boyle were married on January 3 at the residence of the bride's mother in Terre Haute.

Henry.—Thomas Henry, Jr., of the Art Square Manufacturing Company, on Second street, near Columbia avenue, Philadelphia, is expected back from his shooting trip this week. Mr. Henry is largely engaged in other enterprises, having just completed a score of well built houses in Melrose, many of which have been sold, and among the purchasers is William Judge, of the firm of Judge Brothers.

Loring—Prentice.—William H. Loring, an overseer in the Hartford Carpet Company's mill at Thompsonville, Conn., and Miss Florence Prentice, of Windsor Locks, were married on December 31.

Lyon.—J. Crawford Lyon, of Lyon Brothers & Co., Baltimore, sailed for Europe on the 12th ult.

Pearson.—John B. Pearson, assistant superintendent of the American Linoleum Manufacturing Company's works at Linoleumville, Staten Island, has been elected second vice-president of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce.

Potter—Gould.—Among the members of the grand jury of the United States District Court at Trenton, N. J., were Col. Henry A. Potter, of Thomas Potter, Sons & Co., and George J. Gould, son of Jay Gould. The compensation is $2 a day and mileage, making altogether a dazzling reward for these two horny handed sons of toil.

Sloane.—John Sloane, of W. & J. Sloane, has been taking a brief rest at Lakewood, N. J. Mr. Sloane is the picture of health, having fully recovered from his illness of last spring.

Stebbins.—E. M. Stebbins is manager of the carpet department of the reorganized firm of G. V. S. Quackenbush & Co., Troy, N. Y.

PACIFIC SLOPE NOTES.

San Francisco, January 18.

The prospects for the furniture trade are probably as bright as those of any other line, although at present the situation is very quiet. The country has assumed a brighter aspect, having been visited by welcome rains, and the midwinter drought which threatened heavy damage is broken.

Thomas Oliver has opened a furniture store at Monterey, Cal.

A furniture store has been opened at Boise, Idaho, by E. C. Bickford.

The Azusa furniture store at Azusa, Cal., has been moved into new quarters.

F. E. Harris has succeeded to the furniture business of A. Lessing, at Lake View, Ore.

New quarters are being fitted up at Garfield, Wash., for Gwinn Brothers' furniture store.

P. J. Keeler, representative of several carpet manufacturers, is visiting this city with his wife and child.

The furniture deparment in the Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar is receiving its share of patronage.

H. H. Rosebrock, a furniture merchant of Owatonna, Minn., has arrived in San Diego, Cal., to spend the winter.

Martin Hayken, a furniture man, of Salt Lake City, Utah, died suddenly in that city recently, at the age of sixty years.

The Charles M. Plum & Co. Upholstery Company are not over rushed with business, but are keeping their end up, especially in the line of fine goods.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Co-operative Furniture Company, of Salt Lake City, Utah, will be held on February 1, for the election of directors for the ensuing year.

M. Friedman & Co. report business very fair in spite of the quiet times. The house is in condition to handle a large business during the coming season.

The trade, together with other lines, will enjoy a holiday Monday, January 24, as then the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of gold in California by James Marshall will be fittingly celebrated.

M. B. Mihran, a merchant of this city, is in trouble with the Government. A libel of information was recently filed against him in the United States District Court on a charge of defrauding the Government by fraudulent invoice. He imported thirty-five Oriental rugs, four mats and ninety-eight portières from Turkey last July, and represented their value to be $290, and paid duty on that amount. It is alleged that a subsequent examination disclosed their real value to be $500, and they were seized accordingly.

Golden Gate.

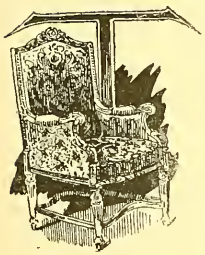
NEW ORIENTAL RUG FIRM.

On page 95 of this issue will be found a new and interesting advertisement of H. Dauvergne & Co., manufacturers of Oriental rugs and carpets, at Srinagar, Kashmir, East India. This firm operate a large number of looms and manufacture goods of the highest class, using only vegetable dyes. The designs are especially attractive, being composed chiefly of adaptations and expansions of ancient Persian patterns, together with new and beautiful effects designed by the senior partner of the firm. They will also manufacture special and exclusive styles to order. Write to them for circulars, &c.

Wm. G. Hockridge, manager of the rug and matting department of Arnold, Constable & Co., will return this week from his visit to China and Japan in the interests of his department.

John Watt's Sons, manufacturers of Ingrain carpets, Hancock street, near Lehigh avenue, Philadelphia, show a particularly attractive line for the spring trade, comprising C. C. Extra Supers, half wool Unions, quarter wool Unions and all grades of Cottons, all in full standard warp, 1,080 ends. See their popular Hercules Ingrains. They are quick sellers.

ENTERPRISE IN OMAHA.



The Ames Building, at Sixteenth and Farnam streets, Omaha, Neb., will be occupied after February 20 by the People's Furniture and Carpet Company. The lease for the big building was signed in New York last month by Benjamin Rosenthal, president of the company. The news of the rental of the Ames Building was most gladly received by those interested and Omaha business men generally. For two years the building has been vacant, and the fact that such a handsome and substantial structure should remain idle has been generally regretted. The last tenant of the building was the dry goods firm of Oleson Brothers, who sold out the stock of S. P. Morse.

The building is one of the best business structures in Omaha. It is constructed of iron, stone and red brick. It is as nearly fireproof as modern architectural and building skill can make a structure. It is six stories in height, with a large basement. On Farnam street there is a frontage of 41 feet and a depth of 92 feet. On Sixteenth street the building has a frontage of 55 feet and a depth of 106 feet. There are three elevators, two for passengers and one for freight. The entire building will be remodeled to suit the new tenant. The Farnam and the Sixteenth streets fronts will be improved by the construction of large plate glass show windows.

The new store will give the People's Furniture and Carpet Company 260,000 square feet of floor space—more than double the amount of floor space in the present quarters at 1313 to 1317 Farnan street. Within and without the building will be painted and renovated, and it will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity, the power being furnished by the company's own plant in the cellar.

The People's Furniture and Carpet Company started in business in a small way ten years ago, and has prospered until it is one of the foremost business houses in Omaha. The officers of the company are: Benjamin Rosenthal, president; Maurice Rosenthal, vice-president; F. Gebhardt, secretary and treasurer, and Henry Rosenthal, manager. All but the last named were with the company when it began business in 1888. Then the company was located on Sixteenth street, near Webster. First it was quartered in one small store. A second, a third, a fourth and a fifth store were soon added. The business kept on increasing and the company kept on spreading until it had seven stores—nearly the entire block. Six years ago it was found necessary to seek larger quarters, and in 1892 the company removed to its present location, 1313 to 1317 Farnam street, and later added two warehouses, 1311 and 1313 Harney street, to the property occupied. One of these warehouses will be retained by the company after the removal to the Ames Building.

Andrew Cochran, the well-known designer, makes a specialty of original designs for Ingrains and of repeating cards on the power repeating machine. His studio is at 105 Diamond street, Philadelphia.

Obituary.

William B. Kendall.

William Burrage Kendall, selling agent for the Bigelow Carpet Company, died at his home, 68 First place, Brooklyn, on the 21st ult.

Mr. Kendall was born March 1, 1831, at Sterling, Mass., a village near the town of Clinton, where the mills of the Bigelow Carpet Company are situated. He began his business career as a clerk in the employ of Henry P. Fairbanks, father of Charles F. Fairbanks, the present treasurer of the Bigelow Carpet Company. Mr. Henry Fairbanks was engaged in the hardware and saddlery business at Boston, and was interested in the loom for making coach lace, which was the first important invention of Erastus Bigelow, and which contained the germ of the power carpet loom that brought him fame and fortune. When Mr. Bigelow decided to organize a carpet manufacturing company to make Brussels carpeting on his own looms, he was joined in the enterprise by his brother and Henry Fairbanks. In 1854 Mr. Fairbanks died, and the company was incorporated. It was then decided to establish a selling agency at New York. Mr. Kendall was chosen to take charge of it, and coming to New York this purpose in 1855, he continued to hold the position until his death.

His sudden and unexpected decease was a sad surprise and shock to the trade among whom he had moved a prominent, most highly esteemed and honored figure for more than forty years. During all this period his record as a business man remained without a flaw, no small thing to say of anyone who spent so many years in a trade so notable as his for keen and close competition.

Of his personal character it would be hardly possible to speak too highly. The word gentleman has been so cheapened by indiscriminate usage that it seems scarcely adequate to define the impression which he made upon all who knew him, but in its truest, finest sense it is the best possible term to apply to a man so honorable, high minded, courteous, dignified, kindly and gentle as Mr. Kendall.

That all who met him in social or business circles agreed in their high estimation of his character, is shown clearly enough by the mere mention of the trusts—financial, philanthropic and social—held by him, and ever most conscientiously administered.

He was a director of the Equitable Insurance Company, the Brooklyn Trust Company, Merchants' National Bank of New York, State Trust Company, American Surety Company and other financial institutions. In past years he had held the same position in the Long Island Railroad Company, the South Brooklyn Savings Bank and Phenix Insurance Company. He served as a Park Commissioner of Brooklyn and as president and later treasurer of the Merchants' Club of New York, as treasurer of the Brooklyn Club, vice-president of the Hamilton Club and vice-president of the Brooklyn Library. He was also a member of the Long Island Historical Society, the Apollo Club and the New York Chamber of Commerce.

He made Brooklyn his home soon after leaving his native State, and the house on First place in which he died had been his dwelling place for thirty years, excepting during the summer months, when he occupied his country house at Babylon, L. I.

The untimely death of his son, William B. Kendall, Jr, about five years ago was a blow from which he never fully recovered, and it undoubtedly hastened his own death, for although advanced in years he was a man of fine physique and until this bereavement remarkably free from serious illness of any kind.

The funeral services were held on the 24th ult. at his late home in the presence of a large gathering of friends, among whom were many of New York and Brooklyn's leading men. The casket containing the remains was completely hidden by flowers and the mantel above it was also covered with floral offerings. The Protestant Episcopal ritual for the burial of the dead was read by the Rev. Dr. McConnell, of Trinity Church, Brooklyn. Among the pall bearers were John Sloane, of W. & J. Sloane, and Charles F. Fairbanks. The remains were interred in Greenwood Cemetery.

The many other members of the carpet trade present included:

John Cartledge, of Joseph Wild & Co.; W. D. Sloane, Henry T. Sloane and John Inglis, of W. & J Sloane; Ralph Cutter and Wm. H. Sheehy, of Smith, Hogg & Gardner; R. P. Perkins, vice-president E. S. Higgins Carpet Company; William M. Daintrey, of Arnold, Constable & Co.; T. J. Keveney, of T. J. Keveney & Co.; Rudolph Sherer, of the R. H. & B. C. Reeve Company; Harold Hadden, of Hadden & Co.; J. N. Beach, John Miller and J. C. Seymour, of Tefft, Weller & Co.; H. J. Fairchild and Lawrence Winters, of the H. B. Claflin Company; Amos Van Gaasbeek, of Van Gaasbeek & Arkell; John Gibb, of Mills & Gibb; Wm. Berri, of Wm. Berri's Sons; George M. Lincoln and John Grayhurst, of John Wanamaker; John R. Kendrick, of the Trades Publishing Company, Philadelphia; J. B. Fitzgerald; Frank B. Tinelli, of J. & J. Dobson; H. F. Holden, Charles P. Starr, H. G. Plimpton, Wm. T. Gooch, F. P. Whiting, George H. Bell, Thomas Boyce, George Boggs and H. P. Fairbanks, of the Bigelow Carpet Company; Howard Marshall, of Joseph Wild & Co.; M. J. Bailey, P. B. Spooner, Charles Hoagland, Francis Pringle, Edward Gilbert, Richard Ivors; H. D. McCutcheon and George H. Kelley, of Hardenbergh & Co.; Edward H. Bailey, T. A. Kennett and F. V. Fletcher, of The Review staff.

As a mark of respect to Mr. Kendall, many of the stores and offices in the wholesale dry goods district of this city were closed while the funeral services were taking place, and this was especially the case on Worth and Leonard streets.

At a meeting of Boston carpet dealers held at the office of John H. Pray, Sons & Co. in that city on the 24th ult. the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased the Divine Will to remove from us and take unto Himself our friend and associate in business, Mr. Wm. B Kendall,

Resolved, That in the parting from our friend for a season we fully realize that a truly good man has gone, who possessed all the finer qualities which the word "good" in its broadest sense signifies. As a gentleman and high toned merchant he was a most worthy example—courteous, kind and possessing a lovable disposition which ever displayed itself. His large interest in the Bigelow Carpet Company naturally demanded constant and devoted attention for more than forty years, but he was ever mindful of others' interest in the company, and perhaps for this reason applied himself more closely than one less conscientious would have done.

Resolved, That we feel assured that we voice the sentiments of the carpet dealers and manufacturers of the entire country, as expressed in these resolutions.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of Mr. Kendall and also to the carpet trade papers of New York and Philadelphia.

Eliza J. Wild, widow of the late Joseph Wild, died at her home in Bay Ridge, L. I., on the 24th ult.

Thompson Newbury, founder and principal shareholder of the Taunton Oil Cloth Company, Taunton, Mass, died in that city on the 16th ult., at the age of seventy-eight years. He leaves two sons and three daughters.

Nathaniel P. Coomes died at his home in Worcester, Mass., on January 10, at the age of sixty-nine years. He had an attack of the grip a year ago and had been in feeble health since that time. He left a widow and a daughter. He was for a number of years overseer of the printing department of the Bigelow carpet mills at Clinton, Mass.

The mercantile agencies announce the deaths of William Walton, Freeport, Ill.; J. C. Henlan, Shelton, Neb.; J. L. McIlwaine, Saltsburg, Pa.

A VICTORY FOR THE BISSELL COMPANY.

Last November the Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company brought suit against G. Greiner & Co. in the English Chancery Court to prevent the use by these defendants of a certain title or name which could not be registered as a trade mark. The court has decided the suit in favor of the plaintiff as is shown by the following opinion and ruling of Mr. Justice Sterling:

Upon the application of the plaintiffs by summons dated November 26, 1897, and upon hearing the solicitors for the plaintiffs and for the defendants, and upon reading the plaintiff's statement of claim, and the plaintiffs and defendants by their solicitors respectively consenting thereto.

The judge doth order that the defendants, G. Greiner & Co., their servants and agents, be perpetually restrained from selling or offering or advertising for sale under the term "Grand Rapids," "Grand Rapids Moquette" or "Grand Rapids Sweeperette" any carpet sweepers not manufactured by the plaintiffs, and from selling or offering for sale any carpet sweepers not manufactured by the plaintiffs under any name or description of which the words "Grand Rapids" form part, without clearly distinguishing such carpet sweepers from those of the plaintiffs.

And it is ordered that the defendants, G. Greiner & Co., do deliver up upon oath to the plaintiffs, the Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company, all documents (if any) in the possession or power or under the control of the defendants, their servants and agents which exhibit the term "Grand Rapids," "Grand Rapids Moquette" or "Grand Rapids Sweeperette" as the name of any carpet sweepers not manufactured by the plaintiffs.

And it is ordered that the defendants, G. Greiner & Co., do pay to the plaintiffs, the Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company, the sum of £2 by way of damages.

And it is ordered that it be referred to the taxing master to tax the costs of the plaintiffs' of this action, including the costs of this application. And it is ordered that the defendants, G. Greiner & Co., do pay to the plaintiffs, the Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company, the amount of their said costs when so taxed.

T. V. Boardman has become manager of the Phenix Carpet Company, Birmingham, Ala., and left that city on the 25th ult. for the East, where he will replenish his stock of carpets, draperies, &c.

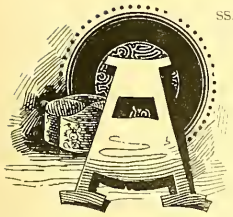
THE CARPET AND UPHOLSTERY TRADE REVIEW, February 1, 1898.

REGULATING AUCTION SALES.



Assemblyman T. D. Sullivan has introduced at Albany a bill providing for the appointment by the State Controller of an auction agent, to supervise auctions and auctioneers. The salary is to be $3,000 per year. The bill provides that the agent shall take such proceedings as may be necessary to secure the revocation of licenses of auctioneers violating the laws of this State in reference to sales at auction, and to have their bonds given under the provisions of this act declared forfeited. The fee for taking and approving such bonds shall be $10, to be paid to the Controller of the State.

Any person who shall at any auction sale of personal property make a fictitious bid shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any auctioneer who shall make or cause to be made any false or fraudulent representations or statements in respect to the character of such sale or the party authorizing the same or the quality, condition, ownership, situation or value of any personal property offered by him for sale at public auction shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding $1,000.

The bill is expected to act as a check upon the fraudulent auction sales of Oriental rugs which are still carried on in spite of all efforts thus far made to stop them.

SALT LAKE CITY SIFTINGS.

Charles M. Freed, manager of the Freed Furniture and Carpet Company, told a reporter last month that business had been very good during the past year; better than in 1896, but still under his expectations for 1898. He attributed the increase to the influx of new people because of the segregation of the Short Line, and other causes that have added 500 to 600 families to the population of the city. "The activity of the gold mines also contributed," he added, "as they have more than offset the loss by the closing of the silver properties. The farmer has been prosperous, too. His wool, beef and sheep have brought good prices, and we have shared in his good fortune."

Henry Dinwoodey, of the Dinwoodey Furniture Company, expressed to a reporter for a local paper, much pleasure with the business done by his company during the year. "Our December business was the largest for any single month since the panic of 1893," said he. "Since July last our sales have been 20 per cent. better than in 1896, and there was a decided improvement in the first half of the year over 1896. This increase is due to the better prices obtained by the farmers for their products. The opening of new gold mines has also helped the general prosperity wonderfully. Wages are not so high as in the past, but fully as many men are employed. The prospects for 1898 appear excellent. We expect a big increase over the past year's business."

"GREAT OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS GROW."

The cut herewith represents one front of the handsome building of Walker & Linde, dealers in carpets, furniture, bedding, upholstery, &c., at the junction of Ridge and Columbia avenues, in the northwestern section of Philadelphia. The building fronts on both avenues, and is 125 feet in depth by 55 feet in width, and consists of four floors and a finished basement, covering an area of 30,000 square feet. It is supplied with an elevator, a complete steam heating, power and electric light plant, and all other conveniences. The firm is composed of J. H. Walker and Henry Linde, both young men of high standing and integrity. They started originally in the carpet business in a small way a few blocks from their present location, occupying one floor, about 18 by 55 feet in size. They remained there eight years, but for some time their quarters had been too small to properly handle their increasing trade. Realizing the tendency of the times toward departmental methods in business, and being imbued with the laudable ambition to occupy a place among the important houses of the city, they concluded to branch out into furniture and other lines. In the spring of 1896 they commenced the erection of their present building, and opened there in October of the same year with a large and well selected stock. Success has crowned their efforts, and they now carry a stock valued at $70,000, which is being constantly increased. They have gained the confidence and good will of the public, and are now thoroughly established as a first-class firm, with every prospect of occupying a still higher position in their chosen field.

ADVANCE IN BIGELOW WILTONS AND BRUSSELS.

The new price list of the Bigelow Carpet Company, as issued on the 15th ult., shows an advance of 5 cents a yard on Wiltons and Brussels. The full list is as follows:

Bigelow Wiltons, 5-frame	$1.90
Lancaster Wiltons, 5 frame	1.80
Imperial Axminsters	1.42½
Bigelow Axminsters	1.25
Bigelow Brussels, 5-frame	1.07½

Costikyan Freres, the well-known importers of Oriental rugs and carpets, 139 Broadway, New York, are sending to the trade a handsome leather memorandum case, which contains an identification card, railway and steamship time tables, &c. Write for one.

THE DEPARTMENT MANAGER.

On the 15th ult. forty of the associates of John C. Eames, who is now the general manager of the H. B. Claflin Company, gave him a dinner at the Astoria. It was held in the myrtle room, already described in these columns—and concededly one of the loveliest apartments in the world. The affair was one which will long be remembered by every participant.

The third on the list of toasts was:

Department Managers.

"Whate'er he did, was done with so much ease
In him alone, 'twas natural to please."

It was responded to by Lawrence Winters, who made the following capital speech:

In rising to reply to this toast, I must confess to some embarrassment, and could have wished, for your part at least, some manager more able and capable than myself had been assigned this task. However, whatever hesitation was manifested on my part was because of a consciousness of my own inability or shortcomings in this direction, but these are outweighed a thousand times by the opportunity presented me to pay a tribute of respect to one of the grandest men and greatest merchants this country has ever known.

Longfellow said that "Lives of great men oft remind us

We can make our lives sublime,
And departing leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time."

And these lines never appealed with more directness or force than to the memory of our great founder. He indeed has left his footprints on the sands of this century. He has left his indelible mark on the pages of the commercial history of this nation, there to endure for all time, to shine out as a beacon light of all that was noble, elevating and grand in his intercourse with his fellow man.

"A man," as the immortal bard said, "take him all in all, we shall not look upon his like again." But, Mr. Chairman, our founder has left us more than a treasured and revered memory. With that prudence and foresight of which his whole life was so characteristic he suggested a business course to his favored son. How well the fullness of his hopes have been realized in this direction, you and I know. The eyes of the financial and commercial world have been focused on Mr. Claflin and his company for the past four years—the most disastrous, both financially and commercially, this country has ever known—but with that rare business tact that is his by right of inheritance he has so successfully managed his great company that the great plans of that fond father have been carried to a successful consummation.

But since I have wandered so far from my set toast I feel sure you will excuse a further slight digression while I pay my respects to our guest and reiterate all that my friend Mr. Wile has said so well. He came among us scarcely two years ago. We have learned to appreciate him for his sterling qualities as a man, and know he will honorably fill the important position he is called to.

And now, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, to answer the toast, permit me to say I hardly know where to begin. Were I to stand here and eulogize the heads of departments, I imagine I hear you saying "Winters is throwing bouquets at himself"; were I to parade the shortcomings of my associates, you can imagine the reception I would receive on Monday morning when I reached the store. Therefore, I will confine my remarks to the departments and state that I have been a close observer of them for the past twenty years, and at no time during that period have our departments been so strong, popular or well manned as at the present time.

But, gentlemen, a popular department with a good stock is no more all that is essential to a successful season than a single swallow makes a glorious summer. We need other elements—we need the co-operation of the general salesmen as a unifying force, and without this force our efforts become nil. Therefore, general salesmen, let me appeal to you to take this matter into your serious consideration. You will not find the manager in any sense a unique character. Human nature is pretty near the same all over the house, it matters not whether you find it on the first floor or the top of the house.

Sometimes I think, considering our great advantages, we do not accomplish all that we might, situated as we are in this grand imperial city, this great commercial gateway of international intercourse, whence thousands of our Argosies are daily sailing with our manufactured products to every known clime. This grand centre, with its multiplicity of railroads and steamships to increase every facility for the shipment of goods to all parts of this great continent.

It does seem to me that sometimes we do not appreciate our great advantages. Do we fully appreciate the grand house we represent, the rich heritage of over a half century of fair, honest and upright dealings which should inspire us to renewed efforts? The past of the house is glorious, the present hopeful, and the future will be grand, for it is in our power to make it so.

And now, gentlemen, as there have been many toasts offered, with your permission I will offer one alike to those who could not be with us, and those who have gone to that "bourne from which no traveler returns":

"Fill up your glasses, let the bright wine flow,
As sunset fades to afterglow,
To drink a health to those we hold most dear,
Absent or present, far or near.
Let every sip recall a thought of love
Pure as the nectar of the gods above;
Let every wish be heartfelt and true,
Banish all anger that you ever knew,
And drink a bumper to the thought
Of those we love or those we ought,
And wish all brightness on life's weary way,
And that their to-morrow may be as bright a day
As any that has been—Drink
To this toast and say with me, Amen."

NOVEL RUG BANNER.

In our issue of the 15th ult. reference was made to a notable banner which hangs on the wall of the Fries-Breslin Company's New York salesroom, 41 Union square, and we now present on page 39 a cut which gives a clearer idea of the unique arrangement. It is composed of an Oriental rug, having in the centre a portrait of a Moor finely painted on canvas and fastened to the rug. The portrait was painted by Miss Akers, daughter of E. T. Akers, manager of the rug department of L. S. Ayres & Co., Indianapolis, Ind. Mr. T. J. Breslin found the banner on sale at the store of Ayres & Co., and recognizing at once its artistic merit, purchased it.

Furs, rugs, carpets and other valuable woolen goods are now preserved during the summer heat in refrigerated chambers. Experiments have been made to find out the proper temperature at which to keep such articles safe from clothes moths, black carpet beetles, leather beetles, the dark meal worm and a cabinet beetle. It was found that a temperature of 40° to 42° Fahr. in summer was sufficient. The cold storage companies have hitherto kept them at a temperature of 12° to 20° Fahr., which is more than enough.

ALEX. MORTON & CO.'S PROFIT SHARING PLAN.

THE NEW SYSTEM ANNOUNCED AND EXPLAINED AT A SOCIAL MEETING OF THEIR EMPLOYEES.

Some interesting facts in the history of the curtain trade of Scotland, were related at a recent meeting of the employees of Alexander Morton & Co., manufacturers of lace and chenille curtains, Axminster carpets, &c., Darvel, Scotland. Nearly 1,000 persons were present at the meeting which was arranged by the employees for the purpose of presenting a watch to Mr. Alexander Morton and a tea service to his wife. In acknowledging the gifts, Mr. Morton took occasion to announce that his firm would in future allow its employees to share in the profits of the business by means of a system of bonuses. Mr. William Cleland, foreman of the lace weaving department, acted as chairman, and in the course of his speech, which opened the meeting, he said that twenty-five years ago all the weaving in Darvel was done on hand looms, and that the introduction of lace machines into Ayreshire and the great increase in the prosperity of the district which followed, were to be credited to Mr. Alexander Morton, who, starting as a manufacturer twenty-two years ago, had by his energy, ability and enterprise established an immense business in the manufacture of lace curtains, tapestry and chenilles, silk and muslin goods and Axminster carpets. In closing his address Mr. Cleland made an appropriate reference to some important improvements recently made in the mills, among them being the addition of another building, the introduction of electric lights, a new engine, &c., and the sterling traits of Mr. Morton as a man, as well as an employer, were also referred to very happily and pertinently.

Alexander Morton & Co. are now well known in the United States where Messrs. Hunter & Whitcomb, of New York, act as selling agents for their goods.

A PORTRAIT RUG.

PURCHASED BY T. J. BRESLIN, OF THE FRIES-BRESLIN COMPANY, AND NOW ON EXHIBITION IN THAT CONCERN'S NEW YORK SALESROOM.

W. & J. Sloane have taken the account of Jones & Green, manufacturers of jute rugs at Philadelphia, under the style of the Anatolian Rug Manufacturing Company. W. & J. Sloane will show the complete line of these goods which come in four sizes and in a large range of handsome Oriental effects.

A SIGNIFICANT DEFEAT.

DENVER DEPARTMENT STORES ATTEMPT TO DISPENSE WITH ADVERTISEMENTS, BUT FIND IT IMPOSSIBLE TO DO SO.

A highly interesting conflict between the daily newspapers of Denver, Col., on one side, and the proprietors of fourteen large department stores in that city on the other, has resulted in the total defeat and surrender of the shopkeepers. The fight began on the 8th ult. when the Merchants' Association, which is a combination of proprietors of department stores, notified the newspapers that they must reduce their advertising rates to the extent of 30 per cent., and that a refusal of this demand would result in the withdrawal of all the advertising business of the stores. The newspapers promptly refused to submit to these terms, and the advertisements were withdrawn as had been threatened, but public sentiment stimulated by the labor unions and the smaller retail dealers was at once aroused against the department stores, and the feeling became so intense that the stores were almost deserted. Their proprietors held out for nine days, but it then became clear that they must yield or close their establishments, and they concluded to surrender unconditionally. They have agreed to advertise as usual and the newspapers have also obliged them to pay higher rates than they had paid before.

The feeling aroused against them may have further unpleasant results, for a bill has been introduced into the City Council, which provides for certain regulations and restrictions of department stores which are liable to interfere considerably with their business.

The report that the Nairn Linoleum Company intended to manufacture floor oil cloth also at their works in Kearney, N. J., is denied by them.

Chairman Hicks, of the House Committee on Patents, has introduced three bills proposing important changes as to patents and copyrights. One of these is of special interest to newspaper publishers, and was introduced after conference between Mr. Hicks and the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. It amends the copyright laws so that the line production in a daily newspaper of photographs other than those relating to fine arts shall not be a violation of the laws.

E. S. HIGGINS CARPET COMPANY'S SALESROOMS.

In our issue of the 15th ult. we noted the removal of the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company to their new salesrooms and offices, No. 41 Union square west, corner of Seventeenth street, and we now present herewith three cuts showing the interior of their handsome and spacious quarters.

Cut 1 of the illustrations represents the main salesroom which is 30x175 feet, with windows on Seventeenth street and Union square. This room is used for the display of the company's famous Tapestries and Velvets, and the fine north light which comes through the long line of windows on the Seventeenth street side renders it an admirable place for the showing of samples. The offices for bookkeepers and clerks are also shown in the picture. The room is reached by the elevator or the stairs, being but one flight up.

In cut No. 2 the chief feature is the elegantly furnished reception room for customers, which is provided with everything essential for the comfort and convenience of visiting buyers. The private office of Mr. R. P. Perkins, vice-president of the company, is at the left of the picture, and at the desk on the right, the trade will find Mr. George S. Squire ready to greet them in his usual cordial, pleasant way. The other desks shown are for salesmen, and there will be found the "Old Guard," including such veterans as Hamilton Higgins, John Healey, J. W. Thompson and M. L. Bradley.

The third cut represents the wing in the rear, which is 22x92 feet, and is used as the Ingrain salesroom. The office at the left is occupied by M. C. Warner, of the credit department.

The company are now comfortably settled in their bright, cheerful, handsome quarters, and the numerous visitors who have already called include not only old customers but many new ones. The popularity of the Higgins' goods in the trade is due not simply to their quality but to the uniformity of quality which has always characterized every grade, and this highly important feature of the company's products will be firmly maintained. The old store in White street has been used temporarily for the storage and shipping of goods, but all this will soon be done at the mills, where a large storehouse has been recently added to the plant.

Thomas L. Leedom & Co. have purchased the large mills occupied by them at Bristol, Pa. The price paid is $90,000, and the original cost of the mills was $108,000. The purchase is a striking proof—if any were needed—of the immense demand for the product of Leedom & Co.'s mills. At the New York office, Mr. Samuel Thomas, of the firm, reports trade as excellent in every grade of goods made by them.

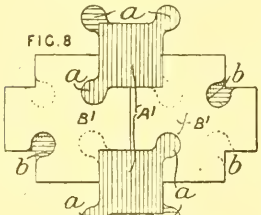

FIG. 15.

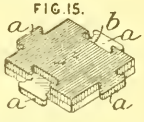

Interlocking tiles are formed with ribs a and recesses b extending through, or half through, the material or body of the tiles. The tiles are preferably made of rubber, linoleum or elastic material, but the invention is also applicable to tiles made of earthenware or wood. In the arrangement shown in Fig. 8, the tiles A^1 have two upper and two lower heads disposed diagonally, and corresponding sockets are made in adjacent tiles B^1 of a different color. Nails or screws are driven through the inside heads or sockets, and are concealed by the overlapping parts of adjacent tiles. In the form shown in Fig. 15, the heads and recesses are at the sides of the tiles. At the borders, tiles or long strips having a plain edge are used, and long strips may be used instead of the blocks B^1.

WILL OF WILLIAM T. BUCKLEY.

The will of William T. Buckley, formerly of the firm of Dunham, Buckley & Co., of this city, who died on the 6th ult., has been filed in the Surrogate's office. The estate is inventoried as "less than $25,000 real property and less than $25,000 personal property." The testator named in his will his wife, Frederika R. Buckley, and his brother, Charles R. Buckley, as executors, and bequeathes to his brothers, John D. and Charles R. Buckley, his one-third interest in the undivided estate of his mother, except his share of the family silver, this to be in full settlement of all claims of said estate against him for moneys advanced to testator before his mother's death. The above-named brothers are to receive also one-third of the testator's share of mortgage on Tenth street property, Brooklyn, in which mortgage Mercy T. Buckley has a life interest.

The testator directs that all balances due him as partner in the several firms styled Dunham, Buckley & Co., after the payment of all just debts, be divided equally between the wife, Frederika, and Thomas Townsend Buckley, an only son. Testator also bequeathes one-third interest in the homestead farm at Marlboro, Ulster County, N. Y., consisting of 60 acres and subject to a life interest of Mercy T. Buckley, and one-third interest in a lot at Greenwood Cemetery to his son, Thomas Townsend Buckley. To the wife are bequeathed all insurance moneys that may be realized from several life and accident policies upon the life of the testator and upon the life of Mrs. Buckley's father, William C. Fowler, upon condition that she relinquish all dower right she may have in the Kings County and Ulster County real estate bequeathed to the brothers of the testator as above mentioned.

The wife and son are named in the will as residuary legatees of all other property, real and personal, of which decedent may be possessed, including the home at Far Rockaway.

BUTCHER'S BOSTON POLISH.

On page 90 of this issue the Butcher Polish Company, 9 Haverhill street, Boston, call attention to their celebrated polish for floors, linoleums, interior woodwork and furniture. It is regarded as the best floor finish made and has not a single objectionable feature. It is not brittle, will neither scratch nor deface like shellac or varnish and is not soft and sticky like beeswax. It is perfectly transparent, preserving the natural color and beauty of the wood for years. Write for circulars, &c.

Capt. Henri Duncker and his son, Charles Duncker, of the Trorlicht, Duncker & Renard Company, St. Louis, evidently believe in plenty of house room, as they have recently moved into a handsome new double stone house built under their personal direction and containing seventeen rooms. It stands on a plot of ground 160 by 170 feet, so there is plenty of room outside as well as inside. The remittances of the Trorlicht, Duncker & Renard Company to W. & J. Sloane within one week in December amounted to over $100,000, which gives some insight into the quantity of goods this house bought at the Sloane sale of November.

ALFRED E. WOODMAN.

Alfred E. Woodman, formerly with H. P. Wasson & Co., Indianapolis, and who has had partial charge of the Oriental rug department of Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, since its institution about a year ago, has been promoted to full charge of not only the Oriental, but of the Occidental branch, and will henceforth do all the purchasing of the entire department. Mr. Woodman has been more than usually successful in securing the gems of the Orient to show in his department, and many experts in his line have spoken in high terms of the taste he has displayed in the difficult task of selecting really handsome rugs and carpets produced in the far East. Mr. Woodman has celebrated his promotion by putting his department into a very inviting shape, by arranging the most attractive of his rugs into artistic forms along the walls, and enclosing the entire space allotted him, thereby producing the darkness supposed to be essential in the display of Eastern productions. During his residence in Philadelphia Mr. Woodman, by his genial manner and pleasant address, has made many friends in the city of his adoption.

J. W. BARKER AT SEATTLE.

In our issue of the 15th ult. we published a statement from Arthur Barker to the effect that his father, James W. Barker, had been found. The sudden disappearance of Mr. Barker, Sr., on December 8 last, had been noted in The Review of January 1. It was then supposed that he was suffering from mental trouble caused by financial difficulties following his purchase of the Norristown Carpet Mills, at Norristown, Pa. Since our last issue it has been learned that he is now at Seattle, Wash., and will not return to Norristown. His daughter and his son Harold have joined him at Seattle.

Brush & Alberts, the enterprising carpet and furniture dealers, of Montgomery street, Jersey City, lead all the retailers in the State in the beauty of the calendar they are sending to their patrons.

Lord & Taylor have become so thoroughly recognized in the trade as handlers of fine Oriental rugs that many dealers apparently lose sight of the fact that the firm also carries the lower cost weaves in large quantities. To the average retailer, selection by the piece instead of compulsory purchase by the bale, must always prove an attractive argument, and this is particularly the case when the range for selection is wide and varied.

BALTIMORE BRIEFS.

Baltimore, January 26.

The Baltimore Bargain House, West Baltimore street, has added carpets, mattings and rugs to its line.

Samuel H. Foxwell, manager for the carpet and furniture firm of Frank J. Murphy & Co., visited the metropolis on business last week.

William H. Minch, of Minch & Eisenbrey, carpets, furniture, window shades and paper hangings, was on a trip West last week.

The parlors of the Good Will Fire Company, East York, Pa., have been fitted up with handsome carpeting by T. H. Gehley, carpet dealer, York.

Henry S. Jenkins, of the carpet firm of Henry S. Jenkins, Brother & Co., left the 18th inst. to attend to business interests in Birmingham, Ala.

Frank J. Murphy, carpets and furniture, has been elected vice-president of the Forest Inn Company, which was recently incorporated with a capital stock of $20,000.

Louis T. Michael, of Michael & Malcolm, general merchandise and carpeting, Perryman, Md., was run over and killed the 12th inst. near that place by a railroad train.

William H. Scott has leased and occupied the Easter Building, on East Baltimore street. Mr. Scott will continue his North Howard street store and his branch stores on Gay street and Central avenue.

J. Crawford Lyon, of Lyon Brothers & Co., left New York on the steamship Teutonic the 12th inst. for an European trip, in connection with the importing and shipping interests of his firm. He expects to return home in the spring.

New Buildings.—Plans have been prepared for a new hotel building to be erected in Sedalia, Mo., in place of the present Le Grande Hotel, to cost $55,000. Sicher & Conrad will expend about $100,000 in enlarging and improving the Sicher Hotel, same city. The congregation of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, Greenville, Tex., will erect a $10,000 structure. E. W. Harris, secretary, can be addressed. Hudson & Judah, managers of the Kansas City, Mo., Grand Opera House, contemplate the erection of a theatre. The German Baptists will erect a new church building in Sharpsburg, Md. Plans are being prepared for extensive additions and improvements, to cost $75,000, to Loyola College, North Calvert street, Baltimore. A new hotel to be called the Forest Inn, will be erected in the spring in North Walorook, Baltimore County, at a cost of $30,000, by the Forest Inn Company. Address Frank H. Calloway, Baltimore. J. L. Bailey is preparing plans for a three story brick hotel building in Greenwood, S. C. T. F. Riley will erect an addition to his hotel, same town. Drs. Rochelle and Warford, Jackson, Tenn., will erect a sanitarium to cost about $12,000. The West Virginia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church will build a sanitarium at Mount Pisgah, W. Va., to cost $45,000. Address Dr. W. M. Longstreth, Morgantown, W. Va. The Ohef Sholem congregation, Norfolk, Va., has purchased a site for a new synagogue. The Masonic Order will erect a three story building in Rocky Mount, N. C., for lodge rooms and theatre.

Chicago, January 25.

Among the buyers in the city recently were Charles Wilhelm, of the Orchard & Wilhelm Carpet Company, Omaha; General Johnson, of the Los Angelos (Cal.) Furniture Company; George J. Carter, of Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City; A. J. Smith, of A. J. Smith & Son, Davenport, Ia.; Messrs. Clemens and Salzman, of Rock Island; F. H. Springer, of El Paso, Tex., and Mr. Bell, of Delp & Bell, Allegheny, Pa.

Spiegel's House Furnishing Company, of 326 State street, has opened a branch store at Forty-eighth street and Ashland avenue.

The Middleton Carpet and Lace Cleaning Company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $2,500. Thomas Middleton, Michael J. McKenna and Samuel Davies are the incorporators.

The Greenwald & Blum Company has been incorporated to deal in carpets, with a capital stock of $10,000. The company is composed of T. W. Englehart, W. S. Corbin and Geo. H. Lambert.

David Pollock, of the accounting department of the J. V. Farwell Company, has gone to the Klondike. He will be a passenger on Ladue's Government relief train, and he hopes to be in Dawson City March 1.

Articles of incorporation were filed recently by Mandel Brothers with the Secretary of State at Springfield. The capital stock is $1,000,000. The incorporators are Leon Simon and Emanuel Mandel. Mr. Leon Mandel said the object was to perpetnate the name of the establishment, and that there would be no change in the affairs of the firm.

The Chicago office of S. Sanford & Sons, Room 72, Lees Building, 147 Fifth avenue, is perhaps the best showroom in the city among the mill men. It is larger than any of the others and is lighted on two sides. Frank Schlegel, the Western manager for the house, now has a private office at one end of the room, and Walter Treloar, Mr. Schlegel's associate, has his desk on a railed platform at the other. Both Mr. Treloar and Mr. Schlegel have recently returned from successful trips.

Messrs. Burgess and Pillman, who represent the Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Company here, are about to refurnish their office on the ninth floor of the Lee's Building, 147 Fifth avenue. The company has made a Wilton rug expressly for the office, which will be separated from the rest of the room by a railing. The walls and ceiling will be retinted, and the place will be refurnished throughout. Mr. Burgess is expected home to-day from his trip to the Coast. He reports a big business, and Mr. Pillman says his trade was the best he ever had.

Manager Litt, of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co.'s wholesale department, has heard nothing for a month from A. C. Frost, who went out to represent the firm in the Southwest. When last heard from Mr. Frost was at Kansas City, where his sample cases were found. This was his first trip for the house. He was formerly with Marshall Field & Co. Mr. Frost has a wife and three children in Chicago, who are equally mystified by his disappearance.

Burglars entered the establishment of Henry Noëe & Co., wholesale cut carpets, at Market and Monroe streets, on the night of January 23. They broke open all the desks in the place, but took only a few articles of small value.

R. H. H.

TRADE IN OREGON.

Henry Jenning, carpet and furniture dealer, Portland, informed a representative of a local paper that, after taking stock and balancing the books, the results for 1897 were more satisfactory than for any year since 1891. Mr. Jenning reports the outlook for 1898 as very promising, as he is receiving almost daily large orders for shipment to Alaska, and the last steamer sailing from Portland took six tons of freight from his establishment and he was to send eight tons more furniture, stoves, &c., on the next steamer. The last few years, Mr. Jenning said, gave him that tired feeling, but now he feels like a turkey gobbler that has escaped the usual holiday slaughter.

The fact that Portland possesses an establishment which carries a stock equal to anything that can be found west of Chicago is a matter for considerable home pride. The H. C Breeden Company, at Second and Morrison streets, occupies a four story and basement building, each of the five floors being utilized to its full capacity. In all the company occupies a total of 50,000 square feet, the building being 100 feet on each street. On the first floor, to the right, is the carpet department. A polished floor has been laid upon which to make a display, and with an abundance of light from the full front window the buyer is able to see the full effect. A little at one side from this department is a handsomely fitted up counting room connected with Mr. Breeden's private office. To the left, at the centre of the store, is the curtain department. Through the centre of the main floor is a line of desks and office tables. In the rear is the shipping department. Passing to the second floor, upon a combined passenger and freight elevator, there are found bedroom and dining room furniture, sideboards, brass and iron bedsteads, &c. The third floor is given up to upholstered goods. In a side room there is an art department, showing the various effects of well arranged pieces of furniture with art work. The next floor is used for upholstery work, a sewing room, a polishing room and for unpacking goods. In the basement a vast amount of stock is stored. The whole building is heated by steam and lighted by electricity. From thirty-five to forty persons are employed in the establishment, and it is safe to say that it is one of the largest and most important furniture establishments on the Pacific Coast.

An underwriters' fire sale of special importance will take place in New York soon. The goods to be sold comprise the entire stock of the retail carpet store of J. & J. Dobson, on Chestnut street, Philadelphia, which was burned out some weeks ago. The sale will be by auction and due notice of the place and time appointed for it will be given in The Review.

Doings in Carpetdom.

Akers & Wilson, carpet and furniture dealers of Decatur, Ill., have begun to branch out in their business. They have already established a store at Champaign, and are getting ready to start another one at Mattoon. The store at Champaign has been placed under the management of Samuel T. Curtis, for a number of years with the Bachman Brothers & Martin Company. The new store at Mattoon will be started up as soon as the goods arrive there, and it will be managed by Frank Keck, who has been a clerk at the Decatur store of the firm. This will make five stores that Mr. Akers will have an interest in in Central Illinois. He is already interested in a furniture store at Clinton and one at Lincoln.

It is reported that a carpet mill is to be established at Gaffney, S. C.

H. D. Hartt succeeds W. D. Hartt, carpet and furniture dealer, Tallahassee, Fla.

F. P. Martin has embarked in the carpet and furniture business at Cadillac, Mich.

The Mason Furniture Company has removed from Greenfield to Carthage, Mo.

The King Furniture Company, Bessemer, Ala., is succeeded by the Lowry Furniture Company.

J. T. McNulty, carpet and furniture dealer, Milnor, N. Dak., is succeeded by H. K. Pennington & Co.

N. Schummers has sold out his dry goods and carpet business at Caledonia, Minn.

F. G. Howald & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Columbus, Ohio, are about to dissolve partnership.

George A. Hall & Co. have removed their dry goods and carpet business from Paulding to Van Wert, Ohio.

Bond & Leather succeed Myall, Carpenter & Searcey, carpet and furniture dealers, Lawrenceburg, Ky.

The new store of T. S. Martin & Co., Sioux City, Ia., is shown in the cut presented herewith. The firm's carpet and drapery department has a floor space of 50x150 feet and contains a stock valued at about $35,000. F. L. Clark is manager of the department.

Ellis & Eubank's dry goods and carpet store at Paris, Mo., was burned out recently. Estimated loss, $10,000.

The Harris Furniture and Hardware Company, Water Valley, Miss., has sold its stock to Jennings & Harris.

J. L. Dehuff's dry goods and carpet store at Waseca, Minn., was burned out recently. Loss, $18,000; insurance, $12,000.

The French Furniture Company has opened a carpet and furniture store at 403 and 405 Erie street, Cleveland, Ohio.

Bauer & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Alton, Ill., recently suffered a loss of $3,000 by fire. Insured for the same amount.

Lewis Sieker and Henry Suemening have retired from the firm of Coryell & Co., dry goods and carpet dealers, Lebanon, Ohio.

J. C. Hadley, dry goods and carpet dealer, Windfall, Ind., has sold out, and G. W. Anthony succeeds B. F. Ivey in the same line at Corning, Ia.

Yingling & Middlekauff, carpet and furniture dealers, Hagerstown, Md., have dissolved partnership. The business is continued by Mr. Middlekauff.

Jacobs & McGilvray, carpet and furniture dealers, 51 and 53 Federal street, Allegheny, Pa., who recently dissolved partnership, are succeeded by Jacobs & Speer.

The Scheerer & Crown Company, of 77 and 79 Market street, Newark, N. J., has been incorporated to carry on the carpet and furniture business. The capital stock is $25,000, of which $10,000 is paid in.

The stock of the Morris Company, Tarboro, N. C., and also that of Gott Brothers, at Lagrange, Ohio, were damaged recently by fire. The Morris Company's loss was covered by insurance.

A carpet and furniture store has been opened at Auburn, N. Y., by Thomas H. Herbert, acting as agent for Margaret Brown. The Mount Vernon (N. Y.) Auction Company, L. Eugene Field, proprietor, is a new concern handling carpets, furniture, &c.

NEW STORE OF T. S. MARTIN & CO., SIOUX CITY, IA.

James Burch succeeds Roe & Burch, dry goods and carpet dealers, Watkins, N. Y.

G. Y. Smith, dry goods and carpet dealers, Fort Worth, Tex., have gone out of business.

J. H. Hunt, carpet and furniture dealer, Victor, Col., has sold out to the Booth Furniture Company.

B. Scheuer & Brothers, dry goods and carpet dealers, Eufala, Ala., have changed their firm style to Scheuer Brothers.

Thomas West & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Perth Amboy, N. J., have added the adjoining store to their premises.

It is reported that Byron Elwood and others will start a rug factory at Fort Plain, N. Y., using the machinery recently employed by Adriance & Taylor.

Dunkle & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Steelton, Pa., are preparing to close out their business. The stock will probably be disposed of by auction.

The new and handsome store of George Vinnedge & Co., Elkhart, Ind., was opened January 1. The firm's carpet, curtain and shade departments are on the second floor.

A fire which started recently in the dry goods and carpet store of Harnett, Campbell & Co., Racine, Wis., caused a loss of $2,000 on stock and $500 on the building; fully covered by insurance.

The land and buildings at Mt. Holly, N. J., formerly occupied as a carpet mill, and owned by W. & J. Sloane, have been bought by Mark R. Sooy, and the principal building will be used for shoe manufacturing.

The Foster Furniture Company, Fort Wayne, Ind., has made a new departure in business by agreeing hereafter to give a three year paid up policy of fire insurance to all persons going to housekeeping who buy of the company their outfit of carpets, furniture, &c.

The Crawshaw Carpet Company, of Newburgh, N. Y., has been incorporated with a capital stock of $75,000. The directors are Mark Crawshaw, Samuel Crawshaw, C. T. Goodrich, Cornelius L. Waring, Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., J. A. Sneed and E. C. Barnes, of Newburg.

Henry Jacobs, dealer in carpets, oil cloths, &c., 1131 Main street, Wheeling, W. Va., writes to The Review: "Business for this time of the year is fairly good, and the outlook for a good spring trade is very encouraging. We have all we can do now, and trade generally is satisfactory."

In the County Court at Decatur, Ill., on January 12, the Abel Carpet and Wall Paper Company, which, since 1887, has been doing a large business in the Arcade Block there, made a voluntary assignment to J. W. Race. The liabilities are listed at $10,500, but there is no schedule of the assets, which consist entirely of the stock of goods.

A deed of assignment was filed at the clerk's office in Lynchburg, Va., from A. S. Thompson, doing a carpet and furniture business under the firm name of J. L. Thompson & Co., to James W. Wray, trustee. The total liabilities are estimated at about $5,000. After providing for the costs of the trust, the creditors are divided into four classes.

Edward White, dry goods and carpet dealer, Plainfield, N. J., has purchased property adjoining his store. When the leases of the present tenants expire, about April 1, Mr. White will convert the building into an addition to his present store by removing the partitions which now separate them. The structures are three stories in height and all the floor space which they contain will be utilized. A uniform front, with one central entrance, will be arranged to the stores, and they will be fitted with handsome plate glass windows and otherwise made attractive and suitable to the needs of a large general store. The front of the new store will then measure 80 feet on Front street, and the floor space will extend back 185 feet. A number of improvements, such as new plumbing, steam heating and electric light fittings throughout will be added to the new building, making it one of the most complete establishments of its character in the State. The carpet stock will occupy the third floor.

ADVERTISING IN THE REVIEW.

Cleveland, January 15, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Permit me to state that through advertising in The Review for a situation as a cutter I have obtained it with a good firm in this city, viz., the Root & McBride Company. Thanking you for your assistance, I remain,

John W. Ward.

HE ISN'T PRETTY, BUT——

In the advertisement of Joseph Wild & Co. in this issue will be found a portrait of the tutelary divinity who presides over the destinies of the firm's China matting department. He was sketched from life by a Chinese artist, and the original picture can be seen hanging in the Worth street warerooms. He simply wishes to call attention to the fact that no buyer who comes to this market can afford to miss seeing the stock of straw mattings now on show at Joseph Wild & Co.'s.

PARK CARPET MILLS.

The new advertisement of John Gay's Sons, on page 6 of this issue is well calculated to interest the trade. The Park Mills Ingrains are know and appreciated by every dealer, and the Rajah Art Carpets and Flemish Tapestries are also certain to be in great demand for the opening of the spring retail season.

The Messrs. Gay's complete line is shown at their mills, Howard and Norris streets, Philadelphia; the New York office, Hartford Building, Broadway and Seventeenth street; at 564 Washington street, Boston; 186 Market street, Chicago, and 916 Market street, San Francisco.

A bill has been introduced into the New York Assembly making it a misdemeanor to issue trading stamps. Legislation to the same effect is pending in Virginia, Tennessee, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

The Staines inlaid linoleum is coming into increased use in this country since Hunter & Whitcomb became the sole American agents. They have distributed it very widely through their road trips, and have also recorded good orders at the salesroom, 874 Broadway, New York.

THE MANUFACTURERS' CONVENTION.

The third annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers was held in New York, beginning on the 25th and ending on the 27th ult. President Theodore C. Search occupied the chair and on the second day of the convention delivered an able address, which was devoted mainly to the subject of our trade relations with foreign countries. At the last session, on the 27th ult., the three principal officers of the association were re-elected, as follows: President, Theodore C. Search; treasurer, Chas. A. Schieren; secretary, E. P. Wilson. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Cincinnati.

An especially interesting feature of the convention was the banquet at the Astoria-Waldorf Hotel on the night of the 27th ult., and at which President McKinley was the guest of honor. It had been expected that in his speech on the occasion the President would make some important declarations in regard to the financial policy of the Government, and in this respect there was no disappointment, the main subject of the address being the necessity for strict adherence to the gold standard. The President's emphatic and unequivocal remarks to this effect were received with great enthusiasm.

D. POWERS & SONS' NEW SALESROOMS.

D. Powers & Sons, who moved into their new and commodious offices and salesrooms in the Graham Building, 127 Duane street, corner of Church, on the 15th ult., are now showing their new and choice styles in floor oil cloths and China and Japan mattings. They are the oldest manufacturers of wide sheet goods in the United States, and as they carry an exceptionally fine line of patterns, they do a large business in goods of this character. James H. Clinchy, their agent, states they have done a good businss in both matting and oil cloths this season, and that the orders booked are far ahead of last year at this date. See their new advertisement on page 73 of this issue.

In the last issue of The Review we reported that Albert Ammerman, secretary and general manager of the Cowperthwait Company, Brooklyn, was lying at his home in that city dangerously ill with typhoid-pneumonia. Inquiry at the company's store just previous to our going to press elicited the fact that his condition remains unchanged.

At Alex. Crow, Jr.'s extensive Ingrain mills, Philadelphia, Superintendent J. H. C. Wright, reports a very satisfactory business in volume so far this spring, as 150 looms are still running on orders. Mr. Wright also says that their sales have been made at the best prices of the season for standard goods, and a considerable number of orders have been lost through not meeting other quotations. He believes that prices must continue to advance considerably above the best figures of the spring season, or the Ingrain manufacturers will be serious sufferers. Sheriff Crow spends a portion of each day at his office in the mills, and is keeping in touch with the business as usual.

A PROGRESSIVE RUG AND MATTING FIRM.

As stated in The Review of January 15, the firm of Fritz, La Rue & Sinn was succeeded by Fritz & La Rue on January 1. The change is practically in firm name only, as Charles B. Fritz and Walter M. La Rue, who compose the new firm, have been the managers and active partners in the business since its foundation eight years ago. The rise of this concern forms one of the most notable instances of business success in the wholesale carpet trade during the past decade, a period, too, not remarkable for general business progression.

Fritz, La Rue & Sinn were first located at 428 Front street, Philadelphia, where they commenced business as manufacturers of goat skin rugs and importers of Oriental rugs. They shortly removed to 314 Chestnut street, and in 1892 located in the large loft at 1132 Market street, over Boyd, Harley & Co., and added the importation of China and Japan mattings.

In these quarters the business expanded rapidly and the firm were soon known throughout the country as among the leading importers of Oriental rugs and carpets, China and Japan mattings, and manufacturers of goat skin rugs.

Two years ago they leased three floors at 1128 and 1130 Market street, thus securing an exceptionally large space for displaying such goods. They confined their attention solely to wholesaling these goods, and by wise selections in choice rugs and carpets, and novel and handsome styles in mattings, together with always straightforward business methods they have attained a foremost place in extent of business and in the good will of buyers.

Large carpets of Turkish, Persian and Indian makes have been a specialty with the firm, both in antique and modern effects, and some notably big bills have been sold to the best rug buyers of the country, both in large carpets and the small rug sizes.

The firm's matting importations have been sold up very clean every season, and the trade have come to look upon them as the safest kind of goods to handle. Mr. Fritz and Mr. La Rue are yet young men, both being under forty, and with the record of the past eight years' accomplishments we may expect the firm of Fritz & La Rue to continue as a leading example of business enterprise and success in the floor covering trade.

A large and well varied stock of carpeting, floor oil cloths, mattings and upholstery goods is offered to the trade in the jobbing department of Sheppard Knapp & Co., Sixth avenue, Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, New York. The offerings comprise careful selections from the most desirable styles and grades of leading manufacturers and in them the demands of every class of trade are met completely.

A new department with Yardum Brothers & Co. is Damascus art wares and draperies, which are under the charge of Antoine Dommar, a native Syrian, who has heretofore sold goods to large American houses direct from Damascus. The line of curtains and draperies is specially attractive, and as the goods are very fashionable just now, buyers should view this firm's attractive assortment at their new salesroom, 594 and 596 Broadway, New York.

BOSTON BUDGET.

Boston, January 25.

John C. Randall, of John H. Pray, Sons & Co., has gone South for a rest. He will visit Florida and possibly go as far as Cuba.

W. W. Corson has been in Philadelphia the past week.

Trade is dull.

Mr. Nichols, of W. W. Corson & Co., has gone on a fishing trip in Aroostook County, Maine.

Arthur Williams, Jr., & Co., of this city, importers of Oriental carpets and rugs, have had to seek larger quarters again for their growing business. They have just moved from 81 Franklin street to 42 Franklin street.

Two carpet store window attractions on Washington street are a pretty tapestry hanging, surrounded by a wide border of red cloth, at John H. Pray, Sons & Co.'s and a Turkish rug weaver at work at Thomas O'Callaghan & Co.'s.

F. J. B.

New England Notes.

Clark & Curtiss, dealers in dry goods, carpets, &c., Norfolk, Conn., have dissolved partnership, and A. P. Curtiss in the same town has sold out.

A number of improvements have been made in his store at Danvers, Mass., by J. F. Porter, including the arrangement of racks for wall paper and carpets on the lower floor.

Thompson Newbury, of Taunton, Mass., founder and chief owner of the Taunton Oil Cloth Company, died January 16 of pneumonia, after a week's illness, at the age of seventy-eight years.

The Lowell Carpet Company is still running four days a week, but it has recently completed a dye house, and is now pushing work every suitable day on a new four story Axminster mill. The company has been making Axminsters for some time, and finding them in large demand has decided to make provision for a larger product.

W. T. Kilborn & Co., dealers in carpets, &c., Portland, Me., have been succeeded by the W. T. Kilborn Company, which has been organized for the purpose of buying, selling and dealing in carpetings and furnishings, and to carry on other mercantile business. The capital stock of the company is $25,000, with $300 paid in. The par value of the shares is $100. W. T. Kilborn is the president, P. C. Kilborn the treasurer, and N. A. Johnson the clerk of the corporation.

Warner F. Colby, carpet and furniture dealer, Barre, Vt., made an assignment on January 7, in favor of his creditors to Dr. J. Henry Jackson. The liabilities will figure between $20,000 and $25,000, while the assets stand at about $12,000. The assets consist of the stock in the furniture store, the stock in the Art Paper Company and money owed the firm. Mr. Colby is dangerously ill with typhoid fever. He has been hard pressed by creditors for some time. Dull times and difficult collections had much to do with the failure. The paper department in which Mr. Colby was interested also helped along the crash, inasmuch as he went surety for the payment of the old bills. The former manager of the wall paper department was J. R. Cole. After Mr. Colby took possession he had a good trade, but the bills were too burdensome to overcome. It is said that an offer of adjustment of about 40 or 50 cents on a dollar will be made.

THE SINGER CARPET SEWING MACHINE.

As a device for sewing carpets rapidly and accurately the Singer automatic power carpet sewer is absolute perfection. It sews every kind of carpet, making a perfect stitch and seam. It is simple in design, easily operated. It is truly automatic, requires but little floor space and does its work with remarkable rapidity. The automatic matching and clamping device is a unique arrangement which insures perfect stretching and matching without the assistance of expert labor. The machine works automatically on its track, following the operator as each section of the carpet is matched and clamped. This machine will save its cost in one year to any carpet dealer whose business requires a hand machine. The Singer Company continue to manufacture also their well-known hand machine for carpet sewing and guarantee it to be the best in use.

Write to the Singer Manufacturing Company for circulars, testimonials, &c., relating to their power and hand machines. Their advertisement is on page 71 of this issue.

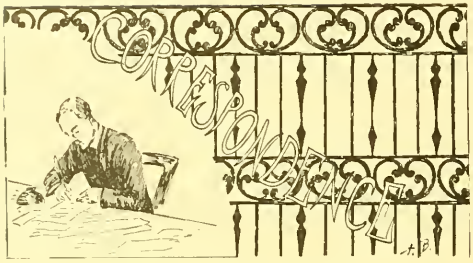
HARTFORD CARPET COMPANY'S NEW PRESIDENT.

At a meeting of the Hartford Carpet Company, on the 26th ult., George Roberts was elected as its president, succeeding John L. Houston, who retires on account of ill health. Jonathan B. Bunce succeeds Mr. Roberts as vice-president, but the latter retains the position of treasurer. The full list of directors and officers chosen is as follows: President and treasurer, George Roberts; vice-president, Jonathan B. Bunce; secretary, George B. Newton; directors, Jonathan B. Bunce, John L. Houston, James J. Goodwin, George Roberts, Chas. M. Beach, James B. Cone and Morgan G. Bulkeley.

Mr. Roberts, the new president, has been identified with the company for nearly thirty-four years. He was its secretary for fifteen years, until two years ago, when he was elected vice-president and treasurer. Mr. Roberts is well known in the trade and is regarded as exceptionally well qualified for the very important offices he now holds.

John Bromley & Sons' splendid lines of Smyrna carpets, rugs and mats have found quick and liberal appreciation in the trade. Buyers are advised to see the samples on view in the salesrooms of Thomas B. Shoaff & Co., sole agents, 935 Broadway, New York.

The cut carpet department of W. & J. Sloane is doing a very satisfactory business under the management of W. W. Law, Jr., the trade having appreciated promptly the advantages offered them in this way. The assortment of grades is very extensive, and includes a great variety of new and choice patterns.



Old-Time Floor Oil Cloth Men.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

I was much interested in the reminiscences of the floor oil cloth trade which appeared in your issue of the 15th ult. I remember when the business of R. C. Haskell & Co. was first started by Jonathan E. Whipple in 1847. Mr. Whipple had previously been several years in the employ of D. Powers & Sons. Mr. Haskell was a nephew of Mr. Whipple, and was admitted as his partner in 1861.

Old-Timer.

GRAFF & CO.'S STRAW MATTINGS.

In their new advertisement on page 2 of this issue Albert Graff & Co., 609 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, call attention to their big assortment of Chinese and Japanese mattings, comprising goods selected by Mr. Graff personally during his recent visit to China and Japan. Graff & Co. will offer these goods according to their usual method, which is at close prices for cash. The firm have for sale the sample showcases of Boyd, Harley & Co. These cases are first class and will be sold very cheap.

THE REMNANT SUPPLEMENT.

Following we present two letters bearing on the value of The Review's Remnant Supplement which came to hand too late for insertion in the January 15 number of The Review:

St. Paul, Minn., January 13, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Please find our list of remnants for your Remnant Supplement. It has often helped us out when short a few yards in filling an order.

Smith & Farwell Company.

Philadelphia, January 21, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

We inclose you our check in payment for subscription to The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review for 1898. Also find inclosed a list of remnants for publication in your valuable Remnant Supplement.

Every carpet dealer, small or large, should become a subscriber to The Review, and assist in the good work and aid the Remnant Supplement. In short it is "time saved and money earned."

H. Sonneborn & Brother.

W. T. Smith & Son say some interesting things to the trade in their new advertisement on the colored sheet opposite page 9 of this issue. The Messrs. Smith are having a big demand for all their products. Their lines of Smyrna carpets, rugs and Art Squares are replete with quick sellers, goods certain to make a favorable impression upon every buyer. Dealers should remember that the call for Smyrnas and Art Squares is continually increasing, and that W. T. Smith & Son have every possible facility for meeting this demand.

ALEX. CROW, JR.'S CHICAGO OFFICE.

A full line of Alex. Crow, Jr.'s Ingrains can now be seen at room 48, Shepard Building, 221 Fifth avenue, Chicago, where the firm is represented by Clement Read and Wm. Metzger. The Western trade should avail themselves of this convenience for inspecting one of the largest and leading lines of Ingrains direct from the mills.

ATTRACTIVE PRICES.

In his advertisement on page 95 F. G. Rogers, of Philadelphia, quotes some very attractive figures on carpetings, considering present values. He refers to the fact that he is selling floor coverings at last year's prices, the meaning of which must be obvious to all buyers. Mr. Rogers secured some of the best patterns in 3-4 goods at the special sales of last fall, and as he has not heretofore hurried the sale of the stock he still has on hand some of the choicest goods. Mr. Rogers now occupies three floors at 1015 Filbert street, Philadelphia, covering 12,000 square feet of space, and every buyer who can possibly do so should visit his establishment. His samples are also shown by C. I. Hooper at 611 Washington street, Boston; at 656 West Sixth street Cincinnati; by J. W. Waddell, Greenville, S. C., and J. R. Trego at the Niel House, Columbus, Ohio.

REMOVAL OF HIRST & ROGER.

Hirst & Roger, the Tapestry and Velvet manufacturers, are now well settled in their new mill at Allegheny and Kensington avenues, Philadelphia. Their entire machinery plant is now concentrated in this mill, which was purchased by them some months ago, and has been fitted up with improved machinery and other facilities for producing Tapestries and Velvets. The firm's customers will find better service from now on in shipments, as the new mill affords Hirst & Roger opportunity for quicker and larger production.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The exports of carpets and rugs from the consular district of Bradford, England, during the month of December, 1897, amounted in value to £1,638 as against £775 during the same month in 1896.

British Board of Trade returns show that the exports of carpets from Great Britain during the month of December, 1897, amounted to 633,800 yards, valued at £62,528. The exports for the twelve months ending December 31 were 7,297,500, valued at £762,570.

Lee Douglas, of Douglas & Davison, Atlanta, Ga., was in the New York market last week and was warmly welcomed by the road men who travel in his direction.

C. B. Asheridge, the former Philadelphia Ingrain manufacturer, may now be found at the salesroom of Reune Martin & Sons, New York, having become a member of their selling force in November. He has just returned from his first road trip for them.

AROUND AND ABOUT.

Some of the reflections engendered by a study of a great city like New York during the press of holiday time have been, among others, to wonder if the very means taken to attract customers did not repel the actual buyers. A woman with a long shopping list has resolutely turned from those stores in which great holiday displays were made, in the way of trimmings, entertainments for the children and window shows. Such inducements filled the place with the usual crowd always ready to follow a free show, with the result that purchasers were unable to get through the aisles and up to the counters. More than one woman confessed her dread of some accident in these terribly congested stores—accident that the inflammable nature of the trimmings helped to invite. In one store a blaze did arise from the crossing of electric wires—our modern fire risk—and in the slight panic which followed two or three persons were injured. The panic was slight because an electrician happened to be close at hand, and promptly put out the fire. Had there been any sort of delay the disaster would have been great—from the fright of shoppers and saleswomen, rather than from the actual conflagration. The fact is that shopkeepers and city authorities are realizing that every means should be taken to distribute crowds, rather than to mass them at busy times of the year.

"A POINT TO BE REMEMBERED."
—Life.

I stood the other day in an uptown retail establishment while the proprietor was playing an overture on the telephone. Of course I could not hear what the man at the other end of the wire was saying, but here is what I caught.

"What did you say was the price of those goods?"

Pause.

"I can do better."

B-r-r-r-r.

"What is the dating?"

Z-z-z-z-z.

"I haven't got the other fellow's price, but I've got his dating."

D-d-d-d-d-n.

"All right, send 'em up."

"Well, what was the other fellow's price," I asked. "Don't know. All I know is I save 2½ cents a yard and thirty days' interest. It's lucky a man can't see your face when you're lying over the telephone."

Moths always find some special attraction in particularly valuable articles, and they show a decided preference for costly Eastern rugs, as the owners of such articles of luxury but too frequently learn to their dismay. Formerly it was difficult, if not impossible, to get these rugs properly repaired, but lately firms of Armenians have established themselves in the shopping districts of most of the large cities and make a specialty of mending rugs, curtains and similar Oriental goods in the Oriental fashion. Eastern rugs are so much more used than they were formerly and are so liable to moth ravages that this innovation is most advantageous.

A new show window in the establishment of Millar & Beatty, Grafton street, Dublin, Ireland, attracts great attention, and is the only one of the kind in existence. The firm has taken out a patent for the window, which is described as "a double reflecting mirror, applicable to shop windows." Inside the large plate glass window is a well-hole 6 by 4 feet and 8 feet deep, leading to the basement showroom beneath. The wall of this well-hole on the side beneath the window is lined with mirrors, and on the opposite wall is an adjustable mirror, which reflects the mirror on the other side, and these in turn reflect all the furniture and other goods in the wareroom beneath. We reproduce herewith from the London Warehouseman and Draper two cuts showing the arrangement of the device. The adjustable mirror is controlled by a thumbscrew, and the adjustment requires great care to insure the setting of the mirror at the exact angle necessary to reflect the lower showroom, so that it can be seen from the street.

Mrs. Sarah Castle, who died at Waterville, Conn., recently, was the daughter of Peter Mann, a Scotchman, who was the first to manufacture carpets in this country by machinery. He had a factory in New York city, but a fire destroyed the entire plant and ruined him. He then went to Thompsonville, Conn., and entered the employ of the Hartford Carpet Company, with whom he remained until the civil war broke out, when he enlisted and was killed in the battle of Antietam.

Assemblyman F. R. Peterson is pushing in the New York State Assembly a bill compelling all railroads in the State to issue mileage books at 2 cents a mile, and for 500 as well as 1,000 miles. The coupons from these books are to be good for use by bearer and on trains when presented to the conductors. This is a privilege for which commercial travelers have long contended, as most of the roads in the State at present allow books to be used only by the members of one family or firm, and require that they be presented before train time at the ticket office, where coupons are removed and a ticket given in exchange.

NO DISCRIMINATION IN DUTIES.

THE CUSTOMS CLASSIFICATION BOARD DECIDES THAT NO ADDITIONAL DUTIES CAN BE LEVIED ON GOODS IMPORTED ON FOREIGN VESSELS OR RAILWAYS.

Section 22 of the Dingley Tariff law reads as follows:

A discriminating duty of 10 per centum ad valorem, in addition to the duties imposed by law, shall be levied, collected and paid on all goods, wares or merchandise which shall be imported in vessels not of the United States, or which being the production or manufacture of any foreign country not contiguous to the United States, shall come into the United States from such contiguous country; but this discriminating duty shall not apply to goods, wares or merchandise which shall be imported in vessels not of the United States, entitled at the time of such importation by treaty or convention to be entered in the ports of the United States on payment of the same duties as shall then be payable on goods, wares and merchandise imported in vessels of the United States, nor to such foreign products or manufactures as shall be imported from such contiguous countries in the usual course of strictly retail trade.

Under their interpretation of this section several collectors of customs assessed additional duties on certain importations of goods, and through the protests of the importers the matter came before the Customs Board of Classification, which in rendering its decision on the 27th ult. reviews the history and intent of kindred legislation for many years past, and shows by the statements of the chairmen of the respective Congressional committees having the tariff bill in charge that Congress intended to make no substantial change from its past policy regarding foreign shipping. The changes actually made were designed, the board thinks, to prevent evasions of the law by vessels of nations which might at any time refuse to admit our vessels to their ports on the same terms as their own Under the old law evasion was easy. Germany, for example, might have laid a discriminating duty on goods imported in American vessels, but by shipping her own product in German vessels to some Canadian port, and thence by rail across our border, she could continue to enjoy all the privileges of exemption now accorded her, because the German ships would not need to enter our ports. Against such a practice as this Section 22 is meant to guard, in the judgment of the board

The board admits the difficulty of construing the section, but holds that by a well-known rule the benefit of any doubt in the construction of a taxing statute should be given to the one taxed rather than to the Government laying the tax.

The board held that the duties should not be levied, and sustained the protests and reversed the collector's decision in each case with instructions to reliquidate the entries.

It has been learned that the Secretary of the Treasury will not appeal from the board's decision, which sustains the opinion of the Attorney General, in which he held that the discriminating duty of 10 per cent. does not attach to goods of foreign manufacture or production, brought into the United States in transit through a contiguous foreign country. This decision apparently settles the questions involved, as the Department will not take an appeal.

ORIENTAL RUGS ON CONSIGNMENT.

In an announcement in our advertising pages A. A. Vantine & Co. offer to consign lots of Oriental rugs and carpets valued at $500, $1,000, $1,500 and $2,000 or over for forty days, the dealer not to return more than one-half of the goods.

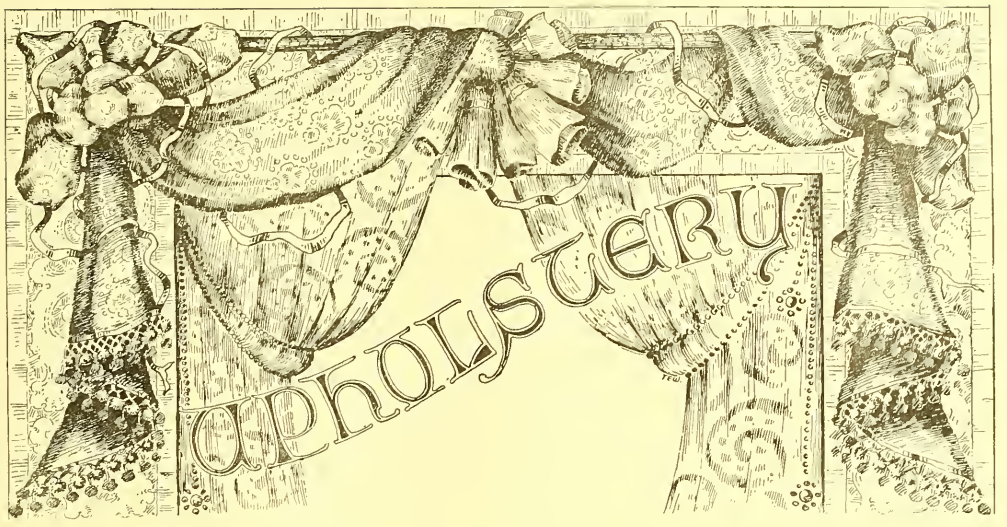
This is a great opportunity for dealers throughout the country to hold special sales on Oriental rugs, and we advise the trade to read Vantine & Co.'s announcement and write to them for further particulars.

H. Digby Beuttell and A. Victor Beuttell, sons of Mr. Henry Beuttell, who are now looking after John Crossley & Sons' American interests, sailed for England per the Majestic on January 26. They will be gone about two months.

The late William B. Kendall left an estate valued at $450,000, but made no will. On the 29th ult. Colonel Lamb, his son-in-law, applied to Surrogate Abbott, of Kings County, for letters of Administration of the estate, giving bonds for double the amount.

All dealers who handle carpet sweepers are advised to write at once to the Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company, Grand Rapids, Mich., for their new price list, showing important changes and reductions in the quotations for their various grades of carpet sweepers.

The dispatch from Buffalo, N. Y., printed in the daily papers of recent date, stating that Alex. Morton & Co., of Darvel, Scotland, had decided to establish a rug and lace curtain mill at Niagara Falls is incorrect. Hunter & Whitcomb, the sole American agents for Morton & Co., inform us that they have no advice of the above named character, and would be informed if it were so. It is true that Mr. Alexander Morton looked over the ground in this country last fall with a view of possibly establishing a plant, but our latest advice is that the firm were yet undecided regarding the matter.



The Fortnight.

THERE has been little change in the condition of affairs during the past two weeks in the drapery and upholstery market. A fair but not extraordinary volume of business has been done. The domestic lace curtain manufacturers are all well employed, and some are beginning to find it difficult to fill the orders now coming due. An increasing business is being done in tapestry curtains. Curiously enough, this increase comes from the people who formerly bought chenilles in all-over design patterns. These persons have been taught by certain retailers that the latter goods were not suited to their high-class purposes. As a result the sale of all-over patterns in chenilles has fallen off, while the dado and frieze goods hold their own. The chenille manufacturer, and he is in most cases a maker of tapestries, is therefore simply making up the loss on one class of his product by the increased sale of another.

PRESIDENT BALDWIN, of the Long Island Railroad Company, states that his company will build a branch track beside the head of the Patchogue River, as requested by the lace company, provided the people of Patchogue will secure the necessary rights of way and pay for the grading of the route. The cost of the proposed side track is estimated at $2,300, which includes the $300 for the grading of the route. It is expected that the people of Patchogue will raise the necessary amount for the grading. Every property owner along the route with the exception of two or three has signed consent for the laying of the track on his lands.

All this illustrates the method by which modern manufacturing processes are necessarily developed in these days of keen competition. The Patchogne mill cannot certainly be more than a third of a mile from the Long Island freight depot. But when it is considered that 1,500 tons of coal a month have to be handled twice, that the boxes in which they ship their goods are sent K. D. from Maine, and that they will need perhaps next year a million pounds of yarn, the saving of expense results in a large lessening of the cost of production or—in prosperous years—a larger dividend to the stockholders.

IF the fortnight has produced no particular change in the condition of the market it has shown an idea which is both novel and valuable. The Hensel Silk Manufacturing Company have a new invention in the shape of a twisted rope (such as is used in rope portières) cording for pillows and other similar uses. It is woven flat over a warp cord by a Jacquard machine and then cut and twisted. We understand a patent has been applied for. It will readily be seen that the invention offers a large variety of shadings at a much reduced cost over the old process.

THE latest advices from Nottingham state that no new feature has presented itself in the lace curtain trade, and the demand is insufficient to keep all the machinery fully employed. The plain net trade is still in a healthy condition. Good orders are on hand and prices are firm. Mosquito nets are in steady request.

THIRTY-ONE manufacturers of mattresses, representing factories in the district between Pittsburg and St. Louis north of the Ohio River, met at Indianapolis on the 26th ult., and organized the "Central Mattress Manufacturers' Association." the object of which will be to regulate prices on all lines of mattress goods and reduce harsh competition between factory men. Officers were elected as follows: President, C. A. Fisher, Petersburg, Ill.; vice-president, Frank Schaultz, Hamilton, Ohio; secretary and treasurer, C. C. Nickols, Cincinnati, Ohio. The next annual meeting of the association will be held in Cincinnati.

DECISION ON EMBROIDERED SCREENS.—In the case of A. L. Turke against the United States, which was tried in the United States Circuit Court last December, the merchandise in suit consisted of screens, composed of cotton, paper and wood, and was classified for duty under paragraph 373 of the act of October 1, 1890, as "embroidered articles" at 60 per cent. ad valorem. The importer protested, claiming that the articles should have been assessed for duty under paragraph 230 at 35 per cent. ad valorem as furniture, or under paragraph 355 at 40 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures of cotton, or under paragraph 414 of the said act at 50 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures of which silk is the component material of chief value. The local appraiser reported that the cotton embroidery was the chief element of value, and duty was accordingly assessed under paragraph 373. Upon subsequent examination by the special appraiser appointed for the purpose, it was ascertained, however, that paper was, in fact, the component material of chief value.

As the importer failed to claim in his protest that paper was the component material of chief value, the court affirmed the decision of the Board of General Appraisers which had sustained the collector's classifications.

In the case of Bloomingdale Brothers against the ruling of the Board of General Appraisers, Customs Appeals No. 2408, Judge Wheeler, of the United States Circuit Court, decided as follows:

The appraisers in their decision said: "We find that the goods in question consist of cords, fringes, tassels, braids, &c., composed in chief value of metal thread, or bullion. That said goods are articles composed in chief value of metal, and that the same are not known commercially as metal threads nor as bullions"

Nevertheless it was assessed as a manufacture of glass, or of which glass was the component material of chief value, under paragraph 108 of the tariff act of 1890, against a protest that they should be assessed as manufactures composed wholly or in part of metal, under paragraph 215. This finding is said to be a reason only, and that the classification was in fact right; but it is more than a reason. The board is authorized to find facts, and this must be treated as a finding of fact; and according to this finding the protest should have been sustained.

Decision reversed.

During the past two weeks the following buyers have been in the market: E. A. Sadd, for the Denholm & McKay Company, Worcester, Mass.; F. A. Goebel, Marietta, Ohio; Edward Schimpff, for Leopold Adler, Savannah, Ga.; J. W. Penney, for Hunter, Glenn & Hunter, Detroit; A. M. Levy, of Levy Brothers, Houston, Tex.; W. B. Wakelin, of McAuslan & Wakelin, Holyoke, Mass.; G. S. Beall, Columbus, Ohio; J. M. Sloane, for Hugh Glenn & Co., Utica, N. Y.; L. M. Sage, for the Minneapolis (Minn.) Dry Goods Company; W. Murphy, for Porteous & Mitchell, Norwich, Conn.; Mr. Sutherland, for Smith & Murray, Springfield, Mass.; Charles F. Bonney, for Wm. Donaldson & Co., Minneapolis; S. W. Steel, for Smith, Murray & Co., Bridgeport, Conn.; D. M. Kahn, for the J. S. Menker Company, Memphis, Tenn.; A. C. Bodman (wholesale) and C. Jones (upholstery and cabinet hardware), for Marshall Field & Co., Chicago; W. N. Grant and G. B. Holmes, of Grant, Holmes & Peck, Ellenville, N. Y.; F. E. Mack, for Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C.; Fred George of A. Bushnell & Co., Watertown, N. Y.; D. M. Edwards, of E. W. Edwards & Son, Syracuse, N. Y.; C. H. White, for Forbes & Wallace, Springfield, Mass.; C. Pierson, for the John C. MacInnes Company, Worcester, Mass.; B. Peck, of the B. Peck Dry Goods Company, Lewiston, Me.; Rodney Wilcox, Cohoes, N. Y.; C. H. Bissell, of C. H. Bissell & Co., Southington, Conn.; Edward H. Brennan, Wilmington, Del.; H. B. Strong, of Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn.; E. L. Douglas, of Douglas & Davison, Atlanta, Ga.

H. S. Crumley, for the Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company, Rochester, N. Y.; T. J. Laflin, for F. M. Brown & Co., New Haven, Conn.; John Cleland, of Cleland, Simpson & Taylor, Scranton, Pa.; Ph. Hatzfeld, Austin, Tex.; J. H. Clark, for the R. A. McWhirr Company, Fall River, Mass.; E. W. Warsop, for Daniels & Fisher, Denver, Col.; William P. Hodnett, Danville, Va.; J. D. Crook, of Crook, Record & Co, Paris, Tex.; V. C. Fry, for A. Krolik & Co., Detroit; J. C. O'Brien, Fulton, N. Y.; Isaac Long, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; F. H. Allerton, for Sheehan, Dean & Co., Elmira, N. Y.; Chas. R. Hart and G. W. Curtis, of Charles R. Hart & Co., Hartford, Conn.; A. E. Dickieson, of Dickieson & Co., Holyoke, Mass.; M. M. Marks, of M. Marks & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Salem Hyde, of Neal & Hyde, Syracuse, N. Y.; E. W. Vincent, for the J. W. Robinson Company, Los Angeles, Cal.; Morris Benson, of the Adam Meldrum & Anderson Company, Buffalo, N. Y.; G. B. Beadle, of Carroll, Beadle & Mudge, Rochester, N. Y.; J. W. Hall, Jr., and William Headington, of Hall, Headington & Co., Baltimore; R. Singer, of Joske Brothers, San Antonio, Tex.; S. Rosenthal, of Rosenthal Brothers, Las Vegas, N. M.; P. T. Watt, of Watt & Shand, Lancaster, Pa.; W. H. Gates, for Hower & Higbee, Cleveland, Ohio; Charles M. Guggenheimer, Lynchburg, Va.; C. E. Boyd, for the Boston Store Company, Glens Falls, N. Y.

Mr. Bass, for M. Rich & Brothers, Atlanta, Ga.; H. Weil, for Nathan Gutman & Co., Baltimore; C. Jordan, of Jordan, Marsh & Co, Boston; B. L. Young, for D. McCarthy & Sons, Syracuse, N. Y.; W. P. Schenck, Honesdale, Pa.; M. Haas, of Haas & Oppenheimer, San Antonio, Tex.; J. Shartenberg, of Shartenberg & Robinson, Providence, R. I.; Mr. Grant, for J. N. Adam & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.; J. S. Capron, for J. B. Wells, Son & Co., Utica, N. Y.; A. J. Conroy, of A. J. Conroy & Co., Cincinnati.

McCarthy & Miles have opened an upholstery establishment at 228 East Fifth street, Chester, Pa.

In their new advertisement on the colored sheet opposite page 9 of this issue, W. T. Smith & Son call attention to their very attractive and extensive offerings in chenille, tapestry and lace curtains, and chenille and tapestry covers. Every buyer should see these goods.

The merging of the Hees, Macfarlane & Co. business, of Detroit, with the Columbia Shade Cloth Company forms another strong link to the latter company's producing and distributing organization. With factories in Meriden, Conn.; Minetto, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Detroit, Mich., and West Pullman, Ill., it can be seen that they enjoy the best facilities for manufacturing and promptly shipping window shades to all parts of the country. They carry everything in the window shade line and obviously are in a position to quote lowest prices.

INSURANCE RATES FOR LARGE RETAIL STORES.

Some of our leading retail dealers in dry goods are endeavoring to secure a reduction in the rates of fire insurance upon their property. They claim that a first-class dry goods store is in insurance parlance "an excellent risk," because such establishments are carefully watched and have every known appliance for preventing or extinguishing fires, to say nothing of the fact that a fire which obliged a firm to remove from its old stand would inflict immense injury to its business, and perhaps result in its total destruction. Notwithstanding these obvious facts the insurance companies have granted a reduction of 33⅓ per cent. in the rates in the wholesale dry goods district and have refused to make any concession to the large retail dealers.

The matter has been taken up by the Retail Dry Goods Association, which consists of about twenty of the leading dry goods houses in the boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn. It was formed about three years ago, its stated object being to "foster trade and commerce, to protect it from unjust or unlawful exactions, to reform abuses in the trade * * * and form a more enlarged and friendly intercourse between merchants engaged in the retail dry goods and kindred trades." The annual election of the association was held last week, at which the following officers were chosen:

President, E. P. Hatch; vice-president, James Matthews; secretary, E. W. Bloomingdale; treasurer, J. C. McCreery. Board of directors: Isaac Stern, J. C. McCreery, W. G. Thomas, Samuel Adams, Isador Straus, E. P. Hatch, E. W. Bloomingdale, H. C. F. Koch and J. Matthews. The following firms are members of the association:

B. Altman & Co.
Stern Brothers.
Ehrich Brothers.
J. McCreery & Co.
Adams & Co.
H. O'Neill & Co.
Simpson, Crawford & Simpson,
A. J. Cammeyer.
Siegel-Cooper Company.
J. A. Hearn & Son.
R. H. Macy & Co.
Lord & Taylor.
Bloomingdale Brothers.
H. C. F. Koch & Co.
Abraham & Straus.
A. D. Matthews & Son.
Best & Co.
F. Loeser & Co.
E. A. Morrison & Son.
A. A. Vantine & Co.
D. M. Williams & Co.
Henry Batterman.

The Swiss lace curtains shown by J. A. Brittain & Co. this season comprise without question as strong an assortment of this class of goods as is to be found in the market. These goods are produced by Sturzenegger & Tanner of St. Gall, for whom Brittain & Co. are sole American agents. Besides being strong in novelties, the prices are the lowest that can be quoted on goods of such quality and make. Brittain & Co. carry a stock in New York of everything shown, and late buyers can get their spring wants promptly filled.

OBITUARY NOTES.

Alex. E. Hahn, who had carried on an upholstering and undertaking business at Mount Gilead, Ohio, for many years, died there on January 2 in his sixty-ninth year.

Peter W. Shepherd, who had carried on the upholstering business for the past year or more, at Reading, Pa., died there on January 14, of a complication of diseases, aged forty-three years.

The mercantile agencies announce the deaths of C. E. Kampmann, of Kampmann & Meyer, manufacturers of upholstery trimmings, New York, and Laurien Ward, of L. & W. Ward, manufacturers of curtain fixtures, Naugatuck, Conn.

Seaton Perry, for many years one of the leading dry goods merchants of Washington, D. C., committed suicide by shooting on January 14. He had for some months been suffering from melancholia and was under medical care at the time. He was forty-seven years of age and leaves a widow. His business affairs were in a prosperous condition. The concern which Mr. Perry conducted was started by his father in 1840, and was probably the only one of the old business houses on Pennsylvania avenue which had kept pace with the progress of the city and had successfully coped with the competition of department stores.

B. L. SOLOMON'S SONS' NEW ESTABLISHMENT.

The removal of B. L. Solomon's Sons to their new salesrooms at Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street has been consummated, and they are now prepared to meet the trade in spacious and elegant showrooms and offices. The new location is on the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street, the building being just completed. It is of the latest modern structure and appointments and very handsome in appearance, as can be seen by the illustration on page 77. Solomon's Sons occupy the entire first and second lofts. Their offices are at the Fifth avenue front of the first loft, while the remaining space is devoted to the display of the finest goods and to shipping room. The second loft is a model of arrangement for this business, being divided into four separate showrooms by poles, each having ample space. The shelving and compartments for stock are all new and in keeping with the high character of the showrooms. In the second loft will be shown the general line of upholstery goods, curtains and couch covers, which comprises the latest novelties in both American and foreign products. The trade should bear in mind that B. L. Solomon's Sons will cater to their needs with a widely assorted stock of upholstery coverings, draperies, curtains and couch covers in the best and latest novelties.

The account of J. B. Fontanille, Le Puy, France, manufacturer of laces, has been placed in the hands of J. A. Brittain & Co., the lace curtain wholesalers, of 438 Broadway, New York. The latter have received a finely assorted stock of laces from this concern suitable for making up curtains, and invite the attention of manufacturers of ruffled, lace edge and insertion curtains to these most attractive goods, which are offered at lowest prices.

TRADE CHAT.

Any manufacturer of upholstery goods who wishes a thoroughly competent selling agent should read the advertisement in our "Special Notices," in which a gentleman who already has a wide and valuable connection, announces his willingness to take on a minor account in connection with his regular business. It is perhaps needless to say that all communications will be treated as absolutely confidential.

McManus Brothers, carpet and furniture dealers at Newark and Elizabeth, N. J., went to the recent exposition of furniture at Grand Rapids, Mich., and bought largely there. They say that the exhibits were very extensive, varied and attractive and that the manufacturers seemed to be well satisfied with results, the attendance of buyers and the volume of sales being very large. The display of mahogany furniture was especially notable, indicating an increasing demand for this wood.

Articles of incorporation of the Stilwell Automatic Shade Roller Company, with capital of $500,000, were filed at Kansas City, Mo , on January 5. The company controls the Sturgis patents on shade rollers and shade adjusters. Already a subsidiary company to manufacture the rollers and adjusters has been organized in Kansas City, with a capital of $150,000. Similar companies will be organized in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and Montreal.

E. V. Pike, manufacturer of chenille curtains and table covers, Ontario Mills, Second street, above Columbus avenue, Philadelphia, has recently built a new mill at Cheltenham, Montgomery County, Pa., near Foxchase. The new brick structure is 150x50 feet, two stories high and basement; also a new frame storehouse, 150x50 feet, one story in height. Mr. Pike expects to have all his machinery removed to the new location by April 1. He is now placing in position six new looms in the new mill. This firm employs seventy-five hands. The assistant manager is Charles H. Pike.

Charles Salomon, of the drapery department, and Mr. Koepp, of the carpet department of the Stark Brothers Company, Milwaukee, leave the employ of that firm to-day, February 1, to open an upholstery department in the store of Heyne & Co., Milwaukee.

St. Louis, January 24.

Apparently the American Shade Company will not recover from its financial distress. The assets of the concern are now in possession of Mrs. Ann F. Stobie and the National Wall Paper Company, who are represented by Lawyer Lee W. Grant, of the Laclede Building, corner of Olive and Fourth streets. Mrs. Stobie is the mother-in-law of W. H. Mare, Jr., the president of the American Shade Company. She indorsed a note for $2,000, made by the embarrassed company on November 15, 1897, and payable February 16, 1898, to the Merchants' Laclede National Bank, of this city. On the 4th inst. the Shade Company executed a chattel mortgage in favor of Mrs. Stobie, covering certain personal property belonging to them, and under that instrument she has taken charge thereof, for her protection. A debt of $404 is due the National Wall Paper Company for merchandise furnished, and by an arrangement among the principal creditors and the bankrupt corporation certain of the assets have been turned over to the wall paper company in part satisfaction of their claim. The factory of the American Shade Company, at 2014 Locust street, has shut down entirely. Negotiations are pending which may result in the Columbia Shade Cloth Company taking hold of the plant, but as yet nothing definite has been agreed upon. In the event the deal does not go through the assets will be sold in some other way.

It is announced that D. Crawford & Co. will shortly remove from their present location to the spacious and elegant buildings, Nos. 511 to 523 Washington avenue, where they will establish a mammoth department store. It is said that fully $100,000 will be spent in fitting up the place. There will be 130,500 square feet of floor space, and the establishment will be provided with six passenger and two freight elevators, besides electric light and steam heating apparatus of its own, and all the adjuncts of a first-class modern business building. D. Crawford & Co. have been in their present quarters, corner of Broadway and Franklin avenue, for thirty-one years.

The Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Company have decided to build a large warehouse on the south side of Washington avenue, and plans for the structure are now being drawn.

The Ely & Walker Dry Goods Company are now reestablished at the corner of Eighth street and Washington avenue. The firm's premises were burned out at this corner about a year ago.

The Grand Leader has added a line of wall papers to its stock.

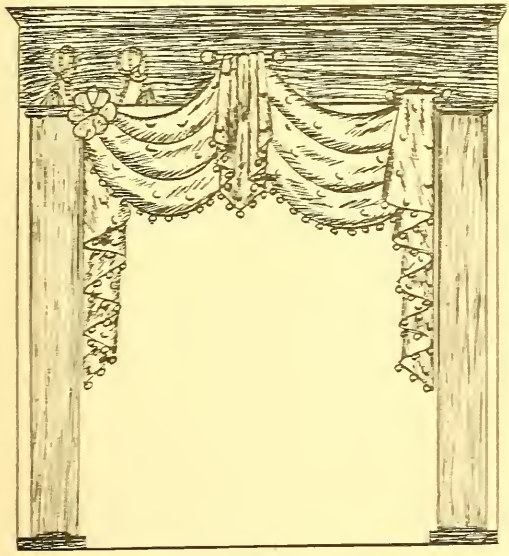
THE HOUR THE TARIFF TOOK EFFECT.

Several interesting questions of constitutional law and statutory construction were developed in the recent argument before Judge Townsend, in the United States Circuit Court for this district, on an appeal from the decision of the Board of United States General Appraisers as to the date and actual time when the Tariff act of July 24, 1897, went into effect. The cases before the court were the United States against William Iselin & Co. and against A. Hirsch & Co. The importers claimed that the act did not take effect until six minutes after 4 o'clock P. M. of July 24, 1897, at which time the President approved the same.

The United States Government contended that it was in effect from the beginning of that day, no different date being expressly provided for in the statute itself, and the date of July 24 appearing on the face of the act.

Assistant United States Attorney Henry Clay Platt, in his argument in behalf of the Government, contended that in tariff acts and legislation of a similar nature the law does not allow any fraction of a day; that it would be an anomaly to make a repealing act and the act repealed both in force and operation on one and the same day, one act on one part of the day and the other on the other part of the day; that Congress has power to pass a tariff act that may be retroactive in some of its provisions, and there is no constitutional provision against it; that Congress, representing the sovereign power of the nation, has a right to alter the duty on importations without previous notice, and that retroactive revenue laws have been uniformly held not to be ex post facto laws.

Judge Townsend reserved his decision.



DRAPERY FOR A SPACE 4½ FEET BY 8. W. ROE, WITH E. W. EDWARDS & SON, SYRACUSE, N. Y.

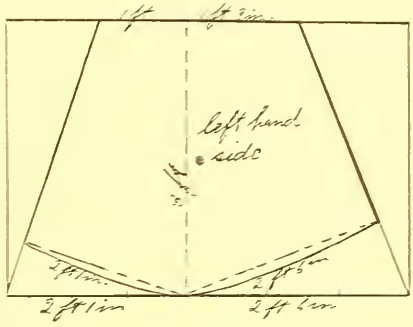
Old gold and old red "Renaissance Silk" with fringe top and tassels to match.

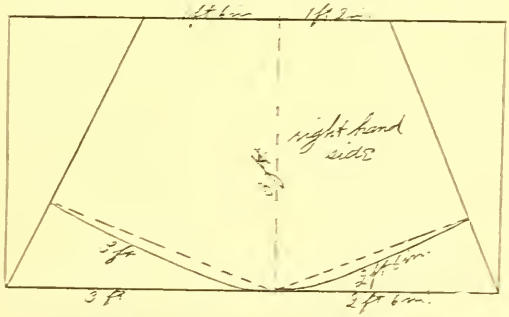
A DINING ROOM.

In the dining room of a Philadelphia house the woodwork is imitation. The floor, not being hardwood, was treated to a coat or so of red paint. The side walls are covered with ingrain paper of a brilliant yellow, with a conventional design in white over it, the frieze and ceiling blending in.

On the floor is a Japanese rug of old blue and white, leaving a border of 10 or 12 inches of floor. A circular table, seven leather bottomed chairs, a buffet and table of highly polished flemish oak, form the furniture.

At the south end of the room is a window, and a door that leads into the kitchen; in front of the door is a screen, Japanese, of old blue and white, and under the window a box or seat, in imitation of Flemish oak, with an elaborate design worked out in brass nails on the top and





HOW TO CUT THE DRAPE SHOWN IN THE PRECEDING COLUMN.

Requirements: Four and three-quarter yards 50 inch goods for festoons; two single rosettes and double rosette front. This is the handiwork of the hostess, and holds linen that the buffet will not accommodate. On the east side of the room is a window with 2 or 3 feet of space on either side. These spaces are occupied by sets of shelves. They are treated to match the furniture, and hold some old Delft plates, cups, saucers and candlesticks.

The buffet is low and long, is carved on the top and front, and has a long shelf on top, and drawers and cupboards for silver and linen. It is adorned with some pieces of cut glass and silver and some choice old Delft, all showing off to the best possible advantage on dainty pieces of embroidered linen. The table holds a chafing dish with all the accessories. The curtains next to the window are point d'esprit, and over them are hung curtains of old blue denim with a white linen band across the bottom, on which is a conventional design worked out in old blue silk. The portière to a wide door on the north side matches these curtains and hangs from a very pretty piece of grille work. Above this door is a narrow shelf, holding a row of blue plates, and at the side of this door is a short, broad shelf, holding a collection of beautiful steins. A centre piece on the table, all in white, and a Delft fern bowl with a feathery green fern drooping over the sides, complete the picture.

One or two etchings hang on the walls, and an old Delft placque is hung by chains at the side of the buffet.

STERN BROTHERS' WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

The extensive wholesalers and retailers, Stern Brothers, of West Twenty-third street, New York, are showing in their wholesale upholstery department for the spring trade a superb assortment of novelties for coverings, hangings and draperies, and also curtains, curtain materials, couch covers, &c. The feature of these offerings is their exclusiveness, as the goods have been imported primarily for Stern Brothers' great retail department, and are not to be found elsewhere. A few years ago Stern Brothers decided to import upholstery goods beyond their own actual needs and distribute their novelties to other leading retailers throughout the country. This departure has proved very successful, and every season the firm now send out travelers with their lines. Buyers visiting New York are cordially invited to call at Stern Brothers' department, where James Munro, the department manager, will be pleased to show them the complete assortment. Correspondence regarding samples is also invited.

POINT DE PARIS RUFFLED CURTAINS.

Cohen Brothers & Co. are showing a line of these goods, which have met with great success this season, and are taken up by all live retailers, as they can be sold at popular prices. They are durable and graceful, and have the effect of very expensive goods.

Their line of ruffled bobbinet muslin and fish net curtains is the most extensive ever shown, and it will repay all buyers to visit their store, 424 and 426 Broadway, New York, and see novelties in curtains controlled exclusively by them.

BIRKIN'S NEW AMERICAN FACTORY.

The first machine will be set up in T. I. Birkin & Co.'s new factory at Chester, Pa., this week, and the placing of the entire machinery plant will rapidly follow. The firm expect to be out of their Philadelphia factory in the course of a couple of months. As heretofore stated, the additional facilities gained by this new plant will double Birkin & Co.'s American production, so that for the coming fall trade they will be able to give their customers much better service in every way than ever before. J. A. Brittain & Co., 438 Broadway, New York, are agents for Birkin & Co.'s American and foreign products of lace curtains and nets.

PATENTS.

No. 597,354. Shade Roller Fixture.—Emil C. Eyl, Helena, Mon. Filed February 20, 1897. Patent issued January 11, 1898.

No. 28,188. Shade Pull.—Alfred Ziegler and John O. Remington, Boston, Mass. Filed October 14, 1897. Issued January 18, 1898. Term of patent, 3½ years.

No. 597,730. Curtain Roller.—John W. Morpeth, Muskegon, Mich. Filed May 22, 1897. Issued January 25, 1898.

No. 598,036. Adjustable Curtain Pole Support.—Otto E. Wagener, Pittsburg, Pa., assignor, by direct and mesne consignments, of one-half to Ella E. Boland and Charles H. Lloyd, same place. Filed August 21, 1896. Issued January 25, 1898.

REMOVAL OF ORINOKA MILLS SALESROOMS.

The Orinoka Mills have completed their removal to their new salesroom in the Orinoka Building, Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street, where they occupy the entire third loft with a display of the products of the Orinoka Mills, of Philadelphia, comprising upholstery covering, drapery and hanging materials, curtains, couch covers and table covers. The new salesrooms have been fitted up with handsome fixtures, and afford every facility for the convenient display of samples. The trade are cordially invited by Mr. Jay H. Solomon to call and inspect the new quarters.

WHERE TO BUY HOLLANDS.

The largest stock of Scotch window hollands in this country is to be found in the big establishment of the Jay C. Wemple Company, on Broadway, New York, and a good stock is also carried at their Chicago store. This company have been for years leading importers of Scotch Hollands, and can supply all the general colors and widths at once, and also some special colors and widths confined to them. They also have big stocks of American hollands, and in the respect of giving the buyer what he wants there is no window shade house in the country that surpasses them and few can equal them.

E. L. Ritter & Co., successors to Homer Le Boutellier & Co., who were for a time on Chestnut street, west of Broad, Philadelphia, have secured store No. 1026 on that street, and will shortly open with larger and better facilities than they had before. This means another big upholstery department on Chestnut street, under the management of experienced upholstery men.

The brass trimmings for iron bedsteads made by the American Pin Company, of Waterbury, Conn., have become very popular on account of their superior workmanship and novel patterns. The company perhaps does the largest business in the brass trimming line in the country and all manufacturers should certainly inspect the different styles on exhibition at the New York salesrooms, 441 Broadway.

Ernest Hoffstaetter, upholsterer, 309 Amsterdam avenue, is succeeded by Ernest Hoffstaetter & Co.

E. F. Timme & Son will occupy a loft in the new Orinoka Building, Seventeenth street and Fifth avenue, as upholstery jobbers.

James A. Smith, Robert R. Walbridge and Chas. R. Pitts, Jr., have been admitted as partners in the house of Calhoun, Robbins & Co., this city.

The A. Naumann Pulfrich Company have shared very well in the orders so far placed on lace curtains, and have their house in order at 458 Broadway for a good trade during February.

F. J. Kloes, manufacturer of window shades, awnings, tents, &c., 240 Canal street, makes a specialty of work for the trade and is in a position to interest strongly every buyer of window shades, &c.

J. S. Lesser & Co., the manufacturers and importers of lace curtains and handkerchiefs, have removed their salesrooms from No. 398 to No. 473 Broadway, where they have a spacious and well lighted loft.

F. M. Van Blaricom, mill agent, is showing at his salesroom, 415 Broadway, very attractive lines of curtain fluting, tamboured muslin and Irish point novelties, fish net, muslin and bobbinet ruffled curtains, tapestry curtains, piece goods, &c.

Hunninghaus & Lindemann have removed to their new quarters at 79 Walker street, where they have five floors and a superb light for the display of their window shades, &c. The new location is only 200 feet east of Broadway, and between that thoroughfare and Elm street.

At the annual meeting of the Wool Club on the 27th ult. five vacancies in the board of governors were filled by the election of Messrs. Clarence Whitman, Ethan Allen, William L. Strong, John P. Faure and Miles M. O'Brien. Mr. Whitman is the head of the firm of Clarence Whitman & Co.

The John Kroder & Henry Reubel Company are occupying their spacious new store at 268 and 270 Canal street, in the building formerly utilized by the J. W. Dimick Company for their carpet business. They have the street floor and basement, each 55x100 feet, with splendid light on two sides and a most attractive frontage on Canal street, as the building is but 200 feet east of Broadway. The consolidation of the stocks of the Henry Reubel Company and John Kroder makes an assortment of upholstery and carpet hardware and curtain poles of specially large proportions, and provides the new concern with increased attractions to the trade. The factory of the company is at 90 to 96 Clinton street, New York, where a building of six stories and basement is devoted to producing brass goods and curtain poles.

Hoyle, Harrison & Kaye's new lines of fine upholstery and drapery fabrics, curtains and table covers comprise a choice variety of original and handsome patterns which deserve the prompt attention of buyers. The lines are shown in New York by C. B. Young & Co., the selling agents, Hartford Building.

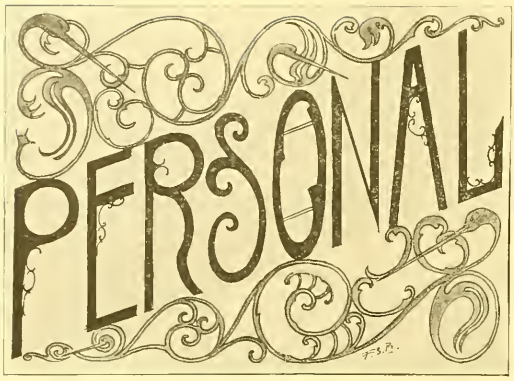
Manager Smith, of the wholesale upholstery department of W. & J. Sloane, says that business to this date has been excellent. The Oldham Mills output is sold up for two months ahead, and the demand for imported as well as domestic goods is very large. The Oldham Mills are producing goods which will compare favorably with the product of any foreign mill, as may be readily seen by a glance at the line which Mr. Smith has on view.

The rumor that W. & J. Sloane intend to use the new nine story addition to their Broadway store for the furniture business is not correct, but it is true that they will show in the spring retail season an assortment of high grade hand-made furniture, intended simply as a tender to their upholstery department. They will deal only in upholstered goods, and will show no machine-made furniture whatever. Their new building on Nineteenth street will not be completed before September next.

F. P. Bhumgara & Co., 524 Broadway, are getting out an eight page supplement, including hanging lanterns, table, floor and banquet lamps, chairs, &c., which will be ready for the trade and the firm's customers in about two weeks. Mr. O'Neil, representing the company, will start out on a Western trip by way of Philadelphia about February 10, with a complete new line of samples just received for the spring trade, among which is a full line of handsome portières in a variety of different shades and colors.

RIESER & CO. REMOVE.

Rieser & Co. elsewhere invite attention to their spring line, which includes all the latest styles and makes of lace curtains and curtain materials. The firm have removed to 473 Broadway, nearly opposite their former location and have improved facilities for the display and handling of their goods.



Barbour—Cheney.—William Barbour, of the Barbour Brothers Company, New York and Paterson, N. J., and P. C. Cheney, of Cheney Brothers, the New Hampshire silk manufacturers, have been elected members of the executive committee of the American Protective Tariff League.

Bonney.—Chas. F. Bonney, upholstery buyer for Wm. Donaldson & Co., Minneapolis, dropped into The Review office recently, and in the course of conversation remarked that the business of his department during the past year had been good, and the indications point to a brisk trade for '98.

Daniell.—John Daniell, Jr., of John Daniell & Sons, has been elected a director of the Astor Place Bank, New York.

Farley.—Thomas M. Farley, a manufacturer of bedding, has been appointed a member of the Brooklyn Board of Education.

Froelich.—David Froelich, the "Co." in Ludwig Baumann & Co. and general manager of the business, has been dangerously ill for many weeks with typhoid pneumonia. He is out again, and rapidly gaining strength.

King.—Leo King, of Titus Blatter & Co., the lace curtain importers, returned last week from a three months' trip to the Pacific Coast.

Kurr.—Louis Kurr, head of B. Altmann & Co.'s upholstery department, is a member of the new Heights Club, recently organized by the residents of Washington Heights, New York city.

Lincoln.—F. S. Lincoln has charge of the curtain and upholstery department of the reorganized firm of G. V. S. Quackenbush & Co., Troy, N. Y.

McCann.—The advertising matter of the great department store of Philadelphia, Strawbridge & Clothier, is written, drawn, printed and engraved in the establishment itself. Mr. McCann, the advertising manager, says he does not know of any other establishment like his in this country where such work—it is beautiful work—finds its inception and completion within the business.—Printers' Ink.

McCreery.—James McCreery, of James McCreery & Co., was a delegate from the Merchants' Association of New York to the Monetary Convention in Indianapolis last week.

Naumann.—A. Naumann, of the A. Naumann Pulfrich Company, sailed for Europe on the 19th ult. He was in Paris on the 27th hurrying forward the orders of the firm. He will make but a short stay and will return to New York within a few weeks.

Pike.—E. V. Pike, the chenille curtain manufacturer, will remove on April 1 from his present location at 1720 North Second street, Philadelphia, to Cheltenham, Pa. With enlarged quarters and reduced cost in manufacture the Sunnyside Mills will be able to compete for the larger trade.

Simonson.—J. T. Simonson, manager of W. & J. Sloane's retail upholstery department, sailed for Europe on the 26th ult.

Sloane.—William D. Sloane, of W. & J. Sloane, has been elected a director of the Hanover Fire Insurance Company, New York.

Steel.—S. W. Steel succeeds H. B. Grosshardt as upholstery buyer for Smith, Murray & Co., Bridgeport, Conn.

Stern.—Louis Stern, of Stern Brothers, New York, has been chosen second vice-president of the Republican Club.

Woodward.—Mr. Woodward, of Woodward & Lothrop, Washington, D. C., sailed for Europe on the Augusta Victoria January 27. He was accompanied by his family.

ORIENTAL RECEPTION ROOM.

In the Oriental reception room shown on the opposite page the most striking feature is the corner formed by the large bay window on one side and the fireplace on another, both framed in with Moorish arches. The decoration, in embossed plaster, of these arches is copied from that of the Alhambra. The raised parts of the ornament are in dull gold, coming out on a sunken ground of bright red or blue, toned simply by being thrown into shadow by the parts in relief. The color scheme of red, blue and dull gold thus set rules throughout. The window is of Egyptian lattice work, but that may be replaced by lights formed of opalescent rondels, leaded in a similar pattern. The hanging lamps are of repoussé brass, with ruby glass inserted; the cushions, covered mostly with silk and jute rugs, are of dull reds, blues and yellows, and the same colors predominate in the floor coverings.

The short pillars and their bases are turned, and the ornament on them carved separately and applied. The ornamental plaster work will be furnished to design by any large firm of architectural plasterers, or similar patterns may be had in lincrusta-walton. The plain surfaces of the wall may be painted a dark Turkey red, and the ceiling a robin's-egg blue.

The Atkin Furniture Company, Knoxville, Tenn., is succeeded by Hall & Hawkins.

The Art Furniture and Decorating Company, New Orleans, has gone into liquidation.

W. F. Kepner succeeds L. L. Snider & Co., dealers in furniture, upholstering materials, &c., Osceola, Neb.

Peletier & Taylor have opened an upholstering establishment in the old Butterfield store at Port Henry, N. Y.

Lawrence, Wilde & Co., furniture dealers and upholsterers, 42 Cornhill, Boston, have changed their firm name to Hull, Stickney & Co.

The Callender, McAuslan & Troup Company, of Providence, R. I., will open a furniture department March 1, with a floor surface of 16,000 feet. L. G. Miller, formerly with Arnold, Miller & Co., will be in charge.

The lease, good will, stock and fixtures of the store of the late Seaton Perry, Washington, D. C., are offered for sale by his executors. Bids will be received until February 15 next. Mr. Perry committed suicide on the 14th ult., as noted elsewhere in this issue.

Manufacturers or wholesalers who print patterns on textile fabrics should consult Thomson Stone, the engraver, whose shop is on 177th street, near Boston Road, New York. Mr. Stone turns out superior blocks or rollers for hand or machine printing, and can give satisfaction on plush, corduroy or any kind of upholstery printing.

TREATMENT FOR A TRIPLE WINDOW.

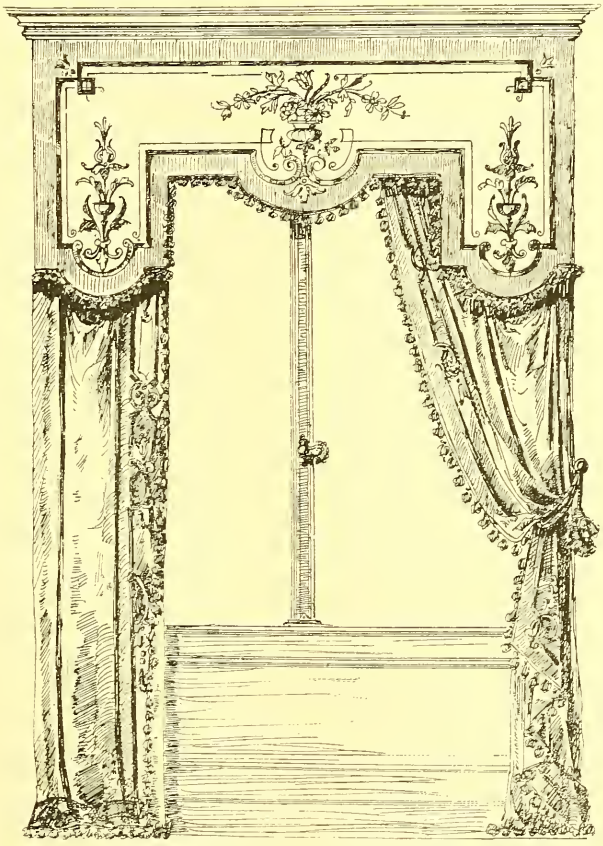
REDRAWN FROM A PENCIL SKETCH BY HARRY L. HICKEY, WITH THE STEWART DRY GOODS COMPANY, LOUISVILLE, KY.

Lace curtains with over-draperies of emerald green velour. Cord and fringe to match.

MAKING ARTIFICIAL SILK.

In a mill established at Wolston, England, for the manufacture of artificial silk, the raw material from which it is made is ordinary cotton waste. A correspondent of the London Warehouseman and Draper in describing the process of manufacture says:

The cotton waste is received into a room, the temperature of which is 100°, to undergo the preparatory process. It is then forwarded into another room, where it is put in small quantities into earthenware pots with a mixture of sulphuric and nitric acids. The noxious fumes arising from this operation are extracted by means of powerful fans into underground flues and discharged into the open air, so that no injury is sustained by the operatives. The cotton having been thoroughly saturated with the acids the surplus liquid is squeezed out by hydraulic presses. The material is then put into galvanized baskets and carried on an aerial tramway—to obviate the necessity of its being handled—and tipped into washing tubs, where it is subjected to a continuous stream of pure water. Further washing follows until the chemist in charge is satisfied that sufficient acid has been removed to render the material fit for subsequent processes. The stuff is then nearly dried in a hydro-extractor, and carried on a miniature tramway to another room, where it is placed in long, hollow cylinders, into which ether and alcohol are poured. It is then subjected to a rotary motion, the result of which is that the cotton is entirely dissolved. The product—a kind of pulpy substance—is known as "collodion." The rotary mixers in which this latter process has been performed, and which are mounted upon wheels, are taken into the collodion preparation room. The mixers are rotated for a period varying from twelve to twenty-four hours, and the pulp is afterward passed into hydraulic compressors, which force it through a series of filters until it becomes a perfectly pure liquid. The collodion is next received into large wrought iron reservoirs, in which it is stored preparatory to being spun into filaments. The spinning process which follows is perhaps the most interesting of all, requiring the most delicate and exact manipulation. From the reservoirs just referred to the liquid is forced by hydraulic pressure into tubes of about 3 inches in diameter. These tubes are furnished with a series of taps, to the end of each of which is fixed a glass tube having an exceedingly minute orifice. Through this series of minute orifices the liquid is forced in the form of spray, which immediately on coming into contact with the air loses its liquid character, and after rising about an inch from the end of the glass tube through which it is squirted, it becomes a solid viscid substance in the form of a filament, so slender as to be finer even than the thread of a real silkworm. These collodion filaments as they rise are wound upon bobbins in the ordinary way—in some instances as many as twelve "ends" being wound simultaneously upon one bobbin—according to the thickness of thread required. The collodion after leaving the filters is so pure that scarcely the least irregularity can be detected, and filaments are known sometimes to run for a whole day without breaking. The thread in imitation of silk having been thus produced, the next process is to twist the filaments, which at first are merely laid together on the bobbins. The artificial silk is then made up into skeins and washed, to remove from it all traces of acid, which, if allowed to remain, would eventually destroy its texture. It is dried at a temperature of 100°, and again washed in specially prepared baths. After being finally dried it is perfectly hard, strong and durable, and can be dyed and treated as ordinary silk ready to be woven into fabrics. It is found that artificial silk will take dye more readily and with happier results than does real silk, and it possesses a fine gloss, which is its chief characteristic. It is estimated that when the works are completed and in full swing they will be capable of producing 6,000 pounds of artificial silk per week.



WINDOW DECORATION IN THE RENAISSANCE STYLE.

The Chicago Decorative Leather Company, 257 Franklin street, Chicago, has certified to an increase in its capital stock from $6,000 to $30,000.

WALL PAPER NOTES.

..Leiter & Webster Brothers, Toledo, Ohio, have dissolved partnership.

..The Westerly (R. I.) Furniture Company has opened a wall paper department.

..Bradshaw & Thomas, dealers in wall paper, picture frames, &c., Fairfield, Ia., are succeeded by J. D. McDowell & Co.

..Between 80 and 100 feet of the roof and sheeting of the west wing of the York (Pa.) Wall Paper Company's plant were torn off during a severe wind storm on January 23.

.."Don't you love these long, peaceful winter evenings?"

"Peaceful? My wife begins right after the holidays to talk about what rooms to have papered in the spring." —Ex.

..Schickler & Miller, dealers in wall paper, &c., Aurora, Ill., have dissolved partnership, and the business is continued by F. W. Schickler. Mr. Miller retires to follow the music profession, being a member of several orchestras.

..P. H. Fitzgerald, dealer in wall paper, paints, &c., 222 Franklyn street, Los Angeles, Cal., lighted a match in the paint storeroom on January 1 presumably to celebrate the birth of the new year. He escaped injury, but the stock was damaged to the extent of $1,100.

..The L. B. Fairbanks stock of books and wall paper, at Springfield, Mo., was attached on January 7 by A. C. McClure, of Chicago, for $1,500, and J. W. Fairbanks for $1,200. These were followed by the filing of a chattel mortgage to secure the Central National and Exchange banks of Springfield on notes for $2,000. The assets are $10,000; liabilities, $8,000.

..Harry Wearne, a member of the firm of J. Zuber & Co., said to be the oldest wall paper firm in the world, was in Chicago recently. Their factory is at Rixheim, Alsace, Germany, and last summer the one hundredth anniversary of the occupation of one factory was celebrated. The factory building was formerly occupied by a commandery of the Teutonic Order of the Knights of Jerusalem, and was confiscated during the French Revolution. It was purchased in 1797 by the Zuber Company. During the reign of Napoleon I. the firm took a silver medal at the Paris Exposition.

..A correspondent of the Consular Journal and Greater Britain writes from Canton regarding export business in wall papers to China: "In wall and other papers, more business might be done than in almost any other. The Chinese do not paper their walls much, though they are doing so more than formerly, but they are delighted to get hold of bright, crisp and cheap wall papers for decorative purposes, among which may be named the making of flowers, the clothing of dolls, the covering of boxes, partitions, and lastly, ceilings. Very gaudy papers to sell at about 2d. apiece should command a tremendous market, as also should the colored 'tissues'—used for covering flower pots, &c.—which are not known in China."

MONUMENTAL CITY MEMS.

Baltimore, January 26.

Seaton Perry, proprietor of the extensive dry goods and upholstery establishment on Pennsylvania avenue and Ninth street, Washington, D. C., committed suicide the 14th inst. by shooting himself through the head. The act is attributed to mental trouble resulting from insomnia. A widow survives him.

Louis A. Dieter, window shades and paper hangings, was registered in New York the 21st inst.

Charles G. Hutzler, of Hutzler Brothers, dry goods and upholstery, was a visitor to Gotham the 24th inst.

W. H. Reyoum, superintendent of the Southern Chair Company, High Point, N. C., interviewed the Baltimore trade the 14th inst.

Milton H. Mettee, window shades and paper hangings, has been drawn as a grand juror for the January term of the Criminal Court.

J. J. Ringgold, the well-known North Charles street dry goods and upholstery merchant, and Miss Rose Elise Gallagher were married at the cathedral the 19th inst.

The Lorch Dry Goods Company, dry goods and upholstery, Greenville, Tex., has been incorporated by J. D. Crawford, B. Hirsch and Robert Weil, with a capital stock of $40,000.

William M. Holmes and R. M. Murdock, of Detroit, Mich., are in Baltimore for the purpose of interesting local capital in establishing a plant here for the manufacture of a mattress bed spring.

The Clayton Dry Goods Company, dry goods and upholstery, Cleburne, Tex., has been incorporated by H. J. Goldberg, T. J. Clayton, R. B. Patton and others. The capital stock is $20,000.

Louis Gordon instituted a suit against his partner, Isaac Brown, in the Circuit Court the 13th inst., for the appointment of a receiver for the furniture and upholstery business carried on by them at No. 255 South Eden street under the firm name of Brown & Gordon. Judge Sharp appointed M. S. Weil and James P. Delaney receivers, the 20th inst., the bond being fixed at $1,600.

Col. John C. Holland died at his residence, No. 21 South Stricker street, the 16th inst., in the seventy-seventh year of his age. He was born in this city and in 1836 was apprenticed to Walter Crook to learn the upholstery and paper hanging business. In 1843, with John G. Wilmot, he formed a partnership, which was dissolved a year later, when he continued business alone until 1848, when he entered into a partnership with his brother, William Holland. In 1854 he retired from business on account of impaired health. Five children survive him.

R. L. E.

The advantage to be derived by the progressive buyer in handling the upholstery fabrics made by the Philadelphia Tapestry Mills for the coming season should receive careful consideration. Their up-to-date fabrics, with the small prices attached, should satisfy the most critical.

Facts About Hartshorn Shade Rollers.

The product of our factories includes Shade Rollers of every description, made of wood and tin, suitable for all classes of work, and many famous Hartshorn accessories.

The cost of these Rollers is slightly higher than any others on the market.

The quality of these Rollers is so high as to be far beyond the reach of real competition.

The reputation of these Rollers is of such strength as to insure success to any merchant in the window shade line who sells them exclusively.

The demand for them is universal, and so heavy as to keep our great factories running constantly.

These are some of the reasons that our Rollers are found to-day in whatever part of the world a window shade is hung.

A JUDICIOUS INVESTMENT.

The Best Economy in your Carpet Room

can only be secured by using the most perfect appliances, of the simplest design and the best construction.

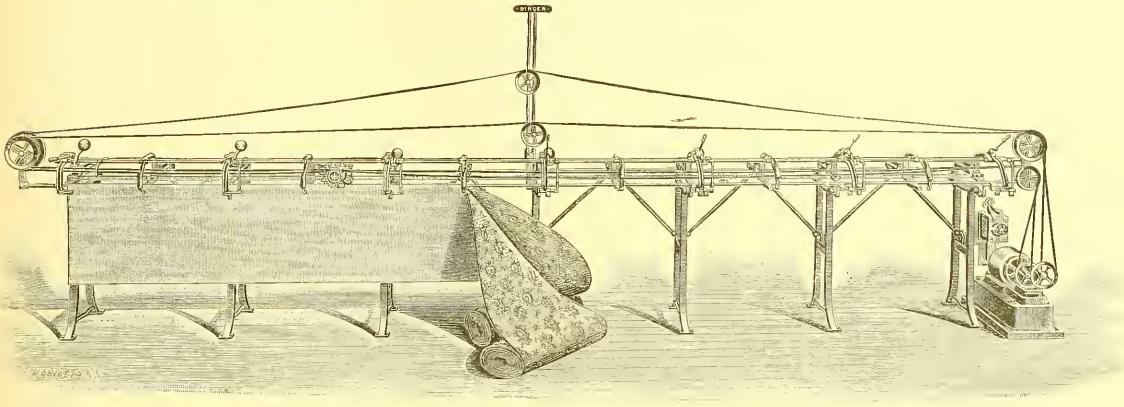
Experience Has Proven the Fact that the SINGER AUTOMATIC POWER CARPET SEWER will save its cost in one year to any carpet dealer having enough business to require a hand machine. THE SINGER AUTOMATIC is now in use by dealers who saved its cost during the first six months of its operation.

A TRIUMPH OF MECHANICAL EFFICIENCY, SURPASSING ALL OTHER DEVICES FOR ITS PURPOSE.



Truly automatic, requires less labor and sews 40 per cent. more carpet than any other machine on the market.
Requires least floor space, and uses any form of power.
Makes perfect stitch and seam, sewing any kind of carpet.

Automatic Matching and Clamping Device.

This device is absolutely unique, and secures perfect stretching and matching, without necessity for expert labor. It is simpler, swifter and in every way more effective than any other way of handling a carpet. The sewing machine works automatically on its track, following the operator from section to section as fast as each is matched and clamped, the action of the clamping levers automatically governing the movement of the sewing machine, thus saving a great deal of time. . . . . .

This is not a Hand Machine Crudely Adapted to Power Operation.

Our Hand Machine is well known, and is still on the market, fully guaranteed to be the best and most practical in use.

• • • •

OUR INVITATION. Carpet merchants are invited to call at either our Philadelphia or New York office and prove to their satisfaction that we are offering the best Velvet Carpeting produced in this country,

LABOR AND MATERIAL. We have employed experts only. We are using the best materials that can be bought, principally worsted wool, spun in the fleece, producing a long lasting, hard wearing fabric.

SMALL ORDERS PREFERRED. We want small sample orders, feeling sure we will retain the business of firms who try our goods.

ONE STORE ONLY. We shall confine our goods to one first-class house in each town. The advantages of this policy are apparent to every live merchant.

PRICE. We offer Keystone High-pile 3-shoot Velvets at the price of ordinary 2-shoot goods.

PHILADELPHIA TAPESTRY MILLS,

PHILADELPHIA, February 1, 1898.

To Buyers of Upholstery Fabrics:

The word "best" has been so thoroughly misused and abused that many people look askant at it. It often means nothing or worse than nothing. Our fabrics are made from the best materials that we can put in, and our designs are made by a corps of artistic artists.

For the Spring of 1898 we are offering the greatest variety of Upholstery Fabrics ever yet shown in this market. To alert and progressive buyers from all points of the compass prosperity's line will appeal successfully.

Fabrics that are correctly designed, intelligently made, and sold at reasonable prices are those which attract. There's an individuality running through our line that will command the regard of careful buyers everywhere.

Our new productions prove us to be, as we have been, in the manufacture of popular priced Upholstery Goods.

LEADERS

Makers of high and medium grades of Table Covers, Curtains,
Couch Covers and Piece Goods.

MODERN UPHOLSTERIES.

It is evident that buyers are becoming more convinced every season that it does not pay to purchase foreign made Upholstery and Drapery Fabrics when they can buy American made goods of equal quality and superior styles at considerably less money. That our productions for the will substantiate the correctness of this assertion we leave to the judgment of the Trade and invite the most careful comparison between them and imported fabrics.

One eminent and popular house that has tried all makes announces them to be

"The Best Window Hollands Made."

Another equally large Importer of great experience states:

"The goods have always been and are now fast colors."

Another firm in the very front rank of the business describes them as

"Unequalled in quality, unshrinkable and of finest dyes."

While another firm of Importers, probably one of the largest shade goods houses in the world, characterizes them in these terms,

"JOHN KING & SON'S Famous Scotch Hollands."

JOHN KING & SON'S

ESTABLISHED IN THE YEAR 1775

Celebrated

Scotch Window HOLLANDS

ILLUSTRATING the high consideration these popular goods hold in the estimation of the most experienced importers of shade goods in the country, the attention of the trade is invited to the above opinions, published in the columns of this and other journals, over the signatures of the respective firms.

Enterprising but unscrupulous parties unable to reach the exalted standard of these celebrated goods, pay them the flattery of imitating the wrappings. It is the Goods, not the wrappings, the trade is after. See that Bands, Tickets and Tabs of every piece are marked

The Tile Carpet

Carpets are soft and restful to the feet, non-slippery, noiseless; they are also germ collectors, disease breeders, poor wearers. Mosaic or any hard tile is sufficiently sanitary and durable, but slippery, noisy, foot tiring, easily separated, easily cracked. If we could add to carpet the good qualities of tile—make it waterproof, disease-proof, wear-proof—we would have a flooring practically perfect. That's just what Interlocking Rubber Tile is—A Perfect Floor. So easy to to lay, too—goes right down over any old floor. Manufactured and sold exclusively by us. Call or write

AXMINSTER, WILTON AND BRUSSELS

CARPETS.

The Carpets made by this Company have received the highest award wherever exhibited, including Gold Medals at the Paris Exposition, 1878, and at the Centennial, 1876.

Their deserved reputation for excellence of fabric, richness and durability of color, novelty and beauty of design, has led to frequent infringements, and inferior goods have often been palmed off in their stead. For the protection of the public the Company has adopted as a trade mark the word "BIGELOW," which will be woven (at every repeat of the pattern) in white capitals into the back of the fabric. Customers will therefore have merely to examine the back of a carpet to be certain that they are getting the genuine Bigelow goods.

THESE GOODS CAN BE HAD FROM ALL FIRST-CLASS DEALERS.

UPHOLSTERY DEPARTMENT, PAGE 51.

☞Our readers are urged to remember that we are always desirous to receive communications of interest to the carpet or upholstery trades, such as changes in firms or managers, the building or opening of new stores, improvements in old ones, the adding of new departments, improved methods of doing business, new inventions, suggestions as to the cutting, making and laying of carpets, the designing and fitting of draperies, or inquiries and dissertations relating to the technical or commercial details of the trades to which this periodical is devoted.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK.

FIRST orders have been placed and the mills are now busy in turning out goods for delivery before March 1. The general result of the season will depend of course largely upon the extent to which goods are cut up in the spring retail trade.

But there is no doubt as regards the rug and Art Square trade, for the demand for these goods has been excellent from the opening of the season and the product of the mills is now sold far ahead.

Tapestry manufacturers have done a large business and the Ingrain trade is also in much better position than it was a year ago, with a certainty of further and material improvement when the goods sold last fall to jobbers at low prices have been distributed, a process which is now well advanced.

The general situation may be regarded as distinctly cheerful, there being little doubt that the unmistakable improvement in the general business of the country will be reflected in the retail carpet trade of the coming spring.

THE REMNANT SUPPLEMENT.

OUR annual Remnant Supplement is published to-day, and a copy of it will be sent free of charge to every subscriber for THE REVIEW, or, in other words, to the entire trade, for practically every carpet dealer in the country is on our subscription list.

As the wholesale trade are aware, the Remnant Supplement is a feature of THE REVIEW which adds immensely to its value as an advertising medium. The Supplement makes every remnant in a dealer's stock of equal value yard for yard with the whole roll. No retail dealer can afford to dispense with such an assistance to his business, and it can be obtained only by subscribing for THE REVIEW, for no copy will be furnished to anyone who is not a subscriber.

The high estimation in which THE REVIEW and its Remnant Supplement are held in the trade is too well known to need comment here, but it seems both pertinent and timely for us to take this occasion to thank our readers and advertisers for their prompt appreciation of our efforts to serve them in every way possible.

DISCOUNTING BILLS.

Suppose a retail dealer is doing a business of about $30,000 a year on a stock of $10,000. In turning his stock three times a year, as he would, he could, by discounting his bills, make a profit of 12 per cent. per annum on his investment, reckoning that the average discount he would receive for prompt payment would be but 4 per cent.

But some dealer will say that this profit could be secured only when he had the cash in hand. This is true, of course; but if his business were in sound condition he could easily borrow the money from his bank at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, which would leave him still a clear profit of 6 per cent. for the year.

BUSINESS FAILURES IN JANUARY.

The reports of business failures in January last, as given in Dun's Review, show that the number and amount for the month were remarkably small. The number is about 300 below the average of the three previous years, and 800 below January, 1894. The liabilities are 43 per cent. less than in January of last year, 52 per cent. less than in January, 1896, nearly 32 per cent. less than in 1894. Nor is the decrease confined to either general division. In manufacturing failures are about a quarter of those in 1894, and not much over a third of those last year or in 1896, even falling a little below the remarkable record of January, 1895, which has been surpassed in very few months in any part of the year. In trading the failures are more than 25 per cent. less than last year, over 40 per cent. less than in 1896, nearly 40 per cent. less than in 1895, and 60 per cent. less than in 1894.

INFLUENCE AND CIRCULATION.

The influence of The Review among retailers, as well as in the wholesale trade, is shown very clearly in the communications it is constantly receiving from dealers throughout the country, and especially those from firms announcing enlargements or removals of their stores, additions of new departments, &c. The trade has doubtless noticed that every issue of The Review contains a number of such items which almost invariably come from the firms themselves. The Review is always glad to receive and print such news, because it shows that the dealers concerned are intelligent men who have learned that nothing succeeds like success, and who appreciate the influence of The Review as well as its ability to make their enterprise and prosperity known throughout the trade.

There is in this connection a point for the wholesale trade to remember whenever the matter of advertising is to be considered, and it is that the influence of a properly conducted paper like The Review is as important as the extent of its circulation. An advertiser who desires to reach any particular trade prefers of course the medium which has the largest circulation in that trade. The Review meets this demand exactly so far as the carpet and upholstery trades are concerned, and, as the foregoing remarks have shown, it does even more than this, for it lends to the advertiser the influence acquired by many years of careful, conscientious attention to the interests of the trades it represents. This is a point which seems to be everywhere appreciated, and if there are any who are exceptions to this rule The Review advises them to study the matter a little more carefully.

YARDUM BROTHERS & CO.'S NEW SALESROOMS.

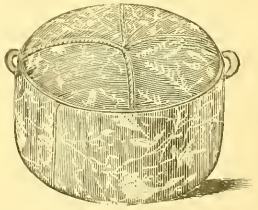
As announced in their advertisement on page 10 of this issue, Yardum Brothers & Co., the extensive importers of Oriental rugs, are now settled in their new quarters, 594 and 596 Broadway, this city, where they have two large lofts, with a front of 83 feet on Broadway, and running back 200 feet to Crosby street. With about 17,000 square feet of floor space thus at their disposal the firm have every facility which could be desired for the display of their exceptionally extensive stock. One immense loft is devoted to rugs, in which every make of the Orient is represented, and the other loft, equally large, is used for showing Japanese pottery, Damascus art wares, &c.

In these new, elegant and spacious quarters Yardum Brothers & Co. seem well warranted in securing a substantial increase in their already very extensive business. Their large assortment of rugs will be greatly increased, and buyers are advised to note the numerous special attractions they are now offering to the trade.

NEW YORK SALESROOM OF UNION CARPET LINING COMPANY.

The Union Carpet Lining Company are occupying handsome new quarters at 39 Union square, West, having removed thereto from White street on the 1st inst. The new salesroom is in the first loft at the above address, and they are showing a full line of comfortables in addition to their carpet lining productions.

The Chicago Hassock Company are making a new stool in three styles which has proven a rapid seller. The legs are made of steel wire in nickel and copper finish, and are "knocked down," thus making a compact package for shipment. A dozen of these stools can be safely ordered by any dealer, and will return a good profit. The company has also recently gotten out a new foot pillow, or new style of hassock. Besides being used as a foot rest, it can be used when a raised dining chair is required, or forms a comfortable seat on a front door step in summer weather. It is upholstered with springs, and attractively covered. Write to the Chicago Hassock Company, 47 West Van Buren street, Chicago, regarding this new foot rest and stool.



NO. 50.

Mandel Brothers, Chicago, have removed their office in this city from Franklin street to 450 Broome street.

Herbert Plimpton, selling agent for the Kirkcaldy Linoleum Company, is recovering from an attack of typhoid fever.

Geo. Fennell & Co., 68 Avenue A, will remove May 1 to the store at Seventh street and Avenue A, formerly occupied by Leo Baumann & Co.

Schedules of William Romer, dealer in carpets and furniture at 2166 Third avenue, who recently made an assignment, show liabilities amounting to $2,203; nominal assets, $2,580; actual assets, $1,654.

The Bloomingdale Brothers Employees' Mutual Aid Society gave its annual entertainment and ball at the Lexington Avenue Opera House on the night of the 10th inst., and the affair was a great social and financial success.

John Sloane, John Claflin, Nathan Straus and William Berri are among the members of the executive committee appointed to arrange for the celebration on May 4 of the passage of the Greater New York charter.

E. W. Sutton, manufacturer of carpet lining and stair pads, 53 to 57 Sedgwick street, Brooklyn, is in a position to interest every buyer of such goods. Lewis Brown, his representative on the road, has returned recently from a successful trip through the West.

Geo. Van Dyne, representing William Henderson, of Philadelphia, made a very successful Western trip recently, and is now at the Broadway Central Hotel, with a complete line of all grades of carpeting, including Columbia Brussels.

Hadden & Co. have ranked for many years among the largest importers of Chinese and Japanese mattings, and their offerings as now on view in their store 356 Broadway, this city, are of special extent and attractiveness. They show also a large assortment of Japanese rugs.

A. & M. Karagheusian are now occupying a spacious floor at 365 Broadway, corner of Franklin street, and will open up their new stock of Oriental rugs and carpets within a few days. As stated before, this new department will be in charge of Vartan H. Jinishian, who will return this week from the Oriental markets, where he has been purchasing goods. Karagheusian & Co. are a well-known and important banking house, and with their large resources will certainly become a prominent factor in the wholesale Oriental rug business.

The Iran Company, of this city, has been incorporated to deal in carpets, &c. The capital stock is $100,000, and the incorporators are H. H. & M. H. Costikyan and John C. Wall, of this city.

The first estimate of population of the consolidated city made by the Board of Health gives a total of 3,438,899. The population is divided by boroughs as follows: Manhattan, 1,911,755; Bronx, 137,075; Brooklyn, 1,197,100; Queens, 128,042; Richmond, 64,927.

A Senna silk carpet, 15x11 feet, and a Royal Kirmanshah silk carpet, 11x7.6, are shown by G. Gulbenkian & Co. The former has twelve distinct borders, and the design shows a number of animals and birds. It is valued at $5,000. The Kirmanshah has a medallion centre in ivory and turquoise blue, with a handsome border, and is priced at $2,500.

Lamson Brothers, Toledo, Ohio, are opening a new department—rugs and mattings—in connection with their upholstery department, which will be in charge of V. E. Lott. C. E. B. Lamson, of the firm, and Mr. Lott are now in town purchasing stock. They have made a tour of the Boston salesrooms and will stop at Philadelphia on the way home.

The removal of the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company to its new salesrooms, 41 Union square West, southwest corner of Seventeenth street, is announced again in the company's advertisement on a colored page of this issue. The trade are advised to call at the company's new quarters, where they will always be cordially welcomed during their stay in New York.

In the wholesale Oriental rug department of A. A. Vantine & Co., on Eighteenth street, just west of Broadway, there are now offered particular inducements for close buyers. Paul P. Filipachi, buyer for the department, spent several months in the Orient last year before the new tariff came into force, and purchased an immense quantity of goods, which were landed under the old duty. He anticipated the firm's wants for this season, and consequently Vantine & Co. own goods which could not now be replaced, except at a much higher cost. The extent of the stock is apparent to any visitor, and the assortment is highly creditable to even such an old and leading Oriental rug house as Vantine & Co. Mr. Filipachi says he can easily demonstrate to any rug buyer that the values offered by the firm are the best in the market. Especial attention is called to the very fine line of small rugs.

Harriet M. Kendall, widow of the late William B. Kendall, whose death was noted in our issue of the 1st inst., has been appointed administratrix of the estate of the decedent, which is valued at $450,000. The next of kin are Elizabeth S. Kendall, a granddaughter, and Anne Kendall Lamb, a daughter, wife of Col. A. E Lamb, of Brooklyn. Mr. Kendall left no will.

A notable feature of the sixth auction sale of wool, held at the Wool Exchange, this city, on the 9th inst., was the presence of John M. Emmott, of the wool firm of Pearson & Emmott, as the auctioneer of the occasion. Mr. Emmott will act as auctioneer of the Exchange until further notice, and he is well qualified for the position, having been connected for some years with the London wool sales.

The regular annual meeting for the election of officers and directors of the Old Dominion Steamship Company took place at the company's offices, Pier 26 North River, New York, on the 8th inst. No changes were made in the officers of the company, and the following compose the board of directors: R. C. Hoffman, E. J. Kimball, C. P. Huntington, C. P. Fischer, Wm Rowland, W. L. Gillaudeu, C. C. Stockley, John W. Causey.

The Hodges Fiber Carpet Company have a prominent display of their fibre carpets and rugs at the new salesroom of Sperry & Beale, their selling agents, 39 Union square, West. The salesroom is on the second floor, which has a glass front, and affords excellent facilities for displaying the line. Sperry & Beale are having excellent success in distributing the goods, and find a demand for their rugs and Art Squares up to the fullest production.

A cut carpet and jobbing carpet department has recently been opened by the Pittsburg Dry Goods Company, Pittsburg, Pa. The department is in charge of L. Lautenslager, who was recently manager of Kaufman Brothers' carpet and upholstery department, of Pittsburg, and was also formerly in the carpet business in Allegheny, Pa. The Pittsburg Dry Goods Company has handled upholstery goods heretofore, but this is its first season in carpets. Mr. Lautenslager was in New York last week purchasing goods for the new department.

Joseph C. Morris and John McKay, composing the firm of Morris & McKay, dealers in carpets and furniture, at Nos. 80 and 82 White street, this city, made an assignment on the 3d inst. to Malcolm C. Warner, giving a preference to the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company, the amount not being mentioned. Mr. Morris, who was formerly an employee of the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company, started in business in February, 1889, as Case, Morris & Co. Mr. Case, who had also been in the employ of E. S. Higgins & Co., died in August, 1891, and his interest was purchased by Mr. McKay, and the style was changed to Morris & McKay. For some years they did an active business, and were reputed to have an investment of $40,000, but of late the volume of business, it is said, has not been as large as formerly, and their statements to the trade showed they were making no headway.

The Cabinet Work and Parquet Flooring Company, of No. 506 East Seventieth street, made an assignment on the 8th inst. to Samuel Toch. The company was incorporated in April, 1894, with a capital stock of $2,500, and was managed by L. R. Hartung, who had started in business twenty years previously. Franz Pfreundschub is president of the company. A chattel mortgage of $400 was filed on the 8th inst. on the fixtures in favor of M. A. Creighton.

An attachment has been obtained here against L. Sternberg & Co. (corporation), dealers in carpets, furniture, clothing, &c., at Newark, N. J., with eight other stores in various New Jersey cities and two stores in Brooklyn, for $787, in favor of Henry Newman & Co., which was obtained on the ground that it is a foreign corporation. There has been a disagreement for some time between the owners of the concern—L. Sternberg, president, and David Wolf, treasurer—which is now in court at Newark. An examination of the company's affairs by expert accountants shows assets of $297,000; liabilities, $80,000; capital stock, $100,000.

George M. Farrell, an old employee of W. & J. Sloane, has mysteriously disappeared. He was last seen on Sixth avenue, near Eighteenth street, on the 2d inst. He left his home in Brooklyn on the morning of that day, and his family supposed that he had gone to business as usual. He did not return in the evening, and his wife learned on the following morning that he had not been seen in his employer's store since the 1st inst. He had been in the employ of W. & J. Sloane for a number of years as an adjuster of claims, and was regarded as very efficient and trustworthy. His habits were regular, and no one seems able to account for his disappearance.

Among the buyers in town during the past fortnight were E. B. Clark, for the Carter Dry Goods Company, Louisville; J. W. Netherly, Farmersville, Tex.; M. Scheuer, of Scheuer Brothers, Eufala, Ala.; A. H. Sanford, of the Sanford, Stone & Fisher Company, Tacoma, Wash.; R. Weil, Spokane, Wash.; C. S. Herring, of O. Herring, Sons & Co.; A. J. ....John Donlon has recently started as a manufacturer of Art Squares at Palethorp and Somerset streets.

....F. P. Burlingame, buyer for the Callender, McAuslan & Troup Company, Providence, R. I., visited the trade in Philadelphia a few days ago.

....Quite a number of carpet road men, recently returned from trips out West and down East, report a brisk trade in both localities, and have been recording satisfactory orders.

....Hon. John Wanamaker has just returned from a trip to the Florida orange groves to find himself strongly indorsed by a large number of Philadelphia merchants as a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania.

....James H. Gay, of John Gay's Sons, Incorporated, has been re-elected as a director of the Fifth and Sixth Streets Railway Company, and Thos. S. Gay, his brother, has been re-elected as a director of the Ninth National Bank.

....William Sonneborn has secured a patent for a new and important improvement in stair fasteners. The device seems to be both novel and valuable. The inventor is a brother of Harry Sonneborn, the carpet dealer, of North Second street.

....Twenty-nine Brussels looms, formerly a part of the machinery of the carpet factory at Mt. Holly, N. J., were sold recently by W. & J. Sloane to the Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Company. With this addition the company has now about 100 looms in its Brussels department.

....The Bromley Brothers Carpet Company have recently received some very large orders for their regular Ingrain carpets, and are also obliged to put new looms in position to supply the demand for their new Pro-Brussels. They report all looms running, and Art Squares "sold completely out of sight." The prospect now is that the season will be longer than at first anticipated.

....The National Association of Manufacturers has fixed Saturday, March 26, as the date for the opening of the sample warehouse which the association has established in Caracas, Venezuela. A number of manufacturers from this city, New York, Boston and Baltimore will be present at the opening. The party will sail from New York on the Red D Line steamer Venezuela March 17.

....The ninth annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish Society was held at the Bellevue on the night of the 10th inst. One hundred and sixty-five members were present, and among them the carpet trade of Philadelphia was well represented, the guests including Messrs. Robert Dornan, James Pollock, Robert Carson, J. A.

Develon and William Henderson. At the election which preceded the banquet James Pollock was chosen for first vice-president of the society for the ensuing year.

....E. B. Terry, of the wholesale rug and matting department of Arnold. Constable & Co., New York, visited the carpet trade here during the past two weeks.

....In accordance with an announcement some time ago, John Wanamaker distributed on the 5th inst. the amount of $17,492 among the 5,300 employees in his Philadelphia store. This amount represented the excess in the retail profits of the store during the month of December, 1897, over the amount in December, 1896. Some of the employees received very snug checks. The distribution was made in checks. Mr. Wanamaker personally superintended the distribution.

ANOTHER TAPESTRY MILL.

John Davenport, who formerly manufactured upholstery goods in Philadelphia, intends to begin the making of Tapestry carpets, using for the purpose the portion of his large mill at Hancock and Somerset streets which was formerly occupied by Rowland & Schmidt. Mr. Hawley, his son-in-law, will be associated with him. He expects to have a line ready for the fall trade.

GULBENKIAN & CO.'S SPRING OFFERINGS.

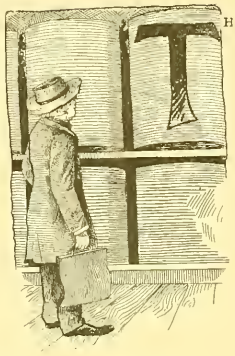
The extensive Oriental rug importers, Gullabi Gulbenkian & Co., have just opened up their spring stock of Turkish, Persian and Indian carpets and rugs, and in the quantity of goods and choiceness of patterns and quality, the assortment is certainly one that no rug buyer can afford to overlook. A particular attraction of their spring stock is the first showing of their exclusive new makes, the Aziziye and Kutahia carpets. These large sized carpets are all in private designs and effects never before produced. They are the firm's own productions and therefore cannot be seen elsewhere.

Another special feature is their line of Indian carpets. As usual with this firm, they have gone direct to the seat of production for their supplies of Indian goods, as well as of Turkish and Persian makes. Mr. Haroutune Gulbenkian has recently secured the exclusive control of looms in India which will hereafter be employed solely on productions for Gullabi Gulbenkian & Co., turning out their own designs. Last year Mr. Gulbenkian went to Persia and established an exclusive connection for Persian rugs and carpets, which products were exceptionally good sellers during the past season.

In addition to their special makes, the firm show, as usual, an immense stock of regular lines of Persian and Turkish carpets and rugs. These include all the different grades and are in small, medium and large sizes.

The Rhodes, Snook & Haverty Furniture Company, Atlanta, Ga., is closing out its stock, and the business will be wound up May 1.

BRINGING BUYERS TO NEW YORK.



The railroads comprising the Central Passenger Association have finally agreed to grant the request of the Merchants' Association for reduced fares to enable buyers to come to New York for their spring supplies. The roads forming the Central Passenger Association are as follows:

Allegheny Valley Ry.,
Balt. & Ohio R. R.,
Balt. & Ohio S. W. Ry.,
Canadian Pacific Ry.,
Central R. R. of N. J.,
Chesapeake & Ohio Ry,
Northern Central Ry.
Pennsylvania Co.,
Pennsylvania R. R.,
Phila. & Erie Ry.,
Phila., Wilmington & Balt.,
Pitts. & L. Erie Ry.,
Pitts. & Western Ry.,
P., C., C. & St. L. Ry.,
Terre Haute & Ind. Ry.,
(Vandalia Line.)
Tol., Peoria & W. Ry.,
Wabash R. R.,
West Shore R. R.
Chicago & Erie R. R.,
Chicago & Grand Trunk Ry.,
C., C., C. & St. L. Ry.,
D., L. & W. R. R.,
Detroit, G. H. & M. Ry.,
Erie R. R.,
Grand Rap. & Indiana,
Grand Trunk Ry., Canada.,
Lake Shore & M. S. Ry.,
Lehigh Valley,
Michigan Central R. R.,
N. Y. Central & H. R.,
N. Y , Chicago & St. L.,
N. Y., Ontario & W.,

Of course, many of these roads are also in the Trunk Line Association, and not all of their mileage is therefore included in the Central Passenger Association. This mileage is 48,019 miles. In round numbers the population of the States within the jurisdiction of the roads of the Central Passenger Association is 11,784,960. Thus it will be seen at a glance how very important this territory was to New York for the spring trade. Telegrams have been sent to the commissioners or chairmen of the other passenger associations, and this matter will be followed up with them all by wire and without a moment's delay.

These concessions give two periods of time within which reduced rates to New York from all points in the central traffic territory will be available. The point of time during which these reduced rates will be operative is about the same as the period of time during which smaller rates were operative last August to enable merchants to get to New York for the fall trade. At that time the association states that more than 1,000 merchants took advantage of the reduced rates in the territory of the Central Passenger Association.

The new special credit reference book of the carpet and upholstery trades, to be issued by the Carpet and Upholstery Association, is nearing completion .It will be of unquestionable value to the manufacturers and wholesalers of carpets and upholsteries, and all goods relating thereto. Terms of subscription will be furnished on application to the Carpet and Upholstery Association, 346 Broadway, New York.

Badger—Pierce.—Adna W. Badger, who is connected with B. W. Hooker & Co., furniture and carpet dealers, Barre, Vt., and Miss Laura A. Pierce were married on January 26.

Bedell.—Right Worshipful Stephen C. Bedell, D.D. of the Eighth District F. and A. M., is salesman of the Chelsea Jute Mills. The Tribune, of New York, recently printed a picture of him which showed a bald headed man of about 100 years of age. As a matter of fact, Steve was born in Brooklyn in 1858, and graduated at the Polytechnic Institute. His size would entitle him to a place on the Broadway Squad. He is a thoroughbred in every way, and his Masonic brethren can do him no honor which his business associates and friends will not accept as his right. When honors count he has four to his credit every time.

Constable.—F. A. Constable, of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., sailed for Europe recently.

Eastman.—Kirk B. Eastman, for more than twenty years with Pedrick & Closson, Lawrence, Mass., is now with the Home Furniture and Carpet Company.

Farwell—Steele.—H. B. Farwell, of the Smith & Farwell Company, St. Paul, Minn., and G. C. Steele, of the Smith, Farwell & Steele Company. Duluth, Minn., were in New York recently, and favored us with a call.

Frost.—Anybody who knows Leander L. Frost, the old Lowell manager, can easily understand that he can't keep away from the the carpet crowd. He has just moved into new offices in the Hartford Building.

Graff.—A. A. Graff, the well-known Syracuse carpet and furniture dealer, and owner of the Grand Opera House in that city, has announced his willingness to "hang up" a $35,000 purse for a finish contest between Fitzsimmons and Corbett, under the auspices of the Empire Athletic Club at Kirk Park, that city. Mr. Graff is convinced that the men can be brought together, and if he can accomplish that result he will certainly be entitled to the thanks of the public, as it will have the effect of stopping their combats in the newspapers, if only temporarily.

Greenough.—F. D. Greenough, formerly with The Goshen Sweeper Company, is now with the Sweeperette Company, and travels from their New York office, 76 Fifth avenue.

Gulbenkian.—H. Gulbenkian, of Gullabi Gulbenbian & Co., Oriental rug importers, New York, is in India in the interest of his firm, who intend to show a largely increased line of India rugs.

Higgins.—For years A. Hamilton Higgins has been known as "Puss in the Corner." When the 5:18 P. M. special pulled up at Franklin street he always struck the seat next the engine, and rode peacefully up to 125th street. Now that he is up among the silk stockings he has to take his chances at the Eighteenth street station, and hang gracefully to a strap while the Tenderloin aristocrats climb over his corns.

Law.—W. W. Law, of W. & J. Sloane, sailed for the Mediterranean on the steamer Normannia the 12th inst.

Levy.—The January number of the New Orleans Owl has a portrait and notice of Mr. Leopold Levy, of that city, who is well known in the trade as a large jobber of carpeting, linoleum, straw mattings, upholstery goods, &c. Mr. Levy was recently elected president of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of New Orleans.

McClain.—We are glad to be able to state with authority that Dan McClain's health is showing marked improvement.

Ryan.—Daniel Ryan, heretofore with Hugh McCusker, is now buyer for and manager of the carpet department at R. C. Reynolds' store, Troy, N. Y.

Searing.—L. B. Searing, manager of W. & J. Sloane's Oriental rug department, returned recently from a buying trip to the Orient.

Suydam—Carter.—Jos. Suydam, carpet and upholstery buyer for Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City, has resigned the position to enter the employ of the Robert Keith Furniture and Carpet Company, in the same city. G. J. Carter has been engaged by Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., as announced in the last number of The Review, to succeed Mr. Suydam. Mr. Carter was for about seven years past with the R. H. White Company, Boston.

Turney.—W. H. Turney, carpet buyer for E. C. Tower, Troy, N. Y., was in New York buying goods early in the month. He says that the business done by his department during December and January was unprecedented in his experience, and he is preparing for good times to come with the opening of spring.

SMYRNA RUGS AND ART SQUARES.

W. T. Smith & Son have been doing quite a land office business on their "Medallion" Art Squares, and will soon add Pro-Brussels Art Squares to their line. Since they started to manufacture Art Squares they have been putting in new looms constantly, until they now have a very large output, which enables them to fill all orders promptly.

On their Royal Axminster Smyrnas they have been more than busy, having increased their output to 125 large carpets per day, and are even now adding more large looms to keep up to the demand.

The junior member of the firm, who is now in California, reports a very large increase in business at their branch house in San Francisco, and that the prospects for an increased business this coming spring are very bright. The entire business of the firm in all departments shows a handsome increase over last season's business. Buyers going to the New York market should not fail to call at their New York office, 337 Broadway, where they have a complete line of goods on show, and local buyers will also find full lines of goods and mill prices at their different agencies.

LARGE AUCTION SALE OF CARPETS.

The entire stock of carpets saved from the fire in the big wholesale and retail establishment of J. & J. Dobson, Philadelphia, will be sold by auction in New York some time in March. This immense lot of goods comprises some 10,000 or more rolls of the different grades of carpetings, also rugs, mattings, floor oil cloths, linoleums, &c.

The Underwriters' Salvage Company, of New York, took the entire stock from the Chestnut street establishment and are sorting and preparing it for sale by auction. It will be a peremptory sale, the date of which will be announced in our issue of March 1. The large quantity of goods offered will make it worth while for buyers throughout the country to attend.

The January volume of Lyons' "Standard Reference Book" of the carpet, furniture and kindred trades, was issued promptly last month, and shows many improvements over what has been for some years a valuable assistance to the trades covered.

BOSTON BUDGET.

Boston, February 10.

Business started up in an encouraging way the first of last week, but met a sudden and emphatic check in the great snow storm that visited this section of the country, and temporarily shut off all communication by mail and wire.

Andy Neeson towered above all the snow drifts, and has been getting some good Boston orders—due, he says, to his good looks.

Frothingham, Heffernan & Co have put new carpets into Grace Church in South Boston.

Charles H. Pray, of Montclair, N. J., son of John A. Pray, of this city, is here on a visit.

Mr. Gilbert, of Gilbert, Brooks & Tebbuts, is just in from a fortnight on the road. He is fairly well satisfied with results.

George E. Hyde, in charge of the carpet making and laying department at John H. Pray, Sons & Co.'s, has gone South for an outing.

John de Andria, representing P. de Andria & Co., manufacturers of Oriental rugs, Constantinople and Smyrna, has been calling on the Boston trade this week.

The Lowell Manufacturing Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of $20 per share, payable at the treasurer's office in this city on April 1, to stockholders of record, January 31, 1898.

There is to be a picture gallery on the carpet floor at R. H. White & Co.'s store. The many other improvements introduced of late by Manager Bacon have transformed his department almost entirely, and made the display of rugs, carpet and furniture very attractive.

New England Notes.

S. L. Simpson & Co. succeed S. L. Simpson, carpet and furniture dealer, New Haven, Conn.

The carpet mill at Palmer, Mass., which had been partially shut down, resumed operations on January 24.

The Plymouth Furniture Company, Benson & Davis proprietors, succeeds W. N. Mayers & Co. at Plymouth, Mass.

William Campbell has retired from the firm of Brown, Thomson & Co., Hartford, Conn., on account of ill health, and has sailed for the West Indies.

The E W. Lynch Furniture Company, of Worcester, Mass., is making some important alterations and improvements in its place of business. It is adding upward of 10,000 feet of floor space, which will give a total of 50,000, making one of the largest and most conveniently arranged furniture warerooms in New England.

Petherbridge & Burns, dealers in carpets, furniture and housefurnishing goods, Pittsfield, Mass., have removed to Burns' Yellow Block, a few doors north of their old location, where they occupy the entire building, three stories and basement, 40 feet front, and comprising 26,000 square feet of floor space. Chairs, rattan goods, crockery, &c., are shown in the basement, and the office of the firm is on the first floor. The building has been thoroughly overhauled and is equipped with a freight elevator.

The Review has received the following circular letter:

Portland, Me., February 1, 1898.

Gentlemen—I have to announce that Mr. Moses M. Bailey has withdrawn from the firm of H. J. Bailey & Co., with which firm and its predecessors at the same stand I have been associated for twenty-six years. The business will be continued on the same general plan as heretofore under the firm name of Johnston, Bailey & Co., of which firm I shall be an active member.

Very truly yours, T. M. Johnston.

There was some talk last week to the effect that the Waterbury (Conn.) Furniture Company had made an assignment, and that John Moriarty, its president, had also made an individual assignment. It is now said that the affairs of both the company and Mr. Moriarty will be settled without recourse to an assignment, and that R. A. Lowe, who was nominated for trustee, has refused to qualify and accept the trust.

A NEW ORIENTAL RUG DEPARTMENT.

An important announcement to buyers of Oriental rugs and carpets is made by Chadurjian Brothers on page 7. This firm has formed a connection with C. A. Auffmordt & Co., a wealthy and leading importing house, and has opened a new rug department in the latter's building, 33 and 35 Greene street and 78 Grand street, New York. Chadurjian Brothers will operate this department in addition to their regular salesroom at 369 Broadway, which will be continued as heretofore. This new connection means the offering to the trade of a very largely increased stock of Oriental goods, and will place Chadurjian Brothers in a position to compete for the patronage of the largest buyers in the country. The Messrs. Chadurjian, being natives of the Orient, have unexcelled facilities for selecting and securing goods at lowest values, their importations coming through their own house in Constantinople and from their factory in Cesarea, Asia Minor. They have a considerable quantity of goods left which were imported under the old tariff and which can be procured at very low prices.

John B. Haygooni, an experienced Oriental rug merchant, has become connected with Chadurjian Brothers, and will divide his time between the Broadway and Greene street establishments of the firm.

NEW ONE-PIECE RUGS.

As has been previously announced in The Review, Barnes & Beyer, the well-known curtain manufacturers of Philadelphia, have been preparing for several months past to produce pile rugs in one piece in the leading large sizes. They have at their factory the first products of these new goods, which only require shearing and finishing to be ready for the market. They expect to show several patterns in May and to be fully prepared to take orders for the fall season.

The manufacture of these one-piece Axminster or pile rugs in this country is an important happening in the carpet trade, as it will doubtless lead to an increased use of this class of goods. With one or two exceptions, no firm in this country has previously made the large sized single face Axminster or chenille rugs, and the great bulk of the goods which have been consumed has been imported from Scotland, England and Germany. The trade should be on the lookout for the offering of Barnes & Beyer's new rugs, which event will be duly chronicled in The Review.

ARTIFICIAL FLOORINGS.

United States Consul Monaghan at Chemnitz, Germany, reports that a German named Knoch has invented two kinds of artificial flooring which have important merits. One, which is called Knoch's cork stone, is made of ground cork (cork meal, as it is called), tan-bark meal, ground up peanut shells, or any other suitable vegetable matter, mixed with paper waste, alum or other fireproof materials and molded into bricks. These are dried in kilns or in the open air. The material thus made is damp-proof, sound-proof and, to a very large extent, fireproof. The bricks so made and impregnated may char or molder and and burn away, but they will not blaze. They are as near fireproof as any such substance can be made.

The other flooring material is made by dissolving chloride of magnesium in water at 27° Beaumé. To 1 pound of salt is put 1 litre (a trifle over a quart) of cold water. The salt must be totally dissolved by the water before the solution is ready for use. As soon as the salt is thoroughly dissolved, 30 kilograms (66 pounds) of burnt powdered magnesium and 2 kilograms (4.4 pounds) of leather meal (finely ground leather waste) are mixed in a drum or tub by hand. Six kilograms (13.2 pounds) of this mixture are then mixed with 5 litres of the chloride of magnesium solution. This mixture must be thoroughly kneaded by hand or by a kneading machine until a uniform pulpy mass results. This mass may be spread over the surface, to be covered and bound in, to keep it from running, with wooden, tin, or sheet iron forms. It must be smoothed or evened off by means of a smoothing iron or utensil. The same process, practically, must be gone through when making plates of this material in molds. When a better, more isolating, linoleum-like plate or flooring is wanted, the mixture must contain 3 or more, instead of 2, kilograms of leather meal. Such a mixture gives a beautiful surface, and isolates sound, moisture, fire, &c. To still further isolate and to obtain an elastic flooring, a good plan is to put, first, a layer of the mixture, next a layer of dry cork meal or vegetable stuff, and on top of this another layer of the mixture.

It seems possible that this flooring will be used largely in Europe as a substitute for linoleum or floor oil cloth.

We are indebted to Mr. Wm. G. Hockridge, of Arnold, Constable & Co., for a recent copy of the Japanese paper called "The Weekly Box of Curios," in which we note among the announcements of arrivals of distinguished persons at Yokohama the names of George B. Swayne, matting buyer for W. & J. Sloane; Albert Graff, of A. Graff & Co., and T. D. Stinson. An alleged portrait of Mr. Graff also appears in the paper.

In the windows of a New York store appear these two signs:

WALK IN AND LOOK AROUND.

COME IN AND TALK IT OVER.

THE CLAFLIN COMPANY'S CARPET DEPARTMENT.

The business done in the carpet department of the H. B. Claflin Company during January was the largest ever recorded in the history of the house. At the present pace the department will, by the time this reaches our readers, have passed all records. We have seen the figures, and know the absolute truth of the statement. To have beaten a year like '92 in a month which is far from being in late years the banner month of the twelve should be sufficient glory, prices being considered, but the expectations of the house—and the H. B. Claflin Company is a very conservative old concern—are that it will shortly do better. As the entire dry goods trade regard the company as the great barometer of business, this news is exceptionally good news. Moreover it has within it a lesson that some of our readers may take to heart.

A few days ago 1,000 manufacturers assembled in this city to discuss ways and measures to secure manufacturing prosperity. After three days of discussion they got up a banquet, and invited the President of the United States to address them. He told them in those beautiful phrases which are so soothing and so familiar that they were being deluged with prosperity. The statement caused some of those present to ask where they were at, and why they were at it anyhow.

No manufacturer interested in the H. B. Claflin Company's carpet department was at that dinner. He had been going on making his goods during the fall. It was Lawrence Winters' business to do the rest, and Winters has not yet been obliged to call upon Mr. McKinley to tell him how to do his work.

The old established floor oil-cloth house of Alden Sampson & Sons is at the front as usual as regards artistic salable patterns and reliable quality of goods. Mr. Henry Sampson, of the firm, takes a cheerful view of the future, believing that a great improvement in all kinds of business is near at hand. Mr. Lincoln says that trade at present is as good as can be expected at this time of the year.

BALTIMORE BRIEFS.

Baltimore, February 10.

Judge Sharp, the 3d inst., ordered the discharge of W. B. Trundle and Abraham Sharp, receivers of the Grand Rapids Furniture Company, carpets and furniture. The receivers are directed first to reconvey to Henry B. Forrest the assets of the company, amounting to $5,743.83, minus 6 per cent. commission. The creditors of the company have agreed to accept Forrest's notes for their claims, to allow him to continue the business alone, his former partners having retired.

E. G. McDowell, of McDowell & Co., was a visitor to the metropolis the 1st inst.

O'Neill & Co., dry goods and upholstery, have added rugs and fancy furniture specialties to their line.

It is reported that Julius Meyer's Sons, carpets and dry goods, Richmond, Va., will open a furniture department.

L. S. Dickinson, Monterey, Va., has sold his entire stock of general merchandise and carpeting to L. A. Orndorff, of that place.

The store of J. D. Sanders, general merchandise and carpeting, Ringgold, Md., was damaged by fire the 31st ult. Loss, $1,500; insured.

John B. Loughran, Norfolk, Va., and J. W. P. Insley, of Insley & Brother, Bivalve, Md., dealers in carpets and furniture, were in this city last week.

John Woelfel, of George Woelfel & Son, carpets and furniture, South Caroline street, fell out of a second story window the 8th inst. and broke his leg

The store of William T. Leatherbury, general merchandise and carpeting, Galloway, Md., was destroyed by fire last week. Loss, $3,000; covered by insurance.

Francis Callahan has sold his interest in the carpet cleaning business of Holmes & Callahan, North Calvert street, to his son, William Callahan, who will continue the business under the old firm name.

The carpet and furniture firm of Emerich & Newberger has been dissolved. Harry Newberger will continue the business under his own name, Lewis Emerich and Harry L. Emerich retiring.

The South Baltimore Business Men's Association held a meeting the 2d inst. and adopted a resolution to co-operate with the Northwest Business Men's Association in securing legislation to regulate the operations of department stores.

E. C. Kent, of the Kent Furniture Company, carpets and furniture, Petersburg, Va., was in Baltimore the 28th ult., after which he visited Philadelphia and New York. Although Mr. Kent has only been eight months in business he has built up a large and flourishing trade.

The large carpet and dry goods firm of Rodock & Neidig, Frederick, Md., has been dissolved by mutual consent, Mr. Neidig withdrawing from the firm. George S. Rodock has associated with him in the business Peter E. Bussard, under the firm name of George S. Rodock & Co.

The East Baltimore Business Men's Association held their annual banquet at the White Hall Building the 27th ult., and elected directors for the ensuing year. Among the firms represented were Samuel Hecht, Jr., & Sons; S. C. Koehler, and B. Noah & Son and D. M. Reese, secretary of the Furniture Board of Trade.

Jacob Lowenthal, of Lowenthal & Sons, carpets and furniture, and Miss Mamie A. Reinach were married the 2d inst. A dinner and reception followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Lowenthal left for a trip North.

New Buildings.—A Presbyterian church to cost $6,000 will be erected in Baltimore; address Richard K. Cross, secretary of the Presbyterian Association. C. Larsen and Thomas H. Lewis have the contract for the erection of a $5,000 church in Brookhaven, Miss. An addition, to cost $50,000, will be made to the Hotel College Arms, De Land, Fla. A new Methodist Episcopal church will be erected in West Liberty, Md. The congregation of Homestead Methodist Episcopal Church, Homestead, Md., will build a new church edifice. The Presbyterians will build a church on the corner of Ashland avenue and Washington street, Baltimore. A Presbyterian church will be built in Blacksburg, Va.; address Prof. L. S. Randolph. The congregation of Sharp Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Baltimore, will erect a new edifice; address Rev. D. W. Hayes, pastor. A handsome stone Protestant Episcopal church will be built in Canton, Baltimore. The Standard Club, Nashville, Tenn., will erect a club house to cost $15,000. It is stated that Klaw & Erlanger will build a large and handsome theatre in New Orleans. The Methodists will erect a $10,000 church building in Greenville, Tex.; address pastor of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church. The Rome (Ga.) Opera House will be remodeled and rebuilt by J. B. Nevin. Fayette County, Ky., will build a court house to cost $150,000; address the county clerk. The First Cumberland Presbyterian congregation will build a church in Dallas, Tex.; address Rev. J. Frank Smith.

ARNOLD, CONSTABLE & CO.'S MATTINGS.

In their new advertisement on page 2 of the cover Arnold, Constable & Co. call attention to their extensive offerings in China and Japan mattings, which are ready for immediate delivery. The lines include an immense variety of patterns in Japanese staple cotton warps and novelties, and also the firm's own brands of China goods. In the attractive line of Kurdistan rugs a large number of new patterns will be found, comprising a variety of Persian, Yhordes, Ferahan, Indian and other styles. These are heavy all wool goods, which are both handsome and durable.

The councilmen and aldermen of Buffalo, N. Y., have directed the corporation counsel to prepare an ordinance providing for the licensing of department stores, and for the payment of a license fee for every department excepting the one legitimate business of the stores.

S. Telfeyan & Co., of 139 Broadway, New York, announce as their latest importations of Oriental rugs lines of fine Bokharas, Sumacs or Cashmeres, and Shirvans, which are offered at very low prices. They show also a rare assortment of antique Iran rugs, and remind the trade that their big stock of Bagdad portières is not yet exhausted. These goods were imported before the new tariff went into effect, and the prices are low in proportion, but must soon be advanced.

RUG BUYERS ON THE WAY TO INDIA.

ON THE WAY TO INDIA.

The growing demand for India rugs and carpets has resulted in the extension of the journey of some rug buyers beyond the confines of Constantinople through the Suez Canal and on to India. This a long way and one that has been taken by but few American buyers who obviously must be large wholesale handlers as the expenditure easily any would hardly pay a retail buyer. The accompanying illustration herewith is from a photograph taken on January 1 last on the base of the pyramid in Egypt. The figure on the reclining camel is Mr. Raymond Bolderman, of the firm of A. Bolderman & Co., of New York and Constantinople. Mr. Bolderman is on the way to India to start a number of looms on the manufacture of rugs and carpets entirely for his firm.

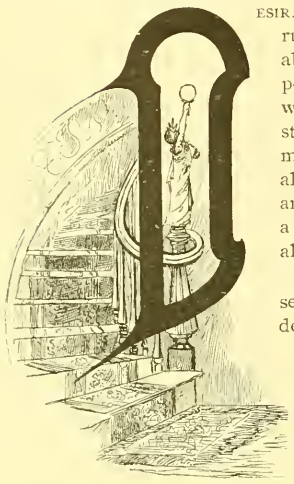
The figure on the second standing camel is Mr. Wesley E. Bates, of the rug firm of Van Deusseen & Bates, New York. Mr. Bates is on his way to the rug factories of S. J. Tellery & Co., in Amritsar, India, to direct the manufacture of rugs and carpets for that company, his firm being the sole American agents for Tellery & Co.'s rug products.

One of the young men on the standing camels is said to be a son of Cornelius Vanderbilt, who is traveling in Egypt, and the other young man is also said to be a member of a well-known New York family. It is not likely that they are going to travel any far on camels as such method of locomotion would hardly be an economical way to buy rugs & India. The pressure they have given on the steamer going through the Suez Canal to visit the Sphinx, which we believe was now be matched by a smiler one of other rapid transit mode. The camel riding as doubtless of the same order as that on which the Wise & Son on Turkey and Mr. Bates and Mr. Bolderman probably do not pursue to any further than the many camps that will dwell in the course of a Midway Pleasure Excursion.

Mr. M. Delaney of Arnold, Constable & Co. has doubtless made as thorough a tour of the rug manufacturing districts of India as any American rug buyer and has many exceptionally fine and artistic rug pieces in his stock which were made according to his instructions.

The advertising department of the Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company is just announcing to its customers its willingness to prepare for them specially designed show card mirror prints of very unusually fine artistic dealers as may wish such advertising. This plan was originally suggested really by one of the company's largest customers in the East. The further particulars will be given to Grand Rapids or New York sellers of the Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company.

MISTAKEN IDEAS IN THE RUG TRADE.



DESIRABLE as many Oriental rugs may be there is probably no branch of the carpet trade in this country in which so much misunderstanding exists. A dealer may call an Oriental rug by almost any name he chooses, and, unless the purchaser be a connoisseur, detection is almost impossible.

True, each district may send out its own individual design or weave, which no other district may copy, but there is often an overlapping, as it were, of products that is extremely puzzling, even to the experienced buyer. To illustrate: The large sized Yourdes (or Ghiordes) rugs are manufactured in a district of Smyrna, Turkey, so also is the Innely, or Demirjik, in which the pile or nap is very much the same, being only slightly heavier than the Yourdes. Gullistans and Hamidies also come from the Smyrna district, the former being frequently sold for Hamidies. Where so slight a difference exists it will be seen that mere names are often interchangeable.

It is conceded that many Oriental rugs are very old, very many representing several generations; in fact, the finest antiques are frequently of unknown age. In respect to colors time is an artist and imparts to what may at first be glaring effects a richness, a softness found in no other dyes but the Oriental, which are composed of vegetables, and are produced by fermentation. All efforts to imitate the lasting qualities of these dyes by means of chemicals have failed, but so-called modern "enterprise" has introduced these chemical dyes to such an extent that there are but few of the large sized Turkish or Persian carpets produced at the present day in which vegetable dyes are used, all claims to the contrary notwithstanding. For this reason the value of an antique Oriental rug must continually increase.

Many Persian rugs, notably the Herez, come in camel's hair colors, said to be natural, but oftener dyed. Others, very bright in color, are manipulated by unscrupulous workmen, who use certain acids to produce the desired dull effect. This method invariably rots the fibre, a fact which the unsuspecting buyer may not discover until too late.

Notwithstanding these drawbacks there is a charm, an individuality about an Oriental rug that grows with association. Much of this is due to their almost infinite variety. Although the weaver may follow a pattern, the possession of his family for generations, he allows such play to the fancy in working out the design, he is such a wizard in the blending of colors, through a lifetime of study, that the result is scarcely two rugs are alike. Except in the machine made article, it is doubtful if any two rugs are ever found that are precisely alike in every respect. Herein is another advantage of the genuine hand-made Oriental production over the modern machine woven textile.

OLD DEALER.

ST. LOUIS SIFTINGS.

St. Louis, February 8.

The unsold portion of the stock of the "Fair Shoe and Clothing Company," including a lot of carpets, matting and upholsteries was sold by auction on the 5th inst. by S. A. Rider, trustee for the creditors.

The J. Kennard & Sons Carpet Company have converted their entire second floor into a rug department, which they say is the largest and most elegant of the kind in the United States. It is certainly immense and imposing.

At the annual election of the Business Men's League, held two weeks ago, Mr. S. M. Kennard declined a re-election as president, owing to pressing private engagements. His retirement was deeply regretted by the members, who expressed their sentiments in a highly complimentary resolution.

On January 24 Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Trorlicht gave one of the largest balls that ever occurred in St. Louis. It took place at the rooms of the Union Club and the occasion was the introduction of their daughters, the Misses Trorlicht to the fashionable world. Several hundred guests participated and the floral decorations and other arrangements were magnificent. The receiving party included Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Trorlicht, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Trorlicht, Miss Trorlicht and Miss Lilian Trorlicht. Among the guests were Capt. Henri Duncker, Mr. Charles Duncker and Mr. Louis Renard, of the Trorlicht, Duncker & Renard Carpet Company and many other distinguished citizens and their families.

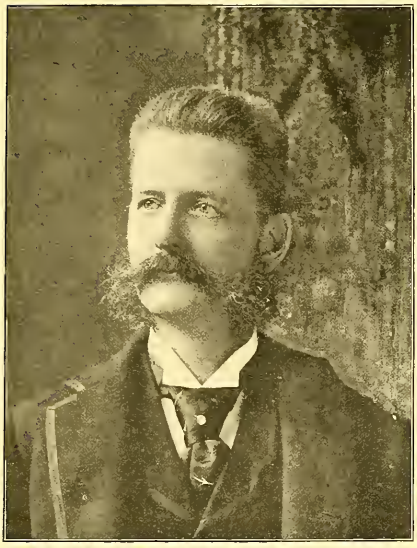
The Governor of Missouri and the Mayor of St. Louis are bestirring themselves in order to secure a full representation of the merchants and manufacturers of the State at the Omaha Exposition. For that purpose it is proposed to raise a fund of $50,000 and the following (among other) committees have been selected to canvass the mercantile community of this city: On carpets, Messrs. J. B. Kennard, Louis Renard and I. H. Tiemeyer; on dry goods (wholesale), Messrs. Elias Michael, E. C. Lewis, Morris Glaser and G. H. Augustine; on dry goods (retail), Messrs. D. C. Nugent, Geo. M. Wright, J. F. Crawford, C. A. Stix and C. E. Barney; on furniture, Messrs. Geo. T. Parker, M. Lammert and James A. Reardon; on mattresses, H. N. Davis and J. H. Kentner. All appointees have entered upon the work with enthusiasm and a successful exhibit from St. Louis is already assured.

B. W. B.

THE Smith Axminster seamless carpets shown in the rug department of W. & J. Sloane have made a very favorable impression on the trade.

ANY up-to-date Ingrain manufacturing firm that wishes to connect itself with a jobbing house having a large trade throughout the country, is advised to note the advertisement signed "O. P. Q." under the heading of Special Notices in this issue. This is a rare opportunity for a firm able to make first-class goods in salable styles.

Obituary.



Albert Ammerman.

Albert Ammerman, who died on the 3d inst., was a large factor in the building up of one of Brooklyn's most successful and important enterprises in the furniture, carpet and drapery trade. He was secretary and general manager and a large stockholder in the Cowperthwait Company. The name of Cowperthwait dates back to Revolutionary times, but the growth of the Cowperthwait Company of Brooklyn has been largely due to the energy and good management of Mr. Ammerman. When the present concern was formed in 1881 he was the moving spirit.

Mr. Ammerman was born in Englishtown, Monmouth County, N. J., sixty years ago, and began his mercantile life at the age of eleven as a boy in a country store in New Brunswick, where he remained until of age, when he took a position with A. T. Stewart & Co. Two years later he became secretary and general manager of the South Brooklyn Saw Mill and Lumber Company. Here he remained till 1878, when he was elected Auditor of the City of Brooklyn. Two years later he determined to return to commercial life, and the result was the establishment of the Cowperthwait Company. Under his management the concern has won a distinguished success.

These facts in themselves are sufficient to characterize Mr. Ammerman's business abilities. Socially he was a tactful gentleman, who will be missed by many who never had trade dealings with him. He was a member of the Oxford Club, Long Island Council, R. A., and belonged to several Masonic orders, as well as the Scottish Rite and the Mystic Shrine. He was also a valued member of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian congregation. He leaves a widow and four daughters, three of whom are married.

The funeral services were held at Mr. Ammerman's late residence, 150 South Elliott place, Brooklyn, at 11 A. M on the 5th inst., Rev. Dr. Gregg officiating. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Cowperthwait, J. Howard Cowperthwait and many employees of the Cowperthwait Company, as well as Wm. Berri, of Wm. Berri's Sons; John Cornell, of W. & J. Sloane; R. B. Halley, of the Lowell Company; John Kirby, of the H. B. Claflin Company; A. Watson, of Abraham & Straus, and E. W. Jacobson, of The Review.

Richard Scorer, of the firm of Scorer & Hepler, carpet and furniture dealers, Homestead, Pa., died on January 20 of typhoid fever. The firm has been in business about three years and has been very successful.

The mercantile agencies announce the deaths of George H. Clark, Laurel, Del.; I. E. Gilbert, of I. E. Gilbert & Co., Modesto, Cal., Joseph Gelino, of Joseph Gelino & Sons, Kankakee, Ill.; T. E. Hargrave, of T. E. Hargrave & Son, Mount Pleasant, Iowa; William Prophett, of Wm. Prophett & Son, Bridgewater, Mass.; S. M. See, of S. M. See & Sons, Charlevoix, Mich.; Robert Simpson, president of the Robert Simpson Company, Limited, Toronto.

Charles Schofield, a retired manufacturer, died on January 31 of pneumonia at his residence, Roxborough, Pa. Mr. Schofield was born in England in 1820, and came to this country more than forty years ago, and located on Mill Creek road, at a place known as Toddtown, Montgomery County, Pa., where he began manufacturing carpet yarns. He subsequently removed to Roxborough, and carried on the same business at Manayunk until about twenty years ago, when he retired. He is survived by two children.

AMERICAN LINOLEUM MANUFACTURING COMPANY

Joseph Wild Co., sole agents for the American Linoleum Manufacturing Company show an exceptionally, extensive and well varied line of patterns in printed linoleum, comprising five grades and a number of entirely new effects in colorings. The company's new line of inlaid linoleum has attracted particular attention as representing the finest results attainable in such goods as regards quality of fabric and beauty of designs and colorings. Every buyer should see this line.

McCLEARY, WALLIN & CROUSE'S SMYRNAS.

The line of Smyrna rugs and carpets made by McCleary, Wallin & Crouse has found quick and wide appreciation in the trade. The line includes three grades, which are made in all sizes, from rugs to carpets, and comprise an exceptionally extensive range of new and artistic patterns. Every rug buyer should see these goods, which are shown by W. & J. Sloane, the sole agents.

The building at 118 to 126 Merrimac street, Boston, occupied by G. W. Bent & Co., manufacturers of mattresses, bedding, church cushions, &c., was destroyed by fire on the morning of February 5. The contents, valued at $30,000, are a total loss, and the damage to the building itself brings the aggregate up to $75,000. Insurance on building, $35,000; on stock, &c., $19,650. Six firemen were killed.

THE NEWS ON THE PACIFIC SLOPE.

San Francisco, February 6.

Wholesale and retail furniture dealers say that business is very quiet now, but it is the general opinion that with the advent of spring a trade awakening will result. The Klondike excitement is on in full sway and the San Francisco outfitting houses are doing a land office business. All lines of trade will be benefited directly or indirectly.

Hulse, Bradford & Co. report the best carpet business in years.

W. C. Holywell, a furniture dealer at Riverside, Cal., has sold out to Chas. D. Gandy.

Representative Kennedy, of the Gould-Mersereau Company, was a recent visitor here.

Gen. E. P. Johnson, proprietor of the Los Angeles (Cal.) Furniture Company, is on a trip East.

W. F. Cordes, proprietor of the Emporium Carpet Department, has added to his large stock an excellent selection of very fine goods.

Burns & Daniels, furniture dealers, of McMinville, Ore., have dissolved partnership, Mr. Daniels having sold his interest to his partner, Mr. Burns, who will continue as sole owner.

Work on the buildings of a large manufacturing company at Guaymas, Mexico, is being rapidly pushed. A furniture factory is one of the industries to be carried on in the buildings.

Mr. Zechs has resigned from the Indianapolis Furniture Company, San Francisco, and gone to the Pattosien Company, and Emil Arps has left the latter firm and accepted a position with the former.

Albert C. Jones, secretary of the Los Angeles (Cal.) Furniture Company, has been selected to fill the vacancy in the Park Commission of Los Angeles, caused by the resignation of R. J. Waters.

Mr. Field, representing W. T. Smith & Son, at San Francisco, has returned from Los Angeles and Southern California, where he enjoyed considerable success, especially in their new line of Axminster rugs.

P. J. Keeler, representing Dunlap & Son, Swire & Scott, the Hodges Fiber Carpet Company and others, was recently in this city and did a good business. W. L. Burgess, representing the Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Company, was also here recently and received his quota of trade, and Mr. Groom, of H. L. Judd & Co., was in town a few days ago.

Charles E. Fredericks, of Joseph Fredericks & Co., has returned from a four week Eastern purchasing trip, and W. A. Ristenpart, of the furniture department of W. & J. Sloane & Co., has returned from the East, having been gone but three weeks from San Francisco. He says that he never can get back to California fast enough to suit him.

Golden Gate.

APPRECIATES THE REMNANT SUPPLEMENT.

Washington, D. C., February 9, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

I hope our remnant list was not to late for publication, for there never was such an enclycopædia or universal benefit to the retailer as the Remnant Supplement of The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review. It puts all retailers everywhere in perfect touch with one another, and no well regulated carpet department can afford to be without it.

The Julius Lansburgh Furniture and Carpet Co.
D. A. Childs.

Latest advices from Canton state that the straw matting market is strong. No fresh settlements are reported, as only April-May delivery can be obtained, and dealers not wishing to run any risk are quoting high prices. An all around increase in prices is maintained, and a further rise may be expected. Contracts remain at 220,000 rolls.

CARPET WOOL MARKET.

The market remains unchanged. The latest quotations are as follows:

In their last trade circular, H. W. Hammand & Co., the Liverpool wool brokers, say:

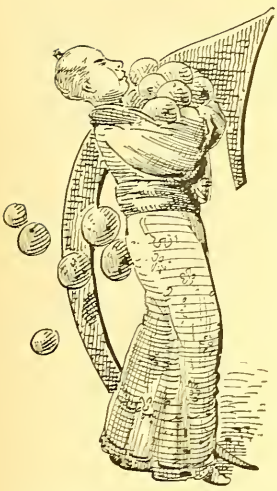
The public auctions of East India wool, in progress at the date of our last issue, closed with a quiet tone on the 21st inst. The total quantity offered was 27,517 bales, of which 8,500 bales are now held over the account importers. The heavy withdrawals were again mainly due to high limits. The result of the series is disappointing, values showing a decline on almost all descriptions. The attendance throughout the week was rather under the average, and competition dragged except in the case of good Yellows, supported by a strong export demand, which maintained previous sales' rates. Joria Whites, owing to limited supply, also showed little or no change, but Vickaniers sold irregularly at about ¼d. per pound decline. Kandahar ruled weak, entailing heavy withdrawals, a few lots of clean long wool realized previous rates, but the large proportion of dingy and dirty parcels were subject to a decline of ¼d. to ½d. per pound, and the same applies to Yellows under 6d. per pound usually in request for the United States. Medium whites, such as Jessel-mere, Marwar and short Bicanere were again weaker by ¼d., due to the quiet state of the blanket trade, and gray wools were also easier to buy, while ginned showed no quotable change. The most disappointing feature was the limited American demand, purchases amounting to only 2,300 bales against 4,900 bales in November; on the other hand 2,800 bales were bought for France, compared with 1,700 bales in the previous series.

On the same subject Hughes & Isherwood, wool brokers, Liverpool, say:

The result of this series has come as an unpleasant surprise to everyone. That the home trade has suffered severely from the engineers' strike and fears of other labor difficulties, seems to be indisputable; and, of course, deprived of the usual United States demand, 27,500 bales was a supply much in excess of buyers' requirements. In these circumstances it is significant that while Bombay consignments—which are properly cleaned—suffered only slightly in value and were nearly all sold, Karachi shipments met a much worse experience. Not only was the fall in their case heavier, but a very large proportion of them had to be taken in. For the poor reception they met with two causes are mainly responsible, viz., their general unattractiveness and in many cases dirty condition, and the mistaken policy which many shippers follow of continuing to put limits on them. American mills, which for some time past have been their chief buyers, have discovered at last how unsatisfactory their outturn is and—in the present state of the carpet industry there at any rate—want no more of them. No feature in this series was more marked than the good reception accorded to clean, carefully sorted shipments and the neglect shown to badly got up wool, especially when it was hampered with limits or was old, held over stock.

Under Special Notices will be found an opportunity for an active man to buy out an established carpet and furniture business in Brooklyn.

JAPANESE RUGS AND CARPETS.



Consul Brenan, in a report to the British Government on the industries of Japan, says: "Carpet and rug manufacture employs a large number of hands, chiefly children. In Japan the carpet is a modern luxury. The trade has now grown to large proportions, and affords one instance of the Japanese being able to beat those from whom they learned. In 1890 27,593 carpets, valued at 51,048 yen, were exported; in 1896 the exports were 661,732 carpets, valued at 1,152,177 yen. Carpet making affords a striking example of the successful competition of cheap labor with machinery. At Sakai there is no large factory; the hand looms are distributed all over the town, and the carpet dealers supply the material and pay the workers by the piece. In each house there may be three or four looms, ranging from 3 feet to 24 feet wide. To each loom there are from two to four children, with a grown-up person superintending the work. With incredible speed the children, some of them as young as seven, pass the yarn in and out of the warp, and snip off the right length with a pair of spring clippers. They are all kneeling at their work on a plank laid at the foot of the loom, and they slide backward and forward along their allotted share of the design. As their little fingers pass the yarn in and out of the cotton threads these small children sing a sort of nursery rhyme, which helps them to remember the pattern, and at intervals the woman in charge leads off a new verse, which the children at once take up, and simultaneously effect the change suggested by the new music and words. They work, or at least are at their work, for twelve hours a day, and their wages come to about 1d. a day, but the amount, whatever it is, does not trouble them, for it is not theirs to spend. Japanese child life throughout the land seems happy, but I make an exception in the case of these little carpet weavers, who pass all their waking hours amid such unattractive surroundings. The workshop is a dismal, sunless spot, and from daylight to dark these busy little workers have nothing more cheerful to gaze upon than the ever-recurring design they are laboriously developing."

"Woolen carpets are also being manufactured, but in price they seem far to exceed similar carpets made in North China, without a corresponding improvement in quality. Small silk carpets are also being made, but the demand for these is limited. For a silk carpet of any given dimension ninety times the labor is required that is needed in the case of a hempen carpet. Three hands will make an ordinary hemp or wool rug, 3 feet by 6 feet, in one day, and it would take the same workers three months to make the silk carpet. The number of carpet weaving establishments in this district is nearly 2,000, producing 3,000,000 square yards of carpet in the year, and employing 5,000 male and 13,000 female workers."

THE CRAWSHAW CARPET COMPANY.

The Crawshaw Carpet Company, Newburgh, N. Y., has been incorporated with a capital of $75,000, as was announced in The Review of February 1. The Newburgh News says that the capital stock is all taken and paid up. In addition to Ingrain carpets the new company is to manufacture Smyrna rugs. The mills are located on Broadway at West Newburgh, and carpet manufacture has for some years been conducted there under the firm name of George Crawshaw's Sons. The late George Crawshaw began in 1872 to weave rag carpet in a building on Broadway, opposite the car stables. Next he moved to No. 90 Broadway, where he opened a carpet store and ran a couple of looms in a rear room. In 1880 Mr. Crawshaw took his sons Samuel and Mark into partnership. About 1881 they began to manufacture Ingrain carpets. George Crawshaw retired with a competency in 1886, and died May 25, 1895. Since then the business has been carried on by his sons Samuel and Mark.

The main buildings are two in number, built of brick, one having dimensions of 100x50 feet and two stories high, and the other 132x112 feet and one story high.

The shares of stock in the company are owned as follows, the par value of each share being $100: Mark Crawshaw, 320; Samuel Crawshaw, 320; Jos. A. Sneed, 15; A. Denniston, 10; A. Y. Weller, 10; Fred Baker, 10; Charles T. Goodrich, 8; C. L. Waring, 5; B. B. Odell, Jr., 5; E. C. Barnes, 5; J. A. P. Ramsdell, 5; Benjamin J. Macdonald, 5; Charles H. Halstead, 5; C. E. Moscow, 5; J. R. McCullough, 5; E. W. Hugg, 5; Walter Dumville, 5; Stevenson H. Walsh (Philadelphia), 5; R. Ennis, 2; total, 750. The directors for the first year are Mark Crawshaw, Samuel Crawshaw, Charles T. Goodrich, Cornelius L. Waring, Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., J. A. Sneed and Edward C. Barnes, all of Newburgh

A Fourteenth street, New York, auctioneer advertises his store as a "regular knock-down shop for bidding people."

The line of Kurdistan carpets now shown by Arnold, Constable & Co. deserves the special attention of buyers. They are heavy all wool goods, in a large variety of sizes, and the designs and colorings are both new and handsome. Another attractive specialty in Mr. Hockridge's rug department is the new line of Iran rugs in three sizes.

A New York Assemblyman has introduced a bill which provides that all tight board fences fronting any lot shall be removed by August 1, and that no such fences shall be erected hereafter. Wooden fences must be of pickets, or otherwise open, and must not be used for advertising purposes. All advertising fences or signs must stand back at least 20 feet on the lot. The penalty is $200 fine or thirty days' imprisonment, or both.

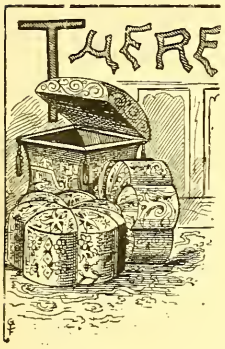
LEGISLATING AGAINST CONVICT MADE GOODS.



are pending in Congress three bills intended to limit or suppress the sale of prison made goods. One bill, presented by Representative Gibson, of Tennessee, provides that all goods made in whole or in part in any State or Territory by convicts shall before transportation into any other State or Territory be labeled, branded or stamped in legible and permanent manner, "Made by Convicts at ——." The bill further provides that all vehicles and boats upon which convict-made goods are transported from one State to another shall be labeled in letters easily read at a distance of 100 feet, "Work of Convicts at ——."

All convict-made goods when transported from one State into another are to become subject to the laws of the State into which they are thus taken, and all merchandise transported in violation of the act is to be forfeited to the United States. Persons violating the act are to be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by fine.

Another bill, presented by Representative Southwick, of New York, provides that every person who knowingly transports or causes to be delivered for transportation for commercial purposes from any State or Territory in which they are in whole or in part manufactured, any goods, wares or merchandise in whole or in part the product of convict labor into any other State or Territory shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less $250 or more than $500, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

The third bill, framed by Representative Littauer, of New York, provides for a license for the sale of convict made goods and for labeling and marking the same. It prohibits persons or corporations from selling convict made goods without a license. Such license is to be procured from the Secretary of the Treasury upon payment of an annual fee of $500 and must be kept conspicuously posted in the place of business where such goods are sold. In addition it is provided that all goods made by convict labor shall be plainly stamped with the words "Convict Made," followed by the year when and the name of the penitentiary or other establishment in which the article was made. The labels are required to be printed in plain English of the style and size known as great primer Roman condensed capitals. Brands are required to be used where the nature of the article will permit and only where branding is impossible shall a label be used.

Violations of these provisions are to be punished by fines for each offense not to exceed $100, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, in addition to the forfeiture of the license.

The directors of the Victor Rug Company, Fort Hunter, N. Y., have been re-elected.

FOREIGN FACTS.

Exports of carpeting and rugs from the consular district of Bradford, England, to the United States for the twelve months ending December 31, 1897, amounted in value to $110,438.12.

John Crossley & Sons are one of the two English firms that have secured the right to use the Crompton Axminster looms in Great Britain, and they have paid the inventors and manufacturers of the looms a handsome compliment in calling the new fabric made on them Crompton Axminster.

New English Carpet Weaves.

The Kidderminster Shuttle says: "Carpet manufacturers are doing all they can, not only to hold markets, but to open new ones, by catering for the increasingly varied tastes of the people. Quite recently we have seen several specimens of new fabrics made on the Jacquard and Axminster looms, and while some of the carpet has already got an introduction on the market, and meets with much favor, the developments have not reached such a stage that we can describe them in detail. In one direction the endeavor is to produce a carpet similar to the Axminster on the Brussels principle; while in another direction a carpet is being woven on the Jacquard loom, giving the coloring effects such as have been only obtained in the Royal Axminster carpet. Our local manufacturers are determined to be in the vanguard with regard to improvements in the carpet trade."

ORIENTALS FROM LORD & TAYLOR.

A very large and desirable stock of Oriental rugs and carpets is offered to trade buyers by Lord & Taylor, New York. For some years this firm have been extensive importers and handlers of Orientals, and at no time have they held a bigger or better stock to select from than at present. It will pay to write them about the goods, or buyers are invited to visit the store and thoroughly examine the lines in carpet, medium and small sizes.

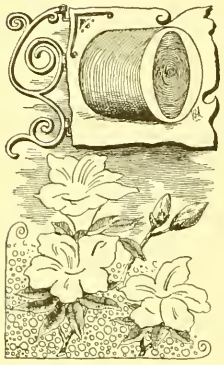
Geo. Wehn, of Geo. Wehn & Son, the Pittsburg carpet commission merchants, was a visitor to New York the 15th inst.

James R. Thompson, formerly at the head of the carpet department of Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, is now manager of Kaufman Brothers' carpet department, Pittsburg.

William Carroll, head of the firm of William Carroll & Son, carpet and furniture dealers, Rhinebeck, N. Y., died on the 2d inst., in his seventy-seventh year.

John J. Hollywood, buyer of carpets, rugs and Oriental goods for Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, has been in New York for the past two weeks and will remain for some days longer. His stay is somewhat protracted, due to the fact that, in addition to his regular purchases, he is buying for an Oriental department, which the house is starting on an extensive scale, giving it a space of 40x175 feet on the fourth floor at the north end. The carpet, Oriental and furniture departments will then occupy the entire floor. They are enlarging their workroom and have put in a Singer electric sewer and serger.

SOME REMINISCENCES OF THE LATE WILLIAM B. KENDALL.



Only a few days ago there were gathered in a downtown clubhouse several merchants, whose names are household words in the dry goods trade. Between the walnuts and the wine the conversation drifted to the late William B. Kendall.

"I wonder how it is," said one gentleman, whose iron-gray hair told of years of service in the trade, "that men of the press, whenever they are called upon to say a clever thing about one of us who has laid down the harness, always tells the story of our achievements in later years They invariably forget that we were all boys once. As a matter of fact, I recall with much more pleasure the day when I was a member of a Yale crew and came swinging up Lake Quinsigamond at Worcester three lengths ahead of Harvard than the day ten years later, when I closed the big deal in prints which made me a partner in the house of which that decrepit old fellow across the table and I are now the owners."

"Those" he went on, "who only knew Mr. Kendall in his later years can hardly have any idea of the man as he was before the broader and more weighty burdens and responsibilities of life had been laid upon his shoulders. They will perhaps merely recall a handsome gentleman, well groomed, faultlessly appareled, dignified—nay courtly—in bearing, reserved at times in speech, but always unable to conceal the bright twinkle of the eye, which told of large stores of fun and sarcasm behind, needing only occasion or provocation to break loose, and abounding in a tact which was absolutely ready and armed against the most unpleasant and untoward circumstance. There are few of his old associates who remember or who can without some strain of memory recall the days when he won a prize for a long cast of a trout fly, his beating several of the old Long Island crowd of gunners at double birds, the skill with which he could play a salmon or his unerring accuracy with a rifle. Still less can most of them recall the athletic times when he was a member of the Excelsior Baseball Club, of Brooklyn. One of his fellows in the organization was our old friend, F. M. Welles, of Lawrence, Taylor & Co., the Worth street commission house, and secretary of the Merchants' Club. Mr. Welles has not forgotten how in their salad days Kendall used to shout with a voice strident as a fog horn from his position at second base, 'Welles, you duffer, will you get that ball to third?' And Welles would add with a reminiscent smile, 'In those days it was out on the first bound.'"

"I remember very well," said George Wheelright, "when Kendall was in the Excelsior Club. I was then a member of the junior club known as the Stars. The Excelsiors played at the corner of President street and Third avenue, and later at a place called Smedley's Park, at the foot of Court street, Brooklyn. Our club was then a social as well as a baseball club, but the Excelsior was solely a baseball organization. We played against Kendall's team and beat them, and Kendall and his friends drafted our best players into their organization. Soon after the professional game began, and though at that time there was an opportunity to make large money in the venture, I doubt if W. B. Kendall ever held a share of stock in the half dozen companies which in succeeding years made so much money out of the baseball business."

"An instance," said an old carpet man, "of Kendall's persistence in adherence to any man or any method which once gained his approval can be found in the columns of your own paper. The advertisement of the Bigelow Company, which now appears in The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review, has never been changed. It was written in 1883 by T. A. Kennett, of your staff, for a special issue of a Western trade paper. Its form struck Kendall at once, and he immediately ordered it to be reproduced in your own paper and in all other trade journals with which he had contracts. He spent thousands of dollars in exploiting it in Harper's, the Century, Scribner's and other magazines. Hundreds of times he insisted that that succinct statement of the Bigelow Company's claims did more to win popular recognition for the goods than all other causes combined. I was in Kendall's office when the advertisement first appeared. The late John F. Orne, of Philadelphia, was attempting in his genial way to comb down Kendall's evident self-satisfaction, and declared that 'has' should be 'have.'

"Kennett was sent for. Young Kendall, then a mere lad, was standing by his father.

"'Tom, Mr. Orne, says so and so.'

"'Mr. Orne,' was the reply, "can sell a four frame carpet for a full five frame better than any other man in America, but Mr. Orne's knowledge of the relation between nouns and verbs is probably not as accurate as mine You paid me $70 for seven lines of good English. You got your money's worth. It is full five frame English.'

"'Now, William,' said Kendall to his son, 'you see Yale always wins.'"

"Of course, a man who like Wm. B. Kendall, completely filled his stage, leaves no understudy, but it was part both of his character and training to have no man with him who was not in his special department eminently competent and absolutely trustworthy. As a result he leaves a corps of men under whose guidance the big machine will move as smoothly and with as little friction as it has moved during the past quarter of a century. In Fairbanks, Holden, Starr, Plimpton and their associates, Mr. Kendall had a staff, each member of which was able at a moment's notice to assume the position of a division commander."

"But," said one of the veterans, "there are several things you fellows do not know about carpet history. I'll tell you some of them. During the war Kendall, then agent of the Bigelow Company, which was not in those days a great account, was also selling agent for an Ingrain manufacturing firm in Philadelphia called Larned & Starr. At that time Leander L. Frost, one of the most vigorous and aggressive men the carpet trade has ever seen, was manager for A. & A. Lawrence, the predecessors of Smith, Hogg & Gardner, the agents of the Lowell Company. 'Governor' Davis had just about that time succeeded Mr. Duffy as manager of H. B. Claflin & Co.'s carpet department. My good mother and yours always looked for a hollow stick in the centre of a roll of Ingrain. If she found it she knew it was Lowell make. It was no advantage to the carpet; in fact, it was a detriment to the goods, because they 'telescoped,' as it was said in those days.

"But your good mother used when she bought a carpet to put her finger in the stick and was certain that she was getting Lowell goods. Larned & Starr used a hollow stick to wind their goods upon. Then Frost arose in his wrath. He first found an old grape leaf pattern in Davis' stock which Larned & Starr had copied. With magnificent audacity they had not even recut the cards, but where the Lowell leaf was green with a black outline they had simply reversed the harness and made the leaf black with a green outline. The design was made by E. J. Nye, and L. & S.'s carpet was the best of the two and Davis was peddling it out right and left. Frost stamped on it at once and served notice on H. B. Claflin & Co. to sell no more of the goods. The very next number of The Carpet Trade Review contained an advertisement notifying the trade that the Lowell Company would prosecute any person selling carpets wound on a hollow stick. At the same time they showed outline drawings of the Lowell stick.

"One of the most curious features of the advertisement was Frost's statement that, while the Lowell Company claimed the hollow stick as a trade mark, it was an injury to the goods. Be this as it may, the Supreme Court sustained the claim of the Lowell Company. Larned & Starr went to smash, but Davis, foreseeing what was going to happen, went to Philadelphia and bought everything Larned & Starr had in sight. I think he even got an order on Fred Horchkiss, of Hoyt, Sprague & Co., for some goods they held. Before the Lowell Company's judgment was filed 'Jim' Seymour had sold every piece of the stuff, and Frost with an $8,000 claim got nothing.

"Mind you, I am talking of things that happened twenty-five or more years ago, and things that did not then particularly concern me, but I remember very well that just before the war Kendall, who was then handling Larned & Starr's goods at 51 Chambers street, over Hastings & Plimpton, was very desirous of having James C. Seymour go into business with him. Seymour was then with the famous old house of W. & J. Sloane—in fact, I remember that Seymour stood up with John Sloane when the latter was married. Seymour was later for many years with H. B. Claflin & Co., and is now with Tefft, Weller & Co. He is a man of large means, and knows the carpet business from A to Izzard. Just before the war broke out—in fact, the year that Claflin, Mellen & Co. broke, because they could not collect their Southern accounts—Kendall, who had then accumulated something like $30,000, wanted Seymour to join him and extend the business. The firing on Fort Sumter aroused all the conservatism in Kendall's nature—and he had lots of it in him—and he decided to stay as he was. The enormous advance in the price of all manufactured goods during the next ten years laid the foundation for the substantial fortune of which Mr. Kendall was the possessor."

CHICAGO CARPET NOTES.

Chicago, February 12.

There have been many buyers from the far West in Chicago recently. Among them were Mr. Stull, of Stull & Sonniksen, San José, Cal.; Mr. Sheeley, of the D. J. Hennessy Mercantile Company, Butte, Mon.; Mr. Freed, of the Freed Furniture and Carpet Company, Salt Lake City, Utah; M. Friedman, of M. Friedman & Co., San Francisco; M. Frederick, of Frederick, Nelson & Monroe, Seattle; Mr. Schoenfeldt, of the Standard Furniture Company, Seattle; Mr. Lander, of the Lander Furniture and Carpet Company, Butte, Mon., and Henry and William Dinwoodey, of the Dinwoodey Furniture and Carpet Company, Salt Lake City, Utah.

M. Cooper, of W. & J. Sloane & Co., San Francisco, spent a few days in Chicago recently on his way East.

Manager Toles, of A. M. Rothschild & Co.'s carpet department, has recently enlarged his floor space to accommodate a larger stock of rugs, mattings and linoleum.

Captain Albert Phillips, for thirty years an employee of the J. T. Farwell Company, died last Tuesday at his home, 1210 Wentworth avenue. He was in charge of the shipping department.

W. A. Wiebolt, whose large retail store, The Lion, at 937 to 945 Milwaukee avenue, was burned last November, is replacing the structure with a modern four story brick building, 96x215, at a cost of $50,000. He expects to devote considerable floor space to carpets.

Rumor has it that Mandel Brothers are again figuring on extending their building to include the corner building next south of them at Madison and State streets. James Wilde, Jr., & Co., the clothiers, who occupy the building, recently transferred the lease. Marshall Field owns the property. Who now owns the lease is not known. Mandel Brothers deny that they are interested in the lease.

Manager John Hollywood, of Siegel, Cooper & Co.'s carpet department, is about to make an important addition to his stock. He is now in the East making provision for an Oriental rug department, which he will open to the public in a few days. He will add largely to the space which he now occupies, in order to make room for his new departure. This will give his department a floor space of 130x120 feet, making it one of the largest in the city.

Simonet Brothers, furniture dealers, Stillwater, Minn., have added a carpet and drapery department. Ludwig Simonet was in Chicago recently buying goods for the department.

R. H. H.

The new and elegant Hotel La Crosse, La Crosse, Wis., is to be furnished throughout with carpets, draperies, &c., by the E. R. Barron Company, of that city.

Hickman Brothers, grocers and dealers in tinware, crockery, &c., Muncie, Ind., are opening departments for the sale of carpets, curtains and furniture in charge of Nat A. Ring.

The new carpet mill at Gaffney, S. C., which was referred to in our issue of the 1st inst., has obtained its charter, which provides for a capital stock of $60,000, with the power to increase it to $500,000. It is said that J. A. Carroll and some other Northern carpet men are interested in the enterprise.

Remnants.

OWING to the temporary retirement of David K. McCarthy from the firm of D. McCarthy & Sons, Syracuse, N. Y., the concern has been incorporated, the official title being D. McCarthy & Co. The capital stock is $500,000 and the directors are Dennis McCarthy, Percy McC. Emory, Thomas Emory, Percy F. Emory and Dennis McC. Emory.

The I. B. Banks Dry Goods Company, Weston, Ohio, is closing out its business.

J. A. Kennedy, Palmyra, Mo., will add carpets and curtains to her stock.

D. E. Shepard, Cortland, N. Y., will move into a new and large store next March.

Cash Henderson, Wichita, Kan., will move into new quarters next March.

T. J. Phillips & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Krebs, Ind. Ter., have sold out.

Robert De Vane, carpet and furniture dealer, Biloxi, Miss., is succeeded by Louis E. Gill.

Rosenbaum & Mendel, carpet and furniture dealers, Memphis, Tenn., are succeeded by I. Mendel.

The store of Simpson & Watkins, dealers in carpets, furniture, &c., at Duryea, Pa., was burned out recently.

Asman & Beard, dry goods and carpet dealers, Port Huron, Mich., are succeeded by the Asman & Beard Company.

Parish & Hickson, Muncie, Ind., are closing out their stock of dry goods and carpets, and will dissolve partnership.

O. H. Hunter & Son, dry goods and carpet dealers, Warren, Pa., were burned out recently, sustaining a loss of $14,000.

Geo. B. Adams & Co. have bought out J. W. Tompkins, Middletown, N. Y. Adams & Co. are proprietors of stores at Albany, Olean, Newburgh and Middletown.

J. W. Rooks succeeds J. W. Rooks & Co., dry goods and carpet dealers, Harrisburg, Ark., and William Walton's Nephews succeed William Walton in the same business at Freeport, Ill.

The stock of W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co., Raleigh, N. C., has been bought by Theo. W. Dobbin and Jos. F. Ferrall, who were formerly connected with the Tucker store, Mr. Dobbin having been a member of the old firm, and Mr. Ferrall one of its employees. Mr. Dobbin is coming North soon on a buying trip.

Wegner Brothers, carpet and furniture dealers, Grand Rapids, Mich., now at 4 and 6 Pearl street, are to remove to the remodeled Caulfield Block, at 85 and 87 Canal street. But very little remains of the old structure, all the partitions having been removed, new floors and a new front put in and another story added. New elevators have been ordered and many minor improvements made. It is expected that the contractors will have completed their work, and that Wegner Brothers will be doing business in their new store by April 1.

W. M. Carlisle, Missouri Valley, Ia., will add carpets and furniture to his stock of hardware.

Report has it that Hobgood & Cartwright, carpet and furniture dealers, San Marcos, Tex., are disposing of their stock at cost.

Peter E. Bussard has purchased the interest of Mr. Neidig in the firm of Rodock & Neidig, dry goods and carpet dealers, Frederick, Md., and the firm name has been changed to Rodock & Co.

Julius Meyer's Sons, Richmond, Va., opened their new store in that city on the 14th inst. This is one of the largest department stores in the South, about 400 people being employed in it.

H. B. Hoxie, acting for the mortgagees, took possession of the carpet and furniture business of S. V. R. Slade, Waterloo, Ia., on January 17. Liabilities, $10,000; estimated assets, $4,000 It is said that every resource of the law will be taken advantage of by Eastern creditors to have the many mortgages which affect only local creditors set aside.

Heath & Drake, the well-known dry goods and carpet dealers, of Newark, N. J., are said to be contemplating the sale of their stock and business. The firm is one of the oldest in Newark, having been established in 1841. Mr. Heath died about ten years ago, and his surviving partner, E. C. Drake, continued the business until 1893, when the heirs and executors of Mr. Heath formed a stock company with a capital stock of $210,000. Mrs. Haines, one of Mr. Heath's daughters, died last spring, and it is said that, according to the terms of his will, when one of his daughters died the estate was to be divided among the heirs. It is reported that a new company may be organized to buy out the business.

The Girard Furniture Company is one of the representative houses of Girard, Kan., and was established in 1869. The present management, at the head of which are Messrs. Wm. M. McDonald and I. L. Warner, whose portraits are presented herewith, have been prominent factors in the upbuilding of Girard and Crawford County. They assumed management of the establishment about three years ago, and since have built up an enviable trade. Their stock consists of a complete line of carpets, furniture, housefurnishings and undertaking goods, such as is carried in first-class metropolitan stores. The firm meets with a cordial support from the local and farming public, and has catered to the trade in a most satisfactory manner. Mr. McDonald is an ex-district clerk, and served in that capacity for a number of years in a faithful and capable manner. They are domiciled in a handsome three-story brick structure, which is the property of the firm.

On January 18 fire broke out in the carpet and furniture store of J. W. Teeple, at the corner of Broughton and Montgomery streets, Savannah, Ga. The building was set on fire by four little boys, who have since acknowledged setting fire to several other buildings in the city. The roof was practically burned off the top of the adjoining building, and a large hole burned into the top of Mr. Teeple's place. His stock was damaged some by fire, but the building was flooded, and the top floor at one time stood several inches in water. Mr. Teeple carried $12,000 insurance. P. H. Snook, of the Rhodes, Snook & Haverty Furniture Company, of Atlanta, was sent to Savannah by the insurance companies to act as appraiser for the insurance people. W. E. Wimpy was selected by Mr. Teeple. They appraised the stock and agreed without calling in the umpire on $7,000 damages for Mr. Teeple. It is considered that with this payment and the stock returned to Mr. Teeple he is now practically as well off as ever.

Co-operation That Co-operates.—The annual banquet given by Luckey, Platt & Co., of Poughkeepsie, to their employees came off on the 9th inst After the tables were cleared Mr. Platt made a brief but pointed speech. He said the business had been better than in 1896, and there was therefore a larger share of money to divide among those present, and he trusted that the year upon which they were entering would show an increase of business, as it would still add to the dividend to be paid. The firm were well satisfied with the system inaugurated last year, and trusted it would be continued through the years to come. Of the checks issued last year fully a third came back through the savings bank, showing that the money was invested and not squandered. He trusted more would come that way this year. Three of the employees had purchased houses; others were looking, and others were piling up shares in the Building and Loan Association against the day when they also would need homes. He fully believed the profits of the concern were due to the intelligent and faithful co-operation of the employees, and he trusted that the same co-operation would be continued in the future.

MATTING IMPORTERS PROTEST.

Importers of matting and other Chinese and Japanese goods are complaining of the tendency of some steamship lines to discharge their cargoes at Brooklyn piers instead of the piers on Manhattan Island. The steamer Strathallan was unloaded at Brooklyn some weeks ago, and several importers whose goods were aboard have brought suit to recover the cartage charges from Brooklyn to New York. Irwin, McBride, Catherwood & Co., agents for steamers in the Chinese and Japanese trade, have recently received a protest in regard to this matter, as follows:

Dear Sirs—We, the undersigned shippers and importers of merchandise from China, Japan, &c., arriving by steamers via Suez Canal, hereby protest against the discharge of these steamers in Brooklyn or elsewhere than the customary places of discharge on the East River, in the city of New York, and urge you to use your influence to that end.

Among the signers were: Joseph Wild & Co., A. A. Vantine & Co., E. T. Mason & Co., R. H. Macy & Co., Flood & Co., Delacamp & Co., John & James Dobson, Sheppard Knapp & Co., the H. B. Claflin Company, Lin, Fong & Co., Hadden & Co., Sperry & Beale, Fritz & La Rue, John Wanamaker, Jordan, Marsh & Co., John H. Pray, Sons & Co.

An old established carpet and drapery store in a large Pennsylvania city is offered for sale in this issue. The reasons for the sale by the present proprietor will be found to be satisfactory.

Hirst & Roger, Philadelphia, advanced the price of their Tapestry and Velvet carpets 2½ cents per yard on January 15, and their new price list will be found in this issue of The Review. The firm's looms at their new plant, Allegheny and Kensington avenues, Philadelphia, are fully engaged on spring orders.

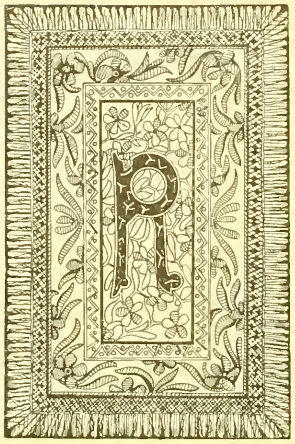
At a meeting of the creditors of Morris & McKay held on the 5th inst. the firm offered to compromise at 50 per cent. in five payments of 10 per cent. each, to be made in two, four, seven, ten and twelve months from February 1. The firm owes about $16,000. The E. S. Higgins Carpet Company is a preferred creditor, but offers to waive its preference if all the other creditors will agree to the compromise offered by Morris & McKay.

A woman who owned an old-fashioned couch whose stiff, straight back resisted all efforts of imparting a luxurious air to the article, called into service an upholsterer who had the happy thought of removing the back. This done the rest was easy. Over it he threw a couch cover long enough to reach to the floor, spiking it in place with fancy head tacks, and with some pillows piled upon it the heretofore hopeless piece became a genuine delight.

A well-known decorator says: "If there is lacking in your best room the nameless distinction which you have sought in vain, in rugs of price, in faintly toned and glimmering draperies, in billowy chairs and pillowy divans, put a set of low bookshelves there. On the upper one leave space for a bit of handsome china, a statuette, or candlestick. Arrange your books below, and when the bookshelves are filled, your room is no longer bare; it is well furnished."

Referring to his firm's importations from India, Mr. Henry Smail, of Darragh & Smail, says that it is now very difficult to charter sailing vessels to bring a cargo from India to New York. Very few sailing vessels are being built, while steamships are constantly increasing in number and are closely competing with the old fleet of sailers. For many years his firm has brought its products of coir fibre, yarns and Calcutta matting from India to this country in sailing vessels, but Mr. Smail says that he will soon have to resort to the use of steamers. The latter now ply directly between India and New York, whereas heretofore almost all steamers went first to England, necessitating transshipping the goods to America.

MENDING ORIENTAL RUGS.



Rug mending is an art. It is carried on almost exclusively by Armenians in this country. A skilled rug mender can put a piece in a valuable rug of intricate design and mixed colors, so skillfully that only an expert can detect where it is. On the other hand, an unskillful mender might ruin a fine rug in trying to mend it.

As old rugs are esteemed for their soft colors, they are naturally much mended, but the patches seldom show, so well are they blended into the body of the rug.

Not only do the rug menders put in pieces in the rugs that come to them when occasion requires, but they put on fresh fringes and borders, or take off old borders and make smooth the edges, as may be required.

Rug mending is such slow work that it is not a paying task, for a mender is sometimes at work a week on a single spot as big as a silver dollar. He is nothing if not conscientious, and he bends over his work as if his thoughts were woven in with the threads.

When the rug leaves the hands of the mender and goes back to the drawing room or library in the owner's house, it is fresh and beautiful, and no matter what its age, it looks as well, if not better, than the day it was bought from the merchant in the far East.

As in most trades, there is deception in rug mending that the public knows nothing about. For instance, there is the auction sale mender, whose business it is to make a rug look as well as possible with the shortest outlay of time.

He works as fast as he can with the threads that he is obliged to weave in to fill up gaps, but he is not particular about the colors. These he "fixes" after the mending is done, by means of paint. It may sound strange to hear of painted rugs, but it is none the less a fact that many of the rugs offered as perfect pieces by auction are painted, and with water colors at that.

A skillful workman can make all the colors needed in a patched rug with the aid of water colors. They are not permanent, but that makes no difference to the man selling the rug They will last until there is water put on them, and that will not be for some time after the rug leaves the shop.

Martin Brothers succeed T. J. Ong & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Varna, Ill.; M. D. Berg succeeds W. & M. D. Berg, in the same business at Sabina, Kan., and C. F. Ireland succeeds Lathrop & Ireland, in dry goods and carpets, at Appleton, Minn.

A VARIED PRODUCTION OF FLOOR COVERINGS.

The trade should bear in mind that the Hartford Carpet Company produces more different kinds of floor coverings than any of the other large manufacturing concerns. It makes Wiltons, Brussels, Axminsters, Three-Plys, Extra Supers, Ingrain Art Squares, chenille rugs, Saxony carpets and Saxony hall runners. The company is doing an increased business in its Saxony carpets, which closely resemble the imported Oriental goods, and are especially desirable in wearing quality. The Saxony carpets are woven in 27 inch breadths, and sewed together without mitres. The weight and make of the fabric prevent curling of the edges. A booklet showing several patterns of these Saxony carpets in colors will be forwarded by Reune Martin & Sons on application.

Besides Saxony carpets the Hartford Company makes chenille rugs in one piece. These are exceptionally heavy pile and fill the place of a high class single piece rug.

The new salesrooms of Reune Martin & Sons in the Hartford Building provide means of showing the Hartford Company's extensive lines to much greater advantage than in the old quarters on Worth street. The Messrs. Martin particularly invite all visitors to call upon them, and will afford them every comfort and convenience for inspecting these exceptionally attractive lines.

W. W. Fish, the Elmira, N. Y., dry goods dealer, bought the Hyland & Brown stock at the mortgagee's sale.

Fred G. Clark succeeds L. Welker & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Corvallis, Ore., and Campbell & Stevens succeed W. O. Cook in the same business at Independence, same State.

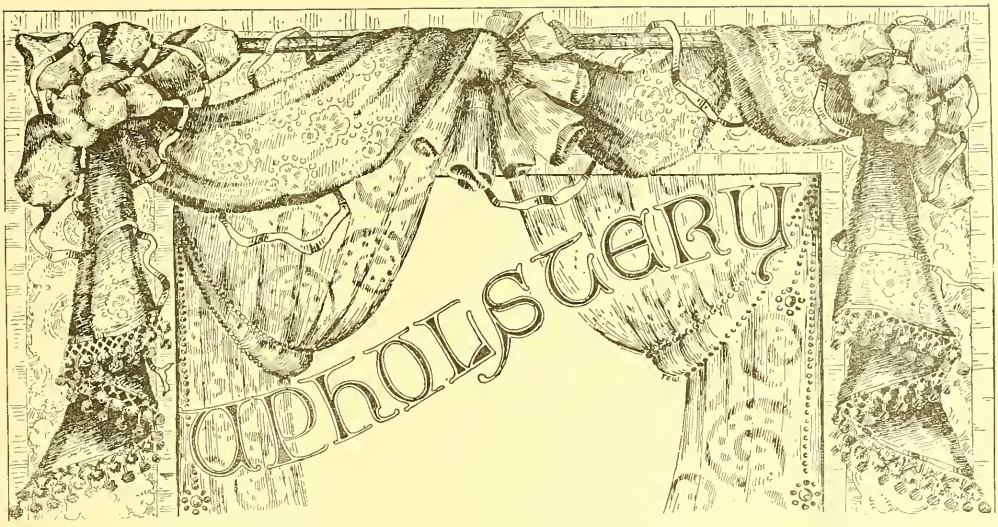
William H. McNary has purchased an interest in the carpet and furniture establishment of Hileman Brothers, Canonsburg, Pa., and the firm will hereafter be known as Hileman & McNary.

Sands Brothers, dealers in dry goods and carpets, Helena, Mon., have been succeeded by the Sands Brothers Company, a corporation, with an authorized capital stock of $50,000.

Marson & Smith, dry goods and carpet dealers, Kimball, S. Dak., have dissolved partnership, and A. F. Smith succeeds G. A. Manwaring & Co., who carried on a similar business at Alpena, same State.

On January 22 Loren D. Whelpley, dealer in carpets, boots and shoes, Fremont, Neb., filed in the county clerk's office chattel mortgages on his stock of goods amounting to $11,500, which includes practically all his indebtedness. His stock will inventory close up to the same amount.

M. G. Euwer & Co., Limited, is the name of a new carpet, furniture, wall paper and upholstery firm at New Kensington, Pa. Matthew G. Euwer, head of the firm, has been in the furniture trade for a number of years. W. W. Wilson and J. K. Miller are associated with him. The firm will occupy a new store building now being erected, which will be 40x100 feet, and will have two stories and a basement



The Fortnight.

THE overwhelming tide of prosperity which Mr. Dingley and the daily papers assure us is sweeping over the country has not yet reached the upholtery trade. So far as the drapery business is concerned the era of the cheap and nasty seems likely to be prolonged indefinitely. Dollar wheat apparently means dollar draperies. There has never been a time when the demand for "something cheap" has been so pronounced as it is to-day. Quality and style seem to count for nothing. In almost every department of the business the constant cry is for something cheaper. The ninety-and-nine cent store appears to have set the pace, and the very best houses are, as the late Señor De Lome would express it, catering to the rabble. Buyers who, even under the stress of such a year as '94, were wont to regard value rather than price now go "shopping" in the search for articles which make the largest show for the least money. The fake advertisements of the department stores are of course responsible in great measure for this condition of affairs. But the evil carries the remedy with it. After a woman has for the second or third time bought a curtain "at less than one-half the actual cost of production" and has seen it melt away in the laundry, she will come to the conclusion that buying starch at $2 a pound is not economy in the ordinary sense of that much abused term.

THE Klondike craze has not yet raised the price of Ingrain carpets, unless we except those manufacturers who, as they did in what Senator Conkling described as the "halcyon and vociferous days" of the war, make blankets of gray yarn on Ingrain looms. But the Klondike craze is bringing shekels to the coffers of Joseph Wild & Co. They are not selling large amounts of Oriental rugs to the citizens of Dawson City, but the Far West trade has learned that the Klondike outfit can be bought of Joseph Wild & Co. at about a quarter of the price charged at the borders of Alaska. Mr. Collins has sleeping bags, and they are 7 feet long, and include a woolen blanket and one of those india-rubber covers dear to every American soldier heart from '61 to '65, at $18 net. A coat of Japanese wool, a pair of trousers and a hood big enough to cover a duck shooting hut at Berresford's Bay can be bought at a price ranging from $11.50 to $21.50, which certainly ought to be cheap enough for two months' lodging—the ground being free.

SOME idea of the extent to which the demand for cheap things has grown can be formed from a letter which was received by a prominent importing house the other day. The writer asked in the calmest and most matter of fact manner to have expressed to him samples of a "well covered" Irish point curtain at from $1.25 to $1.50. Just how much covering he expected for $1.25 in an almost absolutely hand-made fabric he did not state.

WHEN the Astoria Hotel was to be furnished the orders given to Mr. Dawson, of Arnold, Constable & Co., were to avoid any possible appearance of cheapness or substitution. Heretofore the grand establishments of the world had put Brussels curtains in the windows of the first and second floors and Nottingham imitations above. To avoid even the slightest possibility of such substitution, Mr. Dawson simply decided to put Renaissance curtains in the windows of every one of the sixteen floors of the hotel; and to-day there is not a Brussels curtain in any window of the most palatial hotel the world has ever seen.

MR. A. S. PAGE, SR., of the Minetto Shade Cloth Company, pertinently says that one essential needed in the window shade trade, and which would doubtless aid in restoring prices, is mutual confidence and friendship. The benefits of these conditions are evident in other branches of trade, and could also be obtained by the window shade manufacturers. Speaking for himself and his associates, he said that they have no anger against any other concern, but, on the other hand, they have sought and continue to desire the utmost degree of friendship with all concerns engaged in the same business.

Leading retail dealers in upholstery goods are showing some clever things in the way of round sofa pillows. They are made of the triangular flags which are so much in evidence during the inter-collegiate boating, baseball and football season. The blue of Yale, crimson of Harvard, orange and black of Princeton, and red and white of Cornell, with other more or less well-known colors, are combined with very pleasing effects. Some of them are richly embroidered with "Y.," "H.," "P.," and "C." poles running from centre to circumference, &c., and the amount of elaborate handwork brings the cost in many cases up to a very pretty penny.

In a report to the State Department W. P. Atwell, United States commercial agent at Roubaix, France, says that upholstery goods may be mentioned as a branch of local industry that has suffered the least. Manufacturers have produced marvelous effects in cotton upholstery goods that resembles silk so closely that it is difficult to distinguish the difference. Threads of metal can be used in this class of goods and produce the most brilliant results. The comparative failure of the year 1897 inspires the French manufacturer with the determination to place goods of such excellent quality on the market that the coming year shall retrieve his losses.

Some of the buyers in town during the fortnight were D. G. Davis, for Raphael Weill & Co., San Francisco; E. B. Clark, for the Carter Dry Goods Company, Louisville; J. L. Madden and L. Rieber, for Burke, Fitzsimons, Hone & Co., Rochester, N. Y.; R. B. Harris, for the Doggett Dry Goods Company, Kansas City; H. J. Vanderpoel, for the A. M. Church Company, Troy, N. Y.; George J. Carter, for Emery, Bird, Thayer & Co., Kansas City; C. N. Fitts, Northampton, Mass.; J. Marks, of M. Marks & Son, Charleston, S. C.; N. G. Peters and N. Peters, Jr., of N. Peters & Co., Syracuse, N. E. B. Lamson and V. E. Lott, for Lamson Brothers, Toledo, Ohio.

THE DUTY ON SCOTCH HOLLANDS.

The question of the classification of Scotch hollands came up before the Board of General Appraisers on 2nd inst., in the case of the Pinney, Casse & Lackey Company against the collector of New York. In the Dingley tariff there is a provision for cotton cloths that are filled or coated, and the Government claims that hollands, being treated with starch and otherwise manipulated, are dutiable as filled or coated goods at 3 cents a yard and 20 per cent ad valorem.

The importers contend that the threads of Scotch holland in its finished state can be counted, and that it is therefore entitled to entry as "countable cotton cloth" at 15 per cent. ad valorem.

The decision of the Board of Appraisers has not yet been rendered.

The very fine line of upholstery and drapery cords shown by the Hensel Silk Manufacturing Company is being appreciated by the trade with liberal orders, as is also their large assortment of curtain edgings.

GREATER NEW YORK

The Mutual Benefit Association of H. O'Neill & Co.'s employees held a reception at the Lenox Lyceum on the evening of the 10th inst., it being the annual affair of the organization, which includes most of the men employed in the big dry goods house.

Emmett S. Edgerton, assignee of H. C. Kroh & Co., reports that he has a balance of $3,000 cash on hand, which remains to be distributed among the creditors. Mr. Kroh is on a three months' trip in the West as a representative of the Warren & Fuller Wall Paper Company, of New York.

Titushlatter & Co., the lace curtain manufacturers and importers, have one of the finest lace curtain showrooms in the city at their new quarters, Broadway and Nineteenth street. They have excellent light and in every way improved facilities for displaying their handsome lines.

Thomas Wilson & Co., of 380 Broadway, have taken over the account of Stewart, Muir & Muir, who have closed their New York office, Mr. Aristoze, the manager, returning to Scotland. Wilson & Co. will carry full lines of the goods made by the house, which have for many years been favorably known to the American trade.

As selling agents for the Eden Manufacturing Company, Charles B. Young & Co., Hartford Building, 41 Union square, show especially attractive lines of drapery fabrics, curtains, piece goods, couch covers, novelties, &c., which deserve the prompt attention of buyers. See the firm's advertisement on page 74 of this issue.

A new wholesale window shade establishment has been opened at 25 Walker street by H. A. Risner. Mr. Risner was with F. E. James, of Canal street, for a number of years, occupying an important position, and is well versed in the shade business. He is handling a general line of mounted shades and shade cloths and also Scotch and domestic hollands. Oscar F. Zimmerman, for many years with a leading New York shade house, is now with Mr. Risner.

George W. Graham, manufacturer of gimps, braids and carpet binding at Nos. 516 to 524 West Thirty-fifth street, made an assignment on the 26th ult. to Henry G. Bell without preference. The business was started many years ago by his father, John Graham. The assignor has been connected with it for a number of years, and succeeded to it in September, 1893, using the style of John Graham's Son.

*

Campbell, Metzger & Jacobson, upholstery novelties, have removed from Greene street to 446 and 448 Broadway. D. L. Crowell, selling agent for the Bibb Manufacturing Company, has removed from Worth street to 18 and 20 Thomas street, and P. Isaacs & Brother, Japanese and Chinese goods, have removed from 559 to 547 Broadway.

Charles A. Birkle, buyer of upholstery goods and carpets for The Fair, Chicago, is in town for a sojourn of about ten days' duration. He said that business had been exceedingly good in January in his department, and that he would purchase about the usual quantity of goods on this trip. He is quartered at the Holland House "when he's home."

The new salesrooms of B. L. Solomon's Sons, Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street, afford superior advantages for displaying the firm's excellent spring lines. A special feature of their offerings is low and medium priced foreign upholsteries, which were selected by Mr. Sim Solomon with a view of catering to the present desire of the trade for popular priced goods.

The manufacturing department of Pfeser & Co. is having a busy season on ruffled and Irvington net and muslin curtains. The fall product is kept sold up and the new effects being continually added increase the activity. The firm are also distributing a large quantity of American and Nottingham lace curtains, in which they show attractively handsome effects. They are able as of old to give the trade the finest hand made laces and white goods in great variety, and can show all lines to advantage in their new salesroom, 473 Broadway.

Samuel C. Kerr, manager of the upholstery and rug department of the Wm. Barr Dry Goods Company, St. Louis, is in New York this week purchasing spring goods.

Arbuckle.—John Arbuckle, who has been the representative of Stewart, Moir & Muir in this city, sailed for home on the Teutonic February 9. He may hereafter travel for the house in South America, and perhaps go to Canada, in which event he will be again seen in New York on his way to visit the blue noses, and will be a welcome guest among the men who, if they cannot buy of him, will always give him a hearty greeting. When he goes through here he will bear the tag "Not made in Germany," and will not be held for San José scale, trichina, influenza or zinc poison. His account goes to Thos. Wilson & Co.

Berry.—C. M. Berry, buyer for the Brooks-Tyler Dry Goods Company, of St. Johnsbury, Vt., that bought out the E. & T. Fairbanks Company about a year ago, was in town last week buying goods for his firm. He is a careful and discriminating buyer.

Bradbury.—George T. Bradbury, who has been very ill for many weeks past at Liberty, N. Y., is considerably improved, and is able to be around again and take a hand in running the town.

Burbridge.—Charles T. Burbridge, formerly Chicago representative of Arnold, Constable & Co.'s upholstery department, is now with Arnold B. Heine & Co., and will cover Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, &c.

Callahan.—J. J. Callahan, upholstery buyer for James A. Hearn & Son, and concededly one of the most accomplished and popular gentlemen in the city trade, was around early last week after a ten days' painful though not dangerous illness.

Dawson.—After a few finishing touches shall have been put upon the Waldorf-Astoria, Edwin Dawson, manager of Arnold, Constable & Co.'s upholstery department, will sail for Europe, probably about the last of this month. When he gets on the other side he can enjoy the reflection that no other man has ever had the opportunity or has so magnificently improved it to show what could be done in the drapery art. Nothing in the world has ever equaled his work in the Astoria.

Earle.—H. A. Earle has returned from his first road trip for J. B. Ryer, Son & Co., and besides covering his old route when with Mills & Gibb, he traveled over territory covered by him several years ago and received a warm welcome and a goodly share of orders.

Feeley.—James Feeley, of Brooks & Feeley, finds the walking very fine these foggy mornings between City Island and New York city. The New York and New Haven road is altogether to slow for Jim.

Frank.—Jo Frank, of the Jo Frank Tapestry Company, is carrying the line of bamboo novelties made by the Stickley & Simonds Company, of Syracuse.

Grosshardt.—H. Grosshardt, formerly upholstery buyer for Smith, Murray & Co., Bridgeport, is now with the Chauncey Tapestry Company.

Hayward.—W. T. Hayward, president of the Jay C. Wemple Company, returned recently to New York after spending ten days at the company's branch store in Chicago.

Hargraves.—John Hargraves, from his seat at his desk in the front of J. B. Ryer, Son & Co.'s store, at 453 Broadway, keeps a sharp eye on the buyers who visit that neighborhood, and besides he is active in looking up all out-of-town visitors.

Hees.—W. R. Hees, of Hees, Macfarlane & Co., the Detroit shade manufacturers, has been recently elected a director of the Columbia Shade Cloth Company.

Hill.—H. A. Hill, recently with Gimbel Brothers, of Philadelphia, is now in charge of the upholstery department of Kaufman Brothers, of Pittsburg, Jordan.—Chandler Jordan, buyer for the upholstery department of Jordan, Marsh & Co., Boston, returned a few days since from a two months' tour abroad after novelties and choice staple goods.

Keane.—Miss Margaret Keane, upholstery buyer for the Tobey Furniture Company, Chicago, was, as she always is, a welcome visitor in New York last week. Some day there will be a domestic manufacturer with brains enough to make it an object to Miss Keane to come to this town and become selling agent for his product.

Keegan.—Thomas. Keegan, formerly second man in the upholstery department of F. M. Brown & Co., New Haven, Conn., succeeds Mr. Laflin as manager.

Laflin.—James Laflin, formerly upholstery buyer for F. M. Brown & Co., New Haven, Conn., now holds a similar position with Malley Neely & Co. in the same town.

Magee—Gibson.—Frank Magee, upholstery buyer for Simpson, Crawford & Simpson, was married at Jersey City Heights, on February 9, to Miss Daisy Gibson. M. J. Downey. of George Lackey's staff, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Magee left the same evening for a brief trip to Washington. Among the guests were James Brooks, Walter Magee, William and Geo. Lackey, P. D. Crimmins, of Stern Brothers; Garrett Nagle, of B. Altman & Co., and James White, Joseph Murphy, Robert Johnston, John Edwards and M. McCormack, of Simpson, Crawford & Simpson.

McLaren.—Peter McLaren is home from his Western trip for Rieser & Co., which extended to Omaha. He did a satisfactory business and reports an excellent feeling among the trade.

Naumann.—A. Naumann, of the A. Naumann, Pulfrich Company, arrived in New York on the St. Louis on the 12th inst. from his trip to Europe, Rice.—Jerome Rice, who was assistant to Mr. Suydam at Emory, Bird, Thayer & Co.'s, Kansas City, goes with that gentleman to the Robert Keith Furniture and Carpet Company.

Shannon.—M. J. Shannon, of J. A. Brittain & Co., "Next, Mike; no cards."

Swift.—Charles Swift, formerly of Umbstaetter, Russell & Swift, is now with W. B. Quaintance.

Wasserman—Dahlman.—Miss Flora Dahlman was married on the 19th ult. to Benjamin Wasserman, secretary and one of the founders of the Philadelphia Tapestry Mills. The marriage took place in the assembly hall of the Mercantile Club, Philadelphia, which was superbly decorated for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Wasserman held a reception in the evening, at which there were over 200 guests.

Williams.—Walter Williams, of the Howe & Rogers Company, Rochester, the Berry Wall of the upholstery trade, was in town week before last getting forward his stock so that he could take a brief vacation before the opening of spring business. Chairman Dingley's statement that there had not been a silk hat imported into the United States for twelve years started him home in haste. It will be a bad quarter of an hour for the hatter who has been right along selling him "the last thing from Lunnon, you know, Mr. Williams."

Wright.—W. H. Wright, the upholstery buyer for the Howland Dry Goods Company, Bridgeport, Conn., is now general superintendent of the establishment.

F H. Lapsley & Brother have issued the following circular to the trade:

Baltimore,, February 13, 1898.

Gentlemen—As you are doubtless aware, our firm was dissolved by the death of our Mr. Frank H. Lapsley on the 8th day of Feb ruary.

The business will be continued, under the old firm name, by our Mr. William E. Lapsley, who is the sole legatee of his deceased brother. F. H. Lapsley & Brother.

A MODERN FRENCH BEDROOM.

NEW FORMS FOR FURNITURE.

The little double writing table shown on this page is intended for a lady's use, and would probably become popular, as most ladies have felt the inconvenience of having only one writing table in the room, and that occupied! It should be made just large enough to accommodate two persons comfortably, but the centre part must not be raised so high as to form a complete barrier, as the table would probably be used occasionally by a lady and her secretary or housekeeper while arranging their work or accounts together, when they would require to see and communicate with each other. All the double writing tables which have been previously made have been of a cumbersome description, intended either for office use or as fixtures on the great Atlantic liners.

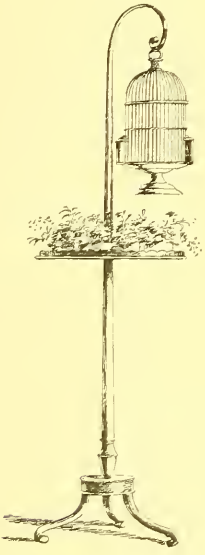
The material for this table ought to be as dainty as its shape, though mahogany could be employed, with the scroll design inlaid in satinwood, and the writing side covered with blue or brown morocco. Its entire construction in satinwood would be more expensive, but the table would gain greatly in beauty. The design was really intended to be carried out in pale blue gray stain, with inlaid copper ornamentation. Though green stain has become common everywhere, the artistic variation in blue is little known.

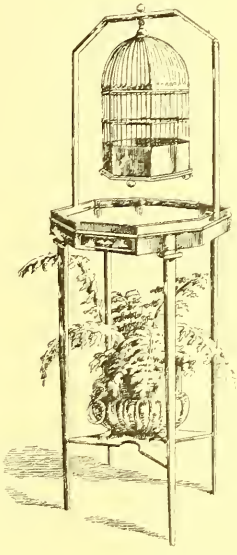
The wooden cup attached to the side of the table holds a copper lamp for use in the evening, though floral decoration could be substituted in the daytime. The lamp might be made a fixture, and the cup omitted, or a drooping floral electrolier fastened to the woodwork.

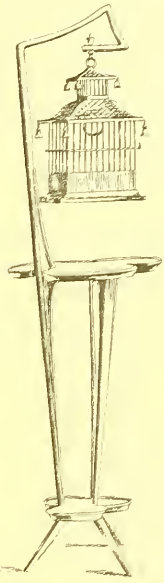
With the stain blue the morocco for the writing slide might be gray in tone, or even copper colored.

Wooden birdcage stands are popular in Germany, and it is a common sight in that country to see the old haus-frau seated, with her work on the little table below the cage, chirruping to her favorite. But German birdcage stands are heavy pieces of furniture, taking up so much room that they would not be tolerated in any country less devoted to feathered pets. The passion for keeping birds is a regular mania in Germany, and few indeed are the houses without one or more—indeed, it is a matter for reflection whether the absence of cats in that country is cause or effect.

Now a cage ought to be hung in the window, for birds depend on light and air quite as much as we do; so the cage table must be small and slight, to take up little space at the side of an oriel window. Our first sketch is designed with that idea, and the table would hardly be more in the way than a cage alone.

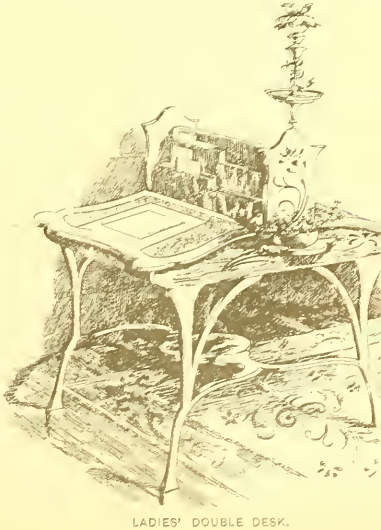






The construction is both simple and inexpensive, but if considered too plain, it could be rendered more attractive by a painted wreath of flowers up the stem, after the style of a Sheraton lamp stand. The wood might be mahogany or common deal enameled white, but for a drawing room a very pretty effect could be brought about by gilding the entire stand. The flowers are merely placed in loose circular glasses, but they add a touch of color and brightness to the whole.

Our third illustration almost explains itself, but the quaint



LADIES' DOUBLE DESK.

Chinese effect should be studied and sustained in every particular, for if an ordinary round cage were substituted for the pagoda the effect would be disastrous. Tiny pots of ferns could ornament the lower stand as well as the upper, and the cage must be fastened in the centre so that the seeds Master Dicky scatters will be caught among the flowers. Green stain with a brass cage would be most suitable for this arrangement, as it is not so well adapted to mahogany as the centre one of the group. This is of heavier and more substantial make, and may be called the dining room or parlor birdcage stand. It will recommend itself to the practical and tidy housekeeper, as the larger table top will more efficaciously prevent the seeds from being scattered all about, and the little drawer is designed for their safe custody. The support from which the cage is suspended could be raised still higher if the lower part were desired more as a work table, for all these designs are intended to be modified or improved upon as circumstances may direct.

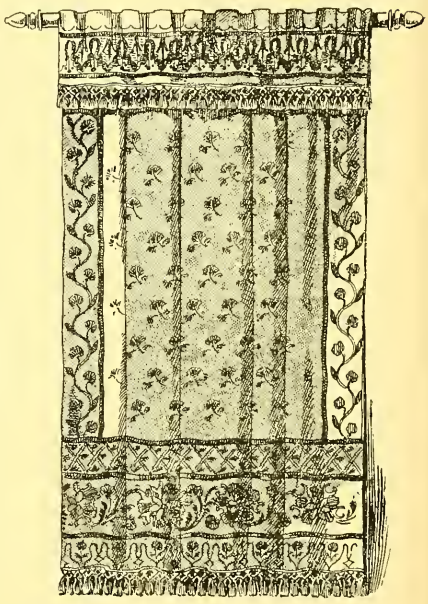
In changing furnishings from one house to another or from one room to another, curtains will often be found not to fit the new windows and to be too short or too long. If they are too long the remedy is, of course, simple. When they are of plain or figured goods, without a fringe or border on the lower edge they may be turned up and hemmed at the right length; when they have a bottom decoration they must be turned down at the top to the necessary depth. If they are too short, however, more work is required in order to rectify the fault. When they are of heavy stuff, like brocade, lampas, brocatel, velvet, damask, chenille, satin or raw silk, the addition of a band of tapestry at the bottom and up the inside edge will give the necessary length, and will have no aspect of being an afterthought or a makeshift. Real tapestry is, of course, very costly, but there are plenty of imitation tapestry fabrics which answer the purpose satisfactorily. Tapestry is recommended because it goes well with anything, and may be obtained in all combinations of color.

It is strange that the mirror should, in many countries, be looked upon as "unlucky," but so it is. An expert in matters of folk lore tells us that if we have the misfortune to behold the new moon first reflected in a looking glass disaster is sure to overtake us. If you have a friend who is dear to you, see that you never glance at your reflections in the mirror side by side, lest your friendship be brought to an untimely end. The Swedish girl carefully avoids looking at herself in the mirror by candle light, for if she will do so she will certainly lose her lover. Everyone knows that it is very unlucky for a bride to see her own image in the mirror after her toilet is completed. Should she, by any evil chance, catch a glimpse of herself under these circumstances she will, if she be discreet, turn away immediately and seek to appease the angry fates by drawing on her gloves, or fastening some bit of ribbon, a flower or a jewel in her dress. By thus adding a final touch to her toilet she may be fortunate enough to turn away the evil which threatened her destiny.

AN EMBROIDERED CURTAIN.

The pleasing curtain illustrated herewith is one of the recent achievements of the Chiswick Art Workers, Guild, of London. It is of tolerably easy workmanship, is satisfactory in all its details, and simple in execution. There is considerable variety in the pattern. At the bottom is a deep border showing a flowing but conventional floral design, bounded by a lattice band on top and a finish giving some indication of scallops at the bottom. Up each side runs a border corresponding with certain details of the band below, but embroidered more simply.

At the top of the curtain is a valance which turns over the pole and is ornamented with an extremely rich design which appears to be an amplification of the one carried along the bottom edge of the curtain. The field is ornamented with a simple powdering of small sprays. There are but two colorings, one shade of each, used throughout. The background is soft linen, without any suspicion of "dress," of a full tone of china blue, and the embroidery is carried out solely with one shade of flame-colored filoselle, four strands of this being taken together in the coarser details of the design and two strands in other places. The stitches are so deftly managed that, until the curtain is minutely inspected, it would be thought that more than one shade had been employed. For instance, in the bold, star-like flowers near the bottom, Oriental plait stitch is used for the filling in of the details, and as this brings the stitches so closely together that the ground is almost entirely hidden, a darker shade of the flame color would appear to have been used. The same remark applies to the bolder details of the turn-over portion at the top of the hanging. The minor items of the pattern are executed with what many people will understand as "stroke" stitches, and which are so embroidered as to be very irregular, and yet do not show so much silk on the right side as do the "long and short" stitches in general use. The lower margin of the turn-over is finished with a knotted fringe raveled out of the linen, into which some threads of the flame colored filoselle have been introduced in order to carry out the blending of ths two colors so successfully managed in the other portions of the hanging.



NEW ADDITIONS TO THE COLUMBIA SHADE CLOTH COMPANY.

The important position held by the Columbia Shade Cloth Company as distributers of window shades is further strengthened by the Western Shade Cloth Company becoming a member of that organization. From February 15, the entire product of the Western Company will be distributed solely through the Columbia Company from their various salesrooms throughout the country, and also by their travelers. The Columbia Company have also rented the factory recently occupied by the American Shade Company, of St. Louis, and will operate its plant of seventy frames on hand-made shade cloths. In November last, the firm of Hees, Macfarlane & Co., of Detroit, became a member of the Columbia Company, so that within the past two months the Columbia Company has obtained control of the product of three large hand-made shade cloth establishments, located in Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis. These acquisitions not only give them an immense product of hand-made goods, comprising a large proportion of the hand-made production of the United States, but through the locations of the factories in such central points, the Columbia Company enjoy exceptional advantages for promptly completing and shipping orders. Hees, Macfarlane & Co. have one of the best equipped shade cloth factories in the country located at Detroit, Mich., and have been remarkably successful in building up within a short time a very large business, and the goods they manufacture are of fine quality and deservedly popular. The Western Shade Cloth Company have a large factory in Chicago at Peoria and Fulton streets, and were established about a year ago by Wm. Volker, of Kansas City; A. Abele, formerly with C. Schotte; S. Kempner, who had been with another shade house in Chicago for several years, and J. Yandall, formerly superintendent of the C. Schotte Company. It is the only hand-made shade cloth factory catering to the trade exclusively in Chicago, and the company has built up an extensive Western trade, extending to the Pacific Coast.

EMBROIDERED CUSHION TO THE QUEEN, FROM MISS SHACKLE (FORMERLY WARDROBE MAID TO HER MAJESTY.)

The Columbia Company are now sole selling agents for the Minetto Shade Cloth Company, Minetto, N. Y.; the Meriden Curtain Fixture Company, Meriden, Conn.; the Opaque Shade Cloth Company, West Pullman, Ill.; Hees, Macfarlane & Co., Detroit, Mich.; the Western Shade Cloth Company, Chicago, and the Penn Shade Cloth Company, Philadelphia, and operate themselves factories in New York city and St. Louis.

A very acceptable feature of the Columbia Company is that the brands of each of the concerns for which it is agent are shown in separate lines of samples, so that the customers of each concern can obtain their favorite make of goods and be assured of the same qualities they have been receiving in the past. The concerns represented by the Columbia are actual manufacturers direct from the raw material of every kind and grade of shade cloths, hollands, fringes and rollers.

Efroynson & Wolf, Indianapolis, Ind., have added a rug and drapery department to their business.

M. F. Powers and M. R. Swift have retired from the firm of Wm. Taylor, Son & Co., Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. S. S. Taylor is now sole proprietor of the business.

The accounts of the temporary receiver of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Brass and Iron Bedstead Company were confirmed by Justice Lambert on January 20, and he was formally released from obligations.

THE HOME OF WHITELAW REID.

In a picturesque woodland ridge a few miles beyond the historic town of White Plains, N. Y., stands one of the most beautiful as well as one of the most notable houses in the country. It is a house with a most interesting history, the home of Mr. Whitelaw Reid, ex-Minister from the United States to France and editor of the New York Tribune. The house is approached by a long driveway through beautiful grounds, and the first glimpse gives the visitor the impression that he is no longer in America, but in some foreign land, at the threshold of a magnificent castle of olden times. The place is known as Ophir Farms, a name bestowed upon it by the late Benjamin Halliday, its first owner, in remembrance of Ophir Mine, which transformed him from the owner of a small mail stage line across the plains, to a millionaire. The dwelling is an enormous edifice of gray stone, with a battlemented tower.

Beautiful as is the exterior view of the house, one must enter to appreciate all its magnificence. The main hall of the house is done entirely in marble. From the floor to the frieze glistens the beautiful stone. Two varieties alone are used—yellow Numidian marble and pinkish Etowah marble from Georgia. The frieze around the hall is decorated with exquisite roses and other flowers. At the left as one enters is an enormous fireplace of yellow Numidian marble and translucent glass. Here throughout the winter blazes a cheery log fire. The staircase is at the further end of the hall, and is in itself a superb creation. The steps are of the pink marble, as is also the handrail, while the posts are of the Numidian marble. The columns supporting the staircase are 12 feet high, and are monolithic. The pilasters are of the yellow marble.

Enormous rugs of Persian design cover the floor, and screens and tropical palms are to be found on every side. Opposite the fireplace stands a large French clock of the time of Louis Quatorze. The furniture is all in subdued colors.

An idea of the enormous size of the hall may be gained when it is known that the length is 72 feet and the width 22 feet. At the top of the staircase is a large stained glass window, the work of Lathrop. It is 15 feet wide and is made in three sections.

The library is one of the most interesting rooms in the house. In the centre stands a mammoth desk of English oak. It is 18 feet long by 12 feet wide. The mantel at the side of the room is constructed entirely from red Numidian marble. A man 6 feet high can stand in the open fireplace. Carved wreaths in deep relief adorn the marble. The frieze of the room is of curved stone, heavily carved with shields and wreaths. Dainty incandescent lamps surround the room.

The plafonds (or panels) ornamenting the ceiling were designed by Bunker and commenced by him. He died soon after beginning the work, and they were completed by another artist. The central design depicts a goddess distributing wreaths and other rewards for learning and virtue to a group of children gathered before her.

The library is made entirely of English oak, and every part of the walls not covered by bookshelves is adorned with broad panels, in heavy carving, of this same wood. The room is 49 feet long, 28 feet wide and 16 feet high. It has windows leading to all points of the compass, which let in a flood of light.

The dining room is in Italian style. It has an elegant Henry II. ceiling. The columns of the room are solid Santo Domingo mahogany inlaid with mother-of-pearl. The upper portions of the columns are fluted. Pilasters frame the entire walls into panels, which are hung with illuminated leather in green and gold. The panels are the work of Vandell.

The ceiling is 14 feet from the floor, while the other dimensions of the room are: Length, 50 feet, and width, 36 feet. The room is lighted from the sides and ceiling with incandescent lamps. The mantel at the side of the room is made of Irish green marble and is a magnificent piece of work. The furniture is upholstered entirely in dark brown leather. Near the mantel stands a very rare old Spanish screen made of leather, which is fairly hidden by dainty eighteenth century paintings. The screen is no less than 18 feet long and 12 feet high.

The entire walls are of very heavily carved wood, molded in unique design, and are studded with electric lights, sixty-four lamps in all.

The drawing room is as beautiful an example of the art of the early French masters as can be found in any portion of the world. The room is really the salon of the old Château Villeneuve, near Poissy, France, transplanted to America. Mr. Reid bought it from the owners of the château in 1890. The château was the property of a member of the family of Napoleon III. Upon his death it passed into the hands of his wife. She married a Belgian whose fortunes were on the wane. Within a short time the château was sold to be cut up into villas. Mr. Reid heard of it and purchased the drawing room complete.

The entire walls are of very heavily carved French oak, arched at the top of each panel. In the centre of each arch is an elaborately carved head. There are altogether twelve of these, representing various gods and goddesses. The arches are carved in high relief. Over the doors are decorative oil paintings on canvas.

Here and there about the room, at the sides, are carved bronze plaques originally intended for candles, but now holding miniature incandescent electric lamps. The room is over 100 years old, and Mr. Reid says it is as fine an example of Louis XVI. work as he has ever seen.

The doors of the drawing room are of polished wood and are covered with enormous rugs from Cairo and Constantinople. The furniture is of Louis XVI. pattern, covered with fine Gobelin tapestry.

Many visitors call daily to see Mr. Reid's wonderful palace at Ogden Farms. Many of the visitors are artists, and during the summer months easels can be seen here and there all over the place. Mr. Reid is so enthusiastic a lover of art and is so devotedly attached to his beautiful home that he welcomes all artists that may still his way in search of the picturesque.

While their orders on chenille curtains and covers are not up to their production, W. T. Smith & Son say they have no reason to complain, as they have had their share of orders. They do complain, however, that certain manufacturers have been copying some of their patented patterns, and they have been compelled to institute suit against them, and are determined to protect their patent rights to the full extent.

Obituary.

Frank H. Lapsley.

Frank H. Lapsley, of the firm of F. H. Lapsley & Brother, wholesale dealers in window shades, oil cloths, &c., Baltimore, Md., died on the 8th inst., at Summit, N. J., at the age of forty-seven years.

Mr. Lapsley was the elder son of the late John Lapsley, who was for many years selling agent for the floor oil-cloth manufacturing firm of D. Powers & Sons. Frank and his brother, William E. Lapsley, were salesmen for D. Powers & Sons, and this firm dealt in window shades as well as floor oil cloths as selling agents for A. Barricklo, and subsequently for the Manhattan Shade Cloth Company. In 1887 Frank Lapsley bought out the window shade business of William Barricklo, at Baltimore, and continued it under his own name. A few years later his brother William became a partner in the business, the firm name being changed to the present one of F. H. Lapsley & Brother.

By their energy and ability the Messrs. Lapsley built up a large and prosperous business, but a few years ago Frank Lapsley's health declined, and as the symptoms indicated lung trouble he left Baltimore, hoping that a change of climate might be beneficial. He spent some time in Colorado, visited Mexico, passed several months in the Adirondacks, and finally was removed to Summit, N. J., where after lingering several months he passed away. His home was in Baltimore, where he lived with his sister, aunt and brother. When he was taken to Summit his sister and aunt joined him there and remained with him until he died. The remains were interred at Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Mr. Lapsley was a member of Concordia Lodge and the Commonwealth Club, and an officer in the Fifth Maryland Regiment.

David Henessy, an importer of laces at No. 473 Broadway, this city, died in Newark, N. J., on the 9th inst. of paralysis of the heart. He leaves a widow, son and a daughter.

George Bronson Sterling, vice-president of the Whitcomb Metallic Bedstead Company, Derby, Conn., died suddenly on January 26. He was manager of the company's New York store, but lived in Bridgeport with his parents, his wife having died five years ago. About a week previous to his death upon returning from business he complained of a slight cold, which developed into bronchitis. This turned into an acute attack of congestion of the lungs, which caused his death. He was a member for several years of the South Congregational Church, Bridgeport, and then transferred his connection to the Broadway Tabernacle, of New York. He had for the past two years superintended the infant department of the Sunday school of the South Church. Two daughters survive him.

Adair & Plahte, upholsterers, are a new firm at Salina, Cal.

John Oughton, designer for upholstery and drapery fabrics, chenille and Jacquard work, is well and favorably known among manufacturers of such goods. His studio is at 2122 Germantown avenue, Philadelphia.

One of the most amusing cuts yet shown by W. T. Smith & Son in their announcements in The Review is displayed in this issue. It is entitled "In the Stocks," and affords contrasting examples of facial and pedal expressions. As usual, the firm points to a moral in connection with the illustration.

Despite the immense quantity of upholstery fabrics made in the past by the Philadelphia Tapestry Mills, it has been announced that the house will quite excel itself for the spring of 1898. The line is now open for inspection and it is indeed strong in style and up-to-date fabrics. It seems incredible that such fabrics can be made for the low prices asked for them.

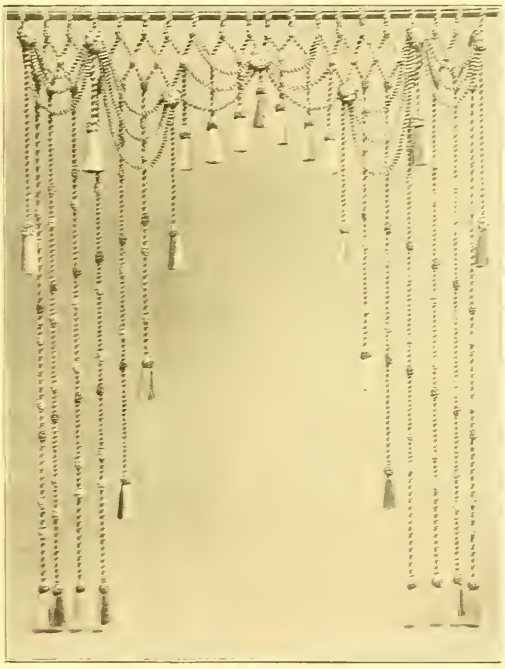
John Shepard, Jr., has secured the corner store formerly occupied by the H. W. Ladd Company, at Providence, R. I., and which was held by an option by the Scotch Syndicate, Mr. Callender, the surviving member of the house of Callender, McAuslan & Troup, assenting to and assisting in the transfer of the lease.

A new hanging that is especially effective in dining rooms, libraries and halls is stamped burlaps. It comes in most artistic designs and colors, usually the dull shades of tapestry, and is proving a most popular decoration. It is an outgrowth of the wide use, for the same purpose, of the plain burlaps, whose soft tones and dull finish give a most pleasing effect.

A trick for treating cheesecloth in a way to make it look like crepon is worth noting, if only for use in tableaux. If it is put in water until soaked through, and then twisted by two persons, each in the opposite direction, and put away to dry, when done and shaken out it will beautifully crinkle, and will be especially effective for a tableau dress or for draping booths and stalls at a bazaar.

THE LATEST CORD PORTIERE.

The "Velvet-Ruff" portière, brought out by the Hensel Silk Manufacturing Company last month, is the latest novelty in cord portières. It has a spiral chenille cord in two colors around the vertical cord, which gives a heavy cord appearance and an attractive color combination. The color effect is heightened in some styles by the use of tinsel. The new portières are made in all the designs of the Hensel Company's regular line, and in some special designs, and the prices are about the same as for the solid cord portières, a feature that insures large sales. The Velvet-Ruff portière supplies a thicker appearing cord, and altogether gives a better show for the same money than the regular solid cord portière. The samples can be seen at the Hensel Company's salesrooms, 639 Broad street, Philadelphia; 458 Broadway, New York; 76 Chauncy street, Boston, and 147 Fifth avenue, Chicago.



THE "VELVET-RUFF" PORTIERE.

SWISS LACES AND EMBROIDERY IMPORTS.

United States Consul Dubois, in a recent report to the Treasury Department, says:

A brief examination of the exports to the United States from the consular district of St. Gall (Switzerland) develops some interesting facts. St. Gall is the most important cotton lace and cotton embroidery centre in the world. The city has a population of only 23,000, and a large majority of them are engaged in and dependent upon the work of producing cotton laces and cotton embroideries. During the year ended December 31, 1897, the importers in the United States paid to this community the handsome sum of sum of $5,500,000, of which amount about 90 per cent. was for cotton laces and cotton embroideries. This demonstrates how important this thriving industry is to Switzerland.

Another interesting fact is developed by an examination of the exports from the consular district of St. Gall to the United States, viz., that this district furnishes our country with about one-third of the total amount of goods sent from Switzerland to the United States, and the generous influx of American money here is helping to transform the quaint old town into an active, modern city, adorned with many handsome business blocks and some costly and attractive villas. The total exports to the United States from Switzerland for the month of December last was $1,418,426, while the exports from the district of St. Gall alone amounted to $659,657, or nearly one-half the total exports.

During the last six months of 1896 the total exports to the United States from St. Gall amounted to $2,697,191; while in the six months ending December 31, 1897, the amount was $2,907,956. Thus, in spite of the fact that the new tariff of the United States advanced the duty on cotton laces and cotton embroideries from 50 per cent. to 60 per cent., making an increase of 10 per cent., there has been exported to the United States from St. Gall during the first six months of the new tariff law over $200,000 worth more of these goods than were exported during the last six months of the preceding year.

THE SHADE ROLLER FIRM OF HARTSHORN.

At the present day, when it seems that every effort is being made to see how cheap goods can be made, and not how good, it is somewhat of a relief to see the announcement of a firm like that of the Stewart Hartshorn Company, which appears elsewhere in this issue.

They make plain, concise statements—that they are manufacturing all kinds of Hartshorn shade rollers, that they guarantee their product to be of the finest materials obtainable, and that their goods are sold at fair prices. This firm, controlling as they do hundreds of vital patents relating to the making of shade rollers and devices, together with their splendidly equipped factories, are assuredly in a position to offer the strongest possible inducements to buyers, and their large sales and ever increasing output indicate that the trade recognizes them as the manufacturers of an absolutely perfect shade roller.

They were the inventors and are now sole producers of the famous Hartshorn new groove tin roller, which has greatly increased the use of tin rollers in making up window shades, and this roller and the improved Hartshorn wood roller are considered by experts to have every quality essential for a faultless shade roller.

No shade manufacturing firm in the country has more strongly maintained its position during the low prices prevailing for the past year than that of Charles W. Breneman & Co., of Cincinnati. This is one of the most solidly established concerns in the country, both financially and otherwise, and consequently the trade may always rely upon obtaining just the kind of goods ordered, no matter what may be the price agreed upon. Breneman & Co. are large manufacturers of hand made shade cloths, and also of mounted shades in all the different materials. They cater especially to the Middle West, South and Far West, and, as usual, offer their reliable goods at competing figures. Their large line will well repay inspection.

MONUMENTAL CITY MEMS.

Baltimore, February 10.

William Meyer was awarded a verdict of $5,000 in the Superior Court the 2d inst. in a suit against S. Kann, Sons & Co., dry goods and upholstery, for personal injuries received in an elevator accident at the defendant's place of business.

Noah & Son, dry goods and upholstery, are closing out their stock for the purpose of retiring from business.

E. Crump's new and handsome dry goods and upholstery store, Lynchburg, Va., was damaged by fire the 28th ult. Loss covered by insurance.

ORINOKA MILLS' NEW SALESROOM.

Messrs. Jay H. Solomon and T. F. Gurry held a reception of the trade on the occasion of the opening of the new salesrooms of the Orinoka Mills, at Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street, on the 31st ult. A bountiful collation was provided, and the callers were most hospitably welcomed by Messrs. Solomon, Gurry and Meany, who received general congratulations on their handsome and spacious quarters.

The new lines of the Orinoka Mills can now be seen in quarters well calculated for displaying them to advantage. They comprise curtains, piece goods, table and couch covers, &c., including a very wide range of choice novelties and specialties, which no upholstery buyer should fail to see.

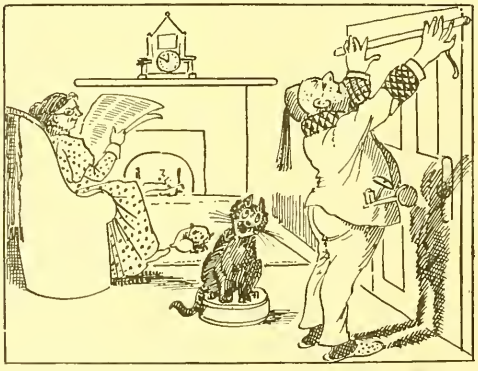
Charles Cook, for many years with the firm of Conant Brothers, Toledo, Ohio, has purchased an interest in the concern of Lindow & Schumaker, at 319 Superior street, same city, and it will hereafter be known as Lindow, Schumaker & Cook.

The Coburn Metallic Bedstead and Pneumatic Mattress Company is a new concern incorporated with $16,000 capital, to manufacture bedsteads and mattresses at Holyoke, Mass. Samuel Coburn is president, and A. A. Coburn is secretary and treasurer of the company.

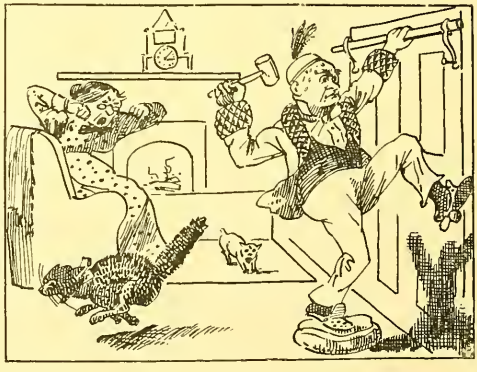
Albert Gall, Jr., Indianapolis, Ind., is well known as a manufacturer of artistic grille work. Mr. Gall furnishes original designs to order, and publishes a catalogue showing a large number of handsome designs. Write to him for a copy. See his advertisement on page 97 of this issue.

Chas. Emmerich & Co., 167 and 169 Fifth avenue, Chicago, are dealers in feathers exclusively, and their goods are cleaned and cured by their own patented process. They show also a large line of pillows, comprising all grades, from the cheap to the best. Their advertisement is on page 64 of this issue.

MR. BODGER PUTS UP A PORTIERE ROD.



1. "I'll do this little job myself," said Mr. Bodger.



2. "I ain't going to pay a carpenter just to nail up a curtain rod!"

WILL LOCATE AT NIAGARA FALLS.

Since our last issue an advice has been received by Hunter & Whitcomb, American agents for Alex. Morton & Co., that the latter firm has purchased land at Niagara Falls, N. Y., on which it will erect a plant for the manufacture of Axminister rugs, upholsteries and lace curtains. Particulars as to when the erection of the plant will commence and the class of goods to be turned out are not yet forthcoming, but it is certain that Morton & Co.'s establishment will form an important addition to the American rug, upholstery and curtain industry.

NEW CURTAINS BY FAST STEAMER.

On February 3 A. Naumann cabled from Paris that he had shipped that day by fast steamer a large lot of the latest and choicest French lace curtains, and on the 5th inst. he took passage for New York and arrived here on the 12th, just twenty days from the time of his starting from New York.

The novelties which he purchased are now here, and can be delivered this week. Mr. Naumann brought the samples with him in his stateroom, and has them on show at the salesroom of the A. Naumann-Pulfrich Company, 458 Broadway.

H. W. Stern has opened an upholstery shop at Huntington, N. Y.

Rosenthal & Brownlie has shared very satisfactorily in the tapestry and chenille business so far this season. The trade have learned that they represent important lines and show a big assortment of curtains, covers and piece goods at right prices. Their New York salesroom at 458 Broadway has been visited by a large portion of the buyers, and the Chicago salesroom has increased its sales largely this season. At the New York office W. E. Rosenthal is looking for a number of visiting buyers during the rest of this month.

HAIR FOR MATTRESSES, ETC.

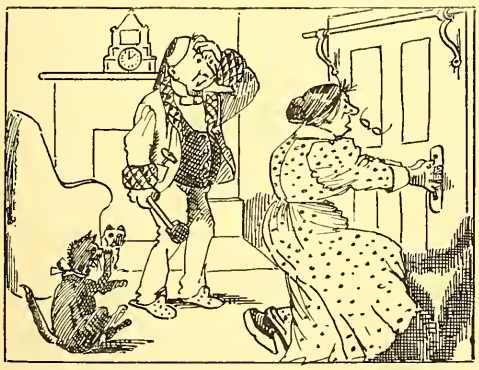
The first quality of hair is horse hair, and comes chiefly from South America from wild horses. Only the tails and manes are used, and the owners of the horses wind the hair up in coils every two years. Oftentimes a horse will have escaped the round-ups for four or five seasons and will come in with a tail 10 feet long. The hair of South American wild animals is longer than the hair of animals of almost any other section. This hair is worth from 38 to 48 cents a pound in the rope according to length. It is twisted into ropes which gives it the curl, and in that way shipped to the mattress makers. Hair over 16 inches long is used for making hair cloth, such as was put in furniture in our grandfathers' days; that is worth from $4 to $6 a pound.

Second quality of hair is a mixture of cattle hair and the short hair of the horse. The cheapest is goat hair, from Siberia, which is 4 to 6 cents a pound.

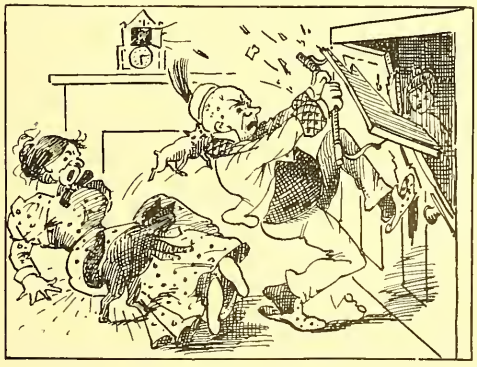
Clark Brockway, formerly with Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, is now in charge of the furniture department of Kaufman Brothers, Pittsburg.

The new mills of T. I. Birkin & Co., at Chester, Pa., are completed, and, as stated in The Review of February 1, the removal of machines from Philadelphia to the new factory has commenced. In the construction and arrangement of the new mills Birkin & Co. have had the advantage of long experience in manufacturing lace curtains in Nottingham and Glasgow, so that every known improvement has been adopted. A particular advantage at Chester is a natural spring of pure water for use in bleaching. The increase in the number of machines will give a greater variety of grades and weaves, which, with the finer grade curtains made in the Nottingham factories, supply a range unsurpassed for strength, novelty and value. These goods are sold through J. A. Brittain & Co., sole United States agents.

MR. BODGER PUTS UP A PORTIERE ROD.



3. But, great snakes, when the rod was up the door wouldn't open. Mr. B. had nailed the brackets to the door jambs. "Jamb it!" said Mr. Bodger.



4. "Well, we'll do without a curtain rod; d'you see?"—Boston Globe.

The Perfect Curtain Rod and Novelty Company is a new manufacturing concern at Cleveland, Ohio, the capital stock of which is $50,000.

The decree which had been entered on the verdict in the case of L. Gholstin and others against the American Upholstery Company, Atlanta, Ga., was set aside on January 29 pending a motion for a new trial. The case has been set for a hearing on March 1.

WALL PAPER NOTES.

..John G. Spindler, of Spindler & Son, wall paper dealers, Detroit, is dead.

..Van Doorm & Tilson, Rutland, Vt., are succeeded by Burnham & Williams.

..W. E. Rice, president of the W. E. Rice Company, Lawrence, Mass., is dead.

..Charles E. Case, dealer in wall paper, picture frames, &c., Jonesville, Mich., has sold out

..P. H. Dalton has purchased William B. Rogers' paint and wall paper business at Westfield, Mass.

..W. J. Morrow, Elkhart, Ind., has sold his stock of wall paper to Henry Rohrer, who has removed it to the Karnel Block.

..The wall paper and furniture stock in R. N. Bowden's store at Brookfield, Mo., was damaged to the extent of $2,500 by fire on January 13.

..The McIntyre block at Winnipeg, Man., was destroyed by fire on February 3. James Payne, dealer in wall paper, one of the tenants, sustained a loss of $9,000.

..Thomas B. Riley, a well-known member of the wall paper trade, died at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., recently at the age of sixty-four years.

..The large plate glass window in M. M. & V. Elmendorf's wall paper store at Elmira, N. Y., was blown in by the heavy wind on January 24 and completely shattered.

..The Brooklyn Wall Paper Company's store, Rochester, N. Y., has been closed by Deputy Sheriff Vick on an execution issued against William C. Dryer on two judgments obtained in the Supreme Court. One is for $597.27 in favor of Howard S. Dickson, and the other is for $296.50 in favor of John H. Egan.

..On January 17 the firm of Somerville & Wood, dealers in wall paper, &c., Manistee, Mich., filed mortgages aggregating nearly $8,000. The largest mortgage, for $1,438, is to the Lyon, Beecher, Kymer, Palmer Company, Grand Rapids. Other outside parties are secured to a total amount of $2,440.89. The balance of the mortgages are given to local parties. The firm has always done a thriving business, but the dull times of the past two or three years and slow collections have proved embarrassing.

Rywaner is the title under which J. B. Ryer, Son & Co. are operating their new mill at Haledon, N. J. They are putting in new machinery, and at present are turning out damasks, tapestries and snow flake curtains, and intend to enlarge their line for the fall trade.

The new and elegant salesrooms of B. L. Solomon's Sons comprise two large lofts in the building corner of Fifth avenue and Seventeenth street. The firm opened for business there about a fortnight ago, and are now comfortably settled in their very desirable quarters, where they have the best possible facilities for showing their extensive stock of upholstery goods, curtains and couch covers. The Messrs. Solomon have always presented in their lines exceptional attractions to the trade, and their present offerings are even more important and interesting than in any previous season.

Facts About Hartshorn Shade Rollers.

The product of our factories includes Shade Rollers of every description, made of wood and tin, suitable for all classes of work, and many famous Hartshorn accessories.

The cost of these Rollers is slightly higher than any others on the market.

The quality of these Rollers is so high as to be far beyond the reach of real competition.

The reputation of these Rollers is of such strength as to insure success to any merchant in the window shade line who sells them exclusively.

The demand for them is universal, and so heavy as to keep our great factories running constantly.

These are some of the reasons that our Rollers are found to-day in whatever part of the world a window shade is hung.

A JUDICIOUS INVESTMENT.

The Best Economy in your Carpet Room

can only be secured by using the most perfect appliances, of the simplest design and the best construction.

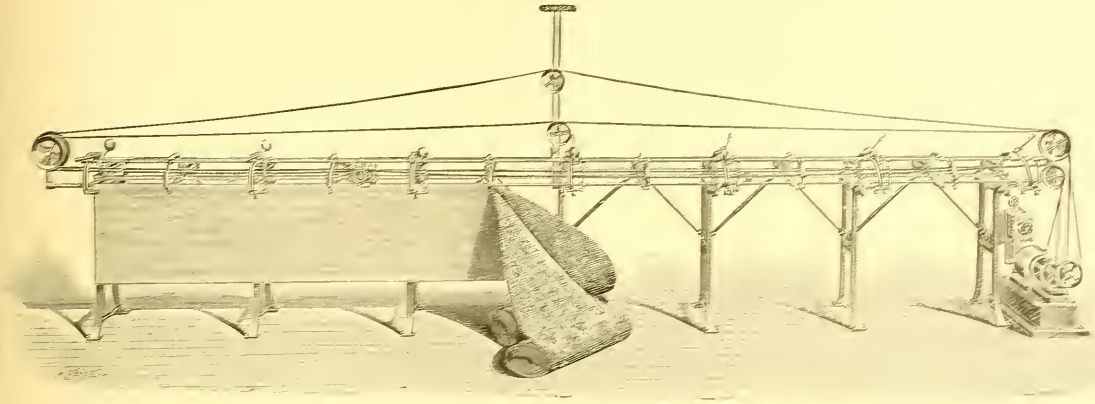
Experience Has Proven the Fact that the SINGER AUTOMATIC POWER CARPET SEWER will save its cost in one year to any carpet dealer having enough business to require a hand machine. THE SINGER AUTOMATIC is now in use by dealers who saved its cost during the first six months of its operation.

A TRIUMPH OF MECHANICAL EFFICIENCY, SURPASSING ALL OTHER DEVICES FOR ITS PURPOSE.



Truly automatic, requires less labor and sews 40 per cent. more carpet than any other machine on the market.
Requires least floor space, and uses any form of power.
Makes perfect stitch and seam, sewing any kind of carpet.

Automatic Matching and Clamping Device.

This device is absolutely unique, and secures perfect stretching and matching, without necessity for expert labor. It is simpler, swifter and in every way more effective than any other way of handling a carpet. The sewing machine works automatically on its track, following the operator from section to section as fast as each is matched and clamped, the action of the clamping levers automatically governing the movement of the sewing machine, thus saving a great deal of time. . . . . .

This is not a Hand Machine Crudely Adapted to Power Operation.

Our Hand Machine is well known, and is still on the market, fully guaranteed to be the best and most practical in use.

John H. Pray, Sons & Co.,

Wholesale and Commission Carpets.

BOSTON, MASS.

We offer to the Trade our usual standard lines of Carpetings for the Spring of '98.

As we were large purchasers of merchandise before the recent sharp advances, we are in position to quote, in all cases, the lowest market price, and in some cases offer inducements that mills and commission houses will not meet.

Our private patterns, especially in Wiltons and Brussels, are not surpassed either in variety of design or novelty in coloring.

If we, with our private patterns and colorings, have been able to secure some of the largest contracts given in this country, would it not PAY YOU to have our patterns represented in your stock.

☞ CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

THE NEW

Keystone 3-Shoot Velvets.

• • • •

OUR INVITATION. Carpet merchants are invited to call at either our Philadelphia or New York office and prove to their satisfaction that we are offering the best Velvet Carpeting produced in this country,

LABOR AND MATERIAL. We have employed experts only. We are using the best materials that can be bought, principally worsted wool, spun in the fleece, producing a long lasting, hard wearing fabric.

SMALL ORDERS PREFERRED. We want small sample orders, feeling sure we will retain the business of firms who try our goods.

ONE STORE ONLY. We shall confine our goods to one first-class house in each town. The advantages of this policy are apparent to every live merchant.

PRICE. We offer Keystone High-pile 3-shoot Velvets at the price of ordinary 2-shoot goods.

PHILADELPHIA, February 15, 1898.

To Buyers of Upholstery Fabrics:

Our new Spring line of Tapestry Table and Couch Covers, Piece Goods and Curtains will attest more strongly than ever the permanency of our position as leaders in this line of goods. Every effort has been made to surpass all previous records, and the many novelties and improvements we have succeeded in producing bear evidence of the superiority of the product of our mills.

Our goods show all that is latest in fabric and style, and are put on the market at figures that commend them to buyers of fine, medium and popular priced goods.

Our entire line has a reputation to maintain. It has passed into something of a trade saying that our productions are par excellence--the best of the kind --an asembling of the newest and most desirable ideas. We are taking care that its good name and fame shall not suffer through any remissness of ours. We are making and showing a line that we know will interest you.

Our new productions prove us to be, as we have been,

LEADERS

MODERN UPHOLSTERIES.

It is evident that buyers are becoming more convinced every season that it does not pay to purchase foreign made Upholstery and Drapery Fabrics when they can buy American made goods of equal quality and superior styles at considerably less money. That our productions for the will substantiate the correctness of this assertion we leave to the judgment of the Trade and invite the most careful comparison between them and imported fabrics.

One eminent and popular house that has tried all makes announces them to be

"The Best Window Hollands Made."

Another equally large Importer of great experience states:

"The goods have always been and are now fast colors."

Another firm in the very front rank of the business describes them as

"Unequalled in quality, unshrinkable and of finest dyes."

While another firm of Importers, probably one of the largest shade goods houses in the world, characterizes them in these terms:

"JOHN KING & SON'S Famous Scotch Hollands."

JOHN KING & SON'S

ESTABLISHED IN THE YEAR 1775

Celebrated

Scotch Window HOLLANDS

ILLUSTRATING the high consideration these popular goods hold in the estimation of the most experienced importers of shade goods in the country, the attention of the trade is invited to the above opinions, published in the columns of this and other journals, over the signatures of the respective firms.

Enterprising but unscrupulous parties unable to reach the exalted standard of these celebrated goods, pay them the flattery of imitating the wrappings. It is the Goods, not the wrappings, the trade is after. See that Bands, Tickets and Tabs of every piece are marked

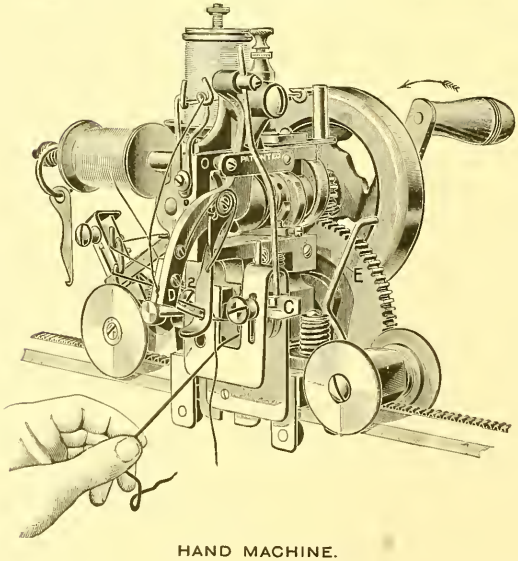
POWER MACHINE.



HAND MACHINE.

HAND, ELECTRIC OR POWER.

The Only True Floor Covering Uniter Made.

Operated every way.

Sews every way.

Sews everything the correct way.

Sew your carpets with elastic stitch only (the best results from correct work only).

THE MACHINE

sews Ingrains over and over—a perfect imitation of hand work. Evener and stronger.

Sews Japanese Matting and Fibre Carpets overcast to lay flat; overcasts or serges raw edges.

Sews borders to raw edge and overcasts them.

Sews Wiltons, Brussels and Tapestries—straight stitch.

Instantaneous changes.

Is simple, durable and a rapid sewer.

Is it not more profitable to own one machine that will do all your work than three or four and then fail to accomplish it? The machine can be sent anywhere, and can be set up and operated by anyone. No experts required. Operated by boy or girl. Write for samples of stitching and liberal trial conditions.

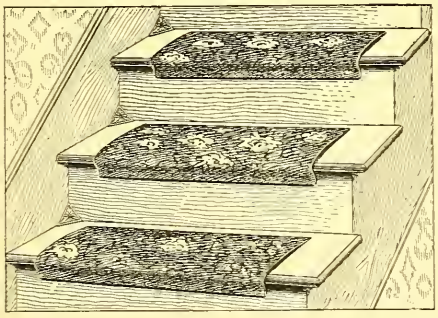
Patent Hardwood Stair Cover.



THE above cut illustrates our new way of carpeting stairs. The step and riser can be covered entirely or only as much as may be desired for fine finished hardwood stairs, as shown in the cut. The fastening of the carpet cannot work loose. These covers are not expensive to make and put down, and, when once fitted, a stairs of fourteen steps can be taken up in two minutes and relaid in the same time. For full particulars address

The Tile Carpet

Carpets are soft and restful to the feet, non-slippery, noiseless; they are also germ collectors, disease breeders, poor wearers. Mosaic or any hard tile is sufficiently sanitary and durable, but slippery, noisy, foot tiring. easily separated, easily cracked. If we could add to carpet the good qualities of tile—make it waterproof, disease-proof, wear-proof—we would have a flooring practically perfect. That's just what Interlocking Rubber Tile is—A Perfect Floor. So easy to to lay, too—goes right down over any old floor. Put Your Name Where Everyone Must See it

Tell what you have to say—be brief but sincere. The one place to make this display is in and we'll show you how to do it!

The Carpet and . . . Upholstery Trade Review,

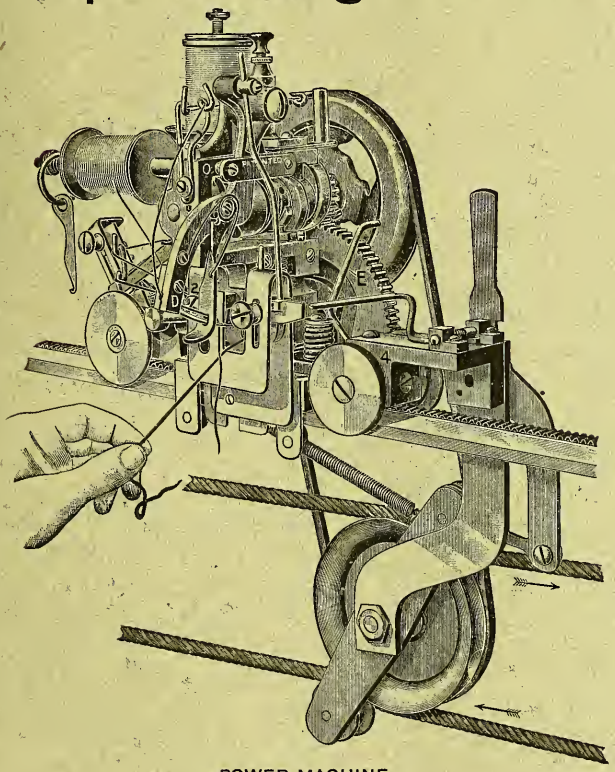
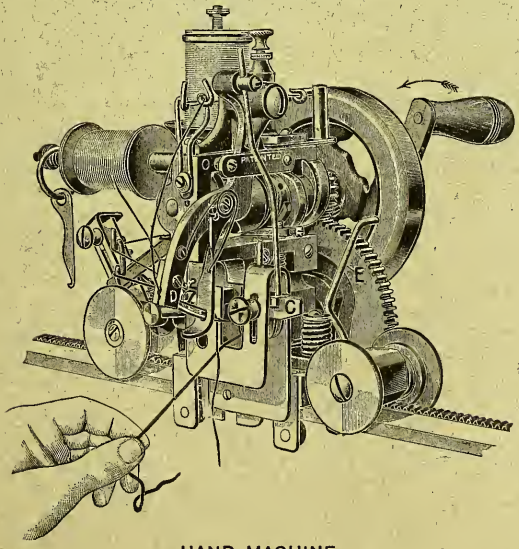
The Taft Universal . . . Carpet Sewing Machine.



POWER MACHINE.



HAND MACHINE.

HAND, ELECTRIC OR POWER.

The Only True Floor Covering Uniter Made.

Operated every way.

Sews every way.

Sews everything the correct way.

Sew your carpets with elastic stitch only (the best results from correct work only).

THE MACHINE

sews Ingrains over and over—a perfect imitation of hand work. Evener and stronger.

Sews Japanese Matting and Fibre Carpets overcast to lay flat; overcasts or serges raw edges.

Sews borders to raw edge and overcasts them.

Sews Wiltons, Brussels and Tapestries—straight stitch.

Instantaneous changes.

Is simple, durable and a rapid sewer.

Is it not more profitable to own one machine that will do all your work than three or four and then fail to accomplish it? The machine can be sent anywhere, and can be set up and operated by anyone. No experts required. Operated by boy or girl. Write for samples of stitching and liberal trial conditions.

THE LEADING LINE OF VELVETS AND TAPESTRIES

Spring Styles, 1898.

With pardonable pride we point to the high favor in which our goods are held by the Trade throughout the entire country, a position attained by strict adherence to the use of best materials, the employment of exclusive methods in weave and finish and by our universally acknowledged

Superiority of Designs and Colorings.

With the assurance of obtaining Velvets and Tapestries which are artistic and original in style and are always salable, every buyer should be interested in looking over our New Spring Line.

ORIENTAL Carpets, Rugs
And Hangings.

Important Announcement.

WITH a view of further enlarging my business by securing a certain class of buyers I have decided to take IMPORT ORDERS from responsible houses on the basis of a small commission, with the understanding that if on inspection in New York the goods do not prove satisfactory, the firm giving such order will not be obliged to take same.

Under this most favorable arrangement there can be no risk whatever to the buyer, but there are certainly superior advantages considering the state of the Turkish and Persian markets and the peculiar nature of the goods.

My entire attention has been exclusively given to the IMPORTATION and WHOLESALING OF ORIENTAL RUGS and CARPETS for the PAST SIXTEEN YEARS. During the last ten years my importations have been, by far, the largest; in some years equaling the combined importations of the next largest three importers. Last year my importations ran several hundred bales ahead of those of any one other importing firm. My resident representatives, both in Constantinople and Smyrna, sell nearly 75 per cent. of all the exported Rugs and Carpets from those two principal cities.

I shall continue to keep, as usual, THE LARGEST and BEST ASSORTED STOCK at my stores, 343 Broadway and 76 Leonard Street, New York, and in bond. The very best facilities enjoyed by me for securing goods, combined with the smallest expenses, have, admittedly, satisfied my patrons and placed me beyond competition.

Note.—All goods remaining from old tariff imports are still quoted at old tariff prices.

Oriental Rugs and Carpets.

IT affords us great pleasure to announce to the trade that in addition to our banking and export business we have opened a large Oriental Rug and Carpet Department, under the management of Mr. V. H. Jinishian, who has just returned from an extended trip to the Orient after securing exceedingly tempting lots.

We open with 250 Bales of judiciously selected stock, both antique and modern.

Our salesroom is centrally located and is the best lighted and most spacious in the trade, affording every facility for making satisfactory purchases.

OWING to our close connections in the Orient, established during half a century's business existence, we can secure most desirable lots at prices much less than those paid when purchased through the usual channels of trade.

We shall always carry a select stock of Antique Irans, well assorted Caucasus Rugs and all weaves of Anatolia Rugs; also all grades and sizes of Turkish, Persian and Indian Carpets.

Turkish, Persian and Indian Carpets.

AXMINSTER, WILTON AND BRUSSELS

CARPETS.

The Carpets made by this Company have received the highest award wherever exhibited, including Gold Medals at the Paris Exposition, 1878, and at the Centennial, 1876.

Their deserved reputation for excellence of fabric, richness and durability of color, novelty and beauty of design, has led to frequent infringements, and inferior goods have often been palmed off in their stead. For the protection of the public the Company has adopted as a trade mark the word "BIGELOW," which will be woven (at every repeat of the pattern) in white capitals into the back of the fabric. Customers will therefore have merely to examine the back of a carpet to be certain that they are getting the genuine Bigelow goods.

THESE GOODS CAN BE HAD FROM ALL FIRST-CLASS DEALERS.

UPHOLSTERY DEPARTMENT, PAGE 51.

☞Our readers are urged to remember that we are always desirous to receive communications of interest to the carpet or upholstery trades, such as changes in firms or managers, the building or opening of new stores, improvements in old ones, the adding of new departments, improved methods of doing business, new inventions, suggestions as to the cutting, making and laying of carpets, the designing and fitting of draperies, or inquiries and dissertations relating to the technical or commercial details of the trades to which this periodical is devoted.

THE TRADE SITUATION.

THE business of the past fortnight has been as active as is generally expected at this period of the year, when first orders have been placed and the retail trade has not yet become large enough to call for duplicate orders. But the number of general buyers in town at present is much greater than usual, and there is little doubt that the carpet trade will get a fair share of the business resulting.

Prices of carpeting are maintained, and the straw matting market is especially firm, with a rising tendency.

A PROPOSED COMBINATION.

THE third attempt to form a combination of carpet manufacturers to control the production, sale and price of their goods is now being made.

The proposed plan comprises the organization of a central company, that shall buy all its wool direct, spin all its wool, worsted and cotton in its own mills, and employ its own force of salesmen, who will deal directly with the retail trade, and sell goods on sixty days' time, thus saving commission houses' and jobbers' percentage of profits. The production of carpeting will of course be regulated by demand, and if it be necessary to maintain a steady market some mills will be shut down. The promoters desire to secure first a combination of Ingrain manufacturers, and their efforts are confined at present to that branch of the carpet trade, but the plan contemplates a union eventually of manufacturers of every kind of carpeting.

A REVIEW representative has had interviews with a number of manufacturers whose headquarters are in this city, and has found that the sentiment among them is adverse to the plan.

THE BANKRUPTCY BILL IN CONGRESS.

THE House of Representatives passed on the 19th ult. the Henderson Bankruptcy bill, reported by the House Committee on Judiciary as a substitute for the Nelson bill, passed by the Senate at the extra session last summer.

The Henderson bill provides for both voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy. As an additional protection for the debtor, creditors who file a petition for involuntary bankruptcy must furnish a bond insuring the payment of the debtor's expenses, damages, costs and counsel fees in case the petition is dismissed. The ridiculous Nelson bill made only fraudulent acts grounds for involuntary bankruptcy, while the original Torrey bill made not only fraudulent acts, but also certain others, resulting simply from inability to meet one's obligations, sufficient reasons for declaring a debtor to be a bankrupt. The Henderson bill, on the other hand, throws on the creditors the burden of proving that the debtor is actually insolvent, or in other words, that he has not sufficient assets eventually to discharge his liabilities.

The author of the Henderson bill has devised a method of compensating the referees and trustees which will probably reduce the expenses to a minimum and make it in the interest of these officials to secure the largest possible dividends to the creditors and effect a speedy termination of a bankruptcy proceeding. They are to receive as remuneration for their services, payable after they are rendered, a small filing fee and commissions on the amounts distributed to creditors as dividends. Furthermore, the courts are empowered to appoint and remove the referees in their discretion, thus making the staff of referees an elastic body that will expand or contract in accordance with the needs of the service.

The bill now goes into conference, Messrs. Henderson, of Iowa; Ray, of New York, and Terry, of Arkansas, representing the House. The action of the Senate upon it is of course a matter of great doubt, for the passage of the demagogic and practically useless Nelson bill by that body last year showed that a large proportion of its members was not inclined to favor any really equitable bankruptcy measure, their attitude being obviously governed by their impression that debtors—and especially fraudulent debtors—have more votes than creditors.

THE USEFUL REMNANT SUPPLEMENT.

Meriden, Conn., February 25, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

Please accept our thanks for your Remnant Supplement and for inserting our list. We have already found use for it in disposing of and procuring several remnants.

J. A. Roberge,
With Ives, Upham & Rand.

Mrs. Arabella Holder, wife of Frank T. Holder, president of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, was killed on the 25th ult. in the wreck of a train on the Atlantic Coast Railway line, near Waycross, Ga. The engineer did not see a burning trestle until it was too late to stop. He then tried to dash through the flames. The engine and baggage car went through safely. The other cars went down and immediately caught fire. Mrs. Holder and her husband were in the forward sleeper. Mrs. Holder was killed, her head being crushed, and Mr. Holder was injured, but not seriously. Mr. and Mrs. Holder were returning from Florida, where they had been spending a few weeks. The funeral of Mrs. Holder took place at her late home in Yonkers, N. Y., on the 28th ult.

THE NUSSBAUM BANKRUPTCY BILL.

A meeting of merchants was held on the 25th ult. at 280 Broadway, this city, to discuss the Nussbaum bankruptcy bill pending in the State Senate. Senator Nussbaum, who was present, made a few remarks in explanation of the bill, and urged that merchants send in any suggestions for its improvement.

Resolutions indorsing the bill submitted by F. N. Goddard, of J. W. Goddard & Co., were adopted, and on a motion of M. E. Bannon, of Converse, Stanton & Co., a committee of twenty-five was appointed to take the bill under consideration and to co-operate with the author in securing its speedy enactment. Among the members of the committee are Messrs. Henry MacKay, of Joseph Wild & Co., and Wm. E. Tefft, of Tefft, Weller & Co. The principal features of Senator Nussbaum's bill were mentioned in the January 15 number of The Review.

THE STRAW MATTING MARKET.

Advices from Canton, China, regarding the matting market are to the effect that contracts to date for the coming season amount to about 100,000 rolls. Prices are very firm, with an upward tendency. There are several orders on the market unplaced, and dealers are now waiting till after the Chinese new year holidays before accepting more. If orders come in freely and early it is thought present high rates will be maintained.

THE IRAN COMPANY'S ORIENTAL RUGS.

As announced in The Review of February 15, The Iran Company is a new concern which has just opened in the importation and wholesaling of Oriental carpets and rugs at 907 Broadway, corner of Twentieth street, New York. The company is incorporated under New York State laws, with H. H. Costikyan as president and L. H. Costikyan as secretary, both of whom have had an extended experience in the Oriental rug trade in connection with another leading New York importing house.

The Iran Company occupies a well lighted loft in the modern building at the above address, which has excellent elevator service and all other arrangements for the convenience of buyers. It has a good stock of various makes of Orientals in small, medium and large sizes. The Messrs. Costikyan are young, active business men, and will doubtless meet with pronounced success in interesting the trade in their goods.

The Commercial Travelers' Fair opened in the Madison Square Garden, this city, on the night of the 28th ult. The object of the fair is to secure funds for the completion of the Commercial Travelers' Home, now building at Binghamton, this State.

"A striking example" is portrayed in the bulletin of W. T. Smith & Son, the rug, Art Square and curtain manufacturers. The firm certainly have a striking assortment of goods, and are enlarging their list of customers to a greater extent this season than ever before. There is something in their big and varied line that every carpet and upholstery house can use.

A new post office sub-station, to be numbered 102, will be opened to-day—March 1—at Tenth street and Fourth avenue, in Wanamaker's store.

The employees of Edward Ridley & Sons gave a benefit on February 22 at Chickering Hall in aid of their relief fund, which proved a great success.

John Perry, a bookkeeper in the employ of W. & J. Sloane, was killed on the night of the 22d ult. by falling down a flight of stairs in the apartment house, 77 East 118th street.

Joseph Herrmann, carpet and furniture dealer, 156 East Twenty-third street, has leased the premises at 243 Eighth avenue for a term of three years, and opened a branch store there, with Val. P. Thoesen as manager.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the foundation of the American Linoleum Manufacturing Company was celebrated by a dinner of the stockholders one day last week. As a sort of silver anniversary John Cartledge, the president of the company, was presented with a superb solid silver vase. It was of American workmanship, just as the linoleums of the company are American in origin and results.

The first semi-annual convention of the Buyers' Association of America was held on the 25th ult. at Hardman Hall, this city. Martin Roman, president of the association, made a short address of welcome, and among the other speakers were L. M. Meyer, of Jonas Long's Sons, Scranton, Pa., and J. H. Carey, of R. H. Macy & Co. The present officers of the association are Martin Roman, president; A. L. Walcott, first vice-president; C. E. Adams, second vice-president; Leopold Lowenstein, third vice-president; John P. Boyer, fourth vice-president; Geo. McL. Johnson, treasurer; J. A. Kraus, secretary. The executive committee is composed of James Ferguson, chairman; Louis M. Meyer, C. A. Smith, John B. Sheller, William Ettlinger, Jesse H. Carey, James G. Henry, R. Perry Hughes, Thomas P. Swift

Joseph Hynes, who became well known in the trade during his connection with W. & J. Sloane's office department, in which he held an important and responsible position, is now private secretary of Commissioner McCartney, the head of the street cleaning department. Mr. Hynes entered the department as an inspector during the régime of Commissioner Waring, and later was promoted to a clerkship. In this position his ability attracted the attention of Mr. McCartney, and finally resulted in his appointment as private secretary of the commissioner, at a very handsome salary.

Fred H. Levy, carpet and furniture dealer, 929 Broadway, Brooklyn, is advertising to sell out.

The capital stock of The Iran Company is $10,000, not $100,000, as previously reported. The Iran Company have opened as importers of Oriental rugs at 907 Broadway, New York.

Exports of carpeting and kindred goods from the port of New York during the past four weeks were as follows: Rugs—Leith, 242 bls., $5,329. Antwerp, 2 bls, $131. Copenhagen, 4 bls., $120. Carpeting—Halifax, 12 bls., $400. British Australia, 1 bl., $110. Bremen, 1 bl., $40. Matting—London, 50 rolls, $1,657. Carpet Sweepers—Hamburg, 9 cs , $163. Rotterdam, 4 cs., $66. Antwerp, 2 cs., $37.

The Sol Heyman Company, at Fifty-ninth street and Third avenue, honored George Washington in great style on February 22. Mart. Kairer, the manager of the carpet department, had his opening, and Sig Heyman, who is treasurer of the company and manager of the bicycle department, painted the whole house red. In the south window was a bank of roses, across which in blue flowers was the legend: "Opening of Our Wheel Season, 1898." In the north window was a tapestry picture of the Father of his Country, and a chainless wheel filled with roses and scintillating with electric lights. The Hungarian Band was on hand and so was the crowd.

A large number of merchants have taken advantage of the concessions in the shape of reduced passenger fares obtained by the Merchants' Association from the roads forming what is known as the Central Passenger Association, which controls the territory west of Buffalo, Pittsburg and Wheeling, through to Chicago and St. Louis. Arrangements for opening up the State of Texas and other territory in the extreme South and Southwest have been concluded with the Mallory Line, steamers of which ply between this port and Galveston; the Cromwell Line, whose boats ply between this and New Orleans, and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which connects with the Cromwell Line, and whose lines, in its Atlantic system, run through Texas as far as El Paso, the western boundary of Texas, north with connections into Indian Territory, south with connections into Mexico, and to all the principal Gulf ports in Texas. The steamship lines agree to bring merchants to New York from their respective ports, and through their respective rail or other connections on all their sailing dates during the month of March, the tickets being sold at a reduced rate of fare.

The distribution of Ivins, Dietz & Metzger's products this season by P. J. Donovan, the New York agent, forms a very gratifying volume. The combination of so popular a carpet man as Mr. Donovan and the I., D. & M. goods is an attraction which few buyers can resist.

While the new tariff has obviously restricted the sale of Koch & te Kock's Saxony Axminster and mohair rugs, yet F. B. Bru Baker is greatly encouraged by orders received from firms who have handled the goods, and say they must have some of them, even at the increased price. Mr. Bru Baker shows the spring line at his office in the Hartford Building.

S. Sanford & Sons are well satisfied with their decision to remain at their old stand, 29 Union square. As seen in its new decorations and fittings the showroom is a highly artistic business home, and its cheerfulness must have a pleasing effect on visitors. The way a buyer is made to feel at ease, and the unstinted service of Manager Treloar and the entire staff, whether the buyer's order is big or little or no order at all, are also not the least attractions of these handsome carpet quarters.

At a recent meeting of the creditors of Morris & McKay, who assigned a short time ago, it was shown that the firm owe about $16,000, $11,000 of which is owed to six creditors, the remaining $5,000 being divided among thirty-six others. They offered a compromise of 50 per cent. in five payments of 10 per cent. each, to be made in two, four, seven, ten and twelve months from February 1. The E. S. Higgins Carpet Company, which was preferred, agreed to waive preference and come in with the other creditors, provided they sign the composition paper. There is an item of $3,000 for rent due Eugene Higgins and the H. B. Claflin Company have a $3,000 claim. It is believed that both of these will sign off and allow the compromise to go through. If the firm succeed in arranging to continue in business it is probable that they will remove from the White street store.

The book of colored prints of Saxony carpets and hall runners recently issued by the Hartford Carpet Company is now being distributed among the trade, and its effect is already shown in an increased business. This book is one of the finest examples of color printing of floor coverings ever published, and gives an excellent idea of the original rugs. Saxony carpets are a highly popular production of the Hartford Company, and the demand for them is steadily increasing. They serve practically all the purposes of a one-piece rug, as when the breadths are sewn together without mitres it is difficult to distinguish the presence of any seam. We advise the trade to become posted on these goods, as they will find them a profitable article to handle. An announcement referring to Saxony carpets and hall runners and their sizes will be found on page 17, and the goods may be seen at the salesrooms of Reune Martin & Sons, Hartford Building, 41 Union square, New York.

GEORGE C. ENGLISH RESIGNS.

George C. English has resigned his position as manager and buyer of the carpet and furniture departments of R. H. Macy & Co., New York. Mr. English was formerly of the firm of Meyer, Webber & English, Buffalo, and later with Lord & Taylor and Hilton, Hughes & Co., and had been with Macy & Co. about eighteen months.

A. M. Alexander, carpet and furniture dealer, Jackson, Tenn., has sold out.

J. Crawford Lyon, of Lyon Brothers & Co., Baltimore, returned from abroad last week.

Hon. John Sanford, of S. Sanford & Sons, with his wife and his mother, Mrs. Stephen Sanford, have been recent guests at the Waldorf-Astoria

The cocoa mat and matting plant of the East India Manufacturing Company has been removed to Baltimore, Md., and is now in operation there.

Thomas L. Leedom, head of the firm of Thos. L. Leedom & Co., of Bristol, Pa., was at his New York salesroom last week and reports the firm's big mills fully occupied.

The determination of the R. H. & B. C. Reeve Company, of Camden, N. J., to offer only linoleum of the highest standard in quality and finish has been adhered to strictly. The company aim to produce linoleum equal to any in the market, and in soliciting trade they keep this feature before the buyer. They are able to deliver all orders promptly, as the production has not been affected by the fire in their factory a few weeks ago which did not reach their stock of finished goods. Randolph Reeve, their New York representative, says he is prepared to demonstrate to all callers at the salesroom in the Hartford Building that Reeve linoleum is of the highest standard

Boston and the East.

Boston Budget.

Boston, February 25.

George J. Carter, formerly head of the upholstery department of R. H. White & Co., but now of Kansas City, was in Boston a few days this week.

Frank Scanlan, for some years with Thomas O'Callaghan & Co., has left that firm to take a position with John H. Pray, Sons & Co.

Thomas S. Gay, of Philadelphia, was in Boston over Washington's Birthday.

V. E. Lott, buyer for Lamson Brothers, Toledo, Ohio, has been in Boston this week.

Hugh Keveney, of T. J. Keveney & Co., was among recent visitors to this city, and reports business good.

John H. Pray, Sons & Co. have secured the contract for furnishing new carpets, furniture and shades for the Marine Hospital in Chelsea.

M. J. Whittall, the Worcester manufacturer, was in Boston the other day, and stated that his mills had done a very satisfactory business.

These are the words, in glaring 6 foot letters, which stare at passers-by from a blank wall adjoining a now vacant lot, bounded on three sides by Bedford street, Chauncy street and Avon place: "Jordan, Marsh & Co. will occupy this new eight story building, when completed, for the sale of carpets, rugs, upholstery and wall papers." Old buildings occupying the site heretofore have been razed and work on the new structure begun.

The creditors of the Bay State Carpet Company, of Brockton, Mass., held a meeting in Boston at the office of the Lyon Furniture Agency on the 25th inst. The liabilities reported were $26,732, with assets of $16,807. It appeared that one Orville D. Lovell held a mortgage of $16,000, and threatened to take possession and give notice of foreclosure, but offered, if the general creditors would assent to assign to him and W. H. Chipman, to give all an equal chance. The creditors voted to accept his proposition. An assignment will be made and a general dividend declared.

The collection of unique blotters is the latest fad of the head of Joseph Wild & Co.'s felt department, and he already has many of the rarest specimens in the world. He recently wished to add a Chinese blotter, which the firm has been distributing from its Boston house, and wrote to Mr. C. W. Kayser, the manager in this city, for one. Mr. Kayser responded immediately, and to make sure of its safe delivery nailed it to the bottom of a sample case weighing enough to make the express charges 45 cents, which Robbins promptly paid. At last accounts he had abandoned the collection of blotters, and had even foresworn the use of blotting paper, having purchased an old-fashioned sand-box to dry his correspondence with.

New England Notes.

The Palmer (Mass.) carpet mill has been started up again.

The Burnham & McKinney Company has succeeded P. P. Burnham at Bridgeton, Me.

George Z. Dean & Son succeed George Z. Dean, carpet and furniture dealer, Cheshire, Mass.

George W. Abbott succeeds the late E. B. Hill in carpets and furniture at Bucksport, Me.

A new firm in Hyde Park, Mass., is the Household Art Company, which will deal in Art Squares, rugs and wall papers.

The Smith, Twitchell & Knapp Company, Torrington, Conn., recently captured an order for furnishing a church in that town.

William Sullivan, carpet and furniture dealer, North Adams, Mass., has removed to new quarters, one block above his old store.

Charles M. Dowd, doing business as the New York Furniture Company, at Westerly, R. I., was burned out last week. Loss, $4,000.

M. N. Clark succeeds Clark & Curtiss, and Collar Brothers succeed A. P. Curtiss in the dry goods and carpet business at Norfolk, Conn.

The partitions in the top floor of the Boston Store, Willimantic, Conn., have been moved so as to make more room for the carpet and furniture department.

A two story wooden building at North Brookfield, Mass., partly occupied by H. Splaine & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, was burned on February 18. Loss, $5,000; partially insured.

A fire in the Burbank Block, Pittsfield, Mass., on the 17th ult. burned out the salesrooms of the Boston Furniture Company. The company had just occupied the building, but had not opened for business.

Barnes & Marshall, carpet and furniture dealers, Greenwich, Conn., have dissolved partnership, R. Macy Barnes retiring. The business will be continued by Washington Marshall.

William T. Woolley, carpet and furniture dealer, Meriden, Conn., has had plans drawn for a new building to be erected alongside of and to be a part of and the same as the structure he now occupies. When this new building is completed, Mr. Woolley will have about 80 feet front.

A fire, which probably started in the plumbing room of the J. M. Ives Company, general housefurnishings, Main street, Danbury, Conn., about 10 o'clock on the night of the 18th ult., resulted in $10,000 damage to stock and $5,000 damage to building. William Grant, paints and wall paper, had a $5,000 loss.

On the 11th inst. Jackson & Sexton, of Nashua, N. H., dealers in carpets, furniture and stoves, assigned their stock and fixtures to John C. Randall, of John H. Pray, Sons & Co., of Boston, and John A. Spaulding, of Nashua. The failure was said to be due to hard times, and the embarrassment of several larger financial institutions of Nashua. George E. Danforth, head clerk in the store, was appointed agent to represent the creditors and take charge of the business, under the assignees. A meeting of the creditors was held in Boston February 25, when liabilities of $32,000 were reported. The assets were $15,000 in merchandise; $5,000 good book accounts, and several thousand dollars of nominal value. A committee, consisting of Messrs. P. B. Fiske, H. N. Milliken, W. W. Corson and A. A. Lawson, was appointed to make an investigation and report at an adjourned meeting of creditors on March 4, at the office of the Lyon Furniture Agency in Boston.

PHILADELPHIA

....Carrington & Lyndall, 906 Callowhill street, are enlarging their carpet department.

....The Bromley Brothers Carpet Company are running fully up to their usual standard, and have all looms employed.

....The general offices of the National Association of Manufacturers have been removed from 1743 North Fourth street to the Bourse.

....Dornan Brothers are not looking for any very great rush before March 1. A good portion of their looms is running for present purposes.

....Lawrence Collins is having a big run on his cotton carpets, and most of his looms are in operation. The demand seems to be active for that class of goods at the present time.

....James & George D. Bromley report an increase in orders over last month, and have been obliged to enlarge the number of looms in operation in order to fill their orders promptly.

....We are indebted to V. E. Archambault & Son for the cut presented herewith representing the first floor in their handsome and spacious store at Eleventh and Market streets.

....John Wanamaker, who was drawn as a juror for the February term of the United States District Court on the 21st ult., promptly put in an appearance, and remained in court throughout the day in his capacity as a juror.

....Gimbel Brothers have enclosed the counting room in the carpet department in a very handsome oak paneling, which adds very much to the appearance of that part of the room.

....John & James Dobson have secured temporary quarters on the fourth floor of the Harrison Building, 1003 and 1005 Filbert street. Their travelers have returned from their trips to the West, and report trade as remarkably good in their various territories.

....Thomas Caves & Sons report a good demand for their new Keystone Velvets, and the weavers in their Manayunk Mills as "busy as nailers." The Ingrain looms are also all in motion filling orders from the East and the far West.

....C. H. Masland & Sons have all their new looms for weaving their new Tapestry carpets in position, and the goods will be all ready for next season. Their various grades of Ingrains are finding ready sale, as are also their new weave Art Squares.

....William Henderson, Fifth street and Columbia avenue, is having a fine run on all the goods he produces, and orders are coming in freely from all quarters. One important feature of his trade is that the high grades are in the greatest demand.

....Dickey & McMaster are very busy with their granite Ingrains, and have all looms busy. Their Damask and Venetians, the reputation of which has been so long established, are still in high demand, and the looms are doing their utmost to keep pace with the orders.

....Samuel White, manager of the Centennial Mills, Front street and Columbia avenue, reports a fairly good trade in all branches of his output, especially in Smyrna rugs. Mr. White is of the opinion that Ingrain carpets are selling on too close a margin to be very profitable.

....Work has ceased for the present upon the ruins of the store of J. & J. Dobson on Chestnut street, and it is generally understood that nothing further will be done until after the insurance has been adjusted. In the meantime the store now occupied by the Messrs. Dobson has been rented, and they are looking for a suitable building for temporary use on Filbert or Arch street. The cut order department is now in operation and will continue. That a building of good proportions and fine order of architecture will eventually be erected on the old site is certain, but the architect has not yet drawn the first line of the plans for it.

....Thomas Boggs & Son's new mill is fast approaching completion, and will be ready for the machinery about April 1. In the meantime the old mill is running to its fullest capacity and on full time. The rumor that John Boggs is to occupy one of the floors in the new mill is without foundation.

....Henry Holmes, who has been somewhat indisposed for several weeks, is on the high road to convalescence, and will soon be himself again. In the meantime the Sherman Mills are in the best possible trim, with every loom in operation, and running night and day. Art Squares are sold far ahead, as usual.

....H. H. Kensil, formerly with John & James Dobson, and for some years with the Trorlicht, Duncker & Renard Carpet Company, St. Louis, has made an engagement as salesman with J. B. Van Sciver & Co., Camden, N. J. Mr. Kensil was one of the salesmen that were thrown out by the fire in J. & J. Dobson's store, and all of them now have good positions.

....The Judge Brothers estate is running the Harrison Mills, Columbia avenue and Leib street, to fully three-quarters of their capacity on orders now coming in. Conspicuous in their output are the new weave Ingrains, known to the trade as "Mortlakes." The designs and delicate colorings in these goods are appreciated by all good judges of high art in textile goods.

....George Moore, of the firm of Moore Brothers, carpet manufacturers, on Howard street, below Lehigh avenue, was stricken with paralysis on the 4th ult. in his rooms in the Junction Hotel, Broad street and Lehigh avenue. His condition was so alarming the next day that he was removed to the Episcopal Hospital, where he was reported to be slightly improved at last accounts.

....D. Jamieson's Sons are finding orders enough to keep all their looms active. Their traveling men have returned from their Western trips well satisfied. The trade of these enterprising young men is constantly enlarging, extending this season all the way to the Pacific Coast. A comparatively new branch of their business is the manufacture of jute Smyrna rugs, and it has proved very successful, judging from the number of orders received for these goods.

Thos. Caves & Sons are wining great praise for their Keystone three-shoot Velvets. Their line has been designed by some of the very best artists in America and is one of the most salable offerings in a carpet which is certainly at high tide in popular favor. The price is, considering the excellence of style, color and quality, extraordinarily low, and the goods will be hard fighters in the spring trade. Messrs. Caves & Sons simply ask an examination, which can be had either at the mills, Third and Huntingdon streets, Philadelphia, or at F. B. Bru Baker & Co.'s salesroom in the Hartford Building, Broadway and Seventeenth street, New York.

AN ARMENIAN RUG MERCHANT.

Haroutune Gulbenkian, the youngest member of the well-known firm of Gulbenkian Brothers & Co., of Constantinople, was born at Scutari, a suburb of Constantinople, in 1872. After taking a preliminary course of studies in Armenian national schools he entered Robert College at Roomeli Hirsar in 1885 and graduated in 1889. Then he went to Marseilles, France, where he took a special course in the Ecole de Commerce. For some time he was connected with the firm's branch house at Marseilles known by the name of Gulbenkian & Turabian. Returning to Constantinople he entered the main office of the firm and displayed great energy and capacity. From Constantinople he went to Smyrna, where he established a branch house which even today is known by the name of Haroutune Gulbenkian. He afterward returned to Constantinople to manage the affairs of the firm of Gulbenkian Brothers & Co. In 1895 he came to America and took charge of the business of the firm of Gullabi Gulbenkian & Co. during the absence of his brother Gullabi. While in New York he showed his ability by winning the high esteem of all with whom he had dealings, largely extending the business of the firm, and entering into commercial relations with prominent houses of this country. Last year Mr. Gulbenkian went to Persia to make arrangements for establishing branches and factories for the manufacture of Persian carpets and rugs, and a few months ago he left Constantinople for India to establish there factories for the manufacture of Indian carpets. Mr H. Gulbenkian, although young in years, has had great experience in business, is very energetic and has combined a Yankee's push and pull with the shrewdness of an Armenian.

HAROUTUNE GULBENKIAN.

Our readers will remember the view of the Sphinx and camel riders in our last issue, taken while Mr. Gulbenkian was on his way to India.

A complete stock of carpets is being installed in connection with the upholstery department of the H. A. Meldrum Company, Buffalo, N. Y. The department was opened with upholstery and rugs last September, and has been exceptionally successful; so much so that it was decided to take in the whole third floor, 50x250 feet, and enlarge the upholstery stock and add carpets. W. S. Porter, head of the department, has been in New York with Charles Anderson, of the concern, during the past week selecting the new carpet stock. Mr. Porter was with Mandel Brothers and Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, prior to taking his present position, and was formerly with Barnes, Hengerer & Co., of Buffalo, with whom he spent twelve years. When ready for its spring opening in carpets and upholstery Mr. Porter says the house will have one of the most attractive departments in the State.

Floor Coverings;

Their History and Manufacture.

Body Brussels and Wiltons.

Body Brussels carpeting consists of a worsted yarn built upon a linen or cotton chain, and a linen weft. The worsted warp which forms the face of the carpet is wound on reels or bobbins arranged on large horizontal frames, which are placed one above the other in the rear of the loom. Each reel supplies one thread of worsted to the loom, and as there are 260 threads in the width of a Brussels carpet (27 inches), there are necessarily 260 reels on each frame. The loops which appear on the face of the fabric are made by the insertion of wires when the worsted warp has been raised by the operation of the Jacquard. These wires are withdrawn and inserted again at regular intervals as the weaving proceeds. The warp from each frame is drawn in a continuous web into the loom, and the Jacquard attachment above the looms controls every separate strand of the 1,000 to 1,500 which are being fed into the loom from all the frames. Each yarn is raised into the face of the carpet or dropped into the body according to the pattern on the Jacquard.

A Brussels carpet is called 5 frame when it is woven from five of the frames referred to, and if but four are used it is termed a 4 frame Brussels. It is obvious that if each of the frames is run with its full warp a 5 frame carpet will contain 25 per cent. more wool than a 4 frame. The number of frames used never exceeds six, and if each contributed but a single color to the warp the greatest number of colors possible would be six. But some body Brussels contain as many as twenty-five or thirty colors, this variety being obtained by "planting" warps of different colors on the same frame. But it is evident that the number of colors in any perfectly straight line running lengthwise in the carpet cannot be greater than the actual number of frames. Modifications of color lengthwise can be obtained only by dropping the warp of one frame and picking up the corresponding warp of another.

If a color—as, for example, blue—appears only in spots or in small masses of any kind, and these are separated from each other by some distance in the width of the carpet, it is then obvious that this color does not go all over; but if certain colors recur constantly throughout the entire width of the fabric, then the number of these will show how many frames or thicknesses of worsted are in the carpet.

In the diagram presented herewith, which represents a ruled paper drawing of a six color 4 frame Brussels carpet, the diagonal lines indicate one color, the dots another, the vertical lines another, the horizontal lines another, the white spaces another and the black another, while by a glance at the gammot a it will be seen that but four thicknesses of yarns are necessary for weaving this pattern, the yarns being of six colors. Frames 1 and 2, counting from the top, are "planted"; that is, each of them contains more than one color, and the first three frames are also imperfect. Thus in the top frame one stitch out of every ten is omitted, or twenty-six in the entire width of 260 threads; in the next frame four are saved out of every ten, or 104 in the width, and in the third frame one is saved out of every ten, or twenty-six in the width. The fourth frame alone is complete.

Wilton carpets are woven just as Brussels are, excepting that the wires used in making Wiltons have a sharp blade attached, and so arranged that when they are drawn out the blades cut the loops open, and thus form a plush surface. The pile of a Wilton carpet is higher than the loops of a Brussels, about one-fourth more yarn being used for Wiltons.

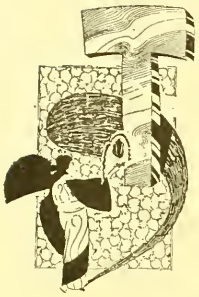
The Oakland Novelty Works is the name of a new concern organized at Pontiac, Mich., to manufacture a patented door mat. It is a stock company, composed of J. S. Stockwell, E. F. H. Pierson, Fred Durrant and Edward Weathehead.

E. S. Higgins Carpet Company has excellent reasons for being well satisfied with the demand for its new grade of Sultan (two-shoot) Velvets. These goods seem destined to become as famous and popular in the Velvet trade as the "Double Stars" are in the Tapestry market. The Sultan Velvets are shown in a superb line of patterns, comprising Oriental, floral and other fine effects, and the line includes halls and stairs.

BOSTON RUG COLLECTORS.



Talking recently about rug collectors in Boston a dealer in that city said: "Some of the best collections of rugs in Boston are owned by persons who do not like to have their names in print, and therefore try to stop all 'leaks' in information in regard to their collections.

"For example, if they buy a rug of a dealer who says: 'I sold so and so such a rug recently,' they keep away from him thereafter. The dealer who promises to say nothing about his sales in his endeavors to make other sales will get their trade every time, and not a few make their patronage conditional on silence. For this reason it is difficult to get precise information about the rugs of some of the largest collectors.

"Some of the Boston collectors make a fad of very old rugs, while others strive to get those of very fine weave and texture, and still others may have a penchant for rare combinations of colors.

"One of the most valuable collections in Boston is in the house of Mr. John E. Atkins at 306 Beacon street. He makes a specialty of close texture Persians in silk and fine wool weaves. His house is filled with them from the main floor to the top. One thousand dollars for a single specimen is not considered a high price by this collector, it is said, and more than one of his treasures cost twice that sum.

"Another valuable collection is that of J. Montgomery Sears. Mrs. Fred. L. Ames also has a very fine collection, and so has Eugene Van Rensselaer Thayer.

"The estate of Mrs. J. W. Clark owns one of the leading collections in the city. It is in the house at 66 Commonwealth avenue.

"One of the best known collections in Boston was that of the well-known General Whittier, now of New York, who formerly lived in the fine mansion on Beacon street, now the home of the University Club. When his establishment was broken up some of his rugs went at figures that were considered low, but which were more than $1,000 a rug, according to common report.

"One Back Bay dealer, who has a collection worth $50,000, has one room in his house, for the contents of which, in the way of rugs and hangings, he was offered $11,000 by a fellow collector. He refused the offer.

"'And it was a very small room, too,' said a friend of this collector recently in conversation with the writer.

"The main desire of most collectors of fine rugs is to get good specimens of silk ones."

Beatty & Co. are a new firm who will soon begin the manufacture of Ingrains and Art Squares at Norristown, Pa.

Traveler—The New York express leaves this station, doesn't it?

Gateman—It has done so daily for the past ten years, and I don't suppose it will take it along to-day.—Ex.

VANTINE'S RUGS AND MATTINGS.

On page 20 of this issue A. A. Vantine & Co. say some interesting things regarding their offerings of Japanese rugs and Japan and China mattings.

Their Muira-Satta rugs are the highest grade of Japanese jute goods. They are made in fine Turkish and Persian patterns, in which the choice Oriental color effects are admirably reproduced. The line of blue and white Japanese rugs is also worthy of especial attention. These goods are of superior quality, and are thoroughly Japanese in style, being made in delft blue on a white ground, or the reverse.

In the firm's extensive lines of China and Japan mattings the trade will find a wide range of both staple and fancy styles. Samples are shown by the firm's traveling salesmen or at the New York headquarters.

BALTIMORE BRIEFS.

Baltimore, February 24.

By virtue of an order of the Circuit Court the entire stock of carpets, upholstery and furniture of Louis Eirich, No. 1031 Light street, was disposed of at public sale by the trustee the 21st inst.

John G. Rouse, of J. G. Rouse & Son, dry goods and carpeting, Bel Air, Md., was a visitor to the Quaker City last week.

A bill prohibiting the use of trading stamps and checks was passed by the Virginia Legislature the 14th inst.

The store of J. N. Coble, general merchandise and carpeting, Mechanicsville, Va., was burned the 14th inst. Loss, $2,000; insured.

The store and stock of Isaac H. Reid, dry goods and carpeting, Marksville, Va., were destroyed by fire last week. Loss, $2,500; insured.

M. Rosenblumm, furniture and upholstery, Richmond, Va., was recently in town. He contemplates including carpets and matting in his stock.

The store of H. A. Davis, dry goods and carpeting, Meetze, Va , was burned down the 16th inst., and nothing was saved. Loss, $3,000; insured.

The general merchandise and carpet warehouse of George D. Watters & Co., Wimbledon, Md., was burned the 16th inst. Loss, $2,500; insured.

ried on business up to the time of his death. A wife and two children survive him.

New Buildings.—Thomas G. Leath has signed a contract with Judge Sims, of Newport News, Va., for a five year lease of the $80,000 theatre to be erected in that city by Winston Brothers, of Chicago. The Bibb County Savings Bank, Centreville, Ala., will soon advertise for bids on the erection of a hotel and bank building. John Jones will build a twenty room hotel in Cumberland, Md. Roman Eagle Lodge, Danville, Va., has instructed its board of trustees to secure plans and specifications for a $50,000 Masonic temple. The secretary of the lodge can be addressed. Samuel Gumpertz and Manion Brothers have arranged for the erection of a $25,000 theatre and pavilion in St. Louis, Mo. The burned Cathedral of St. John the Baptist, Ga., Savannah, will be rebuilt at a cost of $100,000. A commodious summer hotel will be built near Stevenson Station, Md. H. E. Bonitz has prepared plans for a clubhouse in Wilmington, N. C. An $8,000 opera house will be erected in Versailles, Ky. A large theatre will be built in Birmingham, Ala.; Charles Locke can give information. Charles McKnight and others, Cairo, W. Va., have incorporated the Cairo Hotel Company with a capital stock of $10,000 to build and operate a hotel.

THE "TREATY OF COMMERCE" CARPET.

The carpet shown in the cut on this page was made many years ago to commemorate the signing of the treaty of commerce between England and France by Queen Victoria and Louis Napoleon. The carpet was manufactured by or for T. Tapling, of London, England. Our cut was made from an old engraving which was given to us a few months ago by Mr. James W. Barker.

The carpet and upholstery department of Tootle, Wheeler & Motter, St. Joseph, Mo., is in charge of E. H. Lewis, who is doubtless one of the youngest carpet department managers in the country, as we should judge that he has not yet reached his thirtieth year. He has been in charge for the past year and a half, and during 1897 the business showed a very large increase, while the past January footed up the largest amount of any month since the department was started. Tootle, Wheeler & Motter do a jobbing business in carpets and upholsteries, covering the ground from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Coast. Mr. Wheeler, of the firm, and Mr. Lewis generally come East together to purchase goods.

Obituary.

William Carroll.

William Carroll, of the firm of William Carroll & Son, Rhinebeck, N. Y., whose death was briefly announced in the last issue of The Review, was born in Rochester, N. Y., on August 25, 1821, and when twelve years of age went to Rhinebeck to live. He attended school in the village for four years and then became a clerk in the store of Quick & Traver. When nineteen years old he went to Poughkeepsie and learned the cabinet maker's trade. On September 1, 1844, he opened a furniture and undertaking business in Rhinebeck. After the great fire of 1862 he built the handsome three story brick building which he has since occupied.

In 1874 he admitted his son William Rutsen to partnership, the firm name being William Carroll & Son. The business steadily grew until it became one of the most extensive in the town. He was the oldest undertaker in the county, was the last one of the charter members of the Rhinebeck Savings Bank and was a trustee of the institution ever since its incorporation. He was a prominent Mason and for over fifty-five years was a zealous member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and for many years a trustee of the church and treasurer. A widow, son and two daughters survive him.

The wife of Christian Ficke, carpet manufacturer at Port Carbon, Pa., died on the 12th ult., aged sixty-four years.

Anthony Cook, carpet and furniture dealer, Cincinnati, died early last month. His funeral, which occurred on the 3d inst., was largely attended.

Christian E. Gersendorff, who died at Indianapolis, Ind., on the 2d ult., at the age of eighty-four years, was for six years a manufacturer of Ingrain carpets, first at Dayton, Ohio, and later at Cincinnati. He left the carpet trade in 1842 and engaged in woolen manufacture. In 1890 he sold his woolen mills and retired from active business.

William Upton, one of the old-time salesmen of the retail carpet trade, died on the 24th ult. at the hospital of the Little Sisters of the Poor, in Fifth street, New York. He began his business career with A. T. Stewart & Co., Chambers street, and was later with McCallum & McCallum, on Chestnut street, Philadelphia. At the time of his death he was in his forty-seventh year. He was never married.

George Henry Brown, assistant bookkeeper of the American Linoleum Manufacturing Company, at Linoleumville, Borough of Richmond, died suddenly of Bright's disease on February 15, in the twenty-second year of his age. His father, who died several years ago, was the bookkeeper of the concern from its inception. Young Brown was at his desk the day before his death. He was taken with a chill and went to his home, where he died in a few hours.

B. Frank Haldeman, one of the best known citizens of Columbia, Pa., died suddenly on February 14, while seated at the dinner table. He was a member of the former firm of George W. & B. F. Haldeman, and since their retirement was engaged in the carpet business. The deceased was about sixty years of age and was a bachelor. While his death was very sudden he had been ailing for some time, but his sickness did not prevent him from going out.

John Crawford, for many years a dealer in carpets at Hamilton, Ohio, died in that city on the 4th ult. of paralysis at the age of seventy years. He retired from business some years ago. A widow and five children survive him.

Philip Jacoby, for many years engaged as foreman in one of the departments of Dimick's carpet factory at Rifton Glen, N. Y., died on February 5 of typhoid fever. He leaves a widow and several children. Mr. Jacoby was one of the charter members of the Rifton Band, which was organized twenty-one years ago.

THE NEWS ON THE PACIFIC SLOPE.

San Francisco, February 18.

The furniture business is very quiet, and the majority of the dealers are at a loss to account for the prevailing condition. Some report the demand running to better class goods, while others report quite the reverse, but in balancing up the opinions it may be said that the better goods are somewhat ahead in the race.

Joseph E. Fredericks & Co. report the carpet and upholstery business as being very good.

W. G. Barr, the new Sutter street carpet dealer, reports a good wholesale and retail trade.

M. Friedman & Co. state that trade keeps up very well and the spring prospects are not bad.

P. A. Lucas, late of New York, has leased a building in San Pedro, Cal., and will open a furniture store there.

Alex. Mackay & Son are doing a good upholstery trade, and the same may also be said of the furniture branch of this house.

J. H. Bourn has sold his furniture business at Oakdale, Cal., and will return to his old home at Spokane, Wash., where he will engage in the same business.

L. A. West has severed his connection with the Idaho Furniture Company, at Pocatello, Idaho, and will open a furniture store of his own in that town March 1.

Cohn Brothers & Ross, known as the Eastern Furniture Company, Tacoma, Wash., have moved from 912 Sprague avenue to the W. J. Dunstan Block on Monroe street.

D. N. & E. Walter & Co. have received a fine line of upholstery goods. This house reports the jobbing trade as rather quiet, but hopes for an improvement by spring.

N H. Soogian has sold his interest in the City Furniture Store at Visalia, Cal., to S. Bagdoian, of Fresno, Cal. The business is now owned by Mr. Bagdoian and John Magarian.

E. C. Bast, of Los Angeles, was recently taken to the hospital, suffering from insanity. He is fifty-one years of age and had been in business in that city for ten years. He was a member of the firm of Bast & Co., furniture dealers.

G. T. Paul has purchased the real estate, merchandise and al, other property of the Dillon Furniture Company at Dillon, Mon., and that company has gone out of existence. The business will be continued at the same place by Mr. Paul as the proprietor, instead of manager, as formerly.

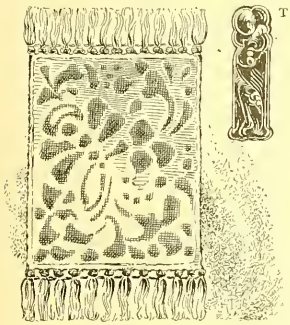
Golden Gate.

Wm. James Hogg, of Worcester, Mass., has secured a preliminary injunction against Gimbel Brothers, of Philadelphia, restraining them from an alleged infringement of the plaintiff's patented design for a carpet.

The most exquisite carpet in the world is now on the shelves of the Gobelins factory. It is worth £10,000, and was made during the years 1869 and 1870. It was ordered for Napoleon III., but was unfinished when the Franco-Prussian war broke out. When that war was finished he had no use for it.—Ex.

A TRAVELING SALESMAN'S PLEA.

SALARIED VERSUS COMMISSION SALESMEN, AND HIS ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF THE FORMER.



It is with considerable trepidation that the carpet or upholstery salesman observes the growing tendency of manufacturers and wholesalers to place their samples with commission salesmen in different parts of the country or to engage men to travel from the home office solely on commission. One of the best carpet salesmen in the trade brought up the subject to me recently, and said it would be a good move for the salesmen to form an association for protection against the inroads of the sporadic commission man and to maintain salaries.

His argument was based on the ground that it was as much the interest of the employer as the employee to mantain a force of capable salesmen, men who knew the business thoroughly and could properly represent their employers. Said he:

"I wish you would say a few words for the traveling salesman, who, owing to the changing methods of doing business, is finding it difficult to obtain proper compensation, and in many cases is asked to work without any guaranteed salary. The great evil is the tendency of manufacturers and wholesalers to give lines of samples on commission to almost anyone who applies for them, under the impression that all they risk is the cost of samples, as they pay a commission only on the orders received from these men which are shipped. The result is that all over the country we find retail salesmen, who have an exaggerated idea of the money made in selling at wholesale, leaving the retail field and applying for samples on commission. Their idea is that they can make more money by covering certain sections from their resident town. They have saved a few dollars, and start in to spend them on traveling expenses, and in nine out of ten cases they quickly dispose of their savings in this direction, as the commissions earned do not cover their expenses. The next result is that they stop traveling, and endeavor to make a living out of one city and a few adjoining towns. This is the condition which does not pay the manufacturer any more than the commission man. The territory given to the latter is not properly covered, and the manufacturer loses business. It may be well enough for the manufacturer at the start while the ambitious commission man has money to spend on traveling, but when the latter's money gives out, or when he finds it doesn't pay to travel, the manufacturer or wholesaler isn't getting the good deal he expected. Now, these commission men do not, in the great majority of cases, earn a fair living, but when they become discouraged and retire from the field there are others who step in to try their luck; hence the trouble is continued.

"These inexperienced men do the manufacturers more harm than good, and a great deal of price cutting is due to them in this way: They have not the proper knowledge of the goods or values, and are very easily influenced by the statements of buyers. You'll find them taking almost any offer and sending it in, hoping that the manufacturer will accept it. They have no incentive to keep up prices, as their living depends on making sales, and they naturally will try to sell at any price or on any terms. This gives the manufacturer great trouble in straightening out the snarls of misunderstandings with the buyer—a thing always to be avoided.

"I claim that it pays any manufacturer with a fair sized plant to employ one or more salesmen on a straight salary or a salary and commission, and it also pays to give salesmen territory enough and time enough to sell sufficient goods to earn a fair salary. Many of us regular salesmen are given a territory to cover in four or five weeks which no living man can properly or thoroughly cover in that time. We ought to have trips of six or eight weeks every season instead of four or five weeks. We could make it pay, too, if the manufacturers would stop giving out samples to commission men in almost every town of importance, thus restricting the efforts or opportunities of men from home offices. Of course, I refer to the commission man who has no capital or financial responsibility, not to the commission firms in New York, Boston, Chicago or a few other cities, who are regular commission merchants and employ travelers. The carpet and upholstery salaried salesmen will have to stir themselves and agitate doing away with commission salesmen, or else they will have to be content with a reduced scale of living, for the salary now offered a good salesman when he applies for a new position is ridiculously low.

"I contend that good men can get better prices than incompetent ones, and can therefore earn a fair salary. There are two or three or more salesmen to-day where there ought only to be one, and this is mainly due to the indiscriminate placing of samples with commission men."

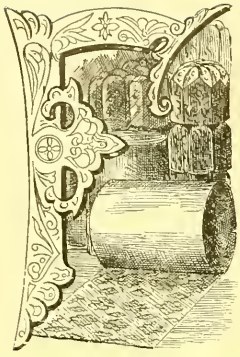
THE SMYRNA RUG TRADE.

The M. A. Furbush & Son Machine Company, Philadelphia, inform us that they have just filled orders for Smyrna rug looms of the latest improved pattern for the Fries-Breslin Company, Camden, N. J., and McCleary, Wallin & Crouse, Amsterdam, N. Y., and duplicate orders have also been received from both of these concerns.

We have had occasion to comment recently on the activity in the Smyrna rug trade, and such reports as the foregoing show that the revival in this branch of the floor covering industry is being well maintained.

Senator Ford recently introduced in the New York State Senate a bill at the instance of the Rev. Madison C. Peters, which is designed to protect persons who buy goods on the instalment plan from seizure and sale of goods upon which they have paid some money. In looking up the law Senator Ford found that there was plenty of protection, but that many poor people were ignorant of it. The remedy suggested is a bill that provides that there shall be printed upon each contract the provisions, and unless such provisions are printed the vender shall not be allowed to resell the goods.

Current Carpet Chat.



For many weeks the interior of the Van Dyk Furniture Company's five story building at 298 and 300 Main street, Paterson, N. J., has been practically in the possession of carpenters, masons and other artisans. Walls have been removed, rows of iron girders replacing them, and for a time it was a question where the hand of improvement would stop. However, there came an end at last, and now this big establishment, whose showrooms were always attractive, appears as large again as formerly and doubly attractive. Especially is this so of the lower or store floor, which has been thrown into one vast showroom. On the second floor one room, 25x190 feet, is taken up with the display of floor coverings. The bright light obtained in this spacious room makes the selection of carpets all the more satisfactory. The whole five floors have been improved and restocked.

George Murison, Portage, Wis., has added carpets to his stock.

B. F. Bracken has opened a carpet and furniture store at Salina, Kan.

W. C. Kuechler, furniture dealer, Winchester, Ill., contemplates putting in a stock of carpets.

Chambers & Megahan, Williamsport, Pa., have removed to new quarters in the Centennial Building.

The Mauzy Company, dealer in dry goods, carpets, &c., Rushville, Ind., is succeeded by Mauzy & Deming.

James E. Rock's dry goods and carpet store at Niagara Falls, N. Y., was burned out a few weeks ago; loss, $15,000.

D. G. Hendricks, the Chester (Pa.) carpet dealer, will supply carpeting, matting, &c., for Trinity M. E. Chapel in that city.

The Hinkle Mercantile Company, Batesville, Ark., has sold out, as have also H. R. Kenyon & Co., dry goods and carpet dealers, Buffalo, N. Y., and Spring, Holzworth & Co., Alliance, Ohio.

The new building which the Trenton (N. J.) Oil Cloth Company has erected for the manufacture of linoleum is said to be the largest single building in Trenton. Over two millions of bricks were used in its erection.

The Charles Niedringhaus House Furnishing Company's store at 1005 Franklin street, St. Louis, was partly destroyed by fire on the 21st ult., resulting in a loss of more than $50,000 to the stock and building; fully insured.

The partnership heretofore existing between F. G. Howald and C. A. Bowe and operating under the firm name of F. G. Howald & Co., Columbus, Ohio, was dissolved February 10. Mr. Bowe retires, his interest being purchased by A. L. Conklin, and the firm will hereafter be known as Howald & Conklin. Mr. Conklin has been connected with the firm for the past two years, is a veteran in the carpet and furniture business, and under the new arrangement will have charge of the carpet and curtain departments. Mr. Howald will continue in charge of the furniture department.

One of the largest stores in the Southwest and certainly the most extensive in Arizona, is that of the B. Heyman Furniture Company, of Phœnix. Its mammoth establishment covers 23,550 square feet of floor space, including warehouses and salesrooms.

Stone & Thomas, Wheeling, W. Va., will remove their carpet department from the third to the fourth floor of their store, where it will have a floor space of about 7,000 square feet. The entire third floor will then be used for a drapery and upholstery department.

Charles Simmons, furniture dealer, Toronto, Ohio, has made some decided improvements in his establishment. They include a gallery running along one side, upon which he has located a carpet floor, and will put in a fine stock of carpets. The new addition has been handsomely painted and papered.

Wm. H. Scott's new store on Baltimore street, Baltimore, has a front of 60 feet and a depth of 300 feet. There are four floors and a basement, making the establishment the largest in the city, which is devoted to retail trade. Mr. Scott's stores on North Howard and Gay streets will be kept open as usual.

Arbuthnot, Stephenson & Co , Pittsburg, Pa., are succeeded by the Arbuthnot-Stephenson Company, with a paid up capital of $500,000. The officers of the new company are made up of the old firm, with J. G. Stephenson as president, J. G. Lambie as vice-president, and T. H. Sheppard as secretary and treasurer.

The Orchard & Wilhelm Carpet Company, of Omaha, has decided to place a display of its goods at the Trans-Mississippi Exposition, and for this purpose has applied for 2,000 feet of space. The application has been signed and has been presented to the Exposition people by W. I. Kierstead, special furniture commissioner.

Howe & Le Van have succeeded the firm of Ransom & Co. at Lockport, N. Y. Mr. Howe was the partner of Mr. Ransom in the old firm, and Mr. Le Van is interested also in a store at Tonawanda and another at Niagara Falls, but is said to intend to dispose of these interests and confine his energies entirely to the Lockport store.

The "Ark," at the corner of Main and Ninth streets, Riverside, Cal., has been established about ten years. H. L. Miller, the present proprietor, bought the business in '91. Up to a year ago the store was conducted under the firm name of Zimmerman & Miller. The store measures 35x160, and is completely stocked with household goods, carpets, &c.

S. H. Morgan, of the insolvent S. H. Morgan Furniture and Carpet Company, St. Paul, was examined on February 3, on an order obtained from Judge Brill. Creditors allege that Morgan shipped a carload of furniture to the West, where the goods were disposed of by auction, and that he retained the proceeds of the transaction for his own benefit. Mr. Morgan says in reply that he only disposed of goods that were exempt. It is claimed that the goods disposed of were of the value of about $700.

C A. Hungerford & Son, Tunkhannock, Pa., have enlarged their store and added a carpet department.

M. A. McDougald's carpet and furniture store, together with a number of other buildings at Laurinburg, N. C., was destroyed by fire on February 4. The total loss is $30,000 with $10,000 insurance.

A new dry goods and carpet business will be started at Richmond, Ind., by a stock company, consisting of L. M. Jones, J. L. Henson and W. W. Sutherland. Messrs. Henson and Sutherland have been for many years with the T. B. Howell Dry Goods Company, Hamilton, Ohio.

The differences existing in the firm of L. Sternberg & Co., Newark, N. J., which were referred to in our issue of the 15th ult., have been settled by the purchase by Mr. Sternberg of the interest of Mr. Wolf, his partner in the business. The interest comprised 500 shares of stock. A. Leon, buyer for the furniture department, who left the employ of the firm January 31, has been reinstated by Mr. Sternberg.

A meeting of the board of directors of the recently incorporated Crawshaw Carpet Company, Newburgh. N. Y., was held last month. when the following officers were elected: Joseph A. Sneed, president; Mark Crawshaw, vice-president; C. T. Goodrich, secretary and treasurer; Samuel Crawshaw, manager. The number of employees at the factory is soon to be increased very materially. First, however, those at present employed there will be put on full time.

The Farmers' Furniture and Carpet Company, Evansville, Ind., filed articles of incorporation February 4. The purpose is to manufacture, buy, sell and lease all kinds of household furniture and goods. Capital stock $2,000, in shares of $50 each, and the period of existence is fixed at five years. The prudential concerns of the company are to be managed by a board of four directors, and the officers for the first year are as follows: J. M. Cardwell, president; A. P. Cardwell, vice-president; G. G. Fuchs, treasurer; John Kiefer, secretary.

Kauffman & Harley's carpet mill at Mifflintown, Pa., was burned on February 2, entailing a loss of about $3,500, two-thirds of which is covered by insurance. The blaze was started by something exploding in a heating stove, throwing a hot coal on a pile of jute. The factory was crowded with orders. The insurance has been adjusted, and the firm is hard at work endeavoring to reconstruct the factory. We understand that the insurance on the buildings, $600, was allowed in full and $950 on the policies for $1,600 on the stock. The factory will soon again be in full blast.

The work of remodeling the building occupied by Pollins, Keck & Pollins, the well-known dealers in dry goods, carpets, curtains, &c., will soon be commenced, and when complete will give them one of the finest looking business houses in Greensburg, Pa. A splendid new front will be put in the building, and the room now occupied by L. Keck & Co. as a shoe store will be converted into a furniture emporium by Pollins, Keck & Pollins. Their stock of furniture will be complete, and include every grade and article in that line of business. They expect to have their stores remodeled and all rearrangements completed by about the middle of March.

Miller & Hughes are new in carpets at Altoona, Pa.

Wright & Turner succeed Wesley Wright, carpet and furniture dealer, Los Angeles, Cal.

W. H. Poling succeeds W. H. Poling & Co., dry goods and carpet dealers, Martinsburg, W. Va.

Tooley & McAlpin succeed M. H. Maynard, carpet and furniture dealer, Stamford, N. Y.

W. S. Lamb & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Gibson, Ill., have opened a branch store at Fisher, same State.

Gantt & McNeese, carpet and furniture dealers, San Angelo, Tex., have dissolved partnership. Each continues in business on his own account.

Barker Brothers, Los Angeles, Cal., are building a new store, which will be completed in July, and will be one of the finest business structures in the country.

Golden & Son succeed C. M. Golden in the dry goods and carpet business at Minonk, Ill., and George W. Graham succeeds McClure & Graham in the same line at Crawfordsville, Ind.

Walter W. Sanford has filed a certificate setting forth the fact that he is sole owner of the carpet and furniture business carried on under the firm name of J. R. Sanford & Co., at Helena, Mon.

Lawrence Carter, formerly a salesman with D. G. Hendricks, Chester, Pa., has leased the building at 622 Edgmont avenue, that city, and will embark in the carpet and furniture business on his own account.

Lamson Brothers, of Toledo, Ohio, a leading dry goods house, have just opened a rug department, and will show a stock of all kinds of domestic and Oriental rugs for the spring season. V. E. Lott has been in the New York market recently purchasing goods.

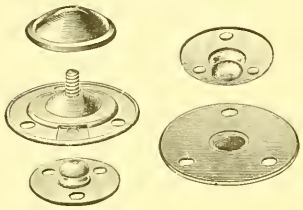
Among the many business establishments in Evansville, Ind., which are noted for their complete and handsome stocks none takes a higher place in the estimation of the public than Cummings & Clark. Their store is located corner of Main and Madison streets, and is filled with a carefully selected stock—dry goods, carpets, wall paper, &c. The business was established about ten years ago under its present name by C. E. Cummings and W. J. Clark, both of whom had been previously identified with the dry goods trade of Janesville for many years.

Adam J. Wild, who has been in the carpet and furniture business in McKeesport, Pa., for many years, has closed a deal with the Michigan Furniture Company, of Pittsburg, whereby Mr. Wild disposes of his entire stock to the Michigan Furniture Company. The new firm will assume charge of Mr. Wild's business on March 1, and will buy all stock left after February 28. Mr. Wild has been engaged as manager for the new firm, and business will be conducted at the old stand, 411 Walnut street. Mr. Wild was compelled to dispose of his business because he was unable to re-lease from the owners of the building, and could not get a suitable building in McKeesport in which to conduct his business. The Michigan Furniture Company has a mammoth establishment in Pittsburg and a branch store in Braddock. The McKeesport store will make three establishments operated by the Michigan Furniture Company.

THE KINGSTON SELF-ADJUSTING FASTENER.

During the past ten years there have been many attempts made to arrive at a practical solution of a fastener for rugs, carpets, druggets, &c., something to replace the carpet tack and the pin and socket, both of which were very unsatisfactory as fasteners for carpets and rugs which had to be removed at short intervals. The pin and socket were not acceptable from the fact that they could not be used on hard wood floors without injury to the floor; also there was a serious objection to this fastener in that it required the punching of a hole in the carpet or rug on which it was used.

James L. Kingston about seven years ago invented what was known as the "Kingston Invisible Rug Fastener," which seemed at the time to possess all that was required in a fastener. He, however, each year made improvements on this original fastener, yet up to recently always found something wanting in his and all other fasteners. He has recently placed on the market his latest invention, and it has already received the indorsement of many well-known carpet men; in fact, everyone who has seen it speaks most highly of it, and by it have been overcome all the objections to previous fasteners. This new self-adjusting fastener is for sale by the Kingston Rug Fastener Company, 564 Washington street, Boston, Mass., at the following prices: Five gross lots, $6 per gross; one gross, $7, or 75 cents per sample dozen.



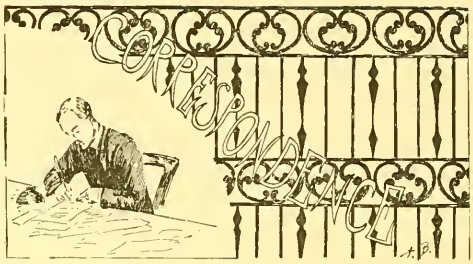
The title which the inventor has given to his latest device is the "Kingston Self-Adjusting Fastener." The "Improved Invisible Fastener" is also for sale by this company in five gross lots at $4.50 per gross; one gross, $5; 50 cents per dozen.

There is no fastener on the market at the present time, outside of the "Kingston Self-Adjusting Fastener," which does not by its presence underneath cause the carpet or rug to wear out in the particular spot in which it is placed. The cap on this fastener resists all wear, and moreover is ornamental to the rug. The "Kingston Self-Adjusting Fastener" requires no sewing, as do all others. Carpet dealers ought to congratulate themselves that through the untiring efforts of Mr. Kingston such a long felt want has been so perfectly satisfied.

Lucy Curtis, the mayor of Cimarro, Mo., carries on the general merchandise and carpeting business, manages the whole town and is the leader of the local Sorosis.

Gustave M. Fauser, the well-known designer of carpets, curtains, &c., is one of the most successful men in his profession. His studio is at No. 103 East Eleventh street, New York.

Among the new members enrolled by the National Association of Manufacturers in January last were George W. Blabon, of the Geo. W. Blabon Company; Thomas L. Leedom, of Thomas L. Leedom & Co., and J. W Hollenback, of the Wilkes-Barre Lace Manufacturing Company.



A Gallant Carpet Man.

Washington, D. C., February 18, 1898.

The Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review:

If straws show which way the wind blows, or if coming events cast their shadows before, then one would be led to believe that universal woman suffrage was a thing of the near future. Judging from the great number of delegates from all parts of the country now in attendance at the Congress of Women Suffragists, I assure you they are a magnificent aggregation of the beautiful and brainy element of the female persuasion, and it makes one proud to know his mother was a woman and prouder to see the progress the noble women of this country are making in all departments of life and to see them getting where they justly belong in all matters pertaining to civil government.

Long may they wave. D. A. Childs.

CLEANING SHEEPSKIN RUGS.

Sheepskin rugs, when snowy and clean, are decorative, but when soiled are a positive eyesore. They must not be washed in a tub as an ordinary rug, for they are ruined if the skin side is wet; for this reason tack the rug upon the side of a barrel, and (unless your sink is very large) it will be necessary to do the work upon the porch or down cellar, where the drippings will cause no damage. Have a pail of warm water, a package of pearline and a stiff scrubbing brush at hand; sprinkle pearline over the wool, dip your brush and scrub it vigorously, going over the whole surface until the dirt has been thoroughly loosened, after which pour on several pailfuls of clear warm water, using the brush at the same time, until the wool is thoroughly rinsed.

Use a clean currycomb while it is drying, and when it is dry the rug will be snowy and fluffy. Remove the tacks, and the rear side will be found perfectly dry, the convex surface of the barrel causing all the water to shed.

Of course, care should be used that the mat be whipped free from dust and all rips mended beforehand.

A son of the Emerald Isle, walking up Broadway, New York, the other day, saw this sign in the show window of a book store:

Dickens' Works Here This Week for $4.75.

"Begob!" ejaculated he, "there's the way the poor laboring man is kept down by thim ginnies."

Barbour.—Col. Wm. Barbour was one of the gentlemen who tendered a dinner to ex-Governor Griggs, but was unfortunately unable to be present on the occasion when the affair came off, being on his way to Europe.

Beach.—John M. Beach, of the firm of Tefft, Weller & Co., delivered an interesting address before the Merchants' Association on the 24th ult., on the subject of our consular service.

Cartledge.—John Cartledge, of Joseph Wild & Co., sailed on the Ems February 26 for Genoa, to rejoin his family, who are traveling on the Continent.

Clinchy.—J. H. Clinchy, agent for D. Powers & Sons, has been confined to his home suffering from a severe cold, but is now around again and is pushing the sale of Powers' oil cloths and mattings with his usual vim.

Critchley.—Walter Critchley, who has been cashier of the Cowperthwait Company, Brooklyn, since its inception seventeen years ago, was elected to succeed the late Albert Ammerman as secretary and treasurer at a meeting of the stockholders on the 11th inst. Mr. Critchley has long been known in business circles as a man worthy of every confidence, both in point of integrity and ability.

Field.—Marshall Field, of Chicago, sailed for Alexandria, Egypt, on the 12th ult.

Gall.—Albert Gall, the Indianapolis carpet and upholstery merchant, was in New York last week sorting up for the opening of the spring retail season. He is looking for an active business this spring, and his large establishment is ready to care for it.

Hamlin.—George E. Hamlin, president of the Interstate Casualty Company, is now on an extended tour among the company's principal agencies in the West. Mr. Hamlin's magnetic personality cannot fail to have a quickening effect upon its business.

Herring.—L. E. Herring, with Swire & Scott, spends a goodly portion of his time in New York when in from the road. He makes his headquarters at the Everett House, and does an extensive business in Art Squares and Ingrains with the incoming and local buyers.

Higgins.—Eugene Higgins, president of the E. S. Higgins Carpet Company, was re-elected a manager of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad on the 21st ult.

Hogg.—Wm. F. Hogg, of the firm of Wm. Jas. Hogg & Son, the Worcester, Mass., carpet manufacturers, returned the middle of last month from a trip through the South and West.

Kilborn.—P. T. Kilborn, of the W. T. Kilborn Company, Portland, Me., was in New York recently.

Molloy—Russell.—George W. Molloy, of Tefft, Weller & Co.'s carpet department, and Miss Frances Lillian Russell were married in Brooklyn on February 24. Mr. Molloy's friends in the establishment presented him a set of silver.

Moseley.—Frank E. Moseley, for many years with A. B. Van Gaasbeek, Albany, N. Y., has resigned his position.

Potter.—The most expensive dinner ever spread at the Waldorf-Astoria was that given on the 19th ult. to John W. Griggs, ex-Governor of New Jersey and now Attorney-General of the United States. It cost $100 a plate. Among the thirty guests was Col. Henry C. Potter, who was a member of the Governor's staff.

Ross.—When Finlay Ross goes out of the carpet and furniture business, the biggest establishment of its kind in the State will have closed. Mayor Ross has been in business here for twenty-one years, and for seven years, or since the death of Abinetti, of Leavenworth, he has had the distinction of having the largest wholesale and retail carpet and furniture house in Kansas.—Wichita (Kan.) Eagle, January 30.

Shuman.—R. R. Shuman, late advertising manager of the Deering Harvester Company, has become advertising manager of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, in place of Mr. Ralph Tilton, now advertising manager of the Ladies' Home Journal.—Printers' Ink.

Turner.—James Turner, a loom fixer at Nye & Wait's carpet mill, Auburn, N. Y., was caught and severely squeezed in a loom on the 14th ult., the girl operator having started it by mistake. The pressure on his body broke the loom and thus saved his life.

Van Dyne.—Geo. Van Dyne, with Wm. Henderson, the Ingrain manufacturer, spent several days in New York during the past fortnight interviewing the local and visiting trade.

Van Sciver.—J. B. Van Sciver, of Camden, N. J., who went to Pasadena, Cal., on account of ill health, has entirely recovered.

Yingst.—Frank P. Yingst, a well known Harrisburg carpet and furniture man, has been engaged as manager of Jacob Simmit's business at Shamokin Pa.

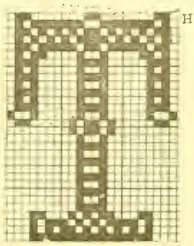
IMPORTANT DEPARTURE IN SELLING ORIENTAL RUGS.

On the colored sheet opposite page 9 will be found an announcement from H. S. Tavshanjian of special importance to buyers of Oriental rugs and carpets. Mr. Tavshanjian announces that he is now prepared to take import orders from responsible houses, by which goods will be brought out directly for the buyer, and Mr. Tavshanjian's compensation will be obtained through a small commission on the order. Another attractive feature which buyers should bear in mind is that these import orders will be taken on the understanding that if on inspection of the goods upon their arrival in New York they do not prove satisfactory the buyer will not be obliged to receive them. As Mr. Tavshanjian states in his announcement, this is a most favorable arrangement, as it gives the buyer the advantage of obtaining goods at import order prices and of subsequently viewing the goods before receiving them.

Buyers who have heretofore purchased goods from Mr. Tavshanjian will realize that this offer, made by such a reliable and responsible house, is one that demands their immediate and close attention. Mr. Tavshanjian has been importing and wholesaling Oriental rugs for the past sixteen years, and in his announcement he claims that for the past ten years he has been the largest importer of these goods. He also states that his connections in Constantinople and Smyrna sell the major part of the rugs exported from these two cities.

This offer regarding import orders will not interfere in any way with Mr. Tavshanjian's regular stock business, as he will continue to carry at his warehouses, 343 Broadway and 76 Leonard street, New York, his usual large assortment of all kinds of rugs and carpets. He points to the fact that his facilities for securing goods, and minimum expenses enable him to quote the lowest inside prices. Goods which have remained from the importations under the old tariff are still quoted at old tariff prices. Oriental rug buyers should carefully read Mr. Tavshanjian's bulletin in this number.

THE WHITTALL-LOWELL INFRINGEMENT SUIT.



The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston on February 18 handed down a decision in the suit of Matthew J. Whittall v. the Lowell Manufacturing Company. The Circuit Court some time ago gave a decision in Mr. Whittall's favor, sustaining Mr. Whittall's design patent to John B. O'Neil, No. 24,021, enjoining the Lowell Company from further manufacture, and decreeing that the total profit made by the Lowell Company from its infringement should be paid to Mr. Whittall, and referring the case to a master to take an account thereof.

The case was taken by the Lowell Company to the Court of Appeals, and the decree of the Circuit Court has just been affirmed. In passing upon the case the court said: "An examination of this case leads us to the same conclusion as that reached by the court below, and we do not feel called upon to add anything to the reasoning of that court in explanation of its decision.

"The fact that the Lowell Company's artist or designer, when creating the infringing design, had before him a pattern embodying the complainant's patented design, and that his work resulted in so close an imitation, is upon the most charitable view strongly suggestive of the idea that the purpose was to appropriate the attractive features and effect of the complainant's pattern."

Louis W. Southgate, of Worcester, was Mr. Whittall's counsel in the case, and the Lowell Company were represented by Alan D. Kenyon, Robert N. Kenyon and William C. Witter, of New York.

THE WORCESTER CARPET COMPANY.

There is no Wilton and Brussels manufacturing concern in the trade which is more fully marketing its production than the Worcester Carpet Company. They turn out novel and original styles, and the values given in quality are unsurpassed, hence dealers find Worcester Brussels and Wiltons very live stock. The company are now preparing to place on the market a line of Wilton rugs in all popular sizes, which will have the same attractive features that have made their carpets so popular.

AMERICAN CARPET LOOMS FOR CANADA.

The M. A. Furbush & Son Machine Company, of Philadelphia, have just completed an order from the Toronto Carpet Manufacturing Company, Limited, Toronto, Canada, for Murkland high speed Ingrain carpet looms and also Smyrna rug looms. Our Canadian friends may depend upon getting well made carpets and rugs from this superior machinery.

ST. LOUIS SIFTINGS.

St. Louis, February 24.

The O. J. Lewis Mercantile Company have within the past fortnight held several of the most extensive auction sales of floor coverings ever known to the local trade. Carpets, rugs, mattings, oil cloths and linoleums in nearly every grade and pattern were disposed of to dealers only, and very fair prices were obtained. The first of these sales took place on the 14th inst., the goods having come from C. E. & H. S. Stevens, of Philadelphia. Subsequent lots were consigned by a number of Eastern manufacturers.

Louis Sicher, formerly in the carpet business on Franklin avenue, this city, has become a salesman for Prack & Nonn, St. Louis wine and liquor merchants.

The late plant of the American Shade Company, which has passed under the control of the Columbia Shade Cloth Company, is being overhauled by painters and other mechanics.

Early last Monday morning a disastrous fire broke out, from some unknown cause, in the large store of the Charles Niedringhaus House Furnishing Company, corner of Tenth street and Franklin avenue, which caused an approximate loss of $50,000 to the stock and $10,000 to the building. The premises belonged to the company, and will be repaired as soon as possible. The stock consisted of carpets, draperies, furniture and household supplies of many kinds. The insurance amounted to $89,000 on the stock and $38,000 on the building. At the present moment the company is doing no business, but it announces that it will resume as soon as a suitable location can be found and its loss has been adjusted. B. W. B.

BIG AUCTION SALE OF CARPETS.

In this number of The Review the Underwriters' Salvage Company, of New York, announce the sale by auction of 11,000 rolls, half rolls and pieces of carpets, matting, rugs and other floor coverings, comprising the goods saved from the fire in John & James Dobson's Philadelphia store in December last. The value of the stock before the fire was over $600,000, hence the great attraction of the coming sale to buyers. The goods include different qualities of Wiltons, Axminsters, Velvets, Brussels, Tapestries, Ingrains, rugs, matting, carriage carpets, &c. The sale will be peremptory, as everything on the catalogue must be sold for what it will bring.

The sale will take place at 364 and 366 Broadway, New York, on Thursday, March 24, and continue on following days. Townsend & Montant will be the auctioneers, and will have the goods ready for inspection with catalogue on March 22 and 23.

SANFORD'S AXMINSTER RUGS.

The Axminster rugs made by S. Sanford & Sons are coming out in new patterns constantly, and the output is being increased to meet the demand. Thus far the only size offered is 27x54 inches, but it is probable that other sizes may be produced ere long. Dealers should not miss getting acquainted with the Messrs. Sanford's rugs. They will stand the same close inspection as do the firm's celebrated carpets.

THE SHOW WINDOW.

Figure 1 is a plan of a locomotive, which can be easily built with strips of pine and trimmed with carpet and upholstery fabrics. First purchase about 80 feet of ½ inch pine, 1½ inches wide and planed. Cut out cross pieces a about 7 feet long, or according to the space afforded in the window ; then nail on pieces b, finishing the top with c. The form e is then attached and a board nailed at f. The stack c is also a piece of pine board capped as shown. Another piece of the board goes on at h. Strips may now be tacked on at i for a cow-catcher and the cylinder shaped by fastening on two pieces j j with a space between for k. The piece k must be loose as it will be moved back and forth when the wheels of the engine turn. A cleat on either side will keep the piece parallel and in place. A stand d is now made and nailed on the bottom cross piece between the drive wheels where it serves to keep the frame up and the wheels clear from the floor of the show window. Next the wheels are put on. The drive wheels require a hub of wood which can be obtained at any wood-working establishment, and pieces of a broom handle will do for axles. Barrel hoops will answer for the rims, and four sticks set into holes bored into the hubs and nailed to the rims will serve for spokes. The axles of these wheels should run in double cleats. That is, a wood cleat should be nailed to either side of the lower cross piece of the frame at the point where the wheel axle comes. Then bore a hole through both cleats for the axle and a substantial bearing is obtained. The rear axle is provided with a little grooved wheel in which cord h runs, and this cord should be operated by some motive power in the store. A hand crank, electric motor or home made water motor will furnish power. The wheels must now be connected by a wood rod l, and with the piece k in the cylinder by the wood rod m. Next the front wheels are put on. As these do not turn, they may consist of circular disks of thin wood, or almost anything The frame is now completely covered with paste-board. The board can be tacked onto the wood, and the board cut to the shape desired for effect with a sharp knife. This gives the engine the appearance shown in Fig 2. A bell can be hung as shown, and a regular steam whistle attached. White cotton batting makes a good imitation of smoke and steam. The engine is now ready for the trimmer. Carpet and upholstery textures may be utilized for decoration according to the tastes of the trimmer. When all is complete, the drive wheels can be kept revolving and the affair present a realistic appearance from the street. The mechanical movement of a toy ship in representation of the swell of the waves in a show window can be simply procured on the plan shown in Fig. 3 in which a section of such an arrangement is presented. A small wood bracket a is screwed to the window floor, and another wood bracket b is pivoted to this and fastened to the bottom of the ship. This balances the ship and in order to give it the motion of the sea, a connection is made with the wheel d by means of the rod c. The wheel d turns on a pin in the stand e. The cord f runs in a groove in the wheel, and the former is caused to operate slowly by means of either hand crank or motor in the store. The imitation of water is a green cloth, which covers the window floor and is tacked to the ships sides as shown at g, g. The ship, therefore, carries the cloth with it as it rises and falls, making a good representation of sea-swells.

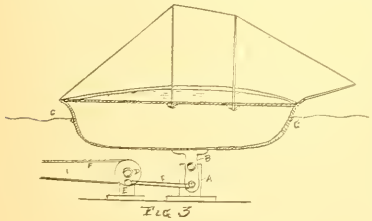

Fig 3

A man who has a little ingenuity can make a snow scene for his window, that will closely represent a real snow storm. It is customary to tie bits of white cotton to dark strings and arrange these parallel with the window to make a snow scene. This is very good, but as the flakes remain still always, the effect is lost. The object of the device shown in Fig 4 is to give motion to the flakes, making it appear as if the snow were falling. First cut out two pieces of pine like a. The height should be to the top of window, with a sharp chisel mortise at b, b deep enough to receive pieces d, d. Nail a couple of pieces of wood c, c over the recesses thus made to keep the pieces d, d in place. The stand piece a should be provided with a foot piece e, and the latter screwed to the floor of window. The sketch shows but one half of the device. Next the pieces d, d are put in and strung with flaked cords just as a regular window is now fitted with cords thus prepared. The mechanism for raising and lowering the mass of cords is now made, and consists of the top brace piece f, to which is pivoted the lever g. The latter can be bought of any bell hanger. A grooved wheel, i, is put on the bracket h and run by the cord j. A connecting stick of wood, k, links the wheel with the lever g, and a cord, l, extends from the opposite arm of the lever, over a wheel made of a spool and is attached to the corded frame at m. A like cord makes a similar connection at the other end. The wheel i is revolved and causes the corded affair to rise and fall several inches, and the bits of cotton on the cords appear like falling snow. The mechanism and framework is of course hidden from view by window trimmings.

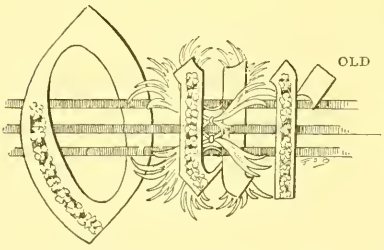
Fig. 5 is a cheap motor calculated for operating window mechanism where other power is not available. Make a water-tight box, and put in it a shaft made of a water or gas pipe for the wood hub a. The shaft should extend through holes cut in the box sides and should be provided with a pulley for driving purposes. Arms, b, are wood, about 8 inches long, and to each are fastened tin cups by means of screws. The water force is let in from a hose pipe nozzle at d and waste water goes out at c. The force of the water will turn the wheel and the power thus derived may be transmitted to the window effects by means of cords.

WILTON CARPET FOR GUN SWABS.



OLD subscribers will remember the many articles which have appeared in The Review regarding the use of carpeting other than for floor covering. Taken altogether a great quantity of carpeting in the form of remnants, samples, cuttings and even whole pieces is consumed for car seats, lounges, horse blankets, slippers, blackboard erasers and other purposes, including gun swabs. One manufacturer has had a contract from the United States Government for several years for manufacturing these gun swabs, and we learn that it amounts to a larger item annually than one would imagine. They are made of the finest Wilton woven in the shape and size to fit the swabs. The Government has found the thick high pile of Wilton to be the most effective cleanser for our big or little guns. We haven't yet heard of an extra requisition being made on the carpet mill which supplies these swabs, but we venture to say that if necessary the manufacturer in question will voluntarily cancel all his orders for floor coverings and turn his looms solely on gun swab Wiltons. If we must fight Spain the carpet trade can therefore produce war material as well as supply men and money for the cause.

Herbert Plimpton, whose convalescence after an attack of typhoid fever was noted in our issue of the 15th ult., is doing well, and will probably be at his desk again in a fortnight.

CARPET CHAFF.

Simon Abraham, of S. Abraham & Co., dealers in dry goods, carpets, &c., Kosciusko, Miss., is dead.

C. P. Parish has retired from the firm of Parish & Hickson, dry goods and carpet dealers, Muncie, Ind.

G. T. Biggs & Co., dealers in dry goods, carpets, &c., Elyria, Ohio, are succeeded by the Briggs, Fuller & Evarard Company.

John G. Ferguson has leased the store at 531 West Third street, Chester, Pa., and opened a carpet weaving establishment.

Joseph E. Holland, Milford, Del.; George W. Graham, Crawfordsville, Ind., and Meyette & Griswold, Erie, Pa., are new in carpets.

R. H. Wooten's dry goods and carpet store at Washington, Ga., also that of Denman & Kent at West Unity, Ohio, were burned out recently.

G. A. Potter succeeds the Kalispell (Mon.) Furniture Company, and S. T. & J. T. Conway succeed Lewis & Conway in dry goods and carpets at Paris, Tex.

Nat. Ryan, dry goods and carpet dealer, Murray, Ky., is succeeded by Ryan & Miller, and A. C. Sanders & Co., in the same business at Plano, Ill., have dissolved partnership.

Hall, Headington & Co., of Baltimore, have been awarded a contract amounting to $818 for furnishing carpets, oil cloths and mats for the public schools of that city.

The Cobb House Furnishing Company, Mason City, Ia., recently sustained a loss of $3,000 by fire; fully insured. R. Hermon & Co., dry goods and carpet dealers, Fremont, Ohio, also suffered a loss by fire.

H. G. Heyd, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., who for a number of years has been a traveling salesman for a wholesale carpet house, intends opening a carpet store on Market street near Fourth, Harrisburg, Pa.

T. B. Timanus, carpet and furniture dealer, Laurel, Md., was burned out recently. Loss, $15,000; insurance, $5,000. McClain Brothers & Co., in the same business at Lebanon, Tenn., were also burned out a few weeks ago.

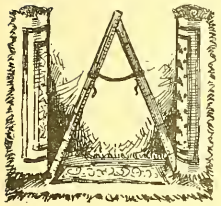
McGehee & Davis succeed McGehee, Driver & Co., carpet and furniture dealers, Lafayette, Ala.; Clark & Davidson succeed H. C. Clark in the same business at Delaware City, Del., and Lindsay & Arnold succeed T. M. Green in dry goods and carpets at Washington, Ga.

Bradley succeeds March & Bradley, carpet and furniture dealers, Charleston, Ill.; Frank Ward & Son succeed Frank Ward in the same business at Breckenridge, Mo.; Blanding & Smith, dry goods and carpet dealers, Detroit, Minn., have dissolved partnership, and M. T. Young, Wilson, N. C., has sold out.

The remodeled building of G. M. McKelvey & Co., Youngstown, Ohio, was opened for business recently. The changes made include a basement under the entire building, including an area of 19,500 square feet. The basement is lighted by a patent system, light being thrown in from the side walls and refracted by a system of prisms. The building has been equipped with the sprinkling system of fire protection. The entire cost of the improvements, including the lighting and fire protection systems, was about $20,000. Among the new departments added are carpets and wall paper.

FACTS ABOUT ORIENTALS.

THE COLLECTING AND SALE OF RUGS FOR EXPORT.



A RECENT number of the New York Times contained an interesting article on Oriental rugs, which was written by F. James Gibson, of the staff of A. A. Vantine & Co., the well-known importers of Oriental goods. In the course of his article Mr. Gibson remarks: "Oriental rug weavers have in an unexampled degree the faculty of combining various colorings. They can take any of the primary colors and produce from them the most wonderfully artistic combinations and effects. But, after all, Old Father Time is the best rug artist among the Orientals, as elsewhere. After a lapse of many years the colors, which, perhaps, when the rug was first made were somewhat crude, take upon themselves an extraordinary richness and mellowness of tone which cannot be imitated.

"The Orientals have also the habit of washing their rugs at least once a year. This is done by placing them over a rope in a running stream, where they are left about twenty-four hours. The rugs are then exposed to the sun to be dried. This has the effect of helping to soften and mellow the colors and give them that indescribable gloss and polish which most antique Oriental rugs possess.

"Oriental rugs are made to last. With proper care they are practically indestructible. Of course our mode of using rugs is different from the Eastern custom. In the East a rug is never trodden on with shoes. In coming into a temple, mosque, or private house the people remove their shoes. Besides this, no article of furniture is ever placed on a rug. But even with hard usage an Oriental rug will last from ten to a hundred years. As just stated, when properly taken care of, there is no limit to its durability. A friend of the writer of this article has seen rugs in use in the Eastern mosques which have a well authenticated pedigree, dating from the fifteenth century. He also knows of a certain small prayer rug in a mosque in Pergamos, in Asia Minor, which actually was on the floor of the mosque for over 300 years, and its present condition is perfect. It has a turquoise blue centre with a magnificent cream border in arabesque design. The size is only about 4 by 6 feet, yet $400 has been offered and refused for it. This particular rug has been stolen three times from the mosque, and three times it has been recaptured by the mosque authorities before it got out of the country.

"A very curious and interesting Eastern rug is the one known as Dandoor, erroneously called, in this country, Trinaclia. A very beautiful specimen of this rug, shown to the writer recently, has the customary four divisions—one for the host and his family to sit on, and one each on either side for the guests, while the centre division is for the serving of refreshments. This is a custom that prevails in Persia and all through the Caucasus.

"Originally the rugs are purchased from the weavers by wandering buyers, who get one here and another there, and so on. When one of these small dealers has accumulated ten, twelve, or fifteen rugs he brings them to the chief village of the district and sells them to an agent there, who in his turn sells them to the big rug dealers in Tiflis or one of the other large cities in that part of the country. From there the rugs usually find their way to the great rug bazars in Constantinople, from whence they are distributed to all parts of the world.

"The operation of buying Oriental rugs is very tedious, as well as interesting. It generally takes from three to four days to finish a bargain. After many cups of coffee and tea and cigarettes are consumed and many a quarrel between seller, buyer and broker, finally the bargain is concluded, when all parties concerned shake hands, as a finality. It is the custom for the buyer to immediately remove his rugs after purchasing them for fear of stealing or substitution being practiced. To the Oriental mind the Occidental custom of having one price for a thing and sticking to it is incomprehensible. It is usually the custom for the seller to ask from five to ten times as much as he is willing to sell the goods for. The buyer, knowing this peculiarity, offers for the goods much less than he is willing to finally pay. It is through this game of give and take that the price is actually agreed upon, after a great deal of dickering.

"The goods are always sold in bale lots, and a bale usually consists of from ten to seventy rugs, according to their size and quality. In one of these bale lots there may be a number of very valuable rugs, as well as many others of comparatively poor quality. A selection is never allowed; the buyer must take all the bale or none."

CHICAGO CARPET NOTES.

Chicago, February 23.

Mark Henry is enlarging his rug department. Monday he will open with a new stock of Orientals, which will fill the entire first floor of Schlesinger & Mayer's Wabash avenue building.

The John York Company, dealers in dry goods and carpets, at 773 to 781 Halsted street, and the largest dealers on the southwest side of the city, have assigned to Isaac G. Loeber. Assets are quoted at $100,000, with liabilities at $125,000. The cause of the failure is said to have been the fire which destroyed the firm's building five years ago, and from which they have never recovered.

John Hollywood, manager of Siegel, Cooper & Co.'s wholesale carpet department, will open his new Oriental rug department to the public Monday.

There are many members of the National Association of Merchants and Travelers in the city now, and more are expected to attend the February meeting.

The new time payment house which will occupy the old Casino Building in Wabash avenue, opposite the Wellington Hotel, will open its doors to the public March 1. The style of the new house is the L. Hartman Furniture and Carpet Company.

Considerable interest is being manifested as to who is to have the northeast corner building at State and Madison streets, to be vacated this week by Wilde, the clothier. It adjoins Mandel Brothers, and that firm has been known to have had its eyes on the building for some years. The rumor is gaining credence that they will occupy the building at once.

AROUND AND ABOUT.

Under the title of "Lost in a Crowd," John S. Grey, in "The Little Schoolmaster," argued that the great quantity of advertising in the leading magazines detracts from the pulling power of each ad. To this F. James Gibson, the accomplished advertising manager of A. A. Vantine & Co., replies:

If Mr. Grey's theory is right, it means that the Century Magazine, the Ladies' Home Journal and the New York Herald would be better advertising mediums than they are if they were each to publish only one advertisement in each issue. Instead of being better they would be almost useless, as any practical advertising man knows.

If Mr. Grey were to advertise for a domestic servant, he would probably use the Herald, or the World, or the Journal, because these are the publications into which domestic servants in want of situations would be most likely to look for the advertisements of those who want domestic servants. Mr. Grey would not worry himself in the least over the fact that the paper to contain his advertisement would probably have several hundred other advertisements of other people who also want domestic servants. Why should he? What he evidently regards as a weakness is really strength.

If Mr. Grey were to start a big department store, I am pretty sure he would not place it in Forty-second street. But why not, if his theory is correct? If I were to start such a store I would want it right in the midst of other stores of the same kind. And so would ninety-nine out of every hundred business men. In the same way an advertisement will be more effective if placed among other advertisements of the same or similar lines of goods, rather than in an isolated position.

The Judiciary Committee of the New York State Senate has reported favorably a substitute for Senator Guy's bill to prevent fraudulent advertising, which it is said has the support of the New York Credit Men's Association and the Merchants and Manufacturers' Board of Trade. It provides that any firm, person, corporation or association of persons, or any employee of such or any of such, who in the newspapers or other periodicals of the State, or in public advertisements or in communications intended for a large number of persons, knowingly makes or disseminates any statements or assertion of facts with respect to his, its or their business affairs, concerning the quantity, the quality, the value, the price, the method of production or manufacture, or the fixing of the price of merchandise or professional work, or the manner or source of purchase of such merchandise, or the possession of awards, prizes or distinctions for the motive or purpose of a sale, intended to have the appearance of an advantageous offer, which is or are untrue or calculated to mislead, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Possibly the Credit Men's Association know where they are at, but we venture the opinion that the law will never pass the scrutiny of the courts. Why not pass a law imposing a penalty on all liars, including members of the Legislature?

NEW AND EXTENSIVE ORIENTAL RUG HOUSE.

A. & M. Karagheusian, whose entrance into the Oriental rug business has been announced in previous issues of The Review, are now ready to receive the trade at their new salesrooms, 365 and 367 Broadway, this city. Mr. Jinishian, who has been in the trade for many years, during which time he has been connected with well-known houses, has charge of this department of their business. A & M. Karagheusian have been doing a general banking and exporting business and have decided to enlarge their operations by adding Oriental rugs. They will keep a big stock of all sorts of Oriental rugs and carpets, and will make it a point to show selected goods and avoid having the ordinary left-over lots which are often forced on the market. Another feature of the business will be moderate prices Owing to their connections in Turkey, Persia and the Caucasus, they are able to secure lots direct from the first sources, saving all expense of middle dealers in Constantinople, and we venture to say that their success is assured.
